Background

This literature search was performed during the Summer of 1994 by a group of about 12 graduate students in the Department of Mechanical Engineering and Material Science at Washington State University. The work was funded by the U.S. Department of Energy through the TWRS Technology Development Program Office.

The literature search was designed to be an exhaustive search for research and development work involving the vitrification of mixed wastes, published by both domestic and foreign researchers, primarily during 1989-1994. "Exhaustive" means that all publications related to the topic, even tangentially, would be found. Each citation appears only once in the data base, even though it may have been located many times. The search techniques were dominated by electronic methods.

The original purpose for conducting this literature search was not to obtain technical information, although many researchers have since found it useful for that purpose. The Department's purpose was to locate all active researchers that might have an interest in technology development Request for Proposals.

There are numerous documents available to the public that have been released subsequent to this search; the Offeror is encouraged to perform searches for alternate sources of information.

The citations are sorted alphabetically by author. The bibliography is also available in electronic format, Windows Reference Manager.
