TRANSLATION.

REVEREND FATHER:

As the centenary of the death of the illustrious Founder of the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer drew near, you conceived the pious and appropriate plan of shedding a new lustre on his memory by translating all his works into English and publishing them. The Holy Father, therefore, who has at heart the spiritual advancement of the faithful, as well as the exaltation of the holy Doctor, has most graciously accepted the nine volumes thus far published, which you wished to present to him. While bestowing upon you well-deserved praise for your useful labor, and thanking you for the gift inspired by your filial love, he gives you from his heart the blessing which you humbly asked for in your letter, complying also with the request of the Most Rev. Archbishop of Baltimore.

As the bearer of this, I wish you all happiness in the Lord.

I am, Reverend Sir,

Your obedient servant,

M. CARD. RAMPOLLA.

NOTICE.

ST. ALPHONSUS was seventy-eight years old when in 1774 he published his TRANSLATION OF THE PSALMS AND CANTICLES OF THE DIVINE OFFICE. This difficult work, composed at so advanced an age, amidst sufferings almost continual, and numerous occupations, excited at Naples the admiration of learned men. According to Canon Massa, professor of theology and ecclesiastical examiner, the author in his work explains so skilfully the sense and the obscure passages of the psalms, that without taking anything from the purity of the inspired word he aids both the heart and the mind of those that read it. The Holy See has frequently praised and recommended all the works of St. Alphonsus; but the decree of March 23, 1871, which conferred on St. Alphonsus the title of Doctor of the Church, makes special mention of this work, speaking of it as one of his most useful and salutary works. The decree says: "He [St. Alphonsus] has made clear dark passages of the Holy Scriptures, both in his ascetic writings, which are freighted with a celestial odor, and in a most salutary commentary, in which, for the nourishment of piety and the instruction of the soul, he has given expositions of the Psalms, as well as of the Canticles, for the benefit especially of those obliged to its recitation."

Our holy author wished above all to give, not an explanation, but, as the title expresses it, a translation of the psalms, so that even those that do not understand Latin may avail themselves of it; and he thus proceeds in his work: He takes each verse of the psalms separately, and gives of it a more or less extended paraphrase, which is accompanied or interspersed by diverse explanations. We have judged it proper, and even necessary, to modify this method in the present volume; namely, we have given in parallel columns the Latin

The Divine Office.

EXPLANATION OF THE PSALMS AND CANTICLES.

Dedication to his Holiness Clement the Fourteenth.

MOST HOLY FATHER:

It is to your Holiness that I present this book. To whom could I more justly dedicate it than to the supreme head of the Church—to him who holds on earth the place of Jesus Christ? In this work, composed in the last years of my life, when my infirmities warn me of approaching death, I undertake to explain the psalms of David, the recitation of which, after the administration of the sacraments and the preaching of the divine word, is the holiest occupation of persons consecrated to God; for by reciting here below the divine Office, they are associated with the angels, who celebrate in heaven the glory of the Saviour.

I will not here enlarge upon the many encomiums that your Holiness deserves in so many respects; in order not to offend your modesty, I refrain from praising so many virtues that shine forth before the whole world, and especially your mortified life, your detachment from the bonds of flesh and blood and from human considerations. But it is impossible for me not to exalt the prudence, of which your Holiness has given so glorious a proof by taking measures, so full of wisdom, whereby you have sought to calm the agitation caused by a diversity of opinion among those who are otherwise devoted to the welfare of the Church.

I venture to hope that your Holiness will receive my work, which, it seems to me, all those that recite the divine Office may advantageously use; for among them there are found some who, from their little knowledge of the Latin tongue, do not understand the words and still less the sense of the psalms; and this all the more because the greater number of them presents even to the learned insoluble difficulties. It is true that many have undertaken to explain this part of our holy books; but, written in Latin and in a lofty style, their works are not so generally useful as they might be. For this reason I have made it my study to render as clear as possible the thought of the psalmist, so that priests and religious, in reciting the breviary, may understand well what they say, and may consequently recite it with more attention.

I lay, then, this my book at the feet of your Holiness, begging you to correct it, if it merits correction, and to bless it if you think that it will produce some good among souls. Humbly prostrate at the throne of your Holiness, I kiss your feet, while at the same time I humbly ask your holy benediction, and declare myself

Ever the very humble, devoted, and obedient son and servant of your Holiness,

ALPHONSUS MARIA,
Bishop of St. Agatha of the Goths.

Introduction.

I. General Idea of the Psalms.

A COMPENDIUM OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.

IN the preface to his commentary on the psalms, Cardinal Bellarmine says that the psalter is a compendium of the Old Testament. In fact, all that Moses has written concerning the Hebrew people and the law, all that the prophets have announced after him, we find in the chants of David, as St. Augustine observes: "The book of psalms contains all that the other canonical books contain as useful to souls; it is like an immense treasure in which each one finds, to his own greatest advantage, the riches of heavenly doctrine."¹ Every one that pays but slight attention will ascertain that the psalms abound in divine lights, in holy maxims, in fervent prayers, without counting the many prophecies that David alone gives us, particularly in relation to the redemption wrought by Jesus Christ.

A PROPHEPIC HISTORY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

Let one read on this subject psalms II., XV., XXI., XLV., LXVIII., and also other psalms: in them are clearly predicted the reign of Jesus Christ, his birth, his preaching, his miracles, his Passion, his resurrection, his ascension into heaven, and the establishment of his Church, as he himself declared to his disciples: *All things must needs be fulfilled, which are written in the law of Moses, and in the Prophets, and in the Psalms, concerning Me.*²

AN ADMIRABLE BOOK OF PRAYERS.

Moreover, in these inspired pages are everywhere found sentiments of divine love, acts of patience, of humility, of meekness, of forgetfulness of injuries, of strength of soul, and of confidence in God. In reciting, therefore, the divine Office every one should apply to himself the sentiments and the acts of the royal prophet—sentiments of holy fear, of confidence in God, of thanksgiving; acts of good desires, of humility, of offering of one's self; of love, of praise; and especially all the prayers that he addresses to the Lord to obtain the pardon of his sins, as well as to obtain light and the help necessary for salvation. If God requires that in the whole Church these psalms should be recited, he certainly wishes that every one, while reciting them should apply to his own soul the acts and the prayers that David made for himself. Again, when we meet with a prayer that the psalmist addressed to God for the entire Hebrew people, we should have in view the Christian people. So also when the royal prophet speaks of his enemies—this being oftenest understood, according to the literal sense, of his many persecutors—we should think of the evil spirits, who are indeed our worst enemies, since they seek to deprive us of the life of the soul rather than of the life of the body.

II. The Aim and Plan of this Work.

Many of the psalms are easy to understand; but many others are difficult and obscure. Hence, to render the reading of them intelligible and profitable to the faithful, the holy Fathers employed every means—dogmatical interpretations, moral explanations, eloquent preaching, and even expositions easily understood by persons of ordinary intelligence.

SIMPLE TRANSLATION OF EASY VERSES.

For my part, this is what I have proposed to do in the present work: In regard to those verses that are more easy, I shall content myself with giving a simple translation, in order that those whose duty it is, to recite the breviary may acquit themselves of it with so much more pious attention and spiritual profit, and while grasping better the meaning of the words, they may be more penetrated with the heavenly maxims and holy affections that are contained in the psalms. Oh, how great is the merit of a single Office recited with devotion!

EXPLANATION OF DIFFICULT VERSES ACCORDING TO THE VULGATE.

But now in regard to obscure passages, I must acknowledge that when I undertook this work it seemed to me to offer no difficulty, considering that I had taken care to supply myself with a large number of excellent commentators. I had made a mistake; for when I set to work it appeared to me extremely difficult and most laborious: often, in fact, I saw myself stopped short, being embarrassed and undecided among so many different explanations given by the commentators. Sometimes, having spent whole hours in consulting different authors about a text, I remained more perplexed than ever when I found so many opinions opposed to one another. Finally, not to abandon my undertaking altogether, I resolved not to give all the explanations furnished by interpreters, nor all the questions raised by the learned, but simply to propose the interpretation that should appear to me more generally adopted and most conformable to our Vulgate. This is the rule that I have followed.

THE VULGATE.

As to the Vulgate. Xavier Mattei, in his translation of the psalms, a translation into verse which is scientific, and which has caused him much labor, observes that modern critics, especially Protestants, every time that they meet with a version different from that of the Vulgate, eagerly adopt it without examining whether or not it be preferable.

ACTUAL INFERIORITY OF THE HEBREW TEXT.

There is no doubt that the Hebrew text, being the original text, deserves, when considered by itself, to be preferred to all the versions; but the learned generally agree in saying that the original Hebrew is no longer perfectly exact. Indeed, Salmeron, Morinus, and others teach that the Jews have altered it out of hatred to Christianity; many, with Bellarmine, think that many errors crept in through ignorance, or by the negligence of copyists. It should especially be remarked, that after the fifth century the Jewish doctors, called Masorites,¹ have

III. The Author of the Psalms.

There at first present themselves certain preliminary questions which sacred interpreters discuss among themselves; namely, the authorship of the psalms; to which of three texts—Hebrew, Greek, Latin—one should give the preference; the titles of the psalms; their composition,—that is to say, whether they were composed in verse or in prose. On all these controverted points I only wish to set forth in a few words the opinions most generally received, leaving to the reader the task of further continuing his studies in order to find out the truth so far as it may be ascertainable.

DAVID THE PRINCIPAL AUTHOR OF THE PSALMS.

That the holy king David is the author at least of a great part of the psalms, one cannot deny; for the Bible shows us the Levites occupied in the Temple chanting the psalms, of which David is declared the author: *And the priests stood in their offices: and the Levites with the instruments of music of the Lord, which king David made to praise the Lord; because His mercy endureth forever, singing the hymns of David by their ministry.*¹ Several Fathers of the Church, as St. Augustine,² St. John Chrysostom, Theodoret,³ and others, recognized David as the sole author of the whole psalter; but St. Hilary,⁴ St. Athanasius,⁵ St. Isidore of Pelusium, etc., are of opinion that many of the psalms have another origin, particularly those that bear in their titles the names of different personages, such as Asaph, Idithun, Ethan, etc. “We ascribe these inspired hymns,” says St. Jerome, “to the authors whose names appear in the titles.”⁶ It is true, St. Augustine and Theodoret give us these different names as the names of the singers, and not as those of the authors. But St. Jerome, maintaining his opinion, replies: “We know that it is an error to look upon David as the author of the whole psalter, to the exclusion of the persons mentioned in the titles.”¹ St. Augustine himself, explaining the title of the first of the psalms, does not hesitate to say that “not all are David’s.”² Hence we may rightly conclude with Döm Calmet³ and most of the interpreters, that David composed not all but the greater number of the psalms.

ALL THE PSALMS ARE INSPIRED.

“Moreover,” says Theodoret, with much wisdom, “what advantage can it be to me to know the different authors? for it is certain that all have written under the inspiration of the Holy Ghost.”⁴ St. Gregory the Great expresses beautifully the same thought: “Since we regard the Holy Ghost as the author of the psalms, to ask then what hand has written them, is it not the same as asking when reading a letter what pen has been used in writing it?”⁵ Indeed, we read these inspired pages and we know that all are divine; what does it then matter what pen has formed the letters?

IV. The Superiority of the Vulgate.

It is certainly with the Hebrew text, as being the original text, that all the versions of the psalms should be made to agree.

THE HEBREW TEXT VERY MUCH ALTERED.

But as we have already said, this rule is actually no longer sure, for the Hebrew text, as it exists at the present day, is full of faults, due to the negligence of copyists or to the incorrectness of printers; add to this that the Rabbiniſts have invented those vowel points that have caused so many ambiguities and even errors. Hence it follows: (1) That among the interpreters some understand the Hebrew text in one way, others in another way; (2) that, according to the remark of several commentators, one arrives at the true sense of the psalms much less by the aid of the original text than by the aid of the translations, and particularly of the version of the Septuagint, which is regarded as the most exact; for it was made before the alterations were effected in the Hebrew text.

TWO OLD LATIN TRANSLATIONS OF THE PSALMS.

However, the Latin version of the Vulgate, called Itala by St. Augustine¹ and Vetus by St. Gregory, is on the whole the best of all, notwithstanding its unadorned style; this we learn from the fact that it has generally been used in the primitive Church, after St. Jerome had corrected it according to the Septuagint version. It is well to remark that St. Jerome afterwards undertook another translation of the psalms, for which he used only the Hebrew text; but this second version, as Estius remarks,² was not received by the faithful, and much less by the religious, who did not feel disposed to give up their ancient psalmody. Hence it has been the practice of reciting the ancient psalmody, corrected by St. Jerome.

THE VULGATE ALONE DECLARED TO BE AUTHENTIC.

As regards ourselves, the question is decided; for the Council of Trent, having declared the Vulgate exempt from every substantial error, we regard it as the safest version. The Council says: "If any one receive not, as sacred and canonical, the said books entire with all their parts, as they have been used to be read in the Catholic Church, and as they are contained in the old Latin Vulgate edition, . . . and knowingly and deliberately contemn them, let him be anathema."³ This decree adds: "The holy Synod ordains and declares, that the said old and Vulgate edition, which, by the lengthened usage of so many ages, has been approved of in the Church, be in public lectures held as authentic; and that no one is to dare or presume to reject it under any pretext whatever.”¹

THE VULGATE AGREES WITH THE SEPTUAGINT VERSION.

Hence in this translation we shall for the most part adhere to the Vulgate; and that because in the first place this version, exempt, as we know it to be, from every substantial error, offers us the surest text; then, because it oftenest agrees with the Septuagint version, the authors of which labored on the Hebrew text long before the alterations to which it was afterwards subjected. Another consideration, no less powerful, is the end that I propose to myself, and of which I have spoken above, namely, to explain the sacred canticles as clearly as possible for the benefit of those that recite the divine Office.

AGREEMENT OF THE BREVIARY WITH THE VULGATE.

Now, as Urban VIII. declares in his Bull Divinam psalmodiam, placed at the beginning of the breviary, there is but little difference between the psalms such as we recite them and the psalms such as are found in the Vulgate. I shall therefore usually follow the letter of the psalter such as is found in the breviary, without, however, renouncing the right of employing in other passages certain expressions in which it is not easy to understand the meaning either from the letter itself or from the context.

V. The Titles of the Psalms.

INSOLVABLE DIFFICULTIES ON THE SUBJECT OF TITLES.

This question of titles is so confused that the interpreters, in spite of all their explanations, have not been able, it seems to me, to solve it. In fact, among these titles, many of them are very old; as for the others, they have been added it is not known by whom—some before and even long after the collection of Esdras; we also find in the Septuagint and in the Vulgate certain titles that one should seek in vain in the Hebrew text. Besides, it is unknown whether the names expressed in the titles designate the authors or only the singers of the psalms.

For these reasons I shall not undertake to explain these different titles; only I shall give at the head of each psalm a short summary of what it contains.

VI. The Composition of the Psalms.

The learned discuss the question whether David and the other inspired authors wrote the psalms in verse or in prose.

Joseph Scaliger, in his "Notes on the Chronicle of Eusebius," thinks that the psalms were not written in verse, but in prose; although one finds in them, he adds, all the ornateness of poetry. Dom Calmet expresses the same opinion.

THE PSALMS COMPOSED IN VERSE.

St. Jerome,¹ and after him nearly all the learned, hold, on the contrary, that the psalms were composed in verse.

IMPOSSIBILITY OF DETERMINING THE METRE.

As for determining the kind of verses and for stating precisely whether they are prosodical or syllabical, with or without rhyme,—this is what no one has ever been able nor will be able to do, since the character of the metre in use among the Hebrews is unknown, their language having become entirely strange to us. We are also ignorant of the Hebrew pronunciation; for of old Hebrew was written without vowels, the number of which, owing to the vowel points introduced by the Rabbins, went on increasing or diminishing according as the new punctuation increased or diminished the number of syllables. According to Xavier Mattei, the Hebrews wrote their poetic works in verses of free rhythm, without restricting themselves to any determined number of syllables, and without caring for artificial connections, the verses nearly resembling the choruses of the Greek tragedies.

Having said thus much about these preliminary questions, I pass to the explanation of the psalms. Nevertheless, before entering upon this matter I wish, for the benefit of those persons who are obliged to say the breviary, to offer a few more reflections which may help them much to recite it well, that is, with attention and devotion.

VII. The Recitation of the Office.THE GREAT IMPORTANCE OF THE DIVINE OFFICE AS REGARDS THE FAITHFUL.

To praise God, to thank him for his benefits, to ask of him the graces necessary to eternal salvation—this is what should be here below the only occupation of all men. But because seculars are absorbed by worldly occupations, the Church wishes that not only ecclesiastics, but that religious of both sexes should consecrate at least certain hours of the day to praising God, and praying to him for all the faithful as well as for the welfare of Christian society. Hence when the clerics, personifying in some way the whole Christian people, present themselves before God in order to recite the divine Office, it is a prayer truly universal that they offer before the throne of the Divinity. “There is no doubt,” says St. Thomas of Aquin, “that the prayer is universal which the ministers of the Church offer to God in the name of the people.”¹

The same holy Doctor thus shows us that in the divine Office there is a public function, imposed upon clerics for the preservation and increase of the Church. He says: Since to the chant of the hymns and the psalms the divine Office is celebrated, there is accomplished in the Church of God a public ministry, organized for the good of all.”² St. Bernard had already said that upon ecclesiastics is chiefly incumbent a triple charge: to preach the word of God, to give good example, and to pray for all. “There are three obligations that remain to us: preaching, good example, prayer; and the latter surpasses the other two;”³ this he adds, in order to exalt prayer above eloquence and the most beautiful examples of virtue.

THE DIVINE OFFICE SPECIALLY IMPORTANT TO PRIESTS.

We thence understand what terrible punishments God reserves for those who, obliged to recite the Office, abstain from saying it either through wearisomeness or in order to give themselves to worldly amusements. But let us leave these persons who are struck with blindness, and let us speak of those who recite the Office in a careless manner. What a pity to see how certain priests recite the breviary in the streets, at some window, their eyes fixed on those passing by, or in the society of friends, with whom they laugh and jest, thus intermingling the divine praises with worldly and improper conversation, without paying any attention to the sacred words. If any one of them, when admitted to the presence of a great personage of this world, dared to speak to him in this way, he would certainly be driven away and punished. Alas! some priests have the audacity to treat God as if their mission was not to honor but to dishonor him.

¹ “Communis quidem oratio est, quæ per ministros Ecclesiæ, in persona totius fidelis populi, Deo offertur.”—2. 2, q. lxxxiii., a. 12.

³ “Manent tria hæc: verbum, exemplum, oratio; major autem his est oratio.”—Epist. 201, n. 3.

WHAT TREASURES OF GRACE ONE FINDS IN THE OFFICE.

On the other hand, when one recites the Office with attention, what merit and what profit does one derive from it. What lights are then obtained from the divine words! With what holy maxims is the soul penetrated! How many acts of love, of confidence, of humility, of contrition, may one not make by merely paying attention to the verses that one recites! Above all, what beautiful prayers are found in each psalm! There is no doubt that, when recited with faith and fervor, they merit treasures of grace, according to the infallible promise made by our Lord that he would hear whoever prays to him: *Ask, and it shall be given you.*¹ *For every one that asketh, receiveth.*²

WHAT HAPPINESS IS ENJOYED IN RECITING THE OFFICE.

I add that the Office, recited without devotion and with the only thought of finishing it as soon as possible, becomes one of the heaviest burdens and at the same time is so tedious as to seem to be of an interminable length; on the contrary, when it is recited with devotion, with a true desire of profiting by it, by applying mind and heart to the sacred words, its burden becomes light and sweet: of this all the saints have had experience. The saints found more pleasure in reciting the Office

THE PSALMS AND CANTICLES.

Sunday at Matins.

INVITATORY.—PSALM XCIV. OF THE PSALTER.

Several corrections were made in this psalm by St. Jerome ; but the Church, not having introduced them into the invitatory of the Office, it follows that we recite it in the breviary as it was recited according to the ancient version.

St. Paul declares (Heb. iii. 7, and iv. 7) that in this psalm everything directly refers to Jesus Christ; and since we understand this psalm as proclaiming God, the Creator, and at the same time the Saviour of the world, it is to him as to our supreme Pastor that the Holy Ghost exhorts us to address our praises, and to hearken to him.

1. VENITE, exultemus Domino, jubilemus Deo salutari nostro: præoccupemus faciem ejus in confessione, et in psalmis jubilemus ei.

2. Quoniam Deus magnus Dominus, et Rex magnus super omnes deos: quoniam non repellet Dominus plebem suam, quia in manu ejus sunt omnes fines terræ, et altitudines montium ipse conspicit.

3. Quoniam ipsius est mare, et ipse fecit illud, et aridas fundaverunt manus ejus: venite, adoremus, et procidamus ante Deum: ploremus coram Domino, qui fecit nos, quia ipse est Dominus Deus noster: nos autem populus ejus, et oves pascuæ ejus.

1. COME let us praise the Lord with joy: let us joyfully sing to God our Saviour.

Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving: and make a joyful noise to him with psalms.

2. For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods.

For in his hand are all the ends of the earth: and the heights of the mountains are his.

3. For the sea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land.

Come let us adore and fall down: and weep before the Lord that made us.

For he is the Lord our God: and we are the people of his pasture and the sheep of his hand.

4. Hodie si vocem ejus audieritis, nolite obdurare corda vestra, sicut in exacerbatione secundum diem tentationis in deserto: ubi tentaverunt me patres vestri, probaverunt et viderunt opera mea.

5. Quadraginta annis proximus fui generationi huic, et dixi: Semper hi errant corde: ipsi vero non cognoverunt vias meas, quibus juravi in ira mea, si introibunt in requiem meam.

4. To-day if you shall hear his voice, harden not your hearts;

As in the provocation, according to the day of temptation in the wilderness: where your fathers tempted me, they proved me, and saw my works.

5. Forty years long was I offended with that generation, and I said: These always err in their heart.

And these men have not known my ways: so I swore in my wrath they shall not enter into my rest.

1. "Præoccupemus faciem ejus in confessione." Before the rising of the sun, let us be found in the presence of the Saviour, to praise him and to confess to him our faults. St. Augustine says: "Est confessio laudantis, confessio gementis.—There is the confession of him who praises, and the confession of him who mourns."

2. "Omnes deos—All the false gods and all the kings of the earth." "Altitudines montium—Earthly powers," according to St. Augustine; that is to say: The Lord regards alike the powerful of the world and the poor whom the world despises; for all are in his power; therefore he does not reject any of his people.

4. "Sicut in exacerbatione . . ." It must here be remarked that this passage is in the Office, as it was anciently read in the psalm; but it was afterwards corrected, as it is now in the psalter, where we read: "Sicut, in irritatione, secundum diem tentationis in deserto, ubi tentaverunt me patres vestri; probaverunt me, et viderunt opera mea." This version, with which the English translation agrees, better explains the text, of which the sense is as follows: It is God who here speaks to the Hebrews, and he says to them: Harden not your hearts, as you did formerly when you provoked me to anger in the wilderness, where your fathers wished to tempt me, to see whether I was the true God, when in that barren and utterly destitute place they sought for water, bread, and flesh; they found by experience at the sight of my wonderful works that I can do all things according to my own pleasure.¹

5. "Proximus." Instead of this word, we read in the corrected version, or the psalter, Offensus; and St. Paul says, In-fensus (Heb. iii. 10). But it is the same thing, as Du Hamel and Bellarmine remark, if Proximus is put for Proximus ad ulciscendum.—" Semper hi errant corde; ipsi vero non cognoverunt vias meas." They have always a perverse heart; they do not wish to know my righteous judgments.—"Requiem meam." My rest, that is to say, the land that I promised them.²

PSALMS OF THE FIRST NOCTURN.

PSALM I. OF THE OFFICE AND OF THE PSALTER.

The object that David proposes to himself in this psalm is to convince us that God bestows happiness only upon the just in order to be happy; we must, therefore, begin to be just.

1. BEATUS vir, qui non abiit in consilio impiorum, et in via peccatorum non stetit, et in cathedra pestilentiae non sedit:

2. Sed in lege Domini voluntas ejus, et in lege ejus meditabitur die ac nocte.

3. Et erit tamquam lignum, quod plantatum est secus decursus aquarum, quod fructum suum dabit in tempore suo:

4. Et folium ejus non defluet: et omnia quaecumque faciet, prosperabuntur.

5. Non sic impii, non sic: sed tamquam pulvis, quem projicit ventus a facie terrae.

6. Ideo non resurgent impii in judicio: neque peccatores in concilio justorum.

7. Quoniam novit Dominus viam justorum: et iter impiorum peribit.

1. BLESSED is the man who hath not walked in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stood in the way of sinners, nor sat in the chair of pestilence:

2. But his will is in the law of the Lord, and on his law he shall meditate day and night.

3. And he shall be like a tree which is planted near the running waters, which shall bring forth its fruit, in due season:

4. And his leaf shall not fall off: and all whatsoever he shall do, shall prosper.

5. Not so the wicked, not so: but like the dust, which the wind driveth from the face of the earth.

6. Therefore the wicked shall not rise again in judgment: nor sinners in the council of the just.

7. For the Lord knoweth the way of the just: and the way of the wicked shall perish.

² "Juravi" (Num. xiv. 28).—" Si introibunt." Formula of impre-

1. "In cathedra pestilentiae non sedit." That is to say: Who does not teach false and pernicious doctrines.—Instead of the word Pestilentiae, St. Jerome has Derisorum, which according to the proper Hebrew signification means scoffers, or impostors who teach falsehood. The Septuagint have understood the same expression in the sense of pests, or chair of pestilence. These renderings, however, come to much the same sense; for the impious, such as atheists and heretics, are, as is explained by St. Athanasius, St. Augustine, St. Basil, the pest of the world by the false and pernicious doctrines that they teach.¹

2. The just man wills what God ordains in his law; hence he continually meditates on it.

4. This tree will always preserve its leaves, which will help to ripen the fruit; thus will all the works of the just man prosper.²

5. "Pulvis." Pagnini translates the Hebrew word by Glu-ma: chaff, light straw or husks that are separated from the seed by threshing, winnowing, etc.

6. "Non resurgent." That is, according to the Hebrew text: Non stabunt, non subsistent—they shall not stand, shall not keep their ground; and according to the Chaldee version: Non justificabuntur—they shall not be justified (Bossuet). This means that the wicked at the last judgment will not be able to oppose the just vengeance of Jesus Christ.—St. Augustine explains this verse by saying that the wicked will not rise again to be judged because they are already condemned to punishment—Non resurgent ut judicentur, quia jam pœnis destinati sunt. We should, however, here remark that the expression Non resurgent does not mean that the wicked will not rise on the day of judgment; since we read in St. Matthew (xxv. 31-4) that all men, just and sinners, must then rise; and this St. Paul expresses still more clearly in this passage: "We shall catory oath. See Psalm lxxxviii. 35. St. Paul admirably comments on these last two verses, 4 and 5, in his Epistle to the Hebrews, ch 3 and 4.

² Jeremias (xvii. 8) employs and develops nearly the same comparison.

all stand before the judgment-seat of Christ—Omnes enim stabimus ante tribunal Christi” (Rom. xiv. 10). Moreover, the Apostle himself explains to us how we are to understand the expression, “Non resurgent” of the psalm, when he elsewhere says: “We shall all indeed rise again; but we shall not all be changed—Omnes quidem resurgemus, sed non omnes immutabimur” (1 Cor. xv. 51). He wishes thereby to say that all men will rise again, but all will not obtain the happiness of having a spiritual and heavenly body, such as the just will receive, according to what he had written just before in verses 44-49: “It is sown a natural body, it shall rise a spiritual body. . . . Therefore, as we have borne the image of the earthy, let us also bear the image of the heavenly—Seminatur corpus animale, surget corpus spirituale. . . . Igitur, sicut portavimus imaginem terreni, portemus et imaginem cœlestis.” The words Non resurgent, thus understood, agree well with the Hebrew text and with the Chaldee version, so that the verses “The wicked shall not rise again in judgment, nor sinners in the council of the just,” may easily be explained in this sense: that the wicked, as the dust or fine chaff or light straw which the wind carries away, will be separated from the just, who are the good grain, according to what we read in the Gospel: “Gather up first the cockle . . . to burn, but the wheat gather ye into my barn. The angels shall go out and shall separate the wicked from among the just—Colligite primum zizania . . . ad comburendum; triticum autem congregate in horreum meum. Exhibunt Angeli, et separabunt malos de medio justorum” (Matt. xiii. 30, 49).

7. Novit. That is to say, approves and blesses. Peribit, shall end in ruin.¹

PSALM II. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN.

This psalm taken in its literal sense is entirely a prophecy of the reign of Jesus Christ, as the Apostles themselves teach us in the fourth chapter of the Acts: “Domine, . . . qui, Spiritu Sancto, per os patris nostri David, pueri tui, dixisti: Quare fremuerunt gentes, et populi

¹ To be known by the Lord, says St. Augustine, is to live; to be ignored by him is to perish. See Psalm xxxvi. 18. Jesus Christ has also said in the same sense: “I know you not—Nescio vos” (Matt. xxv. 12).

meditati sunt inania? Astiterunt reges terræ, et principes convenerunt in unum, adversus Dominum, et adversus Christum ejus . . . Lord, who by the Holy Ghost, by the mouth of our father David, thy servant, hath said: Why did the Gentiles rage, and the people meditate vain things: The kings of the earth stood up, and the princes assembled together against the Lord, and against His Christ" (Acts, iv. 24). They then continue to speak of the conspiracies that were formed against Jesus Christ by Herod and Pilate in union with the Gentiles and the Jews. In fact, certain Protestant interpreters, and even some Catholic commentators, wish that this psalm should be understood, in a literal sense, of the reign of David. But D. Xavier Mattei wisely observes that this is a novel opinion, prevailing among Protestants, and worthy of our condemnation, since we should hold to the interpretation given by holy Scripture in the Acts of the Apostles; the more so since to apply this psalm to David we must do too great violence to the text, the expression of which so clearly refers to the reign of Jesus Christ. To which Xavier Mattei, conformably to the principles laid down in the preface of his work, adds that sometimes holy Scripture has for its literal sense only the spiritual sense, without supporting any other hidden sense. Consequently, he says, when according to the interpretation of the Apostles this psalm offers so evident a prophecy of the reign of Jesus Christ, what reason is there to apply it to the reign of David? "What rashness," says St. Jerome, "to look for the sense of this psalm after St. Peter himself has given it to us! what boldness to dare to contradict what he says in the Acts of the Apostles!—Audacia est hunc psalmum interpretari velle post Petrum; imo de eo sentire aliud quam in Actibus apostolorum dixerit Petrus." Bellarmine also says: "To seek in this psalm a literal sense applicable to David appears to me to be the height of error—Omnino errare videntur qui ad litteram de Davide hunc psalmum explicare nituntur."

1. QUARE fremuerunt Gentes, et populi meditati sunt inania?

2. Astiterunt reges terræ, et principes convenerunt in unum adversus Dominum, et adversus Christum ejus.

3. Dirumpamus vincula eorum: et projiciamus a nobis jugum ipsorum.

4. Qui habitat in cœlis, irridebit eos: et Dominus subsannabit eos.

5. Tunc loquetur ad eos in

1. WHY have the Gentiles raged, and the people devised vain things?

2. The kings of the earth stood up, and the princes met together, against the Lord, and against his Christ.

3. Let us break their bonds asunder, and let us cast away their yoke from us.

4. He that dwelleth in heaven shall laugh at them: and the Lord shall deride them.

5. Then shall he speak to ira sua, et in furore suo conturbabit eos.

6. Ego autem constitutus sum rex ab eo super Sion montem sanctum ejus, prædicans præceptum ejus.

7. Dominus dixit ad me: Filius meus es tu, ego hodie genui te.

8. Postula a me, et dabo tibi gentes hereditatem tuam, et possessionem tuam terminos terræ.

9. Reges eos in virga ferrea, et tamquam vas figuli confringes eos.

10. Et nunc reges intelligite: erudimini qui judicatis terram.

11. Servite Domino in timore: et exultate ei cum tremore.

12. Apprehendite disciplinam, nequando irascatur Dominus, et pereatis de via justa.

13. Cum exarserit in brevi ira ejus, beati omnes, qui confidunt in eo.

them in his anger, and trouble them in his rage.

6. But I am appointed king by him over Sion his holy mountain, preaching his commandment.

7. The Lord hath said to me: Thou art my son, this day have I begotten thee.

8. Ask of me, and I will give thee the Gentiles for thy inheritance, and the utmost parts of the earth for thy possession.

9. Thou shalt rule them with a rod of iron, and shalt break them in pieces like a potter's vessel.

10. And now O ye kings understand: receive instruction you that judge the earth.

11. Serve ye the Lord with fear: and rejoice unto him with trembling.

12. Embrace discipline, lest at any time the Lord be angry, and you perish from the just way.

13. When his wrath shall be kindled in a short time, blessed are all they that shall trust in him.

1. This verse predicts that it will be in vain that so many enemies conspire against the Messiah. St. Jerome translates the words Fremuerunt and Meditati sunt in the future tense; but Bellarmine rightly says that here the version of the Vulgate, which agrees with the Septuagint, should be preferred; for in the Acts of the Apostles, as we have seen, the two verbs are in the past tense. The words "Meditati sunt inania—they have devised vain things," are used, because these enemies while endeavoring to destroy the kingdom of Christ only cooperated in its establishment.

2. "Reges . . . et principes." By these kings and princes are meant not only Herod, Pilate, and the chief priests of the Jews, but also all the emperors and all the kings of the Gentiles who have persecuted the Church of Jesus Christ. 'Adversus Dominum, rabo ad decretum—I will declare for a decree. Substantially, the words Præceptum and Decretum signify the same thing; namely, the decree whereby God established the kingdom of Jesus Christ to be propagated throughout the world. The terms of the decree are as follows (see verse 7):

7. "Filius meus es tu, ego hodie genui te." The literal sense of this word of the eternal Father, in the mind of the Holy Ghost, is threefold, as Cardinal Bellarmine and Menochius well remark. The first sense is that of the eternal generation of Jesus Christ as the Word and the eternal Son of God, according to what St. Paul writes: "Being made so much better than the angels, as he hath inherited a more excellent name than they. For to which of the angels hath he said at any time: Thou art My Son, to-day have I begotten Thee?—Tanto melior Angelis effectus, quanto differentius præ illis nomen hereditavit cum enim dixit aliquando Angelorum: Filius meus es tu, ego hodie genui te?" (Heb. i. 4.) Hence St. Augustine rightly says that this passage is to be understood literally of the eternal generation by which the Word was from all eternity begotten by the Father, in contradistinction to the angels who are the ministers of God created in time. We read the words: Hodie genui te—To-day have I begotten Thee; "Hodie"—To-day, because eternity is an actual duration, without beginning and without end, as St. Augustine well explains, speaking of this psalm: "In eternity nothing is either past or future, but only the present; because whatever is eternal, always is.—In æternitate, nec præteritum quidquam est, nec futurum, sed præsens tantum; quia, quidquid æternum est, semper est." Bossuet (Suppl. in Ps. ii. 7) says that it would be difficult to find in the psalms a passage in which Jesus Christ is more expressly affirmed to be the true Son of God. The second literal sense refers to the resurrection of Jesus Christ, according to what we read in the Acts of the Apostles: "And we declare unto you that the promise which was made to our fathers, this same God hath fulfilled to our children, raising up Jesus again, as in the sacred psalm also is written: Thou art My Son, this day have I begotten Thee.—Et nos vobis annuntiamus eam quæ ad patres nostros repromissio facta est: Quoniam hanc Deus adimplevit filiis nostris, resuscitans Jesum, sicut et in Psalmo secundo scriptum est: Filius meus es tu, ego hodie genui te" (Act. xiii. 32, 33). The resurrection is, in fact, a certain regeneration, according to what we read in St. Matthew: "In the regeneration, when the Son of Man shall sit, etc.—In regeneratione cum sederit Filius hominis," etc. (Matt. xix. 28). The third sense, also literal, has reference to the temporal generation of Jesus Christ according to the flesh. Such is the opinion of St. Cyprian (Testim. adv. Jud. l. 2. c 8), and of St. Fulgentius (Contra Arian. resp. 3); this is well confirmed by these words of the Apostle: "So Christ also did not glorify himself that he might be made a high-priest: but he that said unto him: Thou art My Son, this day have I begotten Thee.—Sic et Christus non semetipsum clarificavit, ut Pontifex fieret; sed qui locutus est ad eum: Filius meus es tu, ego hodie genui te" (Heb. v. 5). In the Introit of the first Mass of Christmas the Church applies the quoted words of this psalm to the mystery of the day. We here add that the holy Fathers understand these words of Isaias: "Who shall declare his generation?—Generationem ejus quis enarrabit?" (Is. liii. 8), as referring not only to the divine generation, but also to the human generation of Jesus Christ.

8. The eternal Father continues: Since Thou art my Son by nature, it is just that Thou shouldst have dominion over all the nations and over the whole earth, as Thy inheritance and possession.—St. Augustine understands this of the spiritual power that Jesus Christ has over the Church, which through his merits was to be spread through the entire world, according to what our Saviour has himself said: "All power is given to me in heaven and on earth—Data est mihi omnis potestas in cælo et in terra" (Matt. xxviii. 18).

9. This is understood of the power that Jesus Christ has to reward the good and to punish the wicked as easily as the potter can break with a rod of iron his vessels of clay. The rod of iron signifies, moreover, the righteous and inflexible justice of Jesus Christ, which no one can resist.

10. That is to say: You, then, who are kings, and as such exercise the office of judges on earth, understand what is your duty, and learn to perform it well.¹

11. "Exsultate ei cum tremore." St. Augustine thus comments on these words: "In rejoicing, that we give thanks; in trembling, lest we fall.—In exultatione, ut gratias agamus, in tremore, ne cadamus” (In Ps. l. n. 4). By the word Timore, according to the Hebrew, we understand the piety of the children towards their father; that is to say, that filial love with which kings and judges should serve God. The verse may therefore be thus explained: Serve the Lord with filial fear and with joy, hoping for reward if you observe justice, and fearing punishment if you do not observe it.

¹ We may add: Acknowledge the king and the supreme Judge whom God places over you, and think of serving him only.

12. This verse signifies: Accept lovingly the law of God, and observe it, lest he be angry with you if you do not observe it, and lest he permit you to stray from the path of justice.

13. Unhappy those that wound justice and that are the cause why God becomes angry with them and hastens to punish them. Happy, on the contrary, are those that trust in God, because he will give them light and strength which they will need in order not to stray from the right path.

PSALM III. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN.

This psalm has for its title: Psalmus David¹ cum fugeret a facie Absalonis filii sui—David flying before his son Absalom. It was therefore to David fleeing from the persecutions of the unfortunate Absalom that is commonly applied the literal sense of this psalm. But in the mystical sense, according to St. Jerome, St. Augustine, Bede, Theodoret, and others, David here represents Jesus Christ considered in his Passion and in his resurrection. We would here once more remark on the subject of the enemies from whom the royal prophet endured persecution, that all the psalms when they speak literally are to be understood mystically of all the internal and external enemies, especially of our most powerful and most dangerous enemies,—I mean the devils who are plotting against our eternal salvation.

1. DOMINE quid multiplicati sunt qui tribulant me? multi insurgunt adversum me.

1. WHY, O Lord, are they multiplied that afflict me? many are they who rise up against me.

2. Multi dicunt animæ meæ: Non est salus ipsi in Deo ejus.

2. Many say to my soul: There is no salvation for him in his God.

¹ Bellarmine observes that David is here in the dative case, as is proved by the Greek version; consequently these words signify: Psalmus a Deo inspiratus Davidi—A psalm inspired by God into David. He adds that the principal object that the Holy Ghost had in view appears to be Jesus Christ himself, of whom David was the figure.

3. Tu autem Domine susceptor meus es, gloria mea, et exaltans caput meum.

4. Voce mea ad Dominum clamavi: et exaudivit me de monte sancto suo.

5. Ego dormivi, et soporatus sum: et exurrexi, quia Dominus suscepit me.

6. Non timebo millia populi circumdantis me: exurge Domine salvum me fac, Deus meus.

7. Quoniam tu percussisti omnes adversantes mihi sine causa: dentes peccatorum contrivisti.

8. Domini est salus: et super populum tuum benedictio tua.

3. But thou O Lord art my protector, my glory, and the lifter up of my head.

4. I have cried to the Lord with my voice: and he hath heard me from his holy hill.

5. I have slept and have taken my rest: and I have risen up, because the Lord hath protected me.

6. I will not fear thousands of the people surrounding me: arise, O Lord; save me, O my God.

7. For thou hast struck all them who are my adversaries without cause: thou hast broken the teeth of sinners.

8. Salvation is of the Lord: and thy blessing is upon thy people.

2. They tell me that there is no salvation for me, although I trust in my God.

“Ipsi . . . Ejus.” According to the Greek, these pronouns are masculine. Striking features of resemblance: David is betrayed by Achitophel, who ends by hanging himself (2 Kings, xvii. 23); Jesus Christ is betrayed by Judas, who ends in the same way. David is persecuted by his own people; Jesus hears the Jews crying out to Pilate: “Away with him, away with him, crucify him. . . . We have no king but Cæsar.—Tolle, crucifige eum. . . . Non habemus regem, nisi Cæsarem” (John, xix. 15). David hears these words: “There is no salvation for him in his God.—Non est salus ipsi in Deo ejus.” Jesus hears these other words: “He trusteth in God; let him now deliver him if he will have him.—Confidit in Deo; liberet nunc, si vult eum” (Matt. xxvii. 43).

3. “Gloria mea, et exaltans caput meum.” That is to say: “Thou art the cause of my glory; it is Thou that consolest me: I walked with my head bowed down under the weight of sorrows, and Thou hast now enabled me to lift it up again with joy.

4. “De monte sancto suo.” That is, from his high heaven.

5. This verse means: In the midst of persecution I took a tranquil and sweet repose; then I awoke and arose without disquietude, seeing that the Lord had taken me under his protection.—These are words that mystically apply to Jesus Christ when he wished to be stretched on the cross and there give up his life, and then wished to rise again from the dead by the power of his divinity.

7. "Percussisti omnes adversantes mihi sine causa." According to the Hebrew, we translate: Percussisti omnes hostes meos in maxilla. The Septuagint, however, have: Sine causa. Bellarmine thinks that the Septuagint have been able to translate thus, because the Hebrew text, which they used, was more correct than that which we have.

8. "Domini est salus." According to the Hebrew, it is Domino salus. That is, salvation should be referred to God, and it is only from him that we should hope for it. Salvation is the blessing that the Lord gives to his servants; for to bless on the part of God means to do good.

PSALM IV. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM VI. OF THE PSALTER.

According to the most probable opinion of the learned, this psalm, taken in the literal sense, properly refers to the penitence of David. Hence it is, conclusively, the prayer of the sinner who fears the blows of the divine justice, and who strives to become reconciled with his God. It is the first of the Penitential Psalms.

1. DOMINE, ne in furore tuo arguas me, neque in ira tua corripas me.

2. Miserere mei Domine quoniam infirmus sum: sana me Domine, quoniam conturbata sunt ossa mea.

3. Et anima mea turbata est valde: sed tu Domine usquequo?

4. Convertere Domine, et eripe animam meam: salvum me fac propter misericordiam tuam.

5. Quoniam non est in morte qui memor sit tui: in inferno autem quis confitebitur tibi?

6. Laboravi in gemitu meo,

1. O LORD rebuke me not in thy indignation, nor chastise me in thy wrath.

2. Have mercy on me O Lord, for I am weak: heal me, O Lord, for my bones are troubled.

3. And my soul is troubled exceedingly: but thou, O Lord, how long?

4. Turn to me, O Lord, and deliver my soul: O save me for thy mercy's sake.

5. For there is no one in death, that is mindful of thee: and who shall confess to thee in hell?

6. I have labored in my lavabo per singulas noctes lectum meum: lacrymis meis stratum meum rigabo.

7. Turbatus est a furore oculus meus: inveteravi inter omnes inimicos meos.

8. Discedite a me omnes, qui operamini iniquitatem: quoniam exaudivit Dominus vocem fletus mei.

9. Exaudivit Dominus deprecationem meam, Dominus orationem meam suscepit.

10. Erubescant, et conturbentur vehementer omnes inimici mei: convertantur et erubescant valde velociter.

groaning, every night I will wash my bed: I will water my couch with my tears.

7. My eye is troubled through indignation: I have grown old amongst all my enemies.

8. Depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity: for the Lord hath heard the voice of my weeping.

9. The Lord hath heard my supplication, the Lord hath received my prayer.

10. Let all my enemies be ashamed, and be very much troubled: let them be turned back, and be ashamed very speedily.

1. This verse signifies: O Lord, punish me if Thou wilt, but not in Thy anger; that is to say: Chastise me as a father and not as a judge. Not to be punished here on earth after I have offended Thee would be to me the greatest punishment. I beg Thee, then, to punish me here below, in order that I may amend, and may avoid eternal death.—(See what is said on this point in Ps. ii. 5.)

2. “Infirmus sum; sana me, Domine, quoniam conturbata sunt ossa mea.” Have pity on me, O Lord! I am full of infirmities; heal me by strengthening me with Thy grace; for my very bones are troubled, that is, are trembling with weakness.

3. That is to say: My soul also is troubled, and much more so than my body; how long wilt Thou delay to come to my assistance?

4. “Eripe animam meam.” Deliver my soul from the many miseries and perils that surround it. “Salvum me fac propter misericordiam tuam.” Save me through Thy pure mercy; for I deserve nothing but punishment and hell itself.

5. “In morte.” In eternal death.

7. I have conceived great indignation against myself when considering the deformity of my sins, and when seeing myself growing old in the midst of my enemies, which are my vices and my bad habits.¹

¹ To these we add the devils and sinners who have led him to offend

8. "Qui operamini iniquitatem." Perverse enemies, who would also pervert me.

PSALM V. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM VII. OF THE PSALTER.

Addressing himself to God, David represents to him his innocence and at the same time the anguish of his heart; this was at the time of the persecution that he had to endure from Saul or from Absalom—more probably from Saul. The holy king exhorts at the same time his enemies to be converted, and predicts to them the chastisement of heaven if they are not converted.¹

1. DOMINE Deus meus in te speravi: salvum me fac ex omnibus persequentibus me, et libera me.

2. Nequando rapiat ut leo animam meam, dum non est qui redimat, neque qui salvum faciat.

3. Domine Deus meus si feci istud, si est iniquitas in manibus meis:

4. Si reddidi retribuētibus mihi mala, decidam merito ab inimicis meis inanis.

5. Persequatur inimicus animam meam, et comprehendat, et conculcet in terra vitam meam, et gloriam meam in pulverem deducat.

6. Exurge Domine in ira tua: et exaltare in finibus inimicorum meorum.

7. Et exurge Domine Deus meus in præcepto quod mandasti: et synagoga populorum circumdabit te.

1. O LORD my God, in thee have I put my trust: save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me.

2. Lest at any time he seize upon my soul like a lion, while there is no one to redeem me, nor to save.

3. O Lord my God, if I have done this thing, if there be iniquity in my hands:

4. If I have rendered to them that repaid me evils, let me deservedly fall empty before my enemies.

5. Let the enemy pursue my soul, and take it, and tread down my life on the earth, and bring down my glory to the dust.

6. Rise up, O Lord, in thy anger: and be thou exalted in the borders of my enemies.

7. And arise, O Lord my God, in the precept which thou hast commanded: and a congregation of people shall surround thee.

God, and from whom he has resolved to keep aloof (v. 8). Hence, penetrated with a true contrition, he feels in his heart that God hears him (v. 9); and he is filled with confidence and joy.

¹ In the prophetic sense, says Bellarmine, David represents the person of Jesus Christ, and that of all the just who are calumniated and persecuted.

his feet the earth stained with my blood in the place where he will take away my life.¹

6. This verse means: But if I am innocent, O Lord! show forth Thy just anger by punishing my enemies as they deserve. We should not here reproach David with having asked to be revenged upon his enemies; for we must understand him either as speaking in a prophetic manner, announcing the chastisements with which God would punish them, or as praying to God to send them temporal punishment that they may amend themselves.

7. "In præcepto quod mandasti." That is to say: My God, arise in order to save innocence, according to the precept that Thou hast given to men to defend the innocent. "Synagoga populorum." According to the Hebrew, Congregatio tribuum: The congregation of the tribes. That is to say: And then all the people shall gather around Thee, to praise the justice of Thy judgments.

8. "Dominus judicat populos." It belongs to Thee, as the Lord of the universe, to judge the people.

10. The astuteness of sinners shall not avail them; for Thou who art God, and who knowest the secrets of their hearts, well knowest how to direct the just man, so that he may escape their snares.

11. The Lord will not fail to give me his just help; for he saves those that act with an upright heart.

12. "Justus, fortis, et patiens; numquid irascitur per singulos dies?" It must be here observed that the Hebrew presents another sense, namely, Justus et fortis, et comminans (irascens) tota die. Hence, according to the present Hebrew text, we read that God threatens or is angry every day; in the Vulgate, on the contrary, it is said that God does not threaten and is not angry every day. The version of the Septuagint² agrees with the Vulgate, and with Bellarmine I prefer to adhere to it for the reason already given, namely, that it is believed that the Hebrew text of the time of the Septuagint was more correct than that which we now have; the more so since, as Bellarmine remarks, the sense as given in the Vulgate agrees better with the following verse.

13. This verse, united with the preceding one, signifies that God is not always angry and in the mind of punishing sinners as they deserve; but when they are obstinate and will not be converted, he will draw his sword and will punish them according to his justice; for this reason he always holds in readiness and has bent his bow to let fly the arrow of his just vengeance.

14. "Vasa mortis." That is to say: The weapons that bring death.¹ "Sagittas suas ardentibus effecit." By this is meant thunderbolts; such is precisely the explanation given by St. Jerome: Sagittas suas ad comburendum ignitas effecit: He hath set his arrows on fire to burn.

15. "Concepit dolorem, et peperit iniquitatem." The sinner first conceives grief in his heart, that is, hatred against the just man, called grief, because it afflicts the soul of him who cherishes it; then he gives birth to iniquity by seeking to oppress the person whom he hates (Job, xv. 35; Is. lix. 4).

16. He has opened and dug a precipice, or a covered trap; but God has permitted that he should himself fall into it.

17. The evil that he wished to cause others shall descend upon himself.

18. Conclusion: As for myself, I will praise the justice of the Lord.

PSALM VI. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM VIII. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm is a canticle composed in praise of the power, wisdom, and goodness of God, and especially of his goodness towards man. The multitude of the benefits received from God is therefore the subject of this psalm. Thus it is commonly understood by commentators. Nevertheless there are some who, on the authority of a passage of St. Paul (Heb. ii. 9), apply it not without probability to the person of Jesus Christ.

1. DOMINE Dominus noster, quam admirabile est nomen tuum in universâ terra!

2. Quoniam elevata est magnificientia tua super cœlos.

1. O LORD, our Lord, how admirable is thy name in the whole earth!

2. For thy magnificence is elevated above the heavens.

¹ In holy Scripture the word Vas often means instrument. (See Psalm lxx. 24; Is. xxii. 24; Jer. l. 25 and li. 20.)

3. Ex ore infantium et lactentium perfecisti laudem propter inimicos tuos, ut destruas inimicum et ultorem.

4. Quoniam videbo cœlos tuos, opera digitorum tuorum: lunam et stellas, quæ tu fundasti.

5. Quid est homo, quod memores ejus? aut filius hominis, quoniam visitas eum?

6. Minuisti eum paulo minus ab Angelis, gloria et honore coronasti eum: et constituisti eum super opera manuum tuarum.

7. Omnia subjecisti sub pedibus ejus, oves et boves universas: insuper et pecora campi.

8. Volucres cœli, et pisces maris, qui perambulant semitas maris.

9. Domine Dominus noster, quam admirabile est nomen tuum in universa terra!

2. "Super cœlos." Above the heavens, since the whole world cannot contain it.

3. "Inimicum et ultorem." Satan Thy principal enemy, and the avenger of all Thy enemies. Some explain this verse, not according to the Vulgate, which has followed the Septuagint, but according to the Hebrew text, which instead of Perfecisti laudem—Thou hast perfected praise—signifies: Fundasti fortitudinem—Thou hast ordained strength. But be this as it may, we have translated it as is to be seen above: Even the very infants at the breast praise Thee perfectly, and confound Thy enemies. We must not depart from this interpretation, which is conformable to the Vulgate; for Jesus Christ himself rendered it authentic when after his entry into Jerusalem the children were heard to cry out: Hosanna Filio David—Hosanna to the Son of David! When the Pharisees murmured at this praise offered to our Lord, he said to them: "Nunquam legistis, quia: Ex ore infantium et lactentium perfecisti laudem?"—Yea, have you never

3. Out of the mouth of infants and of sucklings thou hast perfected praise, because of thy enemies, that thou mayst destroy the enemy and the avenger.

4. For I will behold thy heavens, the works of thy fingers: the moon and the stars which thou hast founded.

5. What is man that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man that thou visitest him?

6. Thou hast made him a little less than the angels, thou hast crowned him with glory and honor: and hast set him over the works of thy hands.

7. Thou hast subjected all things under his feet, all sheep and oxen: moreover the beasts also of the fields.

8. The birds of the air, and the fishes of the sea, that pass through the paths of the sea.

9. O Lord, our Lord, how admirable is thy name in all the earth!

read: Out of the mouth of infants and of sucklings thou hast perfected praise?" (Matt. xxi. 16.) We do not read the words: Fundasti fortitudinem—Thou hast ordained strength. Xavier Mattei justly observes that in all the passages of the psalter, or of any other book of the Old Testament, which are cited in the New Testament according to the version of the Septuagint, this version should be regarded as true and incontestable; and that if the Hebrew text differs from it, it should be corrected according to the Septuagint version. He adds that it is temerity to interpret such passages in a sense different from that given to them in the New Testament, excepting only certain passages that the Church has otherwise explained according to the Hebrew text, and that are susceptible of divers literal interpretations.

4, 5. That is to say: When I consider the marvels that Thou hast wrought in favor of man, how can I refrain from praising Thee and from crying out: What is man, for whom Thou hast so great mindfulness, and whom Thou dost favor with Thy visit? This agrees with what is said in the Canticle of Zachary: "Benedictus Dominus Deus Israel, quia visitavit, et fecit redemptionem plebis suæ—Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, because he hath visited and wrought the redemption of his people." The Son of God comes himself to visit man, to take human flesh, and to redeem him from the slavery of the devil.

6-7-8. Although Thou hast given to man a nature little less than that of the angels, Thou hast nevertheless subjected to him all other creatures.¹

9. Repetition of the first verse for the conclusion.

¹ This passage has a twofold meaning. In the literal sense, it is applicable to men whom God has made masters over all earthly things: "Cælum cæli, Domino, terram autem dedit filiis hominum—The heaven of the heavens is the Lord's, but the earth hath he given to the children of men" (Ps. cxiii, 25). But in the figurative sense it applies to Jesus Christ, as St. Paul attests (Heb. ii. 6). God deigned to visit the human race by the Incarnation of the Word, who appeared then in some way inferior to the angels, especially in his Passion, but who afterwards was crowned with glory in his resurrection and ascension, when to his dominion were submitted the angels, men, and demons who, according to St. Augustine and Bellarmine, are typified by the animals that people

PSALM VII. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM IX. OF THE PSALTER.

Among the interpreters there are some that see in this psalm, when taken in the literal sense, David thanking God for having given him the victory over his enemy; and when taken in the spiritual sense, Jesus Christ accomplishing the work of the Redemption, and thus subduing the devil, the great enemy of the human race. Others, whose opinion does not lack probability, regard this psalm as the portrait of the unhappy end of the wicked, who have lived in prosperity, and of the glorious end of the just, who have been living in tribulation.

1. CONFITEBOR tibi Domine in toto corde meo: narrabo omnia mirabilia tua.

2. Lætabor et exultabo in te: psallam nomini tuo Altissime.

3. In convertendo inimicum meum retrorsum: infirmabuntur, et peribunt a facie tua.

4. Quoniam fecisti iudicium meum et causam meam: sedisti super thronum qui iudicas iustitiam.

5. Increpasti gentes, et periit impius: nomen eorum delesti in æternum, et in sæculum sæculi.

6. Inimici defecerunt framæ in finem: et civitates eorum destruxisti.

7. Periit memoria eorum cum sonitu: et Dominus in æternum per̄manet.

8. Paravit in iudicio thronum suum: et ipse iudicabit orbem terræ in æquitate, iudicabit populos in iustitia.

1. I WILL give praise to thee, O Lord, with my whole heart: I will relate all thy wonders.

2. I will be glad and rejoice in thee: I will sing praise to thy name, O thou most high.

3. When my enemy shall be turned back: they shall be weakened and perish before thy face.

4. For thou hast maintained my judgment and my cause: thou hast sat on the throne, who judgest justice.

5. Thou hast rebuked the Gentiles, and the wicked one hath perished: thou hast blotted out their name for ever and ever.

6. The swords of the enemy have failed unto the end: and their cities thou hast destroyed.

7. Their memory hath perished with a noise: but the Lord remaineth for ever.

8. He hath prepared his throne in judgment: and he shall judge the world in equity, he shall judge the peoples in justice.

the air, the earth, and the sea. “Omnia dedit ei Pater in manus— Knowing that the Father had given him all things into his hands” (John, xiii. 3). “Omnia enim subjicit sub pedibus ejus— For he hath put all things under his feet” (1 Cor. xiii. 26).

9. Et factus est Dominus refugium pauperi: adiutor in opportunitatibus, in tribulatione.

10. Et sperent in te qui noverunt nomen tuum: quoniam non dereliquisti quærentes te Domine.

11. Psallite Domino, qui habitat in Sion: annuntiate inter gentes studia ejus:

12. Quoniam requirens sanguinem eorum recordatus est: non est oblitus clamorem pauperum.

13. Miserere mei Domine: vide humilitatem meam de inimicis meis.

14. Qui exaltas me de portis mortis, ut annuntiem omnes laudationes tuas in portis filiæ Sion.

15. Exultabo in salutari tuo: infixæ sunt Gentes in interitu, quem fecerunt.

16. In laqueo isto, quem absconderunt, comprehensus est pes eorum.

17. Cognoscetur Dominus judicia faciens: in operibus manuum suarum comprehensus est peccator.

18. Convertantur peccatores in infernum, omnes Gentes quæ obliviscuntur Deum.

19. Quoniam non in finem oblivio erit pauperis: patientia pauperum non peribit in finem.

20. Exurge Domine, non confortetur homo: judicentur gentes in conspectu tuo.

21. Constitue Domine legislatorem super eos: ut sciant Gentes quoniam homines sunt.

22. Ut quid Domine recess-

9. And the Lord is become a refuge for the poor: a helper in due time in tribulation.

10. And let them trust in thee who know thy name: for thou hast not forsaken them that seek thee, O Lord.

11. Sing ye to the Lord, who dwelleth in Sion: declare his ways among the Gentiles:

12. For requiring their blood he hath remembered them: he hath not forgotten the cry of the poor.

13. Have mercy on me, O Lord: see my humiliation which I suffer from my enemies.

14. Thou that liftest me up from the gates of death, that I may declare all thy praises in the gates of the daughter of Sion.

15. I will rejoice in thy salvation: the Gentiles have stuck fast in the destruction which they prepared.

16. Their foot hath been taken in the very snare which they hid.

17. The Lord shall be known when he executeth judgments: the sinner hath been caught in the works of his own hands.

18. The wicked shall be turned into hell, all the nations that forget God.

19. For the poor man shall not be forgotten to the end: the patience of the poor shall not perish forever.

20. Arise, O Lord, let not man be strengthened: let the Gentiles be judged in thy sight.

21. Appoint, O Lord, a law-giver over them: that the Gentiles may know themselves to be but men.

22. Why, O Lord, hast thou sisti longe, despicias in opportunitatibus, in tribulatione?

23. Dum superbit impius, incenditur pauper: comprehenduntur in consiliis quibus cogitant.

24. Quoniam laudatur peccator in desideriis animæ suæ: et iniquus benedicitur.

25. Exacerbavit Dominum peccator: secundum multitudinem iræ suæ non quæret.

26. Non est Deus in conspectu ejus: inquinatæ sunt viæ illius in omni tempore.

27. Auferuntur judicia tua a facie ejus: omnium inimicorum suorum dominabitur.

28. Dixit enim in corde suo: non movebor a generatione in generationem sine malo.

29. Cujus maledictione os plenum est, et amaritudine, et dolo: sub lingua ejus labor et dolor.

30. Sedet in insidiis cum divitibus in occultis, ut interficiat innocentem.

31. Oculi ejus in pauperem respiciunt: insidiatur in abscondito, quasi leo in spelunca sua.

32. Insidiatur ut rapiat pauperem: rapere pauperem, dum attrahit eum.

33. In laqueo suo humiliabit eum, inclinabit se, et cadet cum dominatus fuerit pauperum.

34. Dixit enim in corde suo: Oblitus est Deus: avertit faciem suam ne videat in finem.

35. Exurge Domine Deus, exaltetur manus tua: ne obviscaris pauperum.

retired afar off? why dost thou slight us in our wants, in the time of trouble?

23. Whilst the wicked man is proud, the poor is set on fire: they are caught in the counsels which they devise.

24. For the sinner is praised in the desires of his soul: and the unjust man is blessed.

25. The sinner hath provoked the Lord, according to the multitude of his wrath he will not seek him.

26. God is not before his eyes: his ways are filthy at all times.

27. Thy judgments are removed from his sight: he shall laud it over all his enemies.

28. For he hath said in his heart: I shall not be moved from generation to generation, and shall be without evil.

29. His mouth is full of cursing, and of bitterness, and of deceit: under his tongue are labor and sorrow.

30. He sitteth in ambush with the rich in private places, that he may kill the innocent.

31. His eyes are upon the poor man: he lieth in wait in secret like a lion in his den.

32. He lieth in ambush that he may catch the poor man: to catch the poor, whilst he draweth him to him.

33. In his net he will bring him down, he will crouch and fall, when he shall have power over the poor.

34. For he hath said in his heart: God hath forgotten, he hath turned away his face not to see the end.

35. Arise, O Lord God, let thy hand be exalted: forget not the poor.

13. Here David turns to God in prayer.

14. "De portis mortis." The perils of death. "Filiæ Sion." That is to say, Jerusalem.¹

15. I will rejoice in the salvation that Thou hast given me, since my enemies have fallen into the abyss of death, which they had prepared for me. "In interitu." According to the Hebrew, In fovea, to which the word Infixa corresponds; and this signifies, according to Menochius: They are fallen into the mire, from which it is very difficult further to extricate themselves.

16. "Quem absconderunt." Which they had secretly laid to catch me.

17. The Lord shall make himself known as the great God that he is, by exercising his just vengeance upon his enemies, and causing the sinner to be caught in the same toils that his hands had laid for others.

18. Malvenda thus interprets this passage: "Convertantur in infernum; quasi dicat: Male peribunt—They shall be turned into hell; as if he said: They shall perish miserably.' According to Menochius by the word Infernum we must understand hell, properly so called, the place destined for the punishment of the wicked: "Non enim sepulchrum tantum significatur hoc loco, nomine Inferni, sed etiam pœnarum locus—By the word hell, in this passage, not only is meant the grave, but also the place of punishment." This is also the opinion of Gordona. Hence this is the sense of the verse: Those that forget God during their life, will make a bad death, and will be sent to hell.

19. "Non peribit in finem." The patience of the poor shall not utterly perish; that is, shall not always remain without recompense.

20. O Lord! show Thy power; let not sinful man prevail; let the nations be judged before Thee according to their merit.

21. Give them a legislator who by the severity of his punishments will curb and subdue them, that so they may know that they are men, that is, weak and mortal, obliged to obey Thee.²

² Here the late Hebrew Doctors divide this psalm into two, making verse 22 the beginning of Psalm x. And again they join the psalms

22. "Despicis in opportunitatibus." Why dost Thou appear to despise me, by not consoling me when I needed Thy help? (See verse 9.)

23. The proud man boasts in vain of his prosperity, and the poor man complains in vain of his misery.

25. The wicked man has irritated God, and he should become reconciled to God; but blinded by an excess of anger or of pride he will not seek to appease him.

26. "Inquinatæ sunt viæ illius in omni tempore." All the actions of his life are always stained with sin.

27. He no longer thinks, O Lord! of Thy judgments, that is, of Thy precepts, nor of the punishments with which Thou threatenest him; therefore he seeks to lord it over, that is, to oppress his enemies.

28. "Sine malo." St. Jerome translates: Ero sine malo—I shall be without evil.

29. "Sub lingua ejus labor et dolor." His tongue serves only to bring sorrow and distress upon others.³

31. "Quasi leo in spelunca sua." As a lion that lies in ambush in his cave, to seize and devour those that are passing by.

32. "Oblitus est Deus." God does not care for the things here below; after having created them, he forgets them.

35. "Exaltetur manus tua." Let Thy power be exalted against the wicked.

36. "Non requiret." God does not care for human things; he does not trouble himself about them.

37. Thou seest, O Lord! and Thou dost look upon the sufferings of the poor; and when the time comes Thou wilt cause the wicked to fall into Thy hands to punish them.

38. "Orphano." Those that are destitute of all help.

39. "Brachium." Power. "Quæretur peccatum illius, et non inveniatur." According to St. Augustine: Judicabitur de peccato suo, et ipse peribit propter peccatum suum—He shall be judged for his sin, and he shall be lost on account of his sin. This interpretation seems to agree with what is said in the folcxlvi. and cxlvii. into one, in order that the whole number of psalms should not exceed one hundred and fifty. In this manner the psalms are numbered in the Protestant Bible.

³ God observes all that, and he will punish him; see verse 37

lowing verse: Peribitis, gentes, de terra illius—Ye Gentiles shall perish from his land. Hence the sinner shall be judged according to his iniquity, and he shall no longer be found, because he will be forever lost.

41. God will always hear the desire of the just who are afflicted; he will even hearken to the preparation of their heart; that is, the interior disposition that precedes their prayers.

42. "Ut non apponat ultra magnificare se homo super terram." In order that men on earth may not continue to exalt themselves, that is to say, may not grow proud by exalting themselves against Thee and against their neighbor.

PSALM VIII. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM X. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm the just are exhorted to place confidence in God during the time of persecution.

1. IN Domino confido: quomodo dicitis animæ meæ: Transmigra in montem sicut passer?

2. Quoniam ecce peccatores intenderunt arcum, paraverunt sagittas suas in pharetra, ut sagittent in obscuro rectos corde.

3. Quoniam quæ perfecisti, destruxerunt: justus autem quid fecit?

4. Dominus in templo sancto suo, Dominus in cœlo sedes ejus:

5. Oculi ejus in pauperem respiciunt: palpebræ ejus interrogant filios hominum.

6. Dominus interrogat justum et impium: qui autem diligit iniquitatem, odit animam suam.

7. Pluet super peccatores laqueos: ignis, et sulphur, et spiritus procellarum pars calicis eorum.

1. IN the Lord I put my trust: how then do you say to my soul: Get thee away from hence to the mountain like a sparrow?

2. For lo the wicked have bent their bow; they have prepared their arrows in the quiver, to shoot in the dark the upright of heart.

3. For they have destroyed the things which thou hast made: but what has the just man done?

4. The Lord is in his holy temple, the Lord's throne is in heaven.

5. His eyes look on the poor man: his eyelids examine the sons of men.

6. The Lord trieth the just and the wicked: but he that loveth iniquity hateth his own soul.

7. He shall rain snares upon sinners: fire and brimstone and storms of wind shall be the portion of their cup.

8. Quoniam justus Dominus, et justitias dilexit: æquitatem vidit vultus ejus.

8. For the Lord is just, and hath loved justice: his countenance hath beheld righteousness.

1. This is a difficult verse; it is thus explained: In the Lord I put my trust; why, then, dost thou come to me¹ and say: Fly to the mountain as a sparrow, to escape the vexations that afflict thee in the place in which thou art? This language is that of the just man who rejects the suggestions of the devil. When the sparrows fear to be taken in the nets of the fowlers, they flee to the mountains, which are the places more safe for them; but the just man, who trusts in God, seeks no change of place; for he knows that there are everywhere temptations of the enemy, and that everywhere God helps him who trusts in him.

2. "In obscuro." In the darkness of the night, according to the Greek version, to signify that it is difficult to guard against such attacks.

3. O Lord! says the psalmist, the wicked have destroyed the laws that Thou hast made, by persecuting the just who have given them no cause for doing so.

5. From the height of the heavens, where the Lord sits as a sovereign judge, his eyes look upon the poor man, and see all things; so that the Lord knows all that passes, as if he were interrogating men. Such is the explanation of Menochius: Ac si interroganti, quid actum sit, responderent—Just as if they were answering him when asking them what was done.²

6. The Lord puts questions, that is to say, he knows the just man to reward him, and he knows the wicked man to punish him; hence, says the psalmist, he that loves iniquity hates himself, because he draws down upon himself the divine vengeance.

7. The Lord will shower down upon sinners in this life snares by which they shall be involved in greater sins;³ and in the next life he will rain upon them fire, sulphur, and storms; that is, most painful torments, which will be the portion of their chalice, or their inheritance, their eternal punishment; such shall be the fruit of their sins.

² The psalms, Bellarmine here remarks, are written in a poetical style; hence we see so many figures shine forth in them. For example, the word eyelids is put for the eyes; the word eyes for the mind; to interrogate, for to know perfectly, as after interrogations and a very exact examination.

³ Id est, says Bellarmine, sicut eos involvi quotidie in pluribus et majoribus peccatis, percutiendo eos cæcitate, et tradendo eos in reprobum

8. "Æquitatem vidit vultus ejus." He considers the merit of each one, in order to punish the wicked and reward the just according to justice.

PSALM IX. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XI. OF THE PSALTER.

The confidence that we should have in the mercy of God and the fear that we should always have of his justice form the twofold subject of this psalm.

1. SALVUM me fac Domine, quoniam defecit sanctus: quoniam diminutæ sunt veritates a filiis hominum.

2. Vana locuti sunt unusquisque ad proximum suum: labia dolosa, in corde et corde locuti sunt.

3. Disperdat Dominus universa labia dolosa, et linguam magniloquam.

4. Qui dixerunt: Linguam nostram magnificabimus, labia nostra a nobis sunt, quis noster Dominus est?

5. Propter miseriam inopum, et gemitum pauperum nunc exurgam, dicit Dominus.

6. Ponam in salutari: fiducialiter agam in eo.

7. Eloquia Domini, eloquia casta: argentum igne examinatum, probatum terræ purgatum septuplum.

8. Tu Domine servabis nos, et custodies nos a generatione hac in æternum.

1. SAVE me, O Lord, for there is now no Saint: truths are decayed from among the children of men.

2. They have spoken vain things every one to his neighbor: with deceitful lips, and with a double heart have they spoken.

3. May the Lord destroy all deceitful lips, and the tongue that speaketh proud things.

4. Who have said: We will magnify our tongue, our lips are our own, who is Lord over us?

5. By reason of the misery of the needy, and the groans of the poor; now will I arise, saith the Lord.

6. I will set him in safety: I will deal confidently in his regard.

7. The words of the Lord are pure words: as silver tried by the fire, purged from the earth, refined seven times.

8. Thou, O Lord, wilt preserve us: and keep us from this generation forever.

sensum—That is, he will permit them to be daily involved in more and greater sins, by striking them with blindness, and delivering them over to a reprobate sense.

9. In circuitu impii ambulans: secundum altitudinem tuam multiplicasti filios hominum

9. The wicked walk round about: according to thy highness, thou hast multiplied the children of men.

1. "Defecit sanctus." Men, even those that are reputed holy, have failed in keeping Thy precepts. "Diminutæ sunt veritates a filiis hominum." They are found to be liars.

2. One seeks to deceive one's neighbor by telling him vain things that are nothing but knavish tricks; one speaks with a double heart when one thinks one thing and means another.¹

3. Prophetic imprecation: the psalmist threatens with divine vengeance these deceivers and these proud men who boast of merits that they do not possess.

4. "Linguam nostram magnificabimus." We will make ourselves esteemed by causing our tongues to prevail. This accords with the Hebrew, which is thus translated: Lingua nostræ vires addemus—We will strengthen our tongue. "Labia nostra a nobis sunt"—We have our own mouth with which to defend ourselves. "Quis noster dominus est?"—Who is the master that will prevent us from speaking?

6. I will put the just into a place of safety; this I will do freely; no one will be able to resist me.

7. The words and the promises of the Lord are pure and sincere, free from all falsehood and all deceit; they are as silver tried by the fire in a crucible, and refined seven times, so that it is entirely purified from the earth or dross. "Probatum terræ." St. Jerome translates this: Separatum a terra.

8. Thou wilt always preserve us from this race of proud and deceitful men.

9. The wicked surround the just that they may oppress them; and Thou, according to the depth of Thy judgments, permittest the wicked to increase in numbers, and to delight in the good things of this world.

PSALM X. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XII. OF THE PSALTER.

2. Quamdiu ponam cónsilia in anima mea, dolorem in corde meo per diem?

3. Usquequo exaltabitur inimicus meus super me? respice, et exaudi me Domine Deus meus.

4. Illumina oculos meos, ne umquam obdormiam in morte: nequando dicat inimicus meus: Prævalui adversus eum.

5. Qui tribulant me, exultabunt si motus fuero: ego autem in misericordia tua speravi.

6. Exultabit cor meum in salutari tuo: cantabo Domino qui bona tribuit mihi: et psallam nomini Domini altissimi.

how long dost thou turn away thy face from me?

2. How long shall I take counsels in my soul, sorrow in my heart all the day?

3. How long shall my enemy be exalted over me? Consider and hear me, O Lord, my God.

4. Enlighten my eyes, that I never sleep in death: lest at any time my enemy say: I have prevailed against him.

5. They that trouble me, will rejoice when I am moved: but I have trusted in thy mercy.

6. My heart shall rejoice in thy salvation: I will sing to the Lord who giveth me good things: yea I will sing to the name of the Lord the most high.

2. How long shall I remain agitated and sorrowful, taking counsel with myself, to find out the means of delivering myself from my enemies?

3. "Respice, et exaudi me." Look down upon my affliction, and hearken to my prayers.

4. "Ne umquam obdormiam in morte." That I may never consent to temptations, which would bring death to the soul.

5. "In misericordia tua speravi." I have placed all my trust in Thy mercy; Thou wilt not permit me to fall beneath their attack.

6. I will rejoice, because I have been saved by Thy help, and I will not cease to thank Thee for having assisted me.

PSALM XI. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XIII. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet deploras the blindness and the corruption of the wicked, and especially of infidels.¹

1. DIXIT insipiens in corde suo: Non est Deus.

1. THE fool hath said in his heart, there is no God.

not dare to say it to others, lest he should be laughed at as a fool.

2. "Corrupti sunt." The wicked say that there is no God; because they are corrupt, first in their will, and then in their understanding.—"In studiis suis." In following their passions.

3. The Lord has looked upon these unfortunate men to see whether any one of them knows God, and seeks him to love and obey him.

5. "Sepulchrum patens." An open sepulchre, which, filled with corruption, exhales an infectious odor.—"Venenum aspidum sub labiis eorum." They seem to keep beneath their tongue the venom of asps, to defame and outrage others.

7. Miserable that they are! their whole life is but affliction and sadness, because they did not wish to know the way to find peace, which consists in having before one's eyes the fear of God.²

9. Their obstinacy arises from their unwillingness to call upon the Lord for help, so that he may give them his holy fear. They fear to lose the divine grace, which brings with it every good.

11. But say the wicked: Who will come from Sion to save Israel?—But know that the Lord shall deliver his people from bondage, and its joy shall be great.

PSALM XII. OF THE FIRST NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XIV. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm presents the portrait of a worthy minister of the altar, and at the same time that of the predestined soul, who also will have the happiness of being admitted for all eternity into the heavenly country.

Psalms of the Second Nocturn.

PSALM I. OF THE SECOND NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XV. OF THE PSALTER.

The subject of this psalm, as St. Peter testifies (Acts, ii. 25),¹ is a prayer addressed to God by our Lord Jesus Christ during the three days that his holy body was lying in the sepulchre.—Resting on the authority of the prince of the apostles, Xavier Mattei and Father Rotigni rightly think that the literal sense and the spiritual sense are one and the same, and that thus the whole psalm directly refers to Jesus Christ raising his voice to his heavenly Father to address to him from the depth of the sepulchre the following prayer:

1. CONSERVA me Domine, quoniam speravi in te. Dixi Domino: Deus meus es tu, quoniam bonorum meorum non eges.

2. Sanctis, qui sunt in terra ejus, mirificavit omnes voluntates meas in eis.

3. Multiplicatæ sunt infirmitates eorum: postea acceleraverunt.

1. PRESERVE me, O Lord, for I have put my trust in thee. I have said to the Lord, Thou art my God, for thou hast no need of my goods.

2. To the Saints, who are in his land, he hath made wonderful all my desires in them.

3. Their infirmities were multiplied: afterwards they made haste.

¹ St. Paul also (Acts, xiii. 35).—As this whole psalm is a continual prayer, says Bellarmine, the last four verses cannot be understood of Jesus Christ without applying to him the entire psalm,

4. Non congregabo conventicula eorum de sanguinibus, nec memor ero nominum eorum per labia mea.

5. Dominus pars hereditatis meæ, et calicis mei: tu es, qui restitues hereditatem meam mihi.

6. Funes ceciderunt mihi in præclaris: etenim hereditas mea præclara est mihi.

7. Benedicam Dominum, qui tribuit mihi intellectum: insuper et usque ad noctem increpauerunt me renes mei.

8. Providebam Dominum in conspectu meo semper: quoniam a dextris est mihi, ne commovear.

9. Propter hoc lætatum est cor meum, et exultavit lingua mea: insuper et caro mea requiescet in spe.

10. Quoniam non derelinques animam meam in inferno: nec dabis sanctum tuum videre corruptionem.

11. Notas mihi fecisti vias vitæ, adimplebis me lætitia cum vultu tuo: delectationes in dextera tua usque in finem.

4. I will not gather together their meetings for blood-offerings: nor will I be mindful of their names by my lips.

5. The Lord is the portion of my inheritance and of my cup: it is thou that wilt restore my inheritance to me.

6. The lines are fallen unto me in goodly places: for my inheritance is goodly to me.

7. I will bless the Lord, who hath given me understanding: moreover my reins also have corrected me even till night.

8. I set the Lord always in my sight: for he is at my right hand, that I be not moved.

9. Therefore my heart hath been glad, and my tongue hath rejoiced: moreover my flesh also shall rest in hope.

10. Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell: nor wilt thou give thy holy one to see corruption.

11. Thou hast made known to me the ways of life, thou shalt fill me with joy with thy countenance: at thy right hand are delights even to the end.

1. "Bonorum meorum non egēs." That is to say, that God is the sovereign master of all things.

2. According to interpreters, Jesus Christ, who is here speaking, says: God, my Father, wishes that my will should tend in a marvellous manner to benefit the saints that live on earth.

3. Jesus Christ continues to speak: Their former infirmities (that is their sins) were numerous; but afterwards healed by my merits, they became holy so that they were able to hasten to God.

4. "Non congregabo conventicula eorum de sanguinibus." St. Jerome translates this after this manner: Non libabo libamina eorum de sanguine—Their libations of blood I will not offer. That is to say: I will never approve of the assemblies that they before held in the state of their infirmity, to celebrate sacrifices of blood.

5. "Pars . . . calicis mei." In olden times those that presided at a banquet assigned to each guest the portion of wine that was due to him.—"Restitues hereditatem meam mihi." Jesus Christ says these words to God his Father, when speaking of his resurrection.

6. It must here be observed that in ancient times the fields were measured with cords, and the part that fell to the lot of each in an inheritance.

7. I will bless the Lord, who has given me the understanding to choose himself for my inheritance; and all the affections of my heart (renes mei) have excited me to suffer for him with patience all tribulations, even death itself (usque ad noctem).

8. "Ne commovear." That I may not be shaken in my desire and in the hope that I have placed in him.

9. "Caro mea requiescet in spe." My body, separated from my soul, shall rest in hope of the resurrection and of the glory that the Lord has prepared for me.

10. Thou, O Lord! wilt not allow my soul to remain long in limbo, nor wilt Thou suffer my body, which is holy, to undergo corruption in the tomb.

11. "Vias vitæ." The ways of life, that is to say, of resurrection, which I know is soon to restore life to my body.—"Delectationes in dextera tua usque in finem." Thou wilt make me enjoy Thy glory, by placing me at Thy right hand for all eternity.

PSALM II. OF THE SECOND NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XVI. OF THE PSALTER.

The just man prays to God to be delivered from the persecutions to which he sees himself exposed.¹

1. EXAUDI Domine justitiam meam: intende deprecationem meam.

2. Auribus percipe orationem meam, non in labiis dolosis.

1. HEAR, O Lord, my justice: attend to my supplication.

2. Give ear unto my prayer, which proceedeth not from deceitful lips.

¹ Motives of his confidence: his innocence and rectitude, the mercy and justice of God, the malice and iniquity of the wicked.

3. De vultu tuo iudicium meum prodeat: oculi tui videant æquitates.

4. Probasti cor meum, et visitasti nocte: igne me examinasti, et non est inventa in me iniquitas.

5. Ut non loquatur os meum opera hominum: propter verba labiorum tuorum ego custodivi vias duras.

6. Perfice gressus meos in semitis tuis: ut non moveantur vestigia mea.

7. Ego clamavi, quoniam exaudisti me Deus: inclina aurem tuam mihi, et exaudi verba mea.

8. Mirifica misericordias tuas, qui salvos facis sperantes in te.

9. A resistentibus dexteræ tuæ custodi me, ut pupillam oculi.

10. Sub umbra alarum tuarum protege me: a facie impiorum qui me afflixerunt.

11. Inimici mei animam meam circumdederunt, adipem suum concluserunt: os eorum locutum est superbiam.

12. Projicientes me nunc circumdederunt me: oculos suos statuerunt declinare in terram.

13. Susceperunt me sicut leo paratus ad prædam: et sicut catulus leonis habitans in abditis.

14. Exsurge Domine, præveni eum, et supplanta eum: eripe animam meam ab impio, frameam tuam ab inimicis manus tuæ.

15. Domine a paucis de terra divide eos in vita eorum: de

3. Let my judgment come forth from thy countenance: let thy eyes behold the things that are equitable.

4. Thou hast proved my heart, and visited it by night: thou hast tried me by fire, and iniquity hath not been found in me.

5. That my mouth may not speak the works of men: for the sake of the words of thy lips, I have kept hard ways.

6. Perfect thou my goings in thy paths; that my footsteps be not moved.

7. I have cried to thee, for thou, O God, hast heard me: O incline thy ear unto me, and hear my words.

8. Show forth thy wonderful mercies, thou who savest them that trust in thee.

9. From them that resist thy right hand, keep me as the apple of thy eye.

10. Protect me under the shadow of thy wings: from the face of the wicked who have afflicted me.

11. My enemies have surrounded my soul, they have shut up their fat: their mouth hath spoken proudly.

12. They have cast me forth and now they have surrounded me: they have set their eyes bowing down to the earth.

13. They have taken me, as a lion prepared for the prey: and as a young lion dwelling in secret places.

14. Arise, O Lord, disappoint him and supplant him: deliver my soul from the wicked one, thy sword from the enemies of thy hand.

15. O Lord, divide them from the few of the earth in their life:

absconditis tuis adimpletus est venter eorum.

16. Saturati sunt filii: et dimiserunt reliquias suas parvulis suis.

17. Ego autem in justitia apparebo conspectui tuo: satiabor cum apparuerit gloria tua.

their belly is filled from thy hidden stores:

16. They are full of children: and they have left to their little ones the rest of their substance.

17. But as for me, I will appear before thy sight in justice: I shall be satisfied when thy glory shall appear.

1. Show favor to my innocence by hearing me; lend me a gracious ear.

2. Hear my petitions that I lay before Thee, not in words of falsehood, but of sincerity.

3. I beseech Thee that the judgment of my cause may proceed from Thy mouth, and from no other; regard justice, and judge me according to its laws.

4. "Noctē." During the darkness of my desolation. "Ignē." By the penetrating fire of tribulation.²

5. In order to avoid speaking against my persecutors, I have been attentive to the words of Thee, who commandest me to be silent, and thereby have walked in hard and very toilsome ways. I have had much to suffer.

6. Continue to direct me in Thy ways in which Thou wishest that I should walk, so that I may not go astray.

7. I have invoked Thee, and Thou hast heard me; cease not to incline Thy ear towards me by hearing all the prayers that I shall address to Thee.

9. "Dexteræ tuæ." From those that resist Thy right hand, which defends me. "Ut pupillam oculi." With great care.

10. Hide me from the eyes of the wicked who seek to oppress me.³

11. "Animam meam circumdederunt." They have surrounded me to take away my life. "Adipem suum concluserunt." St. Jerome translates: Adipe suo concluserunt; Viscerâ being understood. That is to say, as in the human body fat closes the bowels, so the abundance of riches fills the wicked with pride, and shuts in them the bowels of compassion for others.

² See Psalm lxxv. 9, 10.

³ "Sub umbra alarum tuarum." The psalmist often uses this metaphor, which so well depicts the tenderness and goodness of the Lord towards his faithful servants. Our Saviour himself explains this touching signification in those words addressed to Jerusalem: "How often would I have gathered together thy children, as the hen doth gather her chickens under her wings" (Matt. xxiii. 37).

12. "Oculos suos statuerunt declinare in terram." Miserable men! they are determined not to lift their eyes from the ground to which they keep their hearts attached.

13. "In abditis." In secret places to devour those passing by. Father Rotigni observes that this verse is applied to Jesus Christ more easily than to David, who was never taken by his enemies.

14. "Animam meam." My life. "Frameam tuam ab inimicis manus tuæ." Take away Thy sword, that is to say, the power to harm, which comes from Thee, from the enemies, that is to say, from those that abuse the gifts of Thy hand.

15. "A paucis de terra divide eos in vita eorum." This is a passage which some, such as Bellarmine, Gordona, and Lalle-mant, explain thus: Separate the multitude of the wicked from the small number of Thy servants who live upon earth. Others, as Bossuet, Tirinus, and Mattei, expound it as follows: Separate, that is to say, detach the wicked during life from that little portion of earthly goods which they possess and which renders them so proud. This last interpretation seems to me to be more probable; for St. Jerome translates the Hebrew: Quoniam pars in vita—Whose portion is in their life; the meaning of this is, that they found on such things their present happiness; so that St. Jerome, or according to the Hebrew text the expression A paucis, has reference, not to the number of the just, but to the goods that the wicked enjoy in this life. In any case this passage is very obscure. "De absconditis tuis adimpletus est venter eorum." They have their belly or their heart filled with their earthly goods, which they keep hidden, or which they carefully preserve; but in reality all these goods are Thine. This is the explanation also given of these obscure words: De absconditis tuis.

16. "Parvulis." Bossuet understands by this word grandchildren, descendants, Nepotibus.

17. I hope to appear just in Thy eyes on the day when I am judged, that I may be admitted into heaven, where I shall be satiated by beholding Thy glory.

11. Inclinauit cœlos, et descendit: et caligo sub pedibus ejus.

12. Et ascendit super Cherubim, et volavit: volavit super pennas ventorum.

13. Et posuit tenebras latibulum suum, in circuitu ejus tabernaculum ejus: tenebrosa aqua in nubibus aeris.

14. Præ fulgore in conspectu ejus nubes transierunt, grando et carbones ignis.

15. Et intonuit de cœlo Dominus, et Altissimus dedit vocem suam: grando et carbones ignis.

16. Et misit sagittas suas, et dissipavit eos: fulgura multiplicavit, et conturbavit eos.

17. Et apparuerunt fontes aquarum, et revelata sunt fundamenta orbis terrarum:

18. Ab increpatione tua Domine, ab inspiratione spiritus iræ tuæ.

19. Misit de summo, et accepit me: et assumpsit me de aquis multis.

20. Eripuit me de inimicis meis fortissimis, et ab iis qui oderunt me: quoniam confortati sunt super me.

21. Prævenerunt me in die afflictionis meæ: et factus est Dominus protector meus.

22. Et eduxit me in latitudinem: salvum me fecit, quoniam voluit me.

23. Et retribuet mihi Dominus secundum justitiam meam, et secundum puritatem manuum mearum retribuet mihi:

24. Quia custodivi vias Domini, nec impie gessi a Deo meo.

11. He bowed the heavens, and came down: and darkness was under his feet.

12. And he ascended upon the cherubim, and he flew, he flew upon the wings of the winds.

13. And he made darkness his covert, his pavilion round about him: dark waters in the clouds of the air.

14. At the brightness that was before him the clouds passed, hail and coals of fire.

15. And the Lord thundered from heaven, and the Highest gave his voice: hail and coals of fire.

16. And he sent forth his arrows, and he scattered them: he multiplied lightnings, and troubled them.

17. Then the fountains of waters appeared, and the foundations of the world were discovered:

18. At thy rebuke, O Lord, at the blast of the spirit of thy wrath.

19. He sent from on high, and took me: and received me out of many waters.

20. He delivered me from my strongest enemies, and from them that hated me: for they were too strong for me.

21. They prevented me in the day of my affliction: and the Lord became my protector.

22. And he brought me forth into a large place: he saved me, because he was well pleased with me.

23. And the Lord will reward me according to my justice; and will repay me according to the cleanness of my hands:

24. Because I have kept the ways of the Lord, and have not done wickedly against my God.

25. Quoniam omnia judicia ejus in conspectu meo: et justitias ejus non repuli a me.

26. Et ero immaculatus cum eo: et observabo me ab iniquitate mea.

27. Et retribuet mihi Dominus secundum justitiam meam: et secundum puritatem manuum mearum in conspectu oculorum ejus.

28. Cum sancto sanctus eris, et cum viro innocente innocens eris:

29. Et cum electo electus eris: et cum perverso perverteris.

30. Quoniam tu populum humilem salvum facies: et oculos superborum humiliabis:

31. Quoniam tu illuminas lucernam meam Domine: Deus meus illumina tenebras meas.

32. Quoniam in te eripiar a tentatione, et in Deo meo transgrediar murum.

33. Deus meus impolluta via ejus: eloquia Domini igne examinata: protector est omnium sperantium in se.

34. Quoniam quis Deus præter Dominum? aut quis Deus præter Deum nostrum?

35. Deus qui præcinxit me virtute: et posuit immaculatam viam meam.

36. Qui perfecit pedes meos tamquam cervorum, et super excelsa statuens me.

37. Qui docet manus meas ad prælium: et posuisti, ut arcum æreum, brachia mea.

38. Et dedisti mihi protectionem salutis tuæ: et dextera tua suscepit me:

39. Et disciplina tua correxit

25. For all his judgments are in my sight: and his justices I have not put away from me.

26. And I shall be spotless with him: and shall keep myself from my iniquity.

27. And the Lord will reward me according to my justice: and according to the cleanness of my hands before his eyes.

28. With the holy, thou wilt be holy: and with the innocent man, thou wilt be innocent.

29. And with the elect thou wilt be elect: and with the perverse thou wilt be perverted.

30. For thou wilt save the humble people: but wilt bring down the eyes of the proud.

31. For thou lightest my lamp, O Lord: O my God, enlighten my darkness.

32. For by thee I shall be delivered from temptation; and through my God I shall go over a wall.

33. As for my God, his way is undefiled: the words of the Lord are fire-tried: he is the protector of all that trust in him.

34. For who is God but the Lord? or who is God but our God?

35. God who hath girded me with strength: and made my way blameless.

36. Who hath made my feet like the feet of harts, and who setteth me upon high places.

37. Who teacheth my hands to war: and thou hast made my arms like a brazen bow.

38. And thou hast given me the protection of thy salvation: and thy right hand hath held me up:

39. And thy discipline hath me in finem: et disciplina tua ipsa me docebit.

40. Dilatasti gressus meos subtus me: et non sunt infirmata vestigia mea.

41. Persequar inimicos meos, et comprehendam illos: et non convertar donec deficient.

42. Confringam illos, nec poterunt stare; cadent subtus pedes meos.

43. Et præcinxisti me virtute ad bellum: et supplantasti insurgentes in me subtus me.

44. Et inimicos meos dedisti mihi dorsum, et odientes me disperdidisti.

45. Clamaverunt, nec erat qui salvos faceret, ad Dominum: nec exaudivit eos.

46. Et comminuam eos ut pulverem ante faciem venti: ut lutum platearum delebo eos.

47. Eripies me de contradictionibus populi: constitues me in caput Gentium.

48. Populus, quem non cognovi, servivit mihi: in auditu auris obedivit mihi.

49. Filii alieni mentiti sunt mihi, filii alieni inveterati sunt, et claudicaverunt a semitis suis.

50. Vivit Dominus, et benedictus Deus meus, et exaltetur Deus salutis meæ.

51. Deus, qui das vindictas mihi, et subdis populos sub me, liberator meus de inimicis meis iracundis.

corrected me unto the end: and thy discipline, the same shall teach me.

40. Thou hast enlarged my steps under me; and my feet are not weakened.

41. I will pursue after my enemies, and overtake them: and I will not turn again till they are consumed.

42. I will break them, and they shall not be able to stand: they shall fall under my feet.

43. And thou hast girded me with strength unto battles: and hast subdued under me them that rose up against me.

44. And thou hast made my enemies turn their back upon me, and hast destroyed them that hated me.

45. They cried, but there was none to save them, to the Lord: but he heard them not.

46. And I shall beat them as small as the dust before the wind; I shall bring them to naught, like the dirt in the streets.

47. Thou wilt deliver me from the contradictions of the people: thou wilt make me head of the gentiles.

48. A people, which I knew not, hath served me: at the hearing of the ear they have obeyed me.

49. The children that are strangers have lied to me, strange children have faded away, and have halted from their paths.

50. The Lord liveth, and blessed be my God, and let the God of my salvation be exalted.

51. O God, who avengest me, and subduest the people under me, my deliverer from my enemies.

52. Et ab insurgentibus in me exaltabis me: a viro iniquo eripies me.

53. Propterea confitebor tibi in nationibus Domine: et nomini tuo psalmum dicam.

54. Magnificans salutes Regis ejus, et faciens misericordiam christo suo David, et semini ejus usque in sæculum.

52. And thou wilt lift me up above them that rise up against me: from the unjust man thou wilt deliver me.

53. Therefore will I give glory to thee, O Lord, among the nations: and I will sing a psalm to thy name.

54. Giving great deliverance to his king, and showing mercy to David his anointed: and to his seed forever.

3. "Cornu salutis meæ." That is to say, the strength that secures my salvation.'

4. Therefore, he wishes to say, I will do nothing but praise and call upon the Lord in all my wants; and while acting thus I am sure that I will always be safe from the hands of my enemies.

5. "Torrentes iniquitatis conturbaverunt me." My enemies have filled me with terror, and have rushed upon me like a furious torrent. Instead of Conturbaverunt, St. Jerome translates, according to the Hebrew: Terruerunt—Have terrified.

6. I have been frightened by the horrors of the tomb, that is to say, with the sadness which he feels who knows that he must soon be carried to the grave; for the snares that my enemies have laid to deprive me of life, have preoccupied me, or have filled my soul with terror.

9. God, incensed against his enemies, manifested his anger by making the earth tremble and shaking the mountains in their very foundations.

10. When God is angry there exhales from the gaping earth a terrific smoke, and from the breath of his wrath fire is kindled.

¹ Holy Scripture often employs the word Cornu in the sense of strength or power, a metaphor taken from animals with horns.—The prophet began by saying to God: Fortitudo mea—Thou art my strength. He then explains (verses 1–3) in what way the Lord is his strength. In the Hebrew, as Bellarmine observes, the expressions are more figurative and energetic: for Firmamentum et Adjutor, the Hebrew word signifies rock, firm stone; Refugium, fortress; Protector, shield or buckler. The following verse is a kind of conclusion to this exordium; then comes the description of the help received from the Almighty.

dled, with lightnings and thunders, which fall like burning coals.

11. When the clouds are near the earth it seems as if the heavens were being lowered and God himself were descending upon these clouds.¹

13. When the clouds are more charged with water, they become darker and they bring the rain; now, God hides himself therein as in a closed pavilion. Commentators give to this image a mystical sense, thus: The Lord, in this present life, does not make his presence sensible; he hides his majesty as in black clouds laden with dark rain; that is to say, from the depth of this obscurity he showers down graces upon his faithful souls. This may well be understood of souls that have arrived at the prayer of contemplation, and who, the more they are united with God, find themselves all the more involved in obscurity.

14. "Carbones ignis." Coals of fire, that is to say, lightnings and thunders.

15. The hail, the lightning, and the thunder are the voice of the Lord by which he makes us know that he is the Most High.

17, 18. Thus also has God in his anger at times brought to light the hidden sources and the innermost bowels of the earth.

19. He has received me into his arms, and has withdrawn me from a multitude of dangers and tribulations which as a deluge were overwhelming me.

20. "Confortati sunt super me." St. Jerome translates: Robustiores me erant—They were stronger than I.

21. "Prævenierunt me." They sought to take me by surprise.²

23. The Lord has rewarded me, and he will reward me according to the uprightness of my heart and the purity of my deeds.

25. All his laws are ever before my eyes, and I have never repelled from my heart his just commands.³

¹ We admire these poetical images: God, who is incensed, arms himself with his arrows, which are thunderbolts; the clouds form his chariot, which is drawn by winged coursers—that is, impetuous winds; and these coursers are conducted by the angels. The thunder (verse 15) is called the voice of the Most High; the tempest (verse 18), the breath of his wrath.

² They attacked me unexpectedly.

³ "Justitias." St. Jerome translates: Præcepta—Precepts. The same as in 2 Kings, xxii. 23.

26. I hope with his help to remain faithful to him.

27. The Lord in his goodness will grant me his graces according to the uprightness of my intention, and according to my actions that are free from defect, because they are done in his presence.

28. According to the Hebrew, the word "Sanctus"—Holy—signifies here merciful.

29. According to the Hebrew, the word "Electus"—Elect—signifies here good. "Cum perverso perverteris." Thou wilt treat the perverse man as his perversity deserves.

30. "Oculos superborum." The text is thus expressed, because it is especially by their eyes that the proud show their pride.

31. "Lucernam meam." My lamp, that is to say, my mind, which without Thee would ever be deprived of light. "Illumina tenebras meas." Enlighten my darkness by the light of Thy truth.

32. "Transgrediar murum." I shall leap over the walls, that is to say, I shall overcome the difficulties that I shall have to meet in Thy service.

33. The path that God teaches me to keep is free from every defect or from every difficulty; his promises are tried by fire, that is to say, they are sincere and true.

34. "Quis Deus." The translation from the Hebrew gives: Quis Deus . . . Quis petra; . . . this signifies: Where shall we find a support so firm as that which we have in our God?

35. "Posuit immaculatam viam meam." He has given me the strength to pass my days free from all stain of sin.

36. He has perfected my feet by rendering them swift like those of the hart; and he has placed me on the tops of the mountains, in order to withdraw me from the hands of my enemies.

40. "Non sunt infirmata vestigia mea." St. Jerome's rendering is: Non deficient tali mei, that is, My ankles have not failed.

41, 42. This means: I have said, O Lord! relying on Thy help: I will pursue, etc.

47, 48. These verses and those that follow are properly applicable to our divine Redeemer. "Populus quem non cognovi." The Gentiles.

49. My natural subjects, whom I called my children, are alienated from me, and have deceived me by pretending to serve me; they have become strangers to me, and are grown old, by becoming (according to the Hebrew text) like dry withered leaves; they have turned aside from the straight paths that they trod before.—This may well be understood of Jesus Christ speaking of the Jewish people, who had become unfaithful to him.

50. “Exaltetur Deus salutis meæ.” May God be ever exalted, he who is the whole hope of my salvation.

53. Here it is evidently Jesus Christ who is speaking of his victories over the world and the devil.

54. We must here remark that Jesus Christ is called David by Ezeckiel and by the other prophets; and therefore the psalmist concludes by thanking the heavenly Father for all the graces bestowed upon his Son, and upon all the faithful that are his followers.

Psalms of the Third Nocturn.

PSALM I. OF THE THIRD NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm we hear exalted the perfections of God, the sanctity of his law, and the magnificence of his works. In the spiritual sense it is to Jesus Christ and his Apostles that all these praises apply, according to St. Augustine, Bellarmine, Rotigni, Malvenda, Tirinus, and Gordona.

1. CÆLI enarrant gloriam Dei, et opera manuum ejus annuntiat firmamentum.

1. THE heavens show forth the glory of God, and the firmament declareth the work of his hands.

2. Dies diei eructat verbum, et nox nocti indicat scientiam.

2. Day to day uttereth speech, and night to night showeth knowledge.

3. Non sunt loquelæ, neque sermones, quorum non audiantur voces eorum.

3. There are no speeches nor languages, where their voices are not heard.

4. In omnem terram exivit sonus eorum: et in fines orbis terræ verba eorum.

4. Their sound hath gone forth into all the earth: and their words unto the ends of the world.

5. In sole posuit tabernaculum suum: et ipse tamquam sponsus procedens de thalamo suo:

5. He hath set his tabernacle in the sun: and he as a bridegroom coming out of his bride chamber,

2. Each day produces or communicates for the day following and night the succeeding night, the manner of praising God; so that the heavens are unceasingly publishing the glory of the Most High.

3, 4: This accords with the command that our Lord gave to his Apostles: Euntes ergo docete omnes gentes—Going, therefore, teach ye all nations (Matt. xxviii. 19). And St. Paul, speaking of the preaching of the New Law by the ministry of the Apostles, says: Numquid non audierunt? Et quidem in omnem terram exivit sonus eorum, et in fines orbis terræ verba eorum—Have they not heard? Yea, verily: their sound hath gone forth into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the whole world (Rom. x. 18).

5. “In sole posuit tabernaculum suum.” The Lord has placed his pavilion in the sun, as being the principal part of the heavens. This explanation which Bellarmine gives does not please Mattei; he prefers the sense of the Hebrew text, namely: Soli posuit tentorium in eis—He has set in them a pavilion for the sun. But Bellarmine observes that the version of the Septuagint, which the Vulgate has followed, says, as above, that God has set his pavilion in the sun; now we should here prefer the interpretation of the Septuagint, because we may reasonably believe that at that time the Hebrew text was more correct than it is at the present day.

8. ¹ The law of the Lord is beautiful, without a defect, so that it converts souls or withdraws them from evil and from error. It is his testimony, that is to say, it makes us know his will; it is faithful in its promises, and it renders wise the little ones, that is to say, those that are docile and those that willingly submit to his precepts.

9. “Justitiæ Domini.” The commandments of God. “Illuminans oculos.” This law is full of a heavenly light, which enlightens the mind: the mind is the eye of the soul.

10. “Timor Domini sanctus, permanens in sæculum sæculi.” The divine law, which teaches holy fear, is permanent as to the eternal reward that it promises to him who observes it. “Judicia.” The precepts.

11. The divine precepts are more agreeable to virtuous souls than anything in this world.

13. “Delicta quis intelligit?” What man is there that knows all the sins, or, according to the translation of St. Jerome, all the errors into which we are exposed to fall, so as to be able to avoid them? “Ab alienis parce servo tuo.” Do not permit Thy servant to associate with those that have strange, that is, bad manners. St. Jerome translates: A superbis quoque libera servum tuum—From the proud deliver Thy servant.

14. If I do not let my sins² get the mastery over me, then I shall be free from every fault, and pure especially from grievous sins.

15. My word, or my prayers will be agreeable to Thee as well as my meditations, which I shall ever make in Thy presence.

16. It is Thou that aidest me in need and deliverest me in danger.

PSALM II. OF THE THIRD NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XIX. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm is a prayer which the people address to God for the success of the arms of David. But Bellarmine and Rotigni think that this psalm and the two following psalms, that is, the XX. and the XXI. of the psalter, refer to the victories of Jesus Christ over the devil and the persecutors of the Church.

1. EXAUDIAT te Dominus in die tribulationis: protegat te nomen Dei Jacob.

2. Mittat tibi auxilium de sancto: et de Sion tueatur te.

3. Memor sit omnis sacrificii tui: et holocaustum tuum pingue fiat.

4. Tribuat tibi secundum cor tuum: et omne consilium tuum confirmet.

5. Lætabimur in salutari tuo:

1. MAY the Lord hear thee in the day of tribulation: may the name of the God of Jacob protect thee.

2. May he send thee help from the sanctuary: and defend thee out of Sion.

3. May he be mindful of all thy sacrifices: and may thy whole burnt-offering be made fat.

4. May he give thee according to thy own heart: and confirm all thy counsels.

5. We will rejoice in thy sal-et in nomine Dēi nostri magnificabimur.

6. Impleat Dominus omnes petitiones tuas: nunc cognovi quoniam saluum fecit Dominus Christum suum.

7. Exaudiet illum de cœlo sancto suo: in potentatibus salus dexteræ ejus.

8. Hi in curribus, et hi in equis: nos autem in nomine Domini Dei nostri invocabimus.

9. Ipsi obligati sunt, et ceciderunt: nos autem surreximus et erecti sumus.

10. Domine saluum fac regem, et exaudi nos in die, qua invocaverimus te.

vation: and in the name of our God we shall be exalted.

6. The Lord fulfil all thy petitions: now have I known that the Lord hath saved his anointed.

7. He will hear him from his holy heaven: the salvation of his right hand is in powers.

8. Some trust in chariots, and some in horses: but we will call upon the name of the Lord our God.

9. They are bound, and have fallen: but we are risen, and are set upright.

10. O Lord save the king: and hear us in the day that we shall call upon thee.

3. "Holocaustum tuum pingue fiat." May thy holocaust be agreeable to the Lord, as are the sacrifices of fat animals (Dan. iii. 40).

5. "Salutari tuo." Thy safety and thy victory. "Magnificabimur." Expression conformable to the Septuagint version. According to present Hebrew version, we would have: Vexillum attolemus: We shall lift up our banner. That is to say: We shall celebrate the victory that saves and exalts us by proclaiming the glory of the Lord, to whom it is due.

6. "Christum suum." His Christ, or the King whom he hath anointed with his grace.

7. "In potentatibus salus dexteræ ejus." St. Jerome's translation is: In fortitudinibus salutis dexteræ ejus.

8. Our enemies put their trust in terrestrial goods and means; but we will invoke the name of our God, who gives victory to those that trust in him.

9. "Obligati sunt." That is to say, according to the Septuagint version: Colligati sunt, quasi compedibus—They are tied down by earthly affections, as by so many fetters.

PSALM III. OF THE THIRD NOCTURN, WHICH IS PSALM XX. OF THE PSALTER.

Hymn of thanksgiving which the people address to God for the victories granted to the arms of David. According to Bellarmine, this psalm is understood in the spiritual sense of the victory which Jesus Christ gained through the merits of his Passion over sin and over hell.

1. DOMINE in virtute tua lætabitur rex; et super salutare tuum exultabit vehementer.

2. Desiderium cordis ejus tribuisti ei: et voluntate labiorum ejus non fraudasti eum.

3. Quoniam prævenisti eum in benedictionibus dulcedinis: posuisti in capite ejus coronam de lapide pretioso.

4. Vitam petlit a te: et tribuisti ei longitudinem dierum in sæculum, et in sæculum sæculi.

5. Magna est gloria ejus in salutari tuo: gloriam et magnum decorem impones super eum.

6. Quoniam dabis eum in benedictionem in sæculum sæculi: lætificabis eum in gaudio cum vultu tuo.

7. Quoniam rex sperat in Domino: et in misericordia Altissimi non commovebitur.

8. Inveniatur manus tua omnibus inimicis tuis: dextera tua inveniatur omnes, qui te oderunt.

9. Pones eos ut clibanum ignis in tempore vultus tui: Dominus in ira sua conturbabit eos, et devorabit eos ignis.

10. Fructum eorum de terra perdes: et semen eorum a filiis nominum.

1. IN thy strength, O Lord, the king shall joy: and in thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly.

2. Thou hast given him his heart's desire: and hast not withholden from him the will of his lips.

3. For thou hast prevented him with blessings of sweetness: Thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones.

4. He asked life of thee: and thou hast given him length of days forever and ever.

5. His glory is great in thy salvation: glory and great beauty shalt thou lay upon him.

6. For thou shalt give him to be a blessing forever and ever: Thou shalt make him joyful in gladness with thy countenance.

7. For the king hopeth in the Lord: and through the mercy of the most High he shall not be moved.

8. Let thy hand be found by all thy enemies: let thy right hand find out all them that hate thee.

9. Thou shalt make them as an oven of fire, in the time of thy anger: the Lord shall trouble them in his wrath, and fire shall devour them.

10. Their fruit shalt thou destroy from the earth: and their seed from among the children of men.

11. Quoniam declinaverunt in te mala: cogitaverunt consilia, quæ non potuerunt stabilire.

12. Quoniam pones eos dorsum: in reliquiis tuis præparabis vultum eorum.

13. Exaltare Domine in virtute tua: cantabimus et psallemus virtutes tuas.

11. For they have intended evils against thee; they have devised counsels which they have not been able to establish.

12. For thou shalt make them turn their back: in thy remnants thou shalt prepare their face.

13. Be thou exalted, O Lord, in thy own strength: we will sing and praise thy powers.

1. "Super salutare tuum." On account of the salvation that he has received from Thee.

2. "Voluntate labiorum ejus non fraudasti eum." Thou hast not failed to hear his prayers.¹

6. "Dabis eum in benedictionem." According to the Hebrew: Pones eum benedictiones—Thou hast set him to be blessings. These words can be verified only in Jesus Christ, the eternal source of blessings, which all receive through him.²

8. "Inveniatur manus tua omnibus inimicis tuis." According to the Hebrew: Inveniet manus tua omnes inimicos tuos—Thy hand shall find all Thy enemies.

9. "In tempore vultus tui." When Thy angry face shall make them see Thy just wrath.

11. Most justly wilt Thou deal with them, since they have endeavored to heap evils upon Thee by the many outrages that they have done Thee.

12. This verse is very obscure, and has given rise to different interpretations. Theodoret and Euthymius explain it thus: "Pones eos dorsum." Thou shalt put them to flight by making them turn their back. "In reliquiis tuis." That is, in their posterity. "Præparabis vultum." Thou wilt show Thy angry face. Bellarmine explains it thus: "Pone eos dorsum"—Thou shalt make them as though they were nothing but back, a part of the body exposed to the scourger. “In reliquiis tuis præparabis vultum eorum.” You will cause that their sight, for their greater punishment, be fixed in considering Thy elect, who are the remnant reserved and saved by Thee. Mattei, Menochius, Bossuet, and Tirinus take this whole verse all in one sense, and explain it thus: Thou wilt discharge Thy arrows so thick in their face that they will be forced to turn and take to flight. Let the reader choose whichever of these explanations he pleases; the last, however, agrees best with the Hebrew text, according to which, instead of the words “In reliquiis tuis,” it is In nervis; signifying the string of the bow on which the arrow is placed.¹

¹ These two verses correspond to three verses of the preceding psalm (4, 5, and 6). In the following verses it is said that God not only heard the desires and the prayers of David, but that he anticipated and afterwards surpassed them by such favors as could not have their entire fulfilment except in the person of Jesus Christ, who was himself the greatest of the blessings granted to the holy king.

² Others understand: Thou wilt cause him to be blessed in all ages.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM XXVI. OF THE PSALTER.

David persecuted by Saul and surrounded by every kind of peril shows no less courage by the confidence that he has in the divine protection; he sighs at the same time after the sight of the Tabernacle. He is a figure of the just man who in the midst of the enemies of his salvation longs to leave this world, and to enter into the heavenly kingdom.

1. DOMINUS illuminatio mea, et salus mea, quem timebo?

2. Dominus protector vitæ meæ, a quo trepidabo?

3. Dum appropiant super me nocentes, ut edant carnes meas:

4. Qui tribulant me inimici mei, ipsi infirmati sunt, et ce-ciderunt.

5. Si consistant adversum me castra, non timebit cor meum.

6. Si exurgat adversum me prælium, in hoc ego sperabo.

7. Unam petii a Domino, hanc requiram, ut inhabitem in domo Domini omnibus die-bus vitæ meæ.

8. Ut videam voluptatem Domini, et visitem templum ejus.

9. Quoniam abscondit me in tabernaculo suo: in die malorum protexit me in abscondito tabernaculi sui.

10. In petra exaltavit me: et nunc exaltavit caput meum super inimicos meos.

1. THE Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear?

2. The Lord is the protector of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?

3. Whilst the wicked draw near against me, to eat my flesh:

4. My enemies that trouble me, have themselves been weakened, and have fallen.

5. If armies, in camp should stand together against me, my heart shall not fear.

6. If a battle should rise up against me, in this will I be confident.

7. One thing I have asked of the Lord, this will I seek after, that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life:

8. That I may see the delight of the Lord, and may visit his temple.

9. For he hath hidden me in his tabernacle: in the day of evils, he hath protected me in the secret place of his tabernacle.

10. He hath exalted me upon a rock: and now he hath lifted up my head above my enemies.

10. He has placed me as upon a high rock, so that now I hold my head above my enemies; that is to say, I have overcome them.¹

11. "Circuivi, et immolavi." In the Hebrew this is in the future, which agrees better with the rest of the verse. The sense, therefore, is: United with the priests, I will go around the altar, and will offer.

12. "Vocem meam, qua clamavi ad te." The urgent prayer that I have addressed to Thee.

13. In the past, my heart, or my desire, which is well known to Thee, has already told Thee that my eyes have sought Thee; for the future, I will try to be always in Thy presence, to obey Thee and to love Thee.

14. "In ira." In wrath, as a punishment for my sins.

17. ² Teach me, O God! to walk according to Thy law, and guide me in the right path that leads to Thee, in order that I may not fall into the hands of my enemies.

18. "Mentita est iniquitas sibi." Their iniquity has lied, that is, has been injurious to themselves.

19. I hope to enjoy in the land of the living—that is, in the kingdom of the blessed, where death has no access—the good things that the Lord has prepared for those that love him.

20. "Sustine Dominum." Expect the help of the Lord; he will never fail Thee.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XXVII. OF THE PSALTER.

David, in the midst of persecutions, implores the help of God, and foretells his triumph.³ There is not one among the faithful who cannot apply this psalm to himself in view of the temptations and perils of which his life here upon earth is so full.

1. AD te Domine clamabo, Deus meus ne sileas a me: nequando taceas a me, et as-	1. UNTO thee will I cry, O Lord, O my God, be not thou silent to me: lest if thou be

² "Legem pone mihi . . . in via tua." In the Hebrew, according to Bellarmine: Doce me; . . . and according to St. Jerome: Ostende mihi . . . viam tuam.

³ Bellarmine gives several reasons showing that this psalm does not apply to David, but to Jesus Christ on the cross, according to the explanation of St. Augustine and St. Jerome. It is, he says, an abridgment of Psalm xxi.

similabor descendentibus in lacum.

2. Exaudi Domine vocem deprecationis meæ dum oro ad te: dum extollo manus meas ad templum sanctum tuum.

3. Ne simul trabas me cum peccatoribus: et cum operantibus iniquitatem ne perdas me.

4. Qui loquuntur pacem cum proximo suo, mala autem in cordibus eorum.

5. Da illis secundum opera eorum, et secundum nequitiam adinventionum ipsorum,

6. Secundum opera manuum eorum tribue illis: redde retributionem eorum ipsis.

7. Quoniam non intellexerunt opera Domini, et in opera manuum ejus destrues illos, et non ædificabis eos.

8. Benedictus Dominus: quoniam exaudivit vocem deprecationis meæ.

9. Dominus adjutor meus, et protector meus: in ipso speravit cor meum, et adjutus sum.

10. Et refluoruit caro mea: et ex voluntate mea confitebor ei.

11. Dominus fortitudo plebis suæ: et protector salvationum Christi sui est.

12. Salvum fac populum tuum Domine, et benedic hereditati tuæ: et rege eos, et extolle illos usque in æternum.

silent to me, I become like them that go down into the pit.

2. Hear, O Lord, the voice of my supplication, when I pray to thee: when I lift up my hands to thy holy temple.

3. Draw me not away together with the wicked: and with the workers of iniquity destroy me not:

4. Who speak peace with their neighbor, but evils are in their hearts.

5. Give them according to their works: and according to the wickedness of their inventions.

6. According to the works of their hands give thou to them: render to them their reward.

7. Because they have not understood the works of the Lord, and the operations of his hands: thou shalt destroy them, and shalt not build them up.

8. Blessed be the Lord: for he hath heard the voice of my supplication.

9. The Lord is my helper and my protector: in him hath my heart confided, and I have been helped.

10. And my flesh hath flourished again: and with my will I will give praise to him.

11. The Lord is the strength of his people and the protector of the salvation of his anointed.

12. Save O Lord, thy people, and bless thy inheritance: and rule them and exalt them forever.

1. "Ad te, Domine, clamabo." O Lord! I will not cease to cry to Thee to obtain help. "Ne sileas a me." Keep not silence, as if Thou didst not hear my prayers. "Assimilabor descendentibus in lacum." I shall become like those that find themselves shut up in the tomb, whence their voice can no longer be heard.

3. "Ne simul trahas me." Do not permit me to fall over precipices.

5. "Secundum nequitiam adinventionum ipsorum." According to their malice, which invents artifices to injure others.

6. "Redde retributionem eorum ipsis." Cause the evil that they are plotting for others to fall upon themselves.¹

7. "Non intellexerunt." They did not wish to understand.² "Non ædificabis eos." Thou wilt not restore them to their former state.

10. Through the help that I have received, my flesh, that is, my weakness, has regained its vigor;³ therefore I will always sing with all my heart the praises of my Saviour.

11. "Christi sui." Christ, or the anointed of the Lord. David thus calls himself, as having received from God the royal unction.

¹ 5, 6. "Da . . . Tribue . . . Redde . . ." These words are not an imprecation, but a prophecy of what is to happen; this the following verse explains and proves.

² "Et in opera." According to the Hebrew and the Greek, the preposition in is redundant. St. Jerome's translation has: Et opus. On this passage Bellarmine makes an excellent reflection: All evils, he says, come from not applying ourselves to knowing and understanding the wonders worked by the Lord in the creation, redemption, and the government of the human race. If we attentively consider these things we could hardly refrain from loving God. Hence those words of our Saviour to Jerusalem: Si cognovisses et tu, et quidem in hac die tua quæ ad pacem tibi! . . . Non relinquent in te lapidem super lapidem, eo quod non cognoveris tempus visitationis tuæ—If thou also hadst known, and that in this thy day, the things that are to thy peace! . . . They shall not leave in thee a stone upon a stone; because thou hast not known the time of thy visitation (Luke, xix. 42). And St. Paul says: Si enim cognovissent, nunquam Dominum gloriæ crucifixissent—If they had known it, they would never have crucified the Lord of glory (1 Cor. ii. 8). Hence also: Desolatione desolata est omnis terra, quia nullus est qui recogitet corde—With desolation is all the land made desolate: because there is none that considereth in the heart (Jer. xii. 11).

³ "Refloruit caro mea." These words, applied to Jesus Christ, admirably foretell his resurrection.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM XXVIII. OF THE PSALTĒR.

The prophet here invites the people to come to adore God in his Temple.¹ Under this figure the Gentiles are invited to receive the Gospel, which had to be preached in the midst of persecutions, here represented by the winds, the tempests, and the thunders, which are mentioned in this psalm.

1. AFFERTE Domino filii Dei: afferte Domino filios arietum:

2. Afferte Domino gloriam et honorem, afferte Domino gloriam nomini ejus: adorete Dominum in atrio sancto ejus.

3. Vox Domini super aquas, Deus majestatis intonuit: Dominus super aquas multas.

4. Vox Domini in virtute: vox Domini in magnificentia.

5. Vox Domini confringentis cedros: et confringet Dominus cedros Libani:

6. Et comminuet eas tamquam vitulum Libani: et dilectus quemadmodum filius unicornium.

7. Vox Domini intercidentis flammam ignis: vox Domini concutientis desertum: et commovebit Dominus desertum Cades.

8. Vox Domini præparantis cervos, et revelabit condensa: et in templo ejus omnes dicent gloriam.

1. BRING to the Lord, O ye children of God: bring to the Lord the offspring of rams.

2. Bring to the Lord glory and honor, bring to the Lord glory to his name: adore ye the Lord in his holy court.

3. The voice of the Lord is upon the waters; the God of majesty hath thundered, the Lord upon many waters.

4. The voice of the Lord is in power; the voice of the Lord in magnificence.

5. The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars: yea, the Lord shall break the cedars of Libanus:

6. And shall reduce them to pieces, as a calf of Libanus, and as the beloved son of unicorns.

7. The voice of the Lord divideth the flame of fire: the voice of the Lord shaketh the desert: and the Lord shall shake the desert of Cades.

8. The voice of the Lord prepareth the stags: and he will discover the thick woods: and in his temple all shall speak his glory.

¹ Title of the psalm: Psalmus David, in consummationi Tabernaculi. St. Jerome thence infers that David composed this psalm when he caused the Ark of the Covenant to be placed in the tabernacle erected on Mount Sion (2 Kings, vi. 17). This tabernacle being a figure of the Church, the prophet raises his thoughts from the figure to the reality, and announces the preaching of the Gospel by the Voice of the Lord, which nothing can resist.

9. Dominus diluvium inhabitare facit: et sedebit Dominus rex in æternum.

9. The Lord maketh the flood to dwell: and the Lord shall sit king forever.

10. Dominus virtutem populo suo dabit: Dominus benedicet populo suo in pace.

10. The Lord will give strength to his people: the Lord will bless his people with peace.

1. "Filios arietum." Young rams, to offer them to him in sacrifice.

3. The Lord makes his voice heard upon the waters during the storms; in the noise that is then produced by the abundance of the waters, mingled with peals of thunder, he makes the voice of his majesty heard.

4. "In virtute." According to the Hebrew: In potentia—In power. The Lord makes his voice known in his power and in his grandeur; for when he wills he makes the earth and the sea tremble.

5. "Cedros Libani." That is to say: The loftiest and strongest trees, which it destroys by the violence of the tempests.

6. "Comminuet." According to the Hebrew: Saltare faciet—He shall make them leap as a calf that goes bounding over the mountain of Libanon. "Dilectus." The unicorn, when little, is admired for its beauty.

7. "Intercidentis flammam." St. Jerome's translation is: Dividens flammam; that is to say, the thunder darts a number of lightning flashes one after the other. "Desertum Cades." A vast desert of Arabia.

8. "Præparantis cervos." This means, according to some interpreters, that the thunder so terrifies the deer that parturition is hastened. These authors rest on the Hebrew text, which is thus translated: Vox Domini parere faciens cervas—The voice of the Lord makes hinds bring forth. But I prefer the interpretation of Mattei, who says that the voice of the Lord, or the thunder, so frightens the deer as to drive them from their thickets; and he observes that the Vulgate does not use the word Cervas, but Cervos. "Et revelabit condensa; et in templo ejus omnes dicent gloriam." That is to say, the Lord lays open to daylight the thick forests by shivering and uprooting the trees with his thunderbolts; after which all men will go to render homage to the glory or to the power of the Most High in his Temple.

9. God makes the deluge of waters that inundate the earth to dwell, to abide, or last; and he himself, as Lord and eternal King seated upon the clouds, disposes everything for his glory.

10. The Lord will give to his people the virtue of trusting in his protection;¹ and then blessing them he will fill them with peace.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM XXIX. OF THE PSALTER.

Thanksgiving addressed by David to God for having delivered him from a dangerous illness.² This psalm is very suitable to every Christian who, having been assailed by his passions, is in danger of falling into temptations.

I. EXALTABO te Domine quoniam suscepisti me: nec delectasti inimicos meos super me.

I. I WILL extol thee, O Lord for thou hast upheld me: and hast not made my enemies to rejoice over me.

¹ “Virtutem.” By this word some understand the force of resisting enemies and of conquering them. Such is the conclusion of this poetical picture, in which the psalmist shows us in a few strokes the marvellous effects of the voice of God, which calls down the tempest and the thunder upon the elements of the physical world—water, air, fire, and earth,—and then upon the plants, animals, and men, to induce the latter to recognize the Providence of God, and to render him the homage that is due to him. In a figurative sense, as we may see in detail in Bellarmine, this Voice of God represents the preaching of the Gospel. We add that the Voice of the Lord (verses 3 and 8) prefigure in a perfect manner the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost, who descended upon the Apostles with a great noise under the forms of tongues of fire, as is so well expressed by these words of verse 7: Vox Domini intercidentis flammam ignis.

² So it is understood by several interpreters, such as Father De Carrières. But the psalm bears the title: Psalmus cantici, in dedicatione domus David—A psalm of a canticle at the dedication of David’s house. This means, according to others, that David composed this psalm for the ceremony of his entrance into the palace that he had built for himself at Jerusalem (2 Kings, v. 11). As to the words Sanaste me (v. 2), they understand them of the deliverance from mental sufferings with which the psalmist had been afflicted in the midst of the mortal dangers that he had encountered. One may see in this psalm a picture of the

2. Domine Deus meus clamavi ad te, et sanasti me.

3. Domine eduxisti ab inferno animam meam: salvasti me a descendentibus in lacum.

4. Psallite Domino sancti ejus: et confitemini memoriæ sanctitatis ejus.

5. Quoniam ira in indignatione ejus: et vita in voluntate ejus.

6. Ad vesperum demorabitur fletus: et ad matutinum lætitia.

7. Ego autem dixi in abundantia mea: Non movebor in æternum.

8. Domine in voluntate tua, præstitisti decori meo virtutem.

9. Avertisti faciem tuam a me, et factus sum conturbatus.

10. Ad te Domine clamabo: et ad Deum meum deprecabor.

11. Quæ utilitas in sanguine meo, dum descendo in corruptionem?

12. Numquid confitebitur tibi pulvis, aut annuntiabit veritatem tuam?

13. Audivit Dominus, et misertus est mei: Dominus factus est adjutor meus.

14. Convertisti planctum meum in gaudium mihi: conscidisti saccum meum, et circumdedisti me lætitia:

15. Ut cantet tibi gloria mea, et non compungar: Domine Deus meus in æternum confitebor tibi.

2. O Lord my God, I have cried to thee, and thou hast healed me.

3. Thou, O Lord, hast brought forth my soul from hell: thou hast saved me from them that go down into the pit.

4. Sing to the Lord, O you his saints: and give praise to the memory of his holiness.

5. For wrath is in his indignation; and life in his good will.

6. In the evening weeping shall have place, and in the morning gladness:

7. And in my abundance I said: I shall never be moved.

8. O Lord, in thy favor, thou gavest strength to my beauty.

9. Thou turnedst away thy face from me, and I became troubled.

10. To thee, O Lord, will I cry: and I will make supplication to my God.

11. What profit is there in my blood, whilst I go down to corruption?

12. Shall dust confess to thee, or declare thy truth?

13. The Lord hath heard, and hath had mercy on me: The Lord became my helper.

14. Thou hast turned for me my mourning into joy: thou hast cut my sackcloth, and hast compassed me with gladness.

15. To the end that my glory may sing to thee; and I may not regret: O Lord my God, I will give praise to thee forever.

vicissitudes of human life, over which God ever watches as a father and as a judge. In a higher sense, it is applicable to our Saviour in his resurrection; hence it forms part of the Office of Holy Saturday.

15. “Non compungar.” Let not my sadness hinder me any longer from praising Thee. According to the Hebrew: Non taceat. That is to say: Let not my glory cease to praise Thee. “In æternum confitebor tibi.” I will never cease to celebrate Thy glories, and I will ever thank Thee for Thy benefits.

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM XXX. OF THE PSALTER.

Forced by his son Absalom to leave Jerusalem, David asks help of God. This psalm is perfectly suited to a Christian who sees himself assailed by temptations, and who, animated by confidence, asks God for aid and protection.¹ It must be remarked that our Lord Jesus Christ makes to himself the application of the sixth verse of this psalm: a proof that the persecution of David prefigures that which our Redeemer had to endure at the hands of the Jews.

1. IN te Domine speravi, non confundar in æternum:
in justitia tua libera me:

2. Inclina ad me aurem tuam, accelera ut eruas me.

3. Esto mihi in Deum pro-tectorem: et in domum refugii, ut salvum me facias.

4. Quoniam fortitudo mea, et refugium meum es tu: et propter nomen tuum deduces me, et enutries me.

5. Educes me de laqueo hoc, quem absconderunt mihi: quoniam tu es protector meus.

6. In manus tuas commendo spiritum meum: redemisti me
Domine Deus veritatis.

7. Odisti observantes vani-tates, supervacue.

8. Ego autem in Domino speravi: exultabo, et lætabor in misericordia tua.

9. Quoniam respexisti humilitàtem meam, salvasti de ne-cessitatibus animam meam.

10. Nec conclusisti me in

1. IN thee, O Lord, have I hoped, let me never be confounded: deliver me in thy justice.

2. Bow down thy ear to me:
make haste to deliver me.

3. Be thou unto me a God, a protector: and a house of refuge, to save me.

4. For thou art my strength and my refuge: and for thy name's sake thou wilt lead me, and nourish me.

5. Thou wilt bring me out of this snare, which they have hid for me: for thou art my protector.

6. Into thy hands I commend my spirit: thou hast redeemed me O Lord the God of truth.

7. Thou hast hated them that regard vanities, to no purpose.

8. But I have hoped in the Lord: I will be glad and rejoice in thy mercy.

9. For thou hast regarded my humility, thou hast saved my soul out of distresses.

10. And thou hast not shut manibus inimici: statuisti in loco spatioso pedes meos.

11. Misèrere mei Domine quoniam tribulor: conturbatus est in ira oculus meus, anima mea, et venter meus:

12. Quoniam defecit in dolore vita mea: et anni mei in gemitibus.

13. Infirmata est in paupertate virtus mea: et ossa mea conturbata sunt.

14. Super omnes inimicos meos factus sum opprobrium et vicinis meis valde: et timor notis meis.

15. Qui videbant me, foras fugerunt a me: oblivioni datus sum, tamquam mortuus a corde.

16. Factus sum tamquam vas perditum: quoniam audivi vituperationem multorum commorantium in circuitu:

17. In eo dum convenirent simul adversum me, accipere animam meam consiliati sunt.

18. Ego autem in te speravi Domine: dixi: Deus meus es tu: in manibus tuis sortes meæ.

19. Eripe me de manu inimicorum meorum, et a persecutibus me.

20. Illustra faciem tuam super servum tuum, salvum me fac in misericordia tua: Domine non confundar, quoniam invocavi te.

21. Erubescant impii, et deducantur in infernum: muta fiant labia dolosa.

22. Quæ loquuntur adversus justum iniquitatem, in superbia, et in abusione.

23. Quam magna multitudo me up in the hands of the enemy: thou hast set my feet in a spacious place.

11. Have mercy on me, O Lord, for I am afflicted: my eye is troubled with wrath, my soul, and my belly:

12. For my life is wasted with grief: and my years in sighs.

13. My strength is weakened through poverty: and my bones are disturbed.

14. I am become a reproach among all my enemies, and very much to my neighbors: and a fear to my acquaintance.

15. They that saw me, without fled from me: I am forgotten as one dead from the heart.

16. I am become as a vessel that is destroyed: for I have heard the blame of many that dwell round about:

17. While they assembled together against me, they consulted to take away my life.

18. But I have put my trust in thee, O Lord: I said: Thou art my God: my lots are in thy hands.

19. Deliver me out of the hands of my enemies, and from them that persecute me.

20. Make thy face to shine upon thy servant, save me in thy mercy: let me not be confounded, O Lord, for I have called upon thee.

21. Let the wicked be ashamed, and be brought down to hell: let deceitful lips be made dumb.

22. Which speak iniquity against the just, with pride and abuse.

23. O how great is the muldulcedinis tuæ Domine, quam abscondisti timentibus te!

24. Perfecisti eis, qui sperant in te, in conspectu filiorum hominum.

25. Abscondes eos in abscondito faciei tuæ a conturbatione hominum.

26. Proteges eos in tabernaculo tuo a contradictione linguarum.

27. Benedictus Dominus: quoniam mirificavit misericordiam suam mihi in civitate munita.

28. Ego autem dixi in excessu mentis meæ: Projectus sum a facie oculorum tuorum.

29. Ideo exaudisti vocem orationis meæ, dum clamarem ad te.

30. Diligite Dominum omnes sancti ejus: quoniam veritatem requirit Dominus, et retribuet abundanter facientibus superbiam.

31. Viriliter agite, et confortetur cor vestrum, omnes qui speratis in Domino.

titude of thy sweetness, O Lord, which thou hast hidden for them that fear thee!

24. Which thou hast wrought for them that hope in thee, in the sight of the sons of men.

25. Thou shalt hide them in the secret of thy face, from the disturbance of men.

26. Thou shalt protect them in thy tabernacle, from the contradiction of tongues.

27. Blessed be the Lord, for he hath showed his wonderful mercy to me in a fortified city.

28. But I said in the excess of my mind: I am cast away from before thy eyes.

29. Therefore thou hast heard the voice of my prayer, when I cried to thee.

30. O love the Lord, all ye his saints: for the Lord will require truth, and will repay them abundantly that act proudly.

31. Do ye manfully, and let your heart be strengthened, all ye that hope in the Lord.

1. "In justitia tua libera me." Deliver me from confusion by Thy justice, according to which Thou punishest the guilty and protectest the innocent.

2. Incline Thy ear to my prayers, and hasten to deliver me from the peril in which I find myself.

4. Thou art my strength in temptations, and my refuge in persecutions; I hope that for the glory of Thy name Thou wilt lead me safe through all dangers, and provide for me in all my wants.

6. Into Thy hands I commit my life, because many other times Thou hast delivered me from death, Thou who art my Lord and my God, ever faithful in Thy promises. Some think that these words, and indeed the whole psalm, are to be understood of Jesus Christ, because before expiring he said on the cross: Pater, in manus tuas commendo spiritum meum. Bellar-

All you that serve the Lord, love him; for he will test your innocence, and he will know well how to defend those that love him, as he knows how to punish the proud with terrible torments.

PSALM VI., WHICH IS PSALM XXXI. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm teaches us what a happy life one leads when, having returned from wicked ways, one does penance; and, on the other hand, what an unhappy life one leads when one persists in remaining in sin.

1. BEATI, quorum remissæ sunt iniquitates: et quorum tecta sunt peccata.

2. Beatus vir, cui non imputavit Dominus peccatum nec est in spiritu ejus dolus.

3. Quoniam tacui, inveteraverunt ossa mea, dum clamarem tota die.

4. Quoniam die ac nocte gravata est super me manus tua: conversus sum in ærumna mea, dum configitur spina.

5. Delictum meum cognitum tibi feci, et injustitiam meam non abscondi.

6. Dixi: Confitebor adversum me injustitiam meam Domino: et tu remisisti impietatem peccati mei.

7. Pro hac orabit ad te omnis sanctus, in tempore opportuno.

8. Verumtamen in diluvio aquarum multarum, ad eum non approximabunt.

9. Tu es refugium meum a tribulatione, quæ circumdedit me: exultatio mea erue me a circumdantibus me.

10. Intellectum tibi dabo, et instruam te in via hac, qua gradieris: firmabo super te oculos meos.

11. Nolite fieri sicut equus

1. BLESSED are they whose iniquities are forgiven: and whose sins are covered.

2. Blessed is the man to whom the Lord hath not imputed sin, and in whose spirit there is no guile.

3. Because I was silent, my bones grew old, whilst I cried out all the day long.

4. For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me: I am turned in my anguish, whilst the thorn is fastened.

5. I have acknowledged my sin to thee: and my injustice I have not concealed.

6. I said: I will confess against myself my injustice to the Lord: and thou hast forgiven the wickedness of my sin.

7. For this shall every one that is holy pray to thee, in a seasonable time.

8. And yet in a flood of many waters, they shall not come nigh unto him.

9. Thou art my refuge from the trouble which hath encompassed me: my joy, deliver me from them that surround me.

10. I will give thee understanding, and I will instruct thee in this way, in which thou shalt go: I will fix my eyes upon thee.

11. Do not become like the et mulus, quibus non est intellectus.

12. In camo et fræno maxillas eorum constringe, qui non approximant ad te.

13. Multa flagella peccatoris, sperantem autem in Dōmino misericordia circumdabit.

14. Lætamini in Domino et exultate justi, et gloriamini omnes recti corde.

horse and the mule, who have no understanding.

12. With bit and bridle bind fast their jaws, who come not near unto thee.

13. Many are the scourges of the sinner, but mercy shall encompass him that hopeth in the Lord.

14. Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye just, and glory all ye right of heart.

1. "Quorum tecta sunt peccata." Whose sins have been covered, that is to say, blotted out. Protestants use these words, to prove, as they say, that sins, though forgiven by the mercy of God, are not removed from the soul, but are only covered, so that the stain of guilt remains in the soul, and that God always sees this stain; but he remits the penalty due, as if he did not see it. They add that God remits the sin only so far as he does not impute it to the sinner, according to what is said in the following verse: Beatus vir cui non imputavit Dominus peccatum—Blessed is the man to whom the Lord hath not imputed sin. But all this is false; for God, in forgiving sins, does not cover them, but for the merits of Jesus Christ he takes them away from the penitent soul, as holy Scripture says: Dominus quoque transtulit peccatum tuum—The Lord also hath taken away thy sins (2 Kings, xii. 13). Ecce Agnus Dei, ecce qui tollit peccatum mundi—Behold the Lamb of God, behold him who taketh away the sins of the world. Moreover, as the Council of Trent has declared, man is justified not only by the remission of sin, but by grace and inherent justice. And if it is said that God does not impute sin, this is, so far as he remits and blots it out, as the same Council also teaches (Sess. 6, de Justif. cap. 7, can. 11).

2. "Non imputavit peccatum." Has not imputed his sin, because he has forgiven it him. "Nec est in spiritu ejus dolus." He has sincerely repented of his fault.¹

3. I did not confess my sin, and this silence made me lament the whole day long, so that my bones have grown old; that is to say, my continual tears have weakened me, as if my bones had become old, or had lost their strength and were broken. St. Jerome's translation is: Attrita sunt ossa mea, in rugitu meo tota die—My bones are bruised so that the whole day I cried out through pain.

4. Thou hast afflicted me with justice; and hence when tribulation was piercing me like a sharp thorn, the only course I took was to return to Thee, my God, beseeching Thy mercy. "Configitur." According to the Hebrew: Configitur mihi.

6. When I had resolved to confess my injustice, Thou didst at once pardon me my enormous fault.

7. "Pro hac." That is to say, according to Bellarmine and Mattei: For this reason. "Omnis sanctus." According to the Chaldee: Omnis pius. That is to say: Every sinner truly penitent, who is holy and pious, because in stripping himself of his impiety he clothes himself with holiness by means of grace. "In tempore opportuno." In this life, when we can obtain forgiveness of our sins before death.

8. In the flood of many waters, that is to say, at death and at judgment, when scourges shall fall as a torrent upon the wicked, they shall then no more approach God, because there will then be no longer any pardon for them.¹

10. Here David makes the Lord speak to the penitent sinner. "Firmabo super te oculos meos." I will continue to look upon thee with a favorable eye, and to protect thee.

11. The Lord addresses these words to those that are hardened sinners.

12. Restrain, O Lord! those that keep far from Thee, and force them to obey Thee.²

² It is the prophet who asks for the suppression of the wicked. "In camo et freno." By the evils and afflictions that withdraw or remove the soul from sin.

in æternum manet: cogitationes cordis ejus in generatione et generationem.

12. Beata gens, cujus est Dominus, Deus ejus: populus, quem elegit in hæreditatem sibi.

13. De cœlo respexit Dominus: vidit omnes filios hominum.

14. De præparato habitaculo suo: respexit super omnes, qui habitant terram.

15. Qui finxit singillatim corda eorum: qui intelligit omnia opera eorum.

16. Non salvatur rex per multam virtutem: et gigas non salvabitur in multitudine virtutis suæ.

17. Fallax equus ad salutem: in abundantia autem virtutis suæ non salvabitur.

18. Ecce oculi Domini super metuentes eum: et in eis, qui sperant super misericordia ejus.

19. Ut eruat a morte animas eorum: et alat eos in fame.

20. Anima nostra sustinet Dominum: quoniam adjutor et protector noster est.

21. Quia in eo lætabitur cor nostrum: et in nomine sancto ejus speravimus.

22. Fiat misericordia tua Domine super nos: quemadmodum speravimus in te.

3. "Bene psallite ei in vociferatione." Bossuet understands the word Psallite in the sense of playing an instrument, and not in that of singing. Hence the phrase signifies: Let your voices be in accord with the sound of instruments.

5. He loves mercy and justice; but the earth is filled with mercy rather than justice.

Lord standeth forever: the thoughts of his heart to all generations.

12. Blessed is the nation, whose God is the Lord: the people whom he hath chosen for his inheritance.

13. The Lord hath looked from heaven: he hath beheld all the sons of men.

14. From his habitation which he hath prepared, he hath looked upon all that dwell on the earth.

15. He who hath made the hearts of every one of them: who understandeth all their works.

16. The king is not saved by a great army: nor shall the giant be saved by his own great strength.

17. Vain is the horse for safety: neither shall he be saved by the abundance of his strength.

18. Behold the eyes of the Lord are on them that fear him: and on them that hope in his mercy.

19. To deliver their souls from death: and feed them in famine.

20. Our soul waiteth for the Lord: for he is our helper and protector.

21. For in him our heart shall rejoice: and in his holy name we have trusted.

22. Let thy mercy, O Lord, be upon us: as we have hoped in thee.

6. "Spiritu oris ejus omnis virtus eorum." For "Virtus" St. Jerome translates Ornatus—adornment, by which is meant the stars. The sense, then, is, that God by a breath of his mouth, or by another word, adorned the heavens with stars.

7. "Ponens in thesauris abyssos." The Lord holds the abysses, or the waters of the sea, in his treasures; that is to say, in reserve, to dispose of them according to his good pleasure, either for doing good to men or for punishing them.

8. "Ab eò autem commoveantur." St. Jerome translates: Ipsum formident—Let them fear him.

9. Whatever God said, or wished, was done.

11. All the thoughts of his mind, which are hidden to us, shall always have their fulfilment.

12. Blessed is the nation that makes God, and not his creatures, its last end.

15. It is he that created their hearts, or their souls. "Singulatim." One by one, as Bellarmine, Menochius, and Tirinus explain it. "Intelligit omnia opera eorum." He well understands and penetrates all the motives of their actions.

PSALM VIII., WHICH IS PSALM XXXIII. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm the prophet exhorts us constantly to praise the Lord for his tender and continual care of his servants, and for the assistance that he deigns to grant us in all our tribulations.

1. BENEDICAM Dominum in omni tempore: semper laus ejus in ore meo.

2. In Domino laudabitur anima mea: audiant mansueti, et lætentur.

3. Magnificate Dominum mecum: et exaltemus nomen ejus in idipsum.

4. Exquisivi Dominum, et exaudivit me: et ex omnibus tribulationibus meis eripuit me.

5. Accedite ad eum, et illuminamini: et facies vestræ non confundentur.

6. Iste pauper clamavit, et Dominus exaudivit eum: et de omnibus tribulationibus ejus salvabit eum.

1. I WILL bless the Lord at all times: his praise shall be always in my mouth.

2. In the Lord shall my soul be praised: let the meek hear and rejoice.

3. O magnify the Lord with me: and let us extol his name together.

4. I sought the Lord and he heard me: and he delivered me from all my troubles.

5. Come ye to him and be enlightened: and your faces shall not be confounded.

6. This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him: and saved him out of all his troubles.

7. Immittet Angelus Domini in circuitu timentium eum: et eripiet eos.

8. Gustate, et videte quoniam suavis est Dominus: beatus vir, qui sperat in eo.

9. Timete Dominum omnes sancti ejus: quoniam non est inopia timentibus eum.

10. Divites eguerunt et esurierunt: inquirentes autem Dominum non minuentur omni bono.

11. Venite filii, audite me: timorem Domini docebo vos.

12. Quis est homo qui vult vitam: diligit dies videre bonos?

13. Prohibe linguam tuam a malo: et labia tua ne loquantur dolum.

14. Diverte a malo, et fac bonum: inquire pacem, et persequere eam.

15. Oculi Domini super justos: et aures ejus in preces eorum.

16. Vultus autem Domini super facientes mala: ut perdat de terra memoriam eorum.

17. Clamaverunt justi, et Dominus exaudivit eos: et ex omnibus tribulationibus eorum liberavit eos.

18. Juxta est Dominus iis qui tribulato sunt corde: et humiles spiritu salvabit.

19. Multæ tribulationes justorum: et de omnibus his liberabit eos Dominus.

20. Custodit Dominus omnia ossa eorum: unum ex his non conteretur.

21. Mors peccatorum pessi-

7. The angel of the Lord shall encamp round about them that fear him: and shall deliver them.

8. O taste, and see that the Lord is sweet: blessed is the man that hopeth in him.

9. Fear the Lord, all ye his saints: for there is no want to them that fear him.

10. The rich have wanted, and have suffered hunger: but they that seek the Lord shall not be deprived of any good.

11. Come, children, hearken to me: I will teach you the fear of the Lord.

12. Who is the man that desireth life: who loveth to see good days?

13. Keep thy tongue from evil: and thy lips from speaking guile.

14. Turn away from evil, and do good: seek after peace and pursue it.

15. The eyes of the Lord are upon the just: and his ears unto their prayers.

16. But the countenance of the Lord is against them that do evil things: to cut off the remembrance of them from the earth.

17. The just cried, and the Lord heard them: and delivered them out of all their troubles.

18. The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a contrite heart: and he will save the humble of spirit.

19. Many are the afflictions of the just: but out of them all will the Lord deliver them.

20. The Lord keepeth all their bones: not one of them shall be broken.

21. The death of the wicked

22. The Lord shall rescue from every danger the souls of his servants, and he will not permit any of them that trust in him to fail in their duties.

PSALM IX., WHICH IS PSALM XXXIV. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm is suitable to the just man who, seeing himself exposed here below to the temptations of the devil and to bad treatment on the part of impious men, seeks help from God.¹

1. JUDICA Domine nocentes me, expugna impugnantes me.

2. Apprehende arma et scutum: et exurge in adjutorium mihi.

3. Effunde frameam, et concludere adversus eos, qui persecuntur me: dic animæ meæ: Salus tua ego sum.

4. Confundantur et reverentur, quærentes animam meam.

5. Avertantur retrorsum, et confundantur cogitantes mihi mala.

6. Fiant tamquam pulvis ante faciem venti: et Angelus Domini coarctans eos.

7. Fiat via illorum tenebræ et lubricum: et Angelus Domini persequens eos.

8. Quoniam gratis absconderunt mihi interitum laquei sui: supervacue exprobraverunt animam meam.

9. Veniat illi laqueus, quem ignorat: et captio, quam abscondit, apprehendat eum: et in laqueum cadat in ipsum.

10. Anima autem mea exultabit in Domino: et delectabitur super salutari suo.

1. JUDGE thou O Lord them, that wrong me, overthrow them that fight against me:

2. Take hold of arms and shield: and rise up to help me.

3. Bring out the sword, and shut up the way against them that persecute me: say to my soul: I am thy salvation.

4. Let them be confounded and ashamed that seek after my soul.

5. Let them be turned back and be confounded that devise evil against me.

6. Let them become as dust before the wind: and let the angel of the Lord straiten them.

7. Let their way become dark and slippery: and let the angel of the Lord pursue them.

8. For without cause they have hidden their net for me unto destruction: without cause they have upbraided my soul.

9. Let the snare which he knoweth not come upon him: and let the net which he hath hidden catch him: and into that very snare let them fall.

10. But my soul shall rejoice in the Lord: and shall be delighted in his salvation.

¹ This psalm is admirably suited to Jesus Christ, the Just by excellence. Bellarmine even thinks, with St. Augustine and St. Jerome, that this is its principal meaning.

11. Omnia ossa mea dicent: Domine, quis similis tibi?

12. Eripiens inopem de manu fortiorum ejus: egenum et pauperem a diripientibus eum.

13. Surgentes testes iniqui, quæ ignorabam interrogabant me.

14. Retribuebant mihi mala pro bonis: sterilitatem animæ meæ.

15. Ego autem cum mihi molesti essent, induebar cilicio.

16. Humiliabam in jejuniis animam meam, et oratio mea in sinu meo convertetur.

17. Quasi proximum, et quasi fratrem nostrum, sic complacebam: quasi lugens et contristatus sic humiliabar.

18. Et adversum me lætati sunt, et convenerunt: congregata sunt super me flagella, et ignoravi.

19. Dissipati sunt, nec compuncti, tentaverunt me, subsannaverunt me subsannatione: frenduerunt super me dentibus suis.

20. Domine quando respicies? restitue animam meam a malignitate eorum, a leonibus unicum meum.

21. Confitebor tibi in ecclesia magna, in populo gravi laudabo te.

22. Non supergaudeant mihi qui adversantur mihi inique: qui oderunt me gratis, et annuunt oculis.

23. Quoniam mihi quidem pacifice loquebantur, et in iracundia terræ loquentes, dolos cogitabant.

11. All my bones shall say: Lord, who is like to thee?

12. Who deliverest the poor from the hand of them that are stronger than he: the needy and the poor from them that strip him.

13. Unjust witnesses rising up have asked me things I knew not.

14. They repaid me evil for good: to the depriving me of my soul.

15. But as for me, when they were troublesome to me, I was clothed with hair-cloth.

16. I humbled my soul with fasting: and my prayer shall be turned into my bosom.

17. As a neighbor and as an own brother, so did I please: as one mourning and sorrowful so was I humbled.

18. But they rejoiced against me, and came together: scourges were gathered together upon me, and I knew not why.

19. They were separated, and repented not, they tempted me, they scoffed at me with scorn: they gnashed upon me with their teeth.

20. Lord, when wilt thou look upon me? rescue thou my soul from their malice, my only one from the lions.

21. I will give thanks to thee in a great church, I will praise thee in a strong people.

22. Let not them that are my enemies wrongfully rejoice over me: who have hated me without cause, and wink with the eyes.

23. For they spoke indeed peaceably to me: and speaking in the anger of the earth they devised guile.

24. Et dilataverunt super me os suum: dixerunt: Euge, euge, viderunt oculi nostri.

25. Vidisti Domine, ne sileas: Domine ne discedas a me.

26. Exurge et intende iudicio meo: Deus meus, et Dominus meus in causam meam.

27. Judica me secundum justitiam tuam Domine Deus meus, et non supergaudeant mihi.

28. Non dicant in cordibus suis: Euge, euge, animæ nostræ: nec dicant: Devoravimus eum.

29. Erubescant et reverentur simul, qui gratulantur malis meis.

30. Induantur confusione et reverentia qui magna loquuntur super me.

31. Exultent et lætentur qui volunt justitiam meam: et dicant semper: Magnificetur Dominus, qui volunt pacem servi ejus.

32. Et lingua mea meditabitur justitiam tuam, tota die laudem tuam.

24. And they opened their mouth wide against me: they said: Well done, well done, our eyes have seen it.

25. Thou hast seen this, O Lord, be not thou silent; O Lord, depart not from me.

26. Arise, and be attentive to my judgment: to my cause, my God and my Lord.

27. Judge me, O Lord my God, according to thy justice, and let them not rejoice over me.

28. Let them not say in their hearts: It is well, it is well, to our mind: neither let them say: We have swallowed him up.

29. Let them blush, and be ashamed together, who rejoice at my evils.

30. Let them be clothed with confusion and shame, who speak great things against me.

31. Let them rejoice and be glad, who are well pleased with my justice: and let them say always: The Lord be magnified, who delights in the peace of his servant.

32. And my tongue shall meditate thy justice, thy praise all the day long.

1. "Judica." Punish as they deserve.

2. "Apprehende arma et scutum." Take Thy arms to strike my enemies, and Thy shield to protect me.¹

3. "Effunde." St. Jerome translates: Evagina—Unsheathe.

4. "Quærentes animam meam." Those that seek to take away my life.

6. "Angelus Domini." The angel, the minister of the Lord's justice.

¹ The shield of God is his goodness, his benevolence. Ut scuto bonæ voluntatis tuæ coronasti eum—Thou hast crowned us as with a shield of Thy goodwill (Ps. v. 15). It is also equity or justice: Sumet scutum inexpugnabile æquitatem—He will take equity for an invincible shield (Wisdom, v. 20).

20. When wilt Thou look upon me with an eye of pity? Ah! deliver me from the malice of those who, like lions, lie in wait for my life.¹

21. If Thou art propitious to my prayer, I will give Thee thanks on the solemn days, when the nation is assembled, and there in the presence of a great people I will praise Thy mercy.

22. "Annuunt oculis." To deceive me, they pretend to look upon me with a good eye. On these words St. Augustine thus comments: Quid est Annuentes oculis? Pronunciantes vultu, quod in corde non gestant—What is, Winking with the eyes? To express by look what one has not in the heart.

23. "In iracundia terræ." According to the anger of an earthly heart. Such is the explanation of Bellarmine and of Bossuet.

24. "Viderunt oculi nostri." We have seen what we wished to see.

25. "Ne sileas." Punish them.

27. "Non supergaudeant mihi." Let my enemies no, more rejoice over my misfortunes (see verse 22).

31. "Pacem servi ejus." Peace or prosperity of the servant of God. Thus Bellarmine, Malvenda, and others, following St. Jerome, explain the verse.

PSALM X., WHICH IS PSALM XXXV. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist here shows how great, on the one hand, is the malice of sinners, and, on the other hand, how great is the mercy of God set forth to convert them. It also at the same time makes known with what goodness our Lord treats the just.

1. DIXIT injustus, ut delinquat in semetipso: non est timor Dei ante oculos ejus.

1. THE unjust hath said within himself, that he would sin: there is no fear of God before his eyes.

2. Quoniam dolose egit in conspectu ejus: ut inveniatur iniquitas ejus ad odium.

2. For in his sight he hath done deceitfully: that his iniquity may be found unto hatred.

¹ "Unicam meam." My soul, or my life, which is my only one. According to Bellarmine: Recte dicitur unica, quasi unice dilecta—Rightly it is called the only one, as being the one alone beloved. See the same expression in Psalm xxi. 21.

3. Verba oris ejus iniquitas, et dolus: noluit intelligere ut bene ageret.

4. Iniquitatem meditatus est in cubili suo: astitit omni viæ non bonæ, malitiam autem non odivit.

5. Domine in cœlo misericordia tua: et veritas tua usque ad nubes.

6. Justitia tua sicut montes Dei: judicia tua abyssus multa.

7. Homines, et jumenta salvabis Domine: quemadmodum multiplicasti misericordiam tuam Deus.

8. Filii autem hominum, in tegmine alarum tuarum sperabunt.

9. Inebriabuntur ab ubertate domus tuæ: et torrente voluptatis tuæ potabis eos.

10. Quoniam apud te est fons vitæ: et in lumine tuo videbimus lumen.

11. Prætende misericordiam tuam scientibus te, et justitiam tuam his, qui recto sunt corde.

12. Non veniat mihi pes superbiæ: et manus peccatoris non moveat me.

13. Ibi ceciderunt qui operantur iniquitatem: expulsi sunt, nec potuerunt stare.

3. The words of his mouth are iniquity and guile: he would not understand that he might do well.

4. He hath devised iniquity on his bed: he hath set himself on every way that is not good, but evil he hath not hated.

5. O Lord, thy mercy is in heaven: and thy truth reacheth even to the clouds.

6. Thy justice is as the mountains of God: thy judgments are a great deep.

7. Men and beasts thou wilt preserve, O Lord: O how hast thou multiplied thy mercy, O God!

8. But the children of men shall put their trust under the covert of thy wings.

9. They shall be inebriated with the plenty of thy house: and thou shalt make them drink of the torrent of thy pleasure.

10. For with thee is the fountain of life; and in thy light we shall see light.

11. Extend thy mercy to them that know thee, and thy justice to them that are right in heart.

12. Let not the foot of pride come to me: and let not the hand of the sinner move me.

13. There the workers of iniquity are fallen: they are cast out, and could not stand.

1. The wicked man has said in his heart, or has resolved (as is explained by Bellarmine and Mattei), to sin freely; and he acts thus because he has no longer the fear of God before his eyes.

2. This is a very difficult verse. St. Augustine explains it thus: In odio, persequente iniquitate sua, dolose egit coram Deo—Out of hatred, pursuing his path of crime, he acts deceitfully before God; words that are applicable to sacrilegious confessions. The Rabbinists explain the Hebrew text thus: The wicked man sins, flattering himself that God does not see and does not abhor his iniquity. But Mattei believes that some words are wanting in the Hebrew text; his opinion is that the psalmist is not speaking here of deceitful hypocrites, but of obstinate sinners; and he explains the verse in this manner: The sinner acts perversely before the eyes of God, so that his iniquity may draw down the divine hatred upon himself. Such is also the explanation given by Bellarmine and Bossuet.

3. "Noluit intelligere ut bene ageret." He does not wish to understand what is good, so as not to be obliged to practise it.

4. On his bed he premeditates to do evil, and he gives himself to every wicked means; for, far from hating evil, he loves it.¹

5. That is to say: Thy mercy and Thy fidelity to Thy promises are immense and infinite.

6. Thy justice is as great as a mountain, and as a divine mountain that is high beyond our sight; and Thy judgments are to us abysses very obscure and impenetrable.

7. "Homines et jumenta salvabis." Bellarmine explains this passage by saying that God wishes to save not only good men, but also those who, by following their sensual appetites, make themselves like brute beasts.

8. "In tegmine alarum tuarum." That is to say: Relying on Thy protection and Thy Providence.

9. Thou wilt make them participate in the infinite joy that Thou Thyself dost experience.

10. "In lumine tuo, videbimus lumen." Illumined by Thy divine light, we shall see Thyself who art the Light by essence.

11. "Justitiam tuam." The just reward that Thou hast prepared for each one according to his deserts.

12. St. Augustine thus explains this verse: O Lord! suffer not that pride set its foot on me, or gain dominion over me, nor that the hand of the sinner, that is, of the devil or of any of his followers, detach me from Thy service.

13. "Ibi." There, in pride. "Expulsi sunt, nec potuerunt

¹ Let us analyze this portrait of a perverse man: iniquity in his thought and affections, in his words, in his whole conduct towards God and man; the reason is, he has no fear of God; he does not see, he does not understand, he is not willing.

10. Et adhuc pusillum, et non erit peccator: et quæres locum ejus, et non invenies.

11. Mansueti autem hereditabunt terram, et delectabuntur in multitudine pacis.

12. Observabit peccator justum: et stridebit super eum dentibus suis.

13. Dominus autem irridebit eum: quoniam prospicit quod veniet dies ejus.

14. Gladium evaginaverunt peccatores: intenderunt arcum suum.

15. Ut dejiciant pauperem et inopem: ut trucident rectos corde.

16. Gladius eorum intret in corda ipsorum: et arcus eorum confringatur.

17. Melius est modicum justo, super divitias peccatorum multas.

18. Quoniam brachia peccatorum conterentur: confirmat autem justos Dominus.

19. Novit Dominus dies immaculatum: et hereditas eorum in æternum erit.

20. Non confundentur in tempore malo, et in diebus famis saturabuntur: quia peccatores peribunt.

21. Inimici vero Domini mox ut honorificati fuerint et exaltati: deficientes, quemadmodum fumus deficient.

22. Mutuabitur peccator, et non solvet: justus autem miseretur et tribuet.

23. Quia benedicentes ei hereditabunt terram: maledicentes autem ei disperibunt.

24. Apud Dominum gressus

10. For yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be; and thou shalt seek his place, and shalt not find it.

11. But the meek shall inherit the land, and shall delight in abundance of peace.

12. The sinner shall watch the just man: and shall gnash upon him with his teeth.

13. But the Lord shall laugh at him: for he foreseeth that his day shall come.

14. The wicked have drawn out the sword: they have bent their bow,

15. To cast down the poor and needy: to kill the upright of heart.

16. Let their sword enter into their own hearts: and let their bow be broken.

17. Better is a little to the just, than the great riches of the wicked.

18. For the arms of the wicked shall be broken in pieces: but the Lord strengtheneth the just.

19. The Lord knoweth the days of the undefiled: and their inheritance shall be forever.

20. They shall not be confounded in the evil time, and in the days of famine they shall be filled: because the wicked shall perish.

21. And the enemies of the Lord, presently after they shall be honored and exalted: shall come to nothing and vanish like smoke.

22. The sinner shall borrow, and not pay again: but the just showeth mercy and shall give.

23. For such as bless him shall inherit the land; but such as curse him shall perish.

24. With the Lord shall the hominis dirigentur: et viam ejus volet.

25. Cum ceciderit, non collidetur: quia Dominus supponit manum suam.

26. Junior fui, etenim senui: et non vidi justum derelictum, nec semen ejus quærens panem.

27. Tota die miseretur et commodat: et semen illius in benedictione erit.

28. Declina a malo, et fac bonum: et inhabita in sæculum sæculi.

29. Quia Dominus amat judicium, et non derelinquet sanctos suos: in æternum conservabuntur.

30. Injusti punientur: et semen impiorum peribit.

31. Justi autem hereditabunt terram: et inhabitabunt in sæculum sæculi super eam.

32. Os justi meditabitur sapientiam, et lingua ejus loquetur judicium.

33. Lex Dei ejus in corde ipsius: et non supplantabuntur gressus ejus.

34. Considerat peccator justum: et quærit mortificare eum.

35. Dominus autem non derelinquet eum in manibus ejus: nec damnabit eum cum judicabitur illi.

36. Expecta Dominum, et custodi viam ejus: et exaltabit te, ut hereditate capias terram: cum perierint peccatores, videbis.

37. Vidi impium superexaltatum: et elevatum sicut cedros Libani.

38. Et transivi, et ecce non erat: et quæsivi eum, et non est inventus locus ejus.

steps of a man be directed: and he shall like well his way.

25. When he shall fall he shall not be bruised: for the Lord putteth his hand under him.

26. I have been young, and now am old: and I have not seen the just forsaken, nor his seed seeking bread.

27. He showeth mercy and lendeth all the day long: and his seed shall be in blessing.

28. Decline from evil and do good: and dwell forever and ever.

29. For the Lord loveth judgment, and will not forsake his Saints: they shall be preserved forever.

30. The unjust shall be punished: and the seed of the wicked shall perish.

31. But the just shall inherit the land: and shall dwell therein for evermore.

32. The mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom, and his tongue shall speak judgment.

33. The law of his God is in his heart: and his steps shall not be supplanted.

34. The wicked watcheth the just man: and seeketh to put him to death,

35. But the Lord will not leave him in his hands: nor condemn him when he shall be judged.

36. Expect the Lord and keep his way: and he will exalt thee to inherit the land: when the sinners shall perish thou shalt see.

37. I have seen the wicked highly exalted, and lifted up like the cedars of Libanus.

38. And I passed by, and lo he was not: and I sought him and his place was not found.

39. Custodi innocentiam, et vide æquitatem : quoniam sunt reliquiæ homini pacifico.

40. Injusti autem disperibunt simul : reliquiæ impiorum interibunt.

41. Salus autem justorum a Domino : et protector eorum in tempore tribulationis.

42. Et adjuvabit eos Dominus, et liberabit eos : et eruet eos a peccatoribus, et salvabit eos : quia speraverunt in eo.

39. Keep innocence, and behold justice : for there are remnants for the peaceable man.

40. But the unjust shall be destroyed together : the remnants of the wicked shall perish.

41. But the salvation of the just is from the Lord : and he is their protector in the time of trouble.

42. And the Lord will help them and deliver them : and he will rescue them from the wicked, and save them, because they have hoped in him.

1. “Neque zelaveris facientes iniquitatem.” Do not allow yourself to be moved by zeal, that is to say, by envy of their happiness. Or rather : Be not inflamed against sinners on account of their happiness, as if complaining to God for favoring them as he does.

2. They shall wither as the grass that falls under the scythe ; they shall fall as the herb deprived of its root.

3. “Inhabita terram, et pasceris in divitiis ejus.” Therefore, dwell in the land, and God will feed thee with his delights. Or, as others understand this : Cultivate the land, and thou shalt be abundantly provided with its fruits.

4. Make thy happiness to consist in pleasing God ; or make the Lord thy delight, and he will satisfy all thy requests, or all thy desires.

5. Lay before God all the wants and desires of thy life ; put thy trust in him, and he will do all that thou desirest.

6. He will even draw forth from the darkness thy innocence as a torch of flame, and he will cause it to shine as the sun at noonday ; obey the Lord, and be attentive to pray for his help.

8. “Ut maligneris.” So as to become wicked like them.

9. The wicked shall be exterminated by the hand of God ; but those that expect with patience the help of the Lord shall be heirs of the land of promise, which is heaven.

10. Wait a little while, and thou wilt see that this sinner, now so puffed up with pride about his goods, shall be no more ; thou wilt seek the place or the prosperous state in which he lived, and thou wilt no longer find it.

28. "Inhabita in sæculum sæculi." That is to say: Thou wilt be always happy.¹

31. "Terram." The land of the blessed.

32. "Os justi meditabitur sapientiam." The words of the just man are always prudent and wise.

34. The wicked man sees that the life of the just man is opposed to his own, and through the hatred that he bears him he seeks to do him evil.²

35. "Nec damnabit eum, cum judicabitur illi." When he has to judge him, he will not condemn him, however great the calumnies laid to his charge by the wicked.

36. Wait, then, for the Lord, and continue to walk in the path by which he has led thee; he will exalt thee in such a manner as to make thee come to possess as thy inheritance the land that thou desirest; and when the wicked shall be lost, thou shalt see the recompense that God shall give to thee according to his promise.

38. "Locus ejus." His greatness, of which there remained no more trace than if it had never been.

39. "Sunt reliquie homini pacifico." St. Jerome translates: The remainder of the life of the meek man shall have true peace, which will accompany him even unto death. Others interpret the passage thus: His virtuous actions, besides his good name, will leave a good example, which after his death will continue to be useful to others and be a consolation which the good man will always enjoy. Both explanations are good.³

40. "Reliquie impiorum interibunt." The riches and the glory which the wicked thought of perpetrating on earth, all shall perish.

¹ "Inhabita." The imperative for the future, according to Menochius. This promise, says Bellarmine, v. 28, 29, may be applied to the present life; but properly it has reference to life eternal.

² The same as verse 12; but there it was by violence, here it is by craft, as the Jews acted against Jesus Christ.

³ This may also be understood in a higher sense, of eternal reward according to the text: Opera enim illorum sequuntur illos—Their works follow them (Apoc. xiv. 13).

PSALM XII., WHICH IS PSALM XXXVII. OF THE PSALTER.

David bewails his sins. This psalm is suitable for every penitent that looks upon his sufferings and his tribulations as just chastisements of his sins, for which he begs pardon from God.

1. DOMINE ne in furore tuo arguas me, neque in ira tua corripas me.

2. Quoniam sagittæ tuæ infixæ sunt mihi: et confirmasti super me manum tuam.

3. Non est sanitas in carne mea a facie iræ tuæ: non est pax ossibus meis a facie peccatorum meorum.

4. Quoniam iniquitates meæ supergressæ sunt caput meum: et sicut onus grave gravatæ sunt super me.

5. Putruerunt, et corruptæ sunt cicatrices meæ, a facie insipientiæ meæ.

6. Miser factus sum, et curvatus sum usque in finem: tota die contristatus ingrediebar.

7. Quoniam lumbi mei impleti sunt illusionibus: et non est sanitas in carne mea.

8. Afflictus sum, et humiliatus sum nimis: rugiebam a gemitu cordis mei.

9. Domine, ante te omne desiderium meum: et gemitus meus a te non est absconditus.

10. Cor meum conturbatum est, dereliquit me virtus mea: et lumen oculorum meorum, et ipsum non est mecum.

11. Amici mei, et proximi mei adversum me appropinquerunt, et steterunt.

12. Et qui juxta me erant, de longe steterunt: et vim faciebant qui quærebant animam meam.

13. Et qui inquirebant mala

1. REBUKE me not, O Lord in thy indignation, nor chastise me in thy wrath.

2. For thy arrows are fastened in me: and thy hand hath been strong upon me.

3. There is no health in my flesh, because of thy wrath: there is no peace for my bones, because of my sins.

4. For my iniquities are gone over my head: and as a heavy burden are become heavy upon me.

5. My sores are putrified and corrupted, because of my foolishness.

6. I am become miserable, and am bowed down even to the end: I walked sorrowful all the day long.

7. For my loins are filled with illusions: and there is no health in my flesh.

8. I am afflicted and humbled exceedingly: I roared with the groaning of my heart.

9. Lord, all my desire is before thee, and my groaning is not hid from thee.

10. My heart is troubled, my strength hath left me: and the light of my eyes itself is not with me.

11. My friends and my neighbors have drawn near, and stood against me.

12. And they that were near me stood afar off: and they that sought my soul used violence.

13. And they that sought mihi, locuti sunt vanitates: et dolos tota die meditabantur.

14. Ego autem tamquam surdus non audiebam: et sicut mutus non aperiens os suum.

15. Et factus sum sicut homo non audiens: et non habens in ore suo redargutiones.

16. Quoniam in te Domine, speravi: tu exaudies me Domine Deus meus.

17. Quia dixi: Nequando supergaudeant mihi inimici mei: et dum commoventur pedes mei, super me magna locuti sunt.

18. Quoniam ego in flagella paratus sum: et dolor meus in conspectu meo semper.

19. Quoniam iniquitatem meam annuntiabo: et cogitabo pro peccato meo.

20. Inimici autem mei vivunt, et confirmati sunt super me: et multiplicati sunt qui oderunt me inique.

21. Qui retribuunt mala pro bonis, detrahebant mihi: quoniam sequebar bonitatem.

22. Ne derelinquas me Domine Deus meus: ne discesseris a me.

23. Intende in adiutorium meum, Domine Deus salutis meæ.

evils to me spoke vain things: and studied deceits all the day long.

14. But I, as a deaf man, heard not: and was as a dumb man not opening his mouth.

15. And I became as a man that heareth not: and that hath no reproofs in his mouth.

16. For in thee, O Lord, have I hoped: thou wilt hear me, O Lord my God.

17. For I said: Lest at any time my enemies rejoice over me: and whilst my feet are moved they speak great things against me.

18. For I am ready for scourges: and my sorrow is continually before me.

19. For I will declare my iniquity: and I will think for my sin.

20. But my enemies live, and are stronger than I: and they that hate me wrongfully are multiplied.

21. They that render evil for good, have detracted me, because I followed goodness.

22. Forsake me not, O Lord my God: do not thou depart from me.

23. Attend unto my help, O Lord, the God of my salvation.

1. That is to say: Chastise me as a father, not as a judge; chastise me that I may amend, instead of being lost. See what is said in Psalm ii. 5 and Psalm v. 1.

2. "Sagittæ tuæ." Thy arrows, Thy chastisements. "Confirmasti super me manum tuam." Justly hast Thou pressed heavily Thy hand upon me, loading me with trials.

3. At the sight of Thy anger, I have lost my health of body; and at the sight of my sins, I have lost peace, so that my bones are all trembling.

4. My iniquities are so many that they rise even higher than Tuesday at Matins.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM XXXVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

David speaks here of the pain that he felt and of the silence that he kept when Semei annoyed him with insults. The royal prophet at the same time exposes the reflections that his sins and the vain cares of men suggested to him. Finally, he represents himself as a pilgrim here on earth, and points out to sinners with what sentiments they should be animated in order to do penance.

1. DIXI: Custodiam vias meas: ut non delinquam in lingua mea.

2. Posui ori meo custodiam, cum consisteret peccator adversum me.

3. Obmutui, et humiliatus sum, et silui a bonis: et dolor meus renovatus est.

4. Concaluit cor meum intra me: et in meditatione mea exardescet ignis.

5. Locutus sum in lingua mea: Notum fac mihi Domine finem meum:

6. Et numerum dierum meorum quis est: ut sciam quid desit mihi.

7. Ecce mensurabiles posuisti dies meos: et substantia mea tamquam nihilum ante te.

8. Verumtamen universa vanitas, omnis homo vivens.

9. Verumtamen in imagine pertransit homo: sed et frustra conturbatur.

10. Thesaurizat: et ignorat cui congregabit ea.

11. Et nunc quæ est expectatio mea? nonne Dominus? et substantia mea apud te est.

12. Ab omnibus iniquitatibus

1. I SAID, I will take heed to my ways: that I sin not with my tongue.

2. I have set a guard to my mouth, when the sinner stood against me.

3. I was dumb, and was humbled, and kept silence even from good things: and my sorrow was renewed.

4. My heart grew hot within me: and in my meditation a fire shall flame out.

5. I spoke with my tongue: O Lord make me know my end.

6. And what is the number of my days: that I may know what is wanting to me.

7. Behold thou hast made my days measurable: and my substance is as nothing before thee.

8. And indeed all things are vanity, every man living.

9. Surely man passeth as an image: yea and he is disquieted in vain.

10. He storeth up: and he knoweth not for whom he shall gather these things.

11. And now what is my hope? is it not the Lord? and my substance is with thee.

12. Deliver thou me from all meis erue me : opprobrium insipienti dedisti me.

13. Obmutui, et non aperui os meum, quoniam tu fecisti : amove a me plagas tuas.

14. A fortitudine manus tuæ ego defeci in increpationibus : propter iniquitatem corripuisti hominem.

15. Et tabescere fecisti sicut araneam animam ejus : verumtamen vane conturbatur omnis homo.

16. Exaudi orationem meam Domine, et deprecationem meam : auribus percipe lacrymas meas.

17. Ne sileas : quoniam advena ego sum apud te, et peregrinus, sicut omnes patres mei.

18. Remitte mihi, ut refrigerer priusquam abeam, et amplius non ero.

my iniquities : thou hast made me a reproach to the fool.

13. I was dumb, and I opened not my mouth, because thou hast done it : remove thy scourges from me.

14. The strength of thy hand hath made me faint with thy rebukes : Thou hast corrected man for iniquity.

15. And thou hast made his soul to waste away like a spider : surely in vain is any man disquieted.

16. Hear my prayer, O Lord, and my supplication : give ear to my tears.

17. Be not silent : for I am a stranger with thee, and a sojourner as all my fathers were.

18. O forgive me, that I may be refreshed, before I go hence, and be no more.

1. I have resolved within myself that I will watch my ways that is, do my actions well ; and therefore I have determined to be attentive not to sin with my tongue.

2. I have placed a guard upon my mouth, in order to be silent when some insolent person should provoke me with injurious words.

3. "Silui a bonis." I refrained from reproaching my enemies with the good that I had done them.¹ "Dolor meus renovatus est." I felt my grief renewed in thinking that I had well deserved their injuries by my sins.

4. At the remembrance of my faults, confusion penetrated my heart ; and in my meditation the heat of my pain was increased.²

5. I said : Lord, make me know when Thy anger against me shall have an end ; or, as others explain the passage, how near my end is.

6. Make known to me the number of my days, that I may ¹ Or, I was silent, although I had good things to say.

know what is wanting to my penitences; or, according to others, how much longer I have to live.

7. "Mensurabiles." St. Jerome's translation is: Breves—Short. Measurable, or so short that they are easy to count. "Substantia mea." My life, according to St. Jerome.

8. It is indeed true that every man who lives here on earth, with all the honors and riches that he possesses, is but mere vanity.

9. Man passes through life like a phantom; that is to say, all the joys that he thinks he finds on earth will turn out to be empty: it is, then, in vain that he should trouble himself about them and that he should seek to procure for himself such goods as will never satisfy the heart.

11. "Substantia mea apud te est." All that I have, all my good, subsists in Thee, and depends on Thee, in whom are all my hopes. According to the Hebrew text: Spes mea apud te est—My hope is with Thee.

12. "Opprobrium insipienti dedisti me." It is supposed that Semei is here meant, who treated David as a usurper of the throne.

13. I did not open my mouth to complain, because it was Thou that did this, or permitted this for my just punishment; I beseech Thee now to remove from me the other scourges that I have deserved.

15. Thou makest him waste away his life, as the spider spends itself in forming its fragile web; hence it is in vain that any man should trouble himself to lay up the goods of this world.

18. Before, then, I leave this world, where one day I shall be no longer, I beseech Thee to appease Thy just anger against me, that so I may find refreshment and relief.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XXXIX. OF THE PSALTER

St. Ambrose, St. Jerome, St. Augustine, and Euthymius see in this whole psalm only Jesus Christ and the holy Church, that is, the Head of his mystical body. And, in fact, in his Epistle to the Hebrews (ch. x., 5 et seq.) St. Paul applies to Jesus Christ certain verses of this psalm, which can really not be understood of David without counting several other passages which it would at least be difficult to apply to the holy king. If Jesus Christ addresses himself to his Father with so

13. Justitiam tuam non abscondi in corde meo: veritatem tuam, et salutare tuum dixi.

14. Non abscondi misericordiam tuam, et veritatem tuam a consilio multo.

15. Tu autem Domine ne longe facias miserationes tuas a me: misericordia tua et veritas tua semper susceperunt me.

16. Quoniam circumdederunt me mala, quorum non est numerus: comprehenderunt me iniquitates meæ, et non potui ut viderem.

17. Multiplicatæ sunt super capillos capitis mei: et cor meum dereliquit me.

18. Complacere tibi Domine ut eruas me: Domine, ad adjuvandum me respice.

19. Confundantur et revereantur simul, qui quærunt animam meam, ut auferant eam.

20. Convertantur retrorsum, et revereantur qui volunt mihi mala.

21. Ferant confestim confusionem suam, qui dicunt mihi: Euge, euge.

22. Exultent et lætentur super te omnes quærentes te: et dicant semper: Magnificetur Dominus: qui diligunt salutare tuum.

23. Ego autem mendicus sum, et pauper: Dominus sollicitus est mei.

24. Adjutor meus, et protector meus tu es: Deus meus ne tardaveris.

1. "Expectans expectavi Dominum."¹ I have waited a long time for the Lord as liberator and redeemer of his people. "Intendit mihi." According to the Hebrew: Inclinavit se ad me—He has inclined himself to me to listen to me.

¹ A Hebraism signifying a prolonged waiting, accompanied by an ardent desire,

13. I have not hid thy justice within my heart: I have declared thy truth and thy salvation.

14. I have not concealed thy mercy, and thy truth from a great council.

15. Withhold not thou, O Lord, thy tender mercies from me: thy mercy and thy truth have always upheld me.

16. For evils without number have surrounded me: my iniquities have overtaken me, and I was not able to see.

17. They are multiplied above the hairs of my head: and my heart hath forsaken me.

18. Be pleased, O Lord, to deliver me: look down, O Lord, to help me.

19. Let them be confounded and ashamed together, that seek after my soul to take it away.

20. Let them be turned backward and be ashamed that desire evils to me.

21. Let them immediately bear their confusion, that say to me: 'Tis well, 'tis well.

22. Let all that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee: and let such as love thy salvation say always: The Lord be magnified.

23. But I am a beggar and poor: the Lord is careful for me.

24. Thou art my helper and my protector: O my God, be not slack.

2. "De lacu miseriæ et de luto fæcis." These expressions denote, according to the Hebrew text, as Bellarmine remarks, a deep abyss, without light, filled with filthy mud, in which have fallen and flounder confusedly a miserable multitude; such are those that are plunged into the mire of their carnal appetites.

3. "Super petram." That is to say: Upon myself,¹ who am the foundation-rock of the Church: Petra autem erat Christus—The rock was Christ (1 Cor. x. 4). "Et direxit gressus meos." He placed my feet on a way that is not only solid, but also straight; and he thus guided my steps.

4. "Canticum novum, carmen." A new canticle, a canticle of love, of thanksgiving, and of praise; according to the Hebrew, which would be Laudem—Praise, instead of Carmen.

5. Many shall see, or shall come to know, the misery of the pit in which they are, and shall have fear or horror of it; they shall then see their deliverer, and shall put their trust in the Lord.

6. "Vanitates." Human supports, which are all vain. "Insanias falsas." Earthly goods, from which it is only folly to hope for happiness.

7. "Cogitationibus tuis." In the inventions of Thy love which Thou hast conceived and carried into effect for our good.

8. "Multiplicati." Bellarmine thinks, according to the Hebrew text, that perhaps an error has here crept in, and that it should be: Multiplicatæ (cogitationes tuæ), or Multiplicata (mirabilia tua)—Thy thoughts or Thy marvels are multiplied. But St. Ambrose, St. Jerome, and St. Augustine say that the verse is to be read as it stands: Multiplicati sunt super numerum; this is to be understood of unbelievers who have been converted to follow Jesus Christ.

9. "Sacrificium et oblationem noluisti."² Thou hast refused the sacrifices and the offerings of the Law, which could not avail to purify the consciences. This means that God did not accept those sacrifices as sufficient to expiate for sin and to remove it from the soul; but that he accepted them only as figures of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ. Hence the Redeemer says: Aures autem perfecisti mihi;¹ this St. Paul thus expresses: Corpus autem aptasti mihi—A body Thou hast fitted to me (Heb. x. 5). We must not deviate from this text of the Apostle, who by it explains that of David; so that it means: Thou hast formed for me a body fitted to suffer and to die.

² "Sacrificium." St. Paul (Heb. x. 5) says: Hostiam. In the following verse we read: Holocaustum et (sacrificium) pro peccato—Holocaust for sin. These words designate the different sacrifices, or rather the bloody victims, such as bulls and lambs, which, in the Old Law, were offered on the altar to expiate sin (Lev. i. 4, 5, 6)—" Oblationem." By this may be understood offerings of inanimate gifts, such as flour, bread, oil, etc. (Lev. ii. 6).

10. "Tunc dixi: Ecce venio." Then—that is, on hearing Thy decree that I should assume human nature and offer myself on the cross as a sacrifice to atone for the sins of men—I said: Behold I come to obey Thee.

11. "In capite Libri." According to the Hebrew: In volumine Libri. That is to say: In the volume of the Law. By this St. Ambrose understands the beginning of Genesis, where we read: Quamobrem relinquet homo patrem suum et matrem, et adhærebit uxori suæ; et erunt duo in carne una—Wherefore, a man shall leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they shall be two in one flesh (Gen. ii. 24). On this passage St. Paul comments thus: Sacramentum hoc magnum est, ego autem dico in Christo et in Ecclesia—This is a great sacrament, but I speak in Christ and in the Church (Eph. v. 32). According to St. Jerome it refers to the Gospel of St. John, which begins with these words: In principio erat Verbum . . . Et Verbum caro factum est—In the beginning was the Word . . . and the Word was made flesh. But Bellarmine thinks that the expression In volumine Libri denotes rather the whole volume of the Bible, which speaks throughout of the Messiah who was to come, as say St. John Chrysostom and Theodoret, because Jesus Christ is the end of the Law.²

¹ According to the Hebrew: Aures autem fodisti mihi—Thou hast dug or bored my ears. According to the Greek: Corpus autem perfecisti mihi. These different versions may be reconciled according to Menochius: Corpus is the proper term; Aures is a figure, the part for the whole. This part is well chosen to denote attention and readiness to obey, as we read in Psalm xvii. 48: In auditu auris obedivit mihi—At the hearing of the ear he has obeyed me. In the same sense may be explained the words: Fodisti, Perfecisti, Aptasti.

21. "Euge, euge." Well done, well done, we have made an end of him.¹

22. "Salutare tuum." The salutation that they hope from Thee.

23. Although I see myself poor and miserable, I console myself with the thought that the Lord takes care of me, that is, of my salvation.

24. "Ne tardaveris." Do not delay to help me when Thou seest me in danger.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM XL. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm, like the preceding, refers to the Passion of Jesus Christ; it is so interpreted by St. Ambrose, St. Jeromé, St. Augustine, and particularly by St. John Chrysostom, who says that it would be rash to interpret it otherwise; for Jesus Christ himself, as we see in the Gospel of St. John (John, xiii. 18), cites a verse of this Psalm (the 10th) to signify that the treason of Judas had long before been predicted by the prophet. This psalm speaks also of the mystical Body of Jesus Christ, of the Church.

1. BEATUS qui intelligit super egenum et pauperem: in die mala liberabit eum Dominus.

2. Dominus conservet eum, et vivificet eum, et beatum faciat eum in terra: et non tradat eum in animam inimicorum ejus.

3. Dominus opem ferat illi super lectum doloris ejus: universum stratum ejus versasti in infirmitate ejus.

4. Ego dixi: Domine miserere mei: sana animam meam, quia peccavi tibi.

5. Inimici mei dixerunt mala mihi: Quando morietur, et peribit nomen ejus?

6. Et si ingrediebatur ut videret, vana loquebatur, cor ejus congregavit iniquitatem sibi.

1. BLESSED is he that understandeth concerning the needy and the poor: the Lord will deliver him in the evil day.

2. The Lord preserve him and give him life and make him blessed upon the earth: and deliver him not up to the will of his enemies.

3. The Lord help him on his bed of sorrow: thou hast turned all his couch in his sickness.

4. I said: O Lord be thou merciful to me: heal my soul; for I have sinned against thee.

5. My enemies have spoken evils against me: when shall he die and his name perish?

6. And if he came in to see me, he spoke vain things, his heart gathered together iniquity to itself.

7. Egrediebatur foras, et loquebatur in idipsum.

8. Adversum me susurrabant omnes inimici mei: adversum me cogitabant mala mihi.

9. Verbum iniquum constituerunt adversum me: Numquid qui dormit, non adjiciet ut resurgat?

10. Etenim homo pacis meæ, in quo speravi: qui edebat panes meos, magnificavit super me supplantationem.

11. Tu autem Domine miserere mei, et resuscita me: et retribuam eis.

12. In hoc cognovi, quoniam voluisti me: quoniam non gaudebit inimicus meus super me.

13. Me autem propter innocentiam suscepisti: et confirmasti me in conspectu tuo in æternum.

14. Benedictus Dominus Deus Israel a sæculo, et usque in sæculum: fiat, fiat.

1. Happy is he that devotes himself to the work of helping the poor,¹ or whoever is in need of assistance; in the evil day, that is, the day of his death, the Lord will deliver him from all his trials.

2. "Dominus conservet eum, et vivificet eum."² The Lord will preserve him in the midst of dangers, and will so fortify him that he will come safe out of them. "In animam." According to some Greek copies, as St. Ambrose remarks, it is: In manus. But Bellarmine justly observes that the sense is almost the same, except that the expression In animam, that is, voluntatem, arbitrium—to the will, or good pleasure, is more expressive than In manus—to the power.

¹ The poor, the indigent man, is Jesus Christ suffering in his own person or in the members of his mystical body.

² A prediction or a promise in form of prayer. "In terra." Here on earth, and hereafter in the land of the living.

7. He went out and spoke to the same purpose.

8. All my enemies whispered together against me: they devised evils to me.

9. They determined against me an unjust word: shall he that sleepeth rise again no more?

10. For even the man of my peace, in whom I trusted: who ate my bread, hath greatly supplanted me.

11. But thou, O Lord, have mercy on me, and raise me up again: and I will requite them.

12. By this I know, that thou hast had a good will for me: because my enemy shall not rejoice over me.

13. But thou hast upheld me by reason of my innocence, and hast established me in thy sight forever.

14. Blessed be the Lord the God of Israel from eternity to eternity: So be it. So be it.

3. At the time of his last illness the Lord will bring him help in his sufferings: Thou, O good Master, wilt prepare his couch, so that, reduced to extremity, he may find some alleviation.¹

4. “Sana animam meam, quia peccavi tibi.” Heal my soul, which has become sick through the offences that I have committed against Thee.²

6. “Vana loquebantur.” He feigned a cordial compassion. “Congregavit iniquitatem sibi.” He consoled himself by redoubling his wicked hope of seeing me die.³

7. He then went out to make others take part in his wickedness.

8. “Adversum me cogitabant mala mihi.” They united to plot against me, and to wish me all the evil that could befall me.⁴

9. They are confirmed in their design upon my life, saying: Shall then he that dies think to return to life again?

10. This verse refers to the treason of Judas, according to what we read in the Gospel of St. John: “Ut adimpleatur Scriptura: Qui manducat mecum panem, levabit contra me calcaneum suum”—That the Scripture may be fulfilled: He that eateth bread with me shall lift up his heel against me (John, xiii. 18). “Magnificavit super me supplantationem.” He has made it his boast to complete my ruin by offering to give me up into the hands of my enemies.

11. “Resuscita me; et retribuam eis.” Prediction of the resurrection of Jesus Christ: After I shall be dead on the cross, make me rise again; and then, as judge, I shall inflict upon them the punishment that they deserve. The Son of God here

¹ Remark this touching apostrophe; the prophet seems to say: Yes, O my God! See what Thou hast done for Thy servant, and Thou wilt thus console him in all his tribulations, spiritual and corporal, so that he will say: Superabundo gaudio in omni tribulatione nostra—I exceedingly abound with joy in all our tribulation (2 Cor. vii. 4). Compare this with what is said in Psalm xxxvi. 25.

² In this and in the following verses it is Jesus Christ that speaks. If he says that he has sinned, this must be understood of our iniquities which he took upon himself.

³ This verse and the following one apply to Judas. “Ut videret.” In order to find a favorable opportunity to execute his project.

⁴ “Mihi.” A redundant pronoun, according to the Hebrew.

5. In voce exultationis, et confessionis: sonus epulantis.

6. Quare tristis es anima mea? et quare conturbas me?

7. Spera in Deo, quoniam adhuc confitebor illi: salutare vultus mei; et Deus meus.

8. Ad meipsum anima mea conturbata est: propterea memor ero tui de terra Jordanis, et Hermoniim a monte modico.

9. Abyssus abyssum invocat, in voce cataractarum tuarum.

10. Omnia excelsa tua, et fluctus tui super me transierunt.

11. In die mandavit Dominus misericordiam suam: et nocte canticum ejus.

12. Apud me oratio Deo vitæ meæ, dicam Deo: Susceptor meus es.

13. Quare oblitus es mei? et quare contristatus incedo, dum affligit me inimicus?

14. Dum confringuntur ossa mea, exprobraverunt mihi qui tribulant me inimici mei:

15. Dum dicunt mihi per singulos dies: Ubi est Deus tuus? quare tristis es anima mea? et quare conturbas me?

16. Spera in Deo, quoniam adhuc confitebor illi: salutare vultus mei, et Deus meus.

5. With the voice of joy and praise: the noise of one feasting.

6. Why art thou sad, O my soul? and why dost thou trouble me?

7. Hope in God, for I will still give praise to him: the salvation of my countenance, and my God.

8. My soul is troubled within myself: therefore will I remember thee from the land of Jordan and Hermoniim, from the little hill.

9. Deep calleth on deep, at the noise of thy flood gates.

10. All thy heights, and thy billows have passed over me.

11. In the day time the Lord hath commanded his mercy: and a canticle to him in the night.

12. With me is prayer to the God of my life, I will say to God: Thou art my support.

13. Why hast thou forgotten me? and why go I in mourning, whilst my enemy afflicteth me?

14. Whilst my bones are broken, my enemies who trouble me have reproached me:

15. Whilst they say to me day by day: Where is thy God? Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why dost thou disquiet me!

16. Hope thou in God, for I will still give praise to him: the salvation of my countenance, and my God.

2. "Deum fortem." The God Almighty. "Vivum." The living God, very different from the gods of the Gentiles, who are dead gods.

3. "Dum dicitur mihi quotidie: Ubi est Deus tuus!" As I hear my enemies continually saying to me in my affliction: Where then is now thy God, in whom thou so much hopest to console thee?

4. I remembered these reproaches, and I poured out my soul, that is to say, I emptied or stripped it of all earthly affections, with the sweet thought that I should one day pass from this exile to the admirable tabernacle in which God has established his abode.

5. "Sonus epulantis." Then I shall take part in the banquet of the blessed, whose voice resounds with the ceaseless songs of joy and thanksgiving.

7. Have confidence in God; for with his help I hope to go one day to heaven, there to celebrate his mercy and say to him: Thou art my God and the salvation of my face, that is to say, my Saviour always present to my eyes: Thou causest my face to see Thy face.¹

8. "Memor ero tui." To console myself, I will always think of Thee in whatever place I am.

9. One abyss of ills invites another, which pours down upon me with a crash. David speaks here of the tribulations or temptations that came upon him like billows raised by a storm with terrific roaring.

10. All the waters of the heavens and all the floods of trials with which Thou triest Thy servants, seem to have passed over me.

11. In the day time, or at the time of my consolations, the Lord has made me taste of the sweetness of his mercy; but now in this night of tribulations he wills that, resigned to his will, I cease not to sing his praises and to bless him.

12. Therefore my prayer to God, the author and the preserver of my life, shall be continual in my heart; I will always say to him: Lord Thou art my protector, do not abandon me.

13. "Quare oblitus es mei?" But why dost Thou deal with me as if Thou hadst forgotten me?

15. Repetition of verses 3 and 6.

16. Repetition of verse 7.

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM XLIII. OF THE PSALTER.

What dominates in this psalm is the expression of the sentiments which should animate the just amid the afflictions of the present life. The psalmist, therefore, proposes to us a prayer that we should address to God in the time of tribulation.¹

1. DEUS auribus nostris audivimus: patres nostri annuntiaverunt nobis.

2. Opus, quod operatus es in diebus eorum, et in diebus antiquis.

3. Manus tua gentes disperdidit, et plantasti eos: afflixisti populos, et expulisti eos:

4. Nec enim in gladio suo possederunt terram, et brachium eorum non salvavit eos:

5. Sed dextera tua, et brachium tuum, et illuminatio vultus tui: quoniam complacuisti in eis.

6. Tu es ipse Rex meus et Deus meus: qui mandas salutes Jacob.

7. In te inimicos nostros ventilabimus cornu, et in nomine tuo spernemus insurgentes in nobis.

8. Non enim in arcu meo sperabo: et gladius meus non salvabit me.

9. Salvasti enim nos de affligentibus nos: et odientes nos confudisti.

10. In Deo laudabimur tota die: et in nomine tuo confitebimur in sæculum.

1. WE have heard, O God, with our ears: our fathers have declared to us

2. The work thou hast wrought in their days: and in the days of old.

3. Thy hand destroyed the Gentiles, and thou plantedst them: thou didst afflict the people and cast them out.

4. For they got not the possession of the land by their own sword, neither did their own arm save them:

5. But thy right hand and thy arm, and the light of thy countenance: because thou wast pleased with them.

6. Thou art thyself my king and my God: who commandest the saving of Jacob.

7. Through thee we will push down our enemies with the horn, and through thy name we will despise them that rise up against us.

8. For I will not trust in my bow: neither shall my sword save me.

9. But thou hast saved us from them that afflict us: and hast put them to shame that hate us.

10. In God shall we glory all the day long: and in thy name we will give praise forever.

¹ The holy Fathers regard this psalm as prophetic. It is the people of God that speak: groaning under oppression, they represent to the Lord the benefits that they once received from his bounty; then they describe their present miseries, and ask the help that they need.

23. Nonne Deus requiret ista? ipse enim novit abscondita cordis.

24. Quoniam propter te mortificamur tota die: æstimati sumus sicut oves occisionis.

25. Exurge, quare obdormis Domine? exurge, et ne repellas in finem.

26. Quare faciem tuam avertis: oblivisceris inopiæ nostræ, et tribulationis nostræ?

27. Quoniam humiliata est in pulvere anima nostra: conglutinatus est in terra venter noster.

28. Exurge Domine, adjuva nos: et redime nos propter nomen tuum.

23. Shall not God search out these things? for he knoweth the secrets of the heart.

24. Because for thy sake we are killed all the day long: we are counted as sheep for the slaughter.

25. Arise, why sleepest thou, O Lord? arise, and cast us not off to the end.

26. Why turnest thou thy face away, and forgettest our want and our trouble?

27. For our soul is humbled down to the dust: our belly cleaveth to the earth.

28. Arise, O Lord, help us and redeem us for thy name's sake.

3. Thy powerful arm scattered the idolatrous nations that dwelt in the land of promise, and there Thou didst establish our fathers.¹

5. But all was the work of Thy power, because Thou didst look upon them with a gracious eye, and Thou wast pleased to favor them.

6. "Qui mandas salutes Jacob." Thou who providest for the salvation of Jacob, that is to say, of Thy people who descend from Jacob.

7. "Inimicos nostros ventilabimus cornu." We shall scatter our enemies.²

12. "Avertisti nos retrorsum post inimicos nostros." Thou hast subjected us to our enemies, so that they have made us their prisoners, and we are forced to follow them.

14. Thou hast allowed Thy people to be sold for nothing; and there was none among the multitude who offered a price for the men of Thy people because they despised them as not worth buying.

¹ "Plantasti eos." A significant metaphor, more fully developed in Psalm lxxix. 10, 11, 12.

² "Ventilabimus cornu." An expression, the energy of which Ganme with Bellarmine brings forward in this phrase: We will scatter them, as a bull when infuriated casts into the air with his horns earth or straw.

20. "Declinasti semitas nostras." It is generally thought that the negative participle Non, which is found in the first part of the verse, is wanting here. St. Jerome translates the passage thus: Non declinaverunt semitæ nostræ. Hence the meaning of it is: Thou hast not permitted our steps to wander from Thy way.

21. "In loco afflictionis." To the depth of misery. St. Jerome's translation is: In locum draconum—To a place of dragons, which means a place of horrors. "Umbra mortis." The shadow of death, after which darkness alone remains; this denotes a great obscurity.

25. "Quare obdormis?" Why dost Thou make as though Thou sleepest, and takest no more care of us?

27. We see ourselves humbled and despised as the dust that is trodden under foot; hence, prostrate with our faces to the earth, we implore Thy mercy.

28. "Redime nos propter nomen tuum." Deliver us from so many evils for the glory of Thy name.

PSALM VI., WHICH IS PSALM XLIV. OF THE PSALTER.

A canticle in honor of Jesus Christ and of the Church, his Spouse. The prophet plainly announces the mystery of the Incarnation of the Word and the victory which the Redeemer was to gain over the world.¹

1. ERUCTAVIT cor meum verbum bonum: dico ego opera mea Regi.

2. Lingua mea calamus scri-bæ, velociter scribentis.

3. Speciosus forma præ filiis hominum, diffusa est gratia in labiis tuis: propterea benedixit te Deus in æternum.

4. Accingere gladio tuo super femur tuum, potentissime.

5. Specie tua et pulchritudine tua intende, prospere pro-cede, et regna,

1. MY heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the king:

2. My tongue is the pen of a scrivener that writeth swiftly.

3. Thou art beautiful above the sons of men: grace is poured abroad in thy lips:
therefore hath God blessed thee forever.

4. Gird thy sword upon thy thigh, O thou most mighty.

5. With thy comeliness and thy beauty set out, proceed prosperously, and reign.

¹ We read in the title: Canticum pro Dilecto—A song for the Beloved. By this well-beloved we generally understand the Man-God, of whom the heavenly Father has said: Hic est Filius meus dilectus—This is my beloved Son (Matt. iii. 17).

6. Propter veritatem, et mansuetudinem, et justitiam: et deducet te mirabiliter dextera tua.

7. Sagittæ tuæ acutæ, populi sub te cadent: in corda inimicorum regis.

8. Sedes tua Deus in sæculum sæculi: virga directionis virga regni tui.

9. Dilexisti justitiam, et odisti iniquitatem: propterea unxit te Deus, Deus tuus oleo lætitiæ præ consortibus tuis.

10. Myrrha, et gutta, et cassia a vestimentis tuis, a domibus eburneis: ex quibus delectaverunt te filiæ regum in honore tuo.

11. Astitit regina a dextris tuis in vestitu deaurato: circumdata varietate.

12. Audi filia, et vide, et inclina aurem tuam: et obliviscere populum tuum, et domum patris tui.

13. Et concupiscet Rex decorem tuum: quoniam ipse est Dominus Deus tuus, et adorabunt eum.

14. Et filiæ Tyri in muneribus vultum tuum deprecabuntur: omnes divites plebis.

15. Omnis gloria ejus filiæ Regis ab intus, in fimbriis aureis circumamicta varietatibus.

16. Adducentur Regi virgines post eam: proximæ ejus afferentur tibi.

17. Afferentur in lætitia et exultatione: adducentur in templum Regis.

6. Because of truth and meekness and justice: and thy right hand shall conduct thee wonderfully.

7. Thy arrows are sharp: under thee shall people fall, into the hearts of the king's enemies.

8. Thy throne, O God, is forever and ever: the sceptre of thy kingdom is a sceptre of uprightness.

9. Thou hast loved justice, and hated iniquity: therefore God, thy God hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

10. Myrrh, and stacte and cassia perfume thy garments, from the ivory houses: out of which the daughters of kings have delighted thee in thy glory.

11. The queen stood on thy right hand, in gilded clothing: surrounded with variety.

12. Hearken, O daughter, and see, and incline thy ear: forget thy people and thy father's house.

13. And the King shall greatly desire thy beauty: for he is the Lord thy God, and him they shall adore.

14. And the daughters of Tyre with gifts, yea, the rich among the people, shall entreat all thy countenance.

15. All the glory of the king's daughter is within, in golden borders, clothed round about with varieties.

16. After her shall virgins be brought to the king: her neighbors shall be brought to thee.

17. They shall be brought with gladness and rejoicing: they shall be brought into the temple of the king, nal in the Church; and Thy rod, that is, Thy sceptre or Thy government, shall ever be most just—“Virga directionis” means the same as Virga rectissima.¹

9. “Præ consortibus tuis.” That is, Exalting Thee, so as to make Thee sit at his right hand—a glory that surpasses that of all the men and angels who shall be with Thee in heaven. It is here said that Jesus Christ is anointed or constituted King of the world. This is to be understood, not of his divinity, but of his humanity. We are to understand also that he is anointed with the unction of grace as Head of the faithful, who through his merits shall receive graces from God.

10. “A vestimentis tuis, a domibus eburneis.” Here by the garments and by the ivory houses is to be understood the most sacred humanity of the Redeemer. Hence the verse is thus explained: From Thy humanity comes the odor of most pure and sweet perfumes; an odor that leads the daughters of the kings, or great souls, to rejoice Thee by running to adore Thee.

11. “Regina.” By this Queen is understood the Church, and we may also understand the Mother of God, or every holy soul that is a spouse of Jesus Christ, and therefore a queen, as St. Bernard says: Singulæ animæ singulæ sponsæ—Every soul, a spouse.

12. Then is said to this Queen: “Vide, et inclina aurem tuam.” Behold the honor to which thou art raised, and listen to that which thou hast to do.

13. The King shall love thy beauty, he who is thy Spouse, whom alone thou shouldst love, since he is the Lord, thy God, and whom in the end all must adore.

14. This is addressed only to the Church: The daughters of Tyre, that is, the Gentile nations, shall honor thee with gifts and offerings; among them shall be seen all the great ones of the people prostrating themselves before thee, to implore thy protection.

15. Her glory should consist in interior virtues of the soul, more than in exterior ornaments or in what is manifest to others.²

¹ “Virga æquitatis.” See Epistle to the Hebrews, in which St. Paul cites this and the following verse (Heb. i. 8).

² “Ejus.” According to Bellarmine and other interpreters, this

16, 17. In the train of the Spouse many virgins shall be brought to the King in his temple; but they shall be those only that are her nearest, that is, united with the Queen and Spouse, who is the Church, according to the explanation of St. Basil and St. Augustine.

18. According to St. Basil, St. John Chrysostom, St. Jerome, and St. Augustine, these words are addressed to the Church, and their sense is: O Spouse of the Saviour! instead of the fathers of old, the patriarchs and the prophets, who are now no more, there are born to thee sons, the apostles, the disciples and their successors, whom thou hast constituted princes over the whole earth; for by their preaching the Gospel thou hast subjected all the nations to thy obedience.

19. O Lord! these apostles, these disciples and their successors in every age, shall continue to preach throughout all generations Thy name, that is, Thy power and Thy mercy towards men. "Memores erunt." Many, according to the present Hebrew text and the Greek version, read: Memor ero—I shall remember. But St. Jerome and St. Augustine follow the Vulgate.

20. Therefore the nations, converted to the faith, will never cease to adore Thee.

PSALM VII., WHICH IS PSALM XLV. OF THE PSALTER.

St. Ambrose, St. Jerome, St. Augustine, St. John Chrysostom, Theodoret, and Euthymius, unanimously teach that this psalm is to be understood of the Catholic Church with regard to the victories that she has gained over her persecutors, and her stability under the protection of God.

1. DEUS noster refugium, et virtus: adjutor in tribulationibus, quæ invenerunt nos nimis.

2. Propterea non timebimus, dum turbabitur terra: et transferentur montes in cor maris.

1. OUR God is our refuge and strength: a helper in troubles, which have found us exceedingly.

2. Therefore we will not fear, when the earth shall be troubled: and the mountains shall be removed into the heart of the sea.

pronoun is redundant. "Filiæ Regis." The Spouse of the King is also the King's daughter; this is very applicable to the Church and to other significations.

3. Sonuerunt, et turbatæ sunt aquæ eorum: conturbati sunt montes in fortitudine ejus.

4. Fluminis impetus lætificat civitatem Dei: sanctificavit tabernaculum suum Altissimus.

5. Deus in medio ejus, non commovebitur: adjuvabit eam Deus mane diluculo.

6. Conturbatæ sunt Gentes, et inclinata sunt regna: dedit vocem suam, mota est terra.

7. Dominus virtutum nobiscum: susceptor noster Deus Jacob.

8. Venite, et videte opera Domini, quæ posuit prodigia super terram: auferens bella usque ad finem terræ.

9. Arcum conteret, et confringet arma: et scuta comburet igni.

10. Vacate, et videte quoniam ego sum Deus: exaltabor in Gentibus, et exaltabor in terra.

11. Dominus virtutum nobiscum: susceptor noster Deus Jacob.

3. "Eorum." Bossuet with St. Jerome, following the Hebrew, reads: *Ejus.*¹

4. In the midst of these storms, the Lord will cause to flow down a river of peace which shall rejoice the city of God, that is, the holy Church, which the Most High has chosen for his temple by sanctifying it with his grace.

5. God will always remain with her, assisting her from the first dawn of the morning, that is, from the moment of its birth.

¹ This verse is obscure. "In fortitudine ejus." Many refer these words to God, and translate: By his power,

3. Their waters roared and were troubled: the mountains were troubled with his strength.

4. The stream of the river maketh the city of God joyful: the most High hath sanctified his own tabernacle.

5. God is in the midst thereof, it shall not be moved: God will help it in the morning early.

6. Nations were troubled, and kingdoms were bowed down: he uttered his voice, and the earth trembled.

7. The Lord of armies is with us: the God of Jacob is our protector.

8. Come and behold ye the works of the Lord, what wonders he hath done upon earth: making wars to cease even to the end of the earth.

9. He shall destroy the bow, and break the weapons: and the shields he shall burn in the fire.

10. Be still and see that I am God: I will be exalted among the nations, and I will be exalted in the earth.

11. The Lord of armies is with us: the God of Jacob is our protector.

9. Principes populorum congregati sunt cum Deo Abraham: quoniam dii fortes terræ, vehementer elevati sunt.

9. The princes of the people are gathered together with the God of Abraham: for the strong gods of the earth are exceedingly exalted.

2. He is the Lord, supreme above all by his majesty, terrible to all by his power; he is the great Monarch who holds dominion over the whole earth.

4. Among all the nations, he has chosen us to be his especial inheritance, because we are the children of Jacob, whom he so much loved.¹

5. "Ascendit Deus." Our Lord ascends to heaven by his own power, because he is God.

7. "Psallite sapienter." Render to him (wisely) the praises that he deserves, and as he deserves.²

8. He shall reign as God over all nations; as God he shall sit upon his heavenly throne, at the right of the eternal Father.

9. "Principes populorum congregati sunt cum Deo Abraham." According to the Hebrew: Congregati sunt, populus Dei Abraham—The princes of the Gentile people are united with the people of the God of Abraham. "Quoniam dii fortes terræ vehementer elevati sunt." This passage is very obscure. Some, as Mattei and Genebrard, say that by the Hebrew word Elohim (the plural for the singular) Dii fortes terræ, God himself is to be understood, and they explain the words thus: Deus victoria elevatus est—God is exalted in victory. But St. Cyril, Theodoret, and Didymus, understand by the words Dii fortes terræ—The princes of the earth. This agrees with the translation of St. Jerome: Dii scuta terræ, that is to say: The gods, the shields of the earth, that is, Protectors, those that have subjects under them. "Elevati sunt." They have become exalted ¹ "Speciem Jacob." The beauty or the flower of the people of Israel, that is, the Apostles and the other disciples whom our Lord chose to form the first nucleus of his Church. This agrees with what St. Paul says (Rom. xi.).

² That is: Digne, attente, ac devote. The psalmist points out to us the principal titles that our Lord has to our homage and to our praise: his greatness and his power (verse 2); his benefits (verses 3, 4); his glory (verse 5); the power that he exercises over the whole earth by the triumph of his Church (verses 8, 9).

by being united in worshipping the true God. This last explanation pleases me more, because it is more in conformity with the Vulgate and the version of the Septuagint. The passage, then, may be thus explained: The princes, who are the protectors or rulers of the earth, have been greatly elevated by uniting in the worship of God.

PSALM IX., WHICH IS PSALM XLVII. OF THE PSALTER.

In the literal sense this psalm is to be understood of the protection of God over the earthly Jerusalem; and in the figurative sense, of the care with which he watches over the spiritual Jerusalem, that is, over his Church.

1. MAGNUS Dominus, et laudabilis nimis: in civitate Dei nostri, in monte sancto ejus.

2. Fundatur exultatione universæ terræ mons Sion, latera Aquilonis, civitas Regis magni.

3. Deus in domibus ejus cognoscetur, cum suscipiet eam.

4. Quoniam ecce reges terræ congregati sunt: convenerunt in unum.

5. Ipsi videntes sic admirati sunt, conturbati sunt, commoti sunt: tremor apprehendit eos.

6. Ibi dolores ut parturientis, in spiritu vehementi conteres naves Tharsis.

7. Sicut audivimus, sic vidimus in civitate Domini virtutum, in civitate Dei nostri: Deus fundavit eam in æternum.

8. Suscepimus Deus misericordiam tuam, in medio templi tui.

9. Secundum nomen tuum Deus, sic et laus tua in fines terræ: justitia plena est dextera tua.

10. Lætetur mons Sion, et

1. GREAT is the Lord, and exceedingly to be praised in the city of our God, in his holy mountain.

2. With the joy of the whole earth is Mount Sion founded, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King.

3. In her houses shall God be known, when he shall protect her.

4. For behold the kings of the earth assembled themselves: they gathered together.

5. So they saw, and they wondered, they were troubled, they were moved: trembling took hold of them.

6. There were pains as of a woman in labor. With a vehement wind thou shalt break in pieces the ships of Tharsis.

7. As we have heard, so have we seen, in the city of the Lord of hosts, in the city of our God: God hath founded it forever.

8. We have received thy mercy, O God, in the midst of thy temple.

9. According to thy name, O God, so also is thy praise unto the ends of the earth: thy right hand is full of justice.

10. Let Mount Sion rejoice, exultent filiæ Judæ, propter judicia tua Domine.

11. Circumdate Sion, et com-plectimini eam: narrate in tur-ribus ejus.

12. Ponite corda vestra in virtute ejus: et distribute do-mos ejus; ut enarretis in progenie altera.

13. Quoniam hic est Deus, Deus noster in æternum, et in sæculum sæculi: ipse reget nos in sæcula.

and the daughters of Juda be glad, because of thy judgments,
O Lord.

11. Surround Sion, and encompass her: tell ye in her towers.

12. Set your hearts on her strength: and distribute her houses, that ye may relate it in another generation.

13. For this is God, our God unto eternity, and for ever and ever: he shall rule us for evermore.

1. "In civitate Dei nostri, in monte sancto ejus." In the city of Jerusalem, and especially on the holy mountain of Sion, where our God makes his glory shine forth.

3. God shall be known among the inhabitants of this city, when he shall defend it against the attacks of its enemies.

4. "Convenerunt in unum." They have assembled for the purpose of laying it waste.

5. "Ipsi videntes sic admirati sunt." On seeing that the hand of the Omnipotent protects it, they are seized with great astonishment.

6. They shall suffer pains like those that a woman endureth in childbirth: Thou, O Lord! wilt raise stormy winds, which shall break in pieces the ships of Tharsis; that is, the largest ships, such as those that sailed to Tharsis.¹

7. Mark now what the inhabitants of Jerusalem will say:
What was promised us we have with our own eyes seen verified in the city of our God, who has made its foundations everlasting. This has indeed been verified in the Church, of which it is said: Et portæ inferi non prævalebunt adversus eam—The gates of hell shall not prevail against her (Matt. xvi. 18).

8. "In medio templi tui." In Thy Church, and in the sight of the whole world.

9. As Thou hast made known, O Lord! Thy great name throughout the earth, so everywhere has Thy glory been proclaimed; and so also has Thy power been praised, which is

posed to be India.

4. Inclīnabo in parabolam aurem meam : aperiā in psalterio propositionem meam.

5. Cur timebo in die mala ? iniquitas calcanei mei circumdabit me :

6. Qui confidunt in virtute sua : et in multitudine divitiarum suarum gloriantur.

7. Frater non redimit, redimet homo : non dabit Deo placationem suam.

8. Et pretium redemptionis animæ suæ : et laborabit in æternum, et vivet adhuc in finem.

9. Non videbit interitum, cum viderit sapientes morientes : simul insipiens, et stultus peribunt.

10. Et relinquent alienis divitias suas : et sepulchra eorum domus illorum in æternum.

11. Tabernacula eorum in progenie, et progenie : vocaverunt nomina sua in terris suis.

12. Et homo, cum in honore esset, non intellexit : comparatus est jumentis insipientibus, et similis factus est illis.

13. Hæc via illorum scandalum ipsis : et postea in ore suo complacebunt.

14. Sicut oves in inferno positi sunt : mors depascet eos.

15. Et dominabuntur eorum justi in matutino : et auxilium eorum veterascet in inferno a gloria eorum.

16. Verumtamen Deus redimet animam meam de manu inferi, cum acceperit me.

17. Ne timueris cum dives factus fuerit homo : et cum

4. I will incline my ear to a parable : I will open my proposition on the psaltery.

5. Why shall I fear in the evil day ? the iniquity of my heel shall encompass me :

6. They that trust in their own strength : and glory in the multitude of their riches.

7. No brother can redeem, nor shall man redeem : he shall not give to God his ransom.

8. Nor the price of the redemption of his soul : and shall labor forever, and shall still live unto the end.

9. He shall not see destruction, when he shall see the wise dying : the senseless and the fools shall perish together :

10. And they shall leave their riches to strangers : and their sepulchres shall be their houses forever.

11. Their dwelling places to all generations : they have called their lands by their names.

12. And man when he was in honor, did not understand : he hath been compared to senseless beasts, and is become like to them.

13. This way of theirs is a stumbling-block to them : and afterwards they shall delight in their mouth.

14. They are laid in hell like sheep : death shall feed upon them.

15. And the just shall have dominion over them in the morning : and their help shall decay in hell, from their glory.

16. But God will redeem my soul from the hand of hell, when he shall receive me.

17. Be not thou afraid, when a man shall be made rich : and multiplicata fuerit gloria domus ejus.

18. Quoniam cum interierit, non sumet omnia: neque descendet cum eo gloria ejus.

19. Quia anima ejus in vita ipsius benedicetur: confitebitur tibi cum benefeceris ei.

20. Introibit usque in progenies patrum suorum: et usque in æternum non videbit lumen.

21. Homo, cum in honore esset, non intellexit: comparatus est jumentis insipientibus, et similis factus est illis.

when the glory of his house shall be increased.

18. For when he shall die he shall take nothing away: nor shall his glory descend with him.

19. For in his lifetime his soul will be blessed: and he will praise thee when thou shalt do well to him.

20. He shall go in to the generations of his fathers: and he shall never see light.

21. Man when he was in honor did not understand: he hath been compared to senseless beasts, and made like to them.

3. I shall speak to you only of the things that it is necessary to know; I will tell you what I have meditated in my heart, that you may know how to act prudently in all that you do.

4. I shall attentively hear the truths that are proposed to me in parable; and this enigma I will explain to you to the sound of the harp. "Propositionem meam." According to the Hebrew: *Ænigma meum.*¹

5. Why should I fear on the evil day, that is, on the day of my judgment? Only my iniquity makes me fear, especially the iniquity of my heel; that is, that which shall follow me unto death, which is the end of my life, as the heel is the end of my body.

7. "Frater non redimit, redimet homo." Non is again understood before homo, according to the usage of Scripture, as Bellarmine remarks. The sense, then, is: At the moment of death their brother will be unable to deliver them from the peril; and much less will any other man be able to do so.²

¹ These first four verses form the exordium. The prophet invites all men, of every condition, to listen most attentively to him. He then sets forth his subject: lessons of wisdom and prudence which he has meditated upon in his heart by obeying the divine inspiration, and which he will express in suitable and lofty language to the accompaniment of delicious music.

² "Redimet homo." Many interpreters understand these words in an interrogative sense: Shall another man redeem?

9. “Non videbit interitum.” These words, according to Bossuet, are to be understood in an ironical sense as if the prophet said: An putabit se non visurum interitum?—Will he suppose that he will not see death? Others give this interpretation: He shall not see death, that is, he shall not die before having finished the natural course of his life, although he sees wise men die. Or, as Bellarmine says, we may understand the passage to mean: He shall neglect to provide for death, which is waiting for him at its time; for the sinners avoid thinking of death; but alike for the fool as for the wise, there must come a day when they must die.

11. It is there that they shall dwell for several generations; there shall be nothing left of them in their lands but their names written on tablets of marble, or on the walls of their houses.

12. “Non intellexit.” He did not understand what he should have understood as man.¹

13. “Hæc via illorum scandalum ipsis.” Such is their way, that is, their life, in which they find many dangerous occasions that may bring them to ruin.

14. These miserable men, living like animals without reason, they will one day find themselves as victims of divine justice, cast into hell, where death shall feed on them; that is, where their death will be eternal. As sheep feed upon the blades of grass, and leave the roots to sprout forth again, so death torments unceasingly the reprobate, still leaving them life, that they may go on suffering eternally.

15. At the general resurrection, which is “morning,” or the beginning of the age to come, the wicked shall see the just established their masters and their judges; then the power which they had in this world will be shattered and destroyed in hell, after all the vain glory of which they boasted during their life.

¹ Man, whom God has raised to so high an honor, by creating him according to his own image, with intelligence, reason, free will, immortality of the soul and dominion over all earthly things, does not understand his dignity, his high destiny: he can if he wishes reach the happiness of God himself, and he precipitates himself into the abyss of every evil. See Psalm xxvii. 7.

10. Non accipiam de domo tua vitulos: neque de gregibus tuis hircos.

11. Quoniam meæ sunt omnes feræ silvarum, jumenta in montibus et boves.

12. Cognovi omnia volatilia cœli: et pulchritudo agri mecum est.

13. Si esuriero, non dicam tibi: meus est enim orbis terræ, et plenitudo ejus.

14. Numquid manducabo carnes taurorum? aut sanguinem hircorum potabo?

15. Immola Deo sacrificium laudis: et redde Altissimo vota tua.

16. Et invoca me in die tribulationis: eruam te, et honorificabis me.

17. Peccatori autem dixit Deus: Quare tu enarras justitias meas, et assumis testamentum meum per os tuum?

18. Tu vero odisti disciplinam: et projecisti sermones meos retrorsum.

19. Si videbas furem, currebas cum eo: et cum adulteris portionem tuam ponebas.

20. Os tuum abundavit malitia: et lingua tua concinnabat dolos.

21. Sedens adversus fratrem tuum loquebaris, et adversus filium matris tuæ ponebas scandalum: hæc fecisti, et tacui.

22. Existimasti inique quod ero tui similis: arguam te, et statuam contra faciem tuam.

23. Intelligite hæc qui obliviscimini Deum: nequando rapiat, et non sit qui eripiat.

10. I will not take calves out of thy house: nor he-goats out of thy flocks.

11. For all the beasts of the woods are mine, the cattle on the hills, and the oxen.

12. I know all the fowls of the air: and with me is the beauty of the field.

13. If I should be hungry, I would not tell thee: for the world is mine, and the fulness thereof.

14. Shall I eat the flesh of bullocks? or shall I drink the blood of goats?

15. Offer to God the sacrifice of praise: and pay thy vows to the most High.

16. And call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me.

17. But to the sinner God hath said: Why dost thou declare my justice, and take my covenant in thy mouth?

18. Seeing thou hast hated discipline: and hast cast my words behind thee.

19. If thou didst see a thief thou didst run with him: and with adulterers thou hast been a partaker.

20. Thy mouth hath abounded with evil: and thy tongue framed deceits.

21. Sitting thou didst speak against thy brother, and didst lay a scandal against thy mother's son: these things hast thou done, and I was silent.

22. Thou thoughtest unjustly that I shall be like to thee: but I will reprove thee, and set before thy face.

23. Understand these things, you that forget God: lest he snatch you away, and there be none to deliver you.

24. Sacrificium laudis honorificabit me: et illic iter, quo ostendam illi salutare Dei.

24. The sacrifice of praise shall glorify me: and there is the way by which I will show him the salvation of God.

1. The God of gods,¹ the true God, the Sovereign Master of all created powers, has cited before his tribunal all men of the earth to give an account of their lives.

2. He will make his voice heard from one extremity of the earth to the other; and he shall come down from the heavenly Sion, adorned with his glory and majesty.

3. Our God shall come in sight of the whole world, and make himself known as the great God that he is; and then he shall no longer be silent, as he has been in the past, seeing the sins of the wicked, while seeming not to notice the injury that he received.

4. The fire at his presence will burn with greater force, reducing the world to ashes, according to the words of St. Peter: Terra autem, et quæ in ipsa sunt opera, exurentur—The earth and the works which are in it shall be burnt up (2 Peter, iii. 10). And around him there shall be a great and universal tempest, which shall throw everything into confusion on earth, in the sea, and in the air.

5. He will then call heaven and earth, that is, all the angels and all men, to be present at the judgment that he will make of his people, by separating the elect from the reprobate.

6. Angels of heaven, gather around the Sovereign Judge his saints, that is, the elect; who besides sacrifices, that is, besides external worship, have kept his covenant by obeying his law.

7. "Deus iudex est." The judge is God; he cannot err.

8. Here the prophet makes Jesus Christ speak and say: Listen, my people, to what I shall say to thee; listen, Israel, that is, all the true faithful, to what I shall declare to thee, through my inspirations and by my ministers; thou shouldst believe me, for I am thy God, the true God, who knows all things, and who loves thee.

¹ Many, observes Bellarmine, are called gods by different rights; namely, by a false creed, as the pagan divinities or the demons; by the grace of adoption, as the angels and saints; by similitude, as princes and judges. But all these gods are subject to one alone, who is the true God; called, therefore, the God of gods (see Psalm, lxxxi. 1, 6).

9. My people, I will not reproach thee for the sacrifices that thou hast neglected to offer to me; for those that thou hast offered me suffice me, and they are ever before my eyes.

12. I well know that all the birds are mine, and that which gives richness and beauty to the fields is mine.

15. If thou wouldst please me, offer to me, thy God, a sacrifice of praise, which comes not only from the lips, but from a heart that loves me, and fulfil the promises that thou hast made to me.

16. "Honorificabis me." Thou shalt honor me by returning me thanks.¹

17. We read in St. Jerome's translation: Quid tibi est cum narratione præceptorum meorum, et ut assumas pactum meum in ore tuo? The verse may, therefore, be thus explained: The Lord says to the sinner: Of what use is it to talk of my precepts, when thou dost not observe them, and of my covenant, when thou art wanting to it on thy part?

18. "Disciplinam." That is, my teaching.

21. "Ponebas scandalum." St. Jerome's translation is: Fabricabis opprobrium. The sense of the verse is: Sitting in company with others, thou hast spoken ill of thy neighbor; thou hast sought to take away the good name of thy own brother; this thou hast done, and I have been silent.

22. Didst thou think, O wicked man! that I was like to thee?

¹ In the verses 8 to 16, the Sovereign Judge declares to the servants of God that the sacrifices, that is, the material gifts that are offered to him, have of themselves no value in his eyes, since they are of no use to him, and everything belongs to him; they are agreeable to him only inasmuch as they faithfully represent the sentiments of the heart, such as faith, hope, charity, contrition, gratitude. See Psalm l. 17, 18. It is the heart that the Lord wishes and upon which he looks: Dominus autem intuetur cor—The Lord beholdeth the heart (1 Kings, xvi 7). And it is thus that he appreciates the offering of the poor widow (Mark, xii. 42). It is the same in regard to all meritorious acts that are rewarded in accordance with the pure intention and the interior sacrifice. See, moreover, the conclusion, verse 24. In the following verses, 17 to 23, the Lord points out to us that we shall have to render to him an account of the faults committed; namely, in our thoughts in our affections, in omissions, 18 and 22; in actions and co-operation, 19; in words, 20, 21.

6 Videbunt justi, et timebunt, et super eum ridebunt, et dicent: Ecce homo, qui non posuit Deum adiutorem suum:

7. Sed speravit in multitudine divitiarum suarum: et prævaluit in vanitate sua.

8. Ego autem, sicut oliva fructifera in domo Dei, speravi in misericordia Dei in æternum: et in sæculum sæculi.

9. Confitebor tibi in sæculum quia fecisti: et expectabo nomen tuum, quoniam bonum est in conspectu sanctorum tuorum.

6. The just shall see and fear, and shall laugh at him, and say: Behold the man that made not God his helper:

7. But trusted in the abundance of his riches: and prevailed in his vanity.

8. But I, as a fruitful olive-tree in the house of God, have hoped in the mercy of God forever and ever.

9. I will praise thee forever, because thou hast done it: and I will wait on thy name, for it is good in the sight of thy saints.

1. "In iniquitate." In doing injury to others.

2. All the time thou hast employed thy tongue only to offend others unjustly; thou hast used it as a well-sharpened razor to deceive."¹

3. Thou hast loved to do evil to thy neighbor better than to do him good: thou hast sought to speak to his damage more readily than to his advantage.

5. "Radicem tuam." He will make thee disappear with all thy race, as a tree is felled and pulled up with all its roots.

6. The just shall see all this, and they will have horror thereat; at the same time they will laugh at his ruin, and will say: Behold the man who refused to put his trust in God, as if he did not need his help.

7. "Prævaluit in vanitate sua." He reckoned on his vain supports, which gave him a promise of happiness.

9. I will never cease to thank Thee for Thy benefits; and in all my tribulations I will wait for the help of Thy goodness, which never fails to succor Thy servants.

¹ "Cogitavit lingua." Poetical figure, to say that one has not spoken without premeditation. "Sicut novacula acuta." Comparison which expresses promptness and facility. The two following verses show the source of evil in the perversity of the heart.

Wednesday at Matins.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM LII. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist deplores the corruption of mankind, and prays God to deliver his people from the persecution of the wicked. He speaks also of God's goodness in waiting for sinners to do penance; and at the same time he sighs for the coming of the Redeemer to deliver man from the slavery of the devil, typified by the captivity of Babylon.¹

1. DIXIT insipiens in corde suo: Non est Deus.

2. Corrupti sunt, et abominabiles facti sunt in iniquitatibus: non est qui faciat bonum.

3. Deus de cœlo prospexit super filios hominum: ut videat si est intelligens, aut requirens Deum.

4. Omnes declinaverunt, simul inutiles facti sunt: non est qui faciat bonum, non est usque ad unum.

5. Nonne scient omnes qui operantur iniquitatem, qui devorant plebem meam ut cibum panis?

6. Deum non invocaverunt: illic trepidaverunt timore, ubi non erat timor.

7. Quoniam Deus dissipavit ossa eorum qui hominibus placent: confusi sunt, quoniam Deus sprexit eos.

8. Quis dabit ex Sion salutare Israel? cum converterit Deus captivitatem plebis suæ, exultabit Jacob, et lætabitur Israel.

1. THE fool said in his heart: There is no God.

2. They are corrupted, and become abominable in iniquities: there is none that doth good.

3. God looked down from heaven on the children of men: to see if there were any that did understand, or did seek God.

4. All have gone aside, they are become unprofitable together: there is none that doth good, no not one.

5. Shall not all the workers of iniquity know; who eat up my people as they eat bread?

6. They have not called upon God: there have they trembled for fear, where there was no fear.

7. For God hath scattered the bones of them that please men: they have been confounded, because God hath despised them.

8. Who will give out of Sion the salvation of Israel? when God shall bring back the captivity of his people, Jacob shall rejoice, and Israel shall be glad.

¹ All the verses of this psalm, except verse 7, and some differences of expression are found in Psalm xiii.

1. "Insipiens." The impious man becomes a fool by his impiety. A man must have lost his reason to think that there is no God.

2. Miserable men! living a life of moral corruption, they have become abominable by their iniquity before God and before men; there is not one among them who does a good action.

3. "Intelligens, aut requirens Deum." Who understands his duty, and seeks to please God.

4. "Omnes declinaverunt, simul inutiles facti sunt." All are wanting to their duty, and thus render themselves useless to God and to men.

5. Will these unhappy men then never know their perversity, and will they continue to oppress my people with as much ease as one eats bread?

6. The cause of their wicked life comes from their not wishing to call upon the Lord in the dangers of offending him; they fear where there is no cause for fear, that is, they fear to lose some earthly good, and they are not afraid of losing the grace of God.

7. God will utterly destroy those that displease him in order to please men; they shall be confounded; for as they despise God, so also shall they be despised by God.

8. The fools will say: Who will come from Sion to save Israel? But when God shall turn the slavery of his people into glorious liberty, this same people shall be filled with joy.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM LIV. OF THE PSALTER.

David, persecuted by his son Absalom, and imploring the help of God: such, in the literal sense, is the subject of this psalm. But St. Hilary and St. Jerome apply this psalm to Jesus Christ, betrayed by Judas and persecuted by the Jews. Generally speaking, it may be applied to all the just, persecuted in this life by men or devils.

1. EXAUDI Deus orationem meam, et ne despexeris deprecationem meam: intende mihi, et exaudi me.

2. Contristatus sum in exercitatione mea: et conturbatus sum a voce inimici, et a tribulatione peccatoris.

1. HEAR, O God, my prayer, and despise not my supplication: be attentive to me and hear me.

2. I am grieved in my exercise: and am troubled at the voice of the enemy, and at the tribulation of the sinner.

18. Ego autem ad Deum clamavi: et Dominus salvabit me.

19. Vespere, et mane et meridie narrabo et annuntiabo: et exaudiet vocem meam.

20. Redimet in pace animam meam ab his qui appropinquant mihi: quoniam inter multos erant mecum.

21. Exaudiet Deus, et humiliabit illos, qui est ante sæcula.

22. Non enim est illis commutatio, et non timuerunt Deum: extendit manum suam in retribuendo.

23. Contaminaverunt testamentum ejus, divisi sunt ab ira vultus ejus, et appropinquavit cor illius.

24. Molliti sunt sermones ejus super oleum: et ipsi sunt jacula.

25. Jacta super Dominum curam tuam, et ipse te enutriet: non dabit in æternum fluctuationem justo.

26. Tu vero Deus deduces eos, in puteum interitus.

27. Viri sanguinum et dolosi non dimidiabunt dies suos: ego autem sperabo in te Domine.

18. But I have cried to God: and the Lord will save me.

19. Evening and morning, and at noon I will speak and declare: and he shall hear my voice.

20. He shall redeem my soul in peace from them that draw near to me: for among many they were with me.

21. God shall hear, and the Eternal shall humble them.

22. For there is no change with them, and they have not feared God: he hath stretched forth his hand to repay.

23. They have defiled his covenant, they are divided by the wrath of his countenance and his heart hath drawn near,

24. His words are smoother than oil: and the same are darts.

25. Cast thy care upon the Lord, and he shall sustain thee: he shall not suffer the just to waver for ever.

26. But thou, O God, shalt bring them down into the pit of destruction.

27. Bloody and deceitful men shall not live out half their days: but I will trust in thee, O Lord.

1. "Intende mihi." Consider my tribulation.

2. I am afflicted in applying myself to consider my sufferings, and I am troubled at hearing of the persecution that my perverse enemy is plotting against me.

3. My enemies have accused me of crimes that I have not committed; and moved by anger, they seek all means to hurt me.

5. "Contexerunt me tenebræ." I am encompassed all around with darkness, so that I am unable to see any escape from the dangers that threaten me.

6. In this state I said: Who will give me wings, that like a timid dove, as I am at present, I may be able to fly and seek repose in some secure place?

7. I would take flight if I could, and I should be content to remain in some unknown desert. This is the explanation given by Rotigni and Lallemand.

8. There I would wait for him who has so often delivered me from my great fear of soul, and from the tempest that arose against me.

9. Cast down those that seek to oppress me; confound their tongues, that is, put discord between them, so that their designs become fruitless; for I see their iniquity; I see the whole city in contradiction, that is, all in disorder and confusion.

14. But he that persecutes me, who is he? It is thou, my guide and my friend, who I believed had but one and the same heart with me.¹

19. At all times, I will publish the mercy of the Lord in assisting me, and I hope that he will ever graciously hearken to my prayers.²

20. He will establish me again in my former peace, and will deliver my life from those that approach me to oppress me; for they have come in great numbers against me to cast me down. This is according to the translation of St. Jerome, who has: Multī enim fuerunt adversum me.

21. "Qui est ante sæcula." He who is the Eternal.

22. The Lord sees that for them there is no change, that is, he sees that they are obstinate, and that they have no fear of God; and for this reason he has already raised his hand to punish them according to their malice.

23. "Contaminaverunt testamentum ejus." They have violated his covenant. St. Jerome translates: Contaminavit pactum suum, that is, they have broken their given faith. "Divisi sunt ab ira vultus ejus." But they have been scattered at the sight of the anger which the Lord showed against them. "Appropinquavit cor illius." The heart of God has drawn near, that is, is set to take on them his just vengeance. Others refer the words cor illius, not to God, but to the rebellious. They say that such a rebel or traitor has one thing on his lips and another in his heart.¹ But, according to Bellarmine, here is signified the heart of God aroused to anger.

² "Vespere, et mane, et meridie." It was usual to pray especially three times a day (Dan. vi. 10). Evening is put first, because then the celebration of the feasts began (Levit. xxiii. 32). Hence the first Vespers in the office of the Church.

24. "Ipsi sunt jacula." In reality their words are sharp arrows hurled when least expected.

25. But the Lord encourages me to leave to his goodness the care of my salvation, and thus he will take thought to preserve my life; he will not permit that the just man should always be tossed about on the billows of fear.

26. On the contrary, O Lord! as for my enemies, Thou wilt cast them down into the pit of death, that is, into hell, where has to be endured a never-ending death. Hell is called a pit, because it has a mouth to receive the damned, but has no door by which they can go out.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM LV. OF THE PSALTER.

David flying from the presence of Saul, who was seeking his death, retires among the Philistines; but when recognized by them who he was, he finds himself in great danger (1 Kings, xxi. 10). Under these circumstances he composes this prayer, which every Christian can use when he sees himself in danger of falling into sin and becoming the prey of the devil.

1. MISERERE mei Deus, quoniam conculcavit me homo: tota die impugnans tribulavit me.

2. Conculcaverunt me inimici mei tota die: quoniam multi bellantes adversum me.

3. Ab altitudine diei timebo: ego vero in te sperabo.

4. In Deo laudabo sermones

1. HAVE mercy on me, O God, for man hath trodden me under foot: all the day long he hath afflicted me, fighting against me.

2. My enemies have trodden on me all the day long; for they are many that make war against me.

3. From the height of the day I shall fear: but I will trust in thee.

4. In God I will praise my

¹ This explanation is doubtless taken from the Hebrew text. St. Jerome thus translates this passage: Nitidius butyro os ejus; pugnat autem cor illius. His mouth is smoother than butter; but his heart is at war. A meaning that agrees with the following verse.

4. "Sermones meos." According to the Hebrew: Verbum ejus. The promises that he has made me, or the word that he has given me. "Caro." The carnal man, who in regard to God is but weakness (see verse 11).

7. "Sustinuerunt animam meam." They have waited for the opportunity to take away my life. "Pro nihilo salvos facies illos." So Thou wilt on no account save them. This is St. Jerome's explanation. St. Augustine, on the contrary, gives this interpretation: Thou wilt save them, of pure grace, without any merit on their part. The sense of St. Jerome agrees better with the words that follow: "In ira populos confringes." In Thy just wrath, Thou wilt break to pieces this crowd of enemies who would destroy me.

8. I lay before Thee all the afflictions of my life; I hope that Thou wilt always have my tears before Thy eyes.

9. As Thou hast promised, I hope that my enemies, filled with confusion, at seeing their designs brought to naught, will turn backwards.

10. I shall not fail to call upon Thee every day; for I have well known that Thou art my God, coming to my assistance, as Thou hast every time that I have called on Thee.

11. I shall always praise in my God and my Lord his faithfulness to his promises; and therefore, trusting in him, I will not fear that man can do me any harm (see verse 4).

12. This is the explanation that Bellarmine gives with St. Jerome: In me, that is, in my memory are always "Vota tua" the promises that I have made to Thee; hence I will never cease to offer to Thee the praises and the thanksgivings that are contained in these promises.

13. "Ut placeam coram Deo in lumine viventium." In order that I may be well pleasing to Thee by means of the light of grace, whereby Thy servants live in the fidelity to Thee.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM LVI. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist here manifests his confidence in the protection of God, whose praises he proclaims.⁴

1. MISERERE mei Deus, miserere mei: quoniam in te confidit anima mea.

1. HAVE mercy on me, O God, have mercy on me: for my soul trusteth in thee.

2. Et in umbra alarum tuarum sperabo, donec transeat iniquitas.

3. Clamabo ad Deum altissimum: Deum qui benefecit mihi.

4. Misit de cœlo, et liberavit me: dedit in opprobrium conculcantes me.

5. Misit Deus, misericordiam suam, et veritatem suam, et eripuit animam meam de medio catulorum leonum: dormivi conturbatus.

6. Filii hominum dentes eorum arma et sagittæ: et lingua eorum gladius acutus.

7. Exaltare super cœlos Deus: et in omnem terram gloriâ tua.

8. Laqueum paraverunt pedibus meis: et incurvaverunt animam meam.

9. Foderunt ante faciem meam foveam: et inciderunt in eam.

10. Paratum cor meum Deus, paratum cor meum: cantabo, et psalmum dicam.

11. Exurge gloria mea, exurge psalterium et cithara: exurgam diluculo.

12. Confitebor tibi in populis Domine: et psalmum dicam tibi in gentibus:

13. Quoniam magnificata est usque ad cœlos misericordia tua, et usque ad nubes veritas tua.

14. Exaltare super cœlos Deus: et super omnem terram gloria tua.

2. And in the shadow of thy wings will I hope, until iniquity pass away.

3. I will cry to God the most High: to God who hath done good to me.

4. He hath sent from heaven and delivered me: he hath made them a reproach that trod upon me.

5. God hath sent his mercy and his truth, and he hath delivered my soul from the midst of the young lions: I slept troubled.

6. The sons of men, whose teeth are weapons and arrows: and their tongue a sharp sword.

7. Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens: and thy glory above all the earth.

8. They prepared a snare for my feet: and they bowed down my soul.

9. They dug a pit before my face: and they are fallen into it.

10 My heart is ready, O God, my heart is ready: I will sing, and rehearse a psalm.

11. Arise, O my glory, arise psaltery and harp: I will arise early.

12. I will give praise to thee, O Lord, among the peoples: I will sing a psalm to thee among the nations:

13. For thy mercy is magnified even to the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds.

14. Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens: and thy glory above all the earth.

cave when this prince was pursuing him (1 Kings, xxiv). This is indicated by the title which reads: Cum fugeret a facie Saul in speluncam.

2. “Donec transeat iniquitas.” Until the time when I see the end of the unjust persecution that I suffer.

5. God sent from heaven the mercy that he had promised me, and he saved my life by withdrawing me from the midst of my enemies who like young lions were seeking to destroy me;¹ nevertheless, I cannot as yet sleep in peace without being troubled with fears.

6. I always fear this race of perverse men, who have their teeth and their tongue as sharp swords and darts, to wound me by their lies and calumnies. This is what, according to Bellarmine, is indicated by the Hebrew phrase.

7. Raise Thy power above the heavens, and make Thy glory shine upon the whole earth by delivering me from my enemies.

8. “Incurvaverunt animam meam.” They have made me bend under the weight of the evils with which they oppressed me.

10. I am ready to suffer all that Thou hast appointed for me; so that in all that may happen I shall not cease to praise Thee.²

11. Arise my soul³ and glory in the Lord; and thou my harp and my lyre, hasten to praise the Lord; I wish to praise him without ceasing from the break of day.

13. I shall say, from the earth till the heavens, all is full of Thy mercy and Thy faithfulness.

14. See verse 7.

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM LVII. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet describes in this psalm the perverse conduct of the wicked, and shows the chastisement that God usually inflicts upon them.

1. SI VERE utique justitiam loquimini: recta judicate filii hominum.

1. IF in very deed you speak justice: judge right things, ye sons of men.

2. Etenim in corde iniquitates operamini: in terrā injustitias manus vestræ concinnant.

2. For in your heart you work iniquities: your hands forge injustice in the earth.

3. Alienati sunt peccatores

3. The wicked are alienated

¹ Reference to the danger incurred by David when he was surrounded by the troops of Saul in the desert of Maon (1 Kings, xxiii. 26).

² This verse and those that follow are reproduced in Psalm cvii. with some slight differences of expression.

³ Bellarmine, following Theodoret, says that David calls the spirit or the gift of prophecy his glory.

rhamnum. That is: Before you come to execute the evil that you design to do.¹

10. "Vindictam." The justice of divine vengeance. "Manus suas lavabit in sanguine peccatoris." That is, as is explained by St. Augustine, while seeing the blood, or the death of the sinner, he will preserve himself pure and innocent.

11. And then, seeing the fruit, or the profit that the just derive from the chastisement of the sinner, every one will recognize that there is in the world a God who knows how to judge over the earth, and to punish the wicked as they deserve.

PSALM VI., WHICH IS PSALM LVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

David, seeing himself surrounded by the soldiers of Saul (1 Kings, xix. 11), invokes the Lord's assistance and predicts the ruin of his enemies. This psalm applies in every point to Jesus Christ persecuted by the Jews.

1. ERIPE me de inimicis meis Deus meus: et ab insurgentibus in me libera me.

2. Eripe me de operantibus iniquitatem: et de viris sanguinum salva me.

3. Quia ecce ceperunt animam meam: irruerunt in me fortes.

4. Neque iniquitas mea, neque peccatum meum Domine: sine iniquitate cucurri, et direxi.

5. Exurge in occursum meum, et vide: et tu Domine Deus virtutum, Deus Israel.

1. DELIVER me from my enemies, O my God: and defend me from them that rise up against me.

2. Deliver me from them that work iniquity: and save me from bloody men.

3. For behold they have caught my soul: the mighty have rushed in upon me:

4. Neither is it for my iniquity, nor my sin, O Lord: without iniquity have I run, and directed my steps.

5. Rise up thou to meet me, and behold: even thou, O Lord the God of hosts, the God of Israel.

¹ There is, in the verses that precede, a succession of remarkable comparisons: verses 4. 5: the wicked become obstinate in evil like the adder, which is supposed to resist every means to charm or soften it; verse 6: they are violent like furious lions, but God renders them incapable of doing harm; verse 7: they advance as a torrent which threatens to swallow up everything on its way, but the waters flow away and disappear; verse 8: they melt away like wax before the fire; verse 9: they resemble a thorny shrub that is rooted up and buried in the ground before its thorns have acquired the strength to wound.

6. Intende ad visitandas omnes Gentes: non miserearis omnibus, qui operantur iniquitatem.

7. Convertentur ad vesperam: et famem patientur ut canes, et circuibunt civitatem.

8. Ecce loquentur in ore suo, et gladius in labiis eorum: quoniam quis audivit?

9. Et tu Domine deridebis eos: ad nihilum deduces omnes gentes.

10. Fortitudinem meam ad te custodiam, quia Deus susceptor meus es: Deus meus, misericordia ejus præveniet me.

11. Deus ostendit mihi super inimicos meos, ne occidas eos: nequando obliviscantur populi mei.

12. Disperge illos in virtute tua: et depone eos protector meus Domine.

13. Delictum oris eorum, sermonem labiorum ipsorum: et comprehendantur in superbia sua.

14. Et de execratione et mendacio annuntiabuntur in consummatione: in iræ consummationis, et non erunt.

15. Et scient quia Deus dominabitur Jacob, et finium terræ.

16. Convertentur ad vesperam, et famem patientur ut canes: et circuibunt civitatem.

17. Ipsi dispergentur ad manducandum: si vero non fuerint saturati, et murmurabunt.

18. Ego autem cantabo fortitudinem tuam: et exultabo mane misericordiam tuam.

6. Attend to visit all the nations: have no mercy on all them that work iniquity.

7. They shall return at evening: and shall suffer hunger like dogs, and shall go round about the city.

8. Behold they shall speak with their mouth, and a sword is in their lips: for who, say they, hath heard us?

9. But thou, O Lord, shalt laugh at them: thou shalt bring all the nations to nothing.

10. I will keep my strength to thee: for thou art my protector: my God, his mercy shall prevent me.

11. God shall let me see over my enemies, slay them not: lest at any time my people forget.

12. Scatter them by thy power: and bring them down, O Lord my protector.

13. For the sin of their mouth, and the word of their lips: and let them be taken in their pride.

14. And for their cursing and lying they shall be talked of, when they are consumed; when they are consumed by thy wrath, and they shall be no more.

15. And they shall know that God will rule Jacob, and all the ends of the earth.

16. They shall return at evening and shall suffer hunger like dogs: and shall go round about the city.

17. They shall be scattered abroad to eat: and shall murmur if they be not filled.

18. But I will sing thy strength: and will extol thy mercy in the morning.

19. Quia factus es susceptor meus et refugium meum, in die tribulationis meæ.

19. For thou art become my support, and my refuge, in the day of my trouble.

20. Adjutor meus tibi psallam, quia Deus susceptor meus es: Deus meus misericordia mea.

20. Unto thee, O my helper, will I sing, for thou art my God my defence: my God my mercy.

2. "De viris sanguinum." From these cruel men that thirst for my blood.

4. "Neque iniquitas mea, neque peccatum meum." Thou knowest that there is in me no iniquity, nor any fault with which they can reproach me.

5. Thou seest the peril in which I am; arise to help me, O mighty God, O God of Israel.¹

6. "Qui operantur iniquitatem." Who do not wish to cease to be unjust.

7. There are those that thus understand this verse: They will arrive late in the evening; but, like stray dogs, they will suffer great hunger, that is, they will have a great desire to be just in order to find peace; they will go round about the city of God, but they will not find mercy. Others explain it better, thus: They will go and return from morning till evening; they will even surround the city, seeking like dogs to satisfy their hunger, and to oppress the just; but they will be disappointed (see verse 16).

8. Their mouth will speak of nothing else than of laying snares and killing, saying at the same time: Who knows of it?

9. Thou wilt make them an object of ridicule, and wilt destroy all their wicked people.

11. God will make known to me the vengeance that he will take on my enemies. I pray Thee, O Lord! to punish them, but do not destroy them, so that my subjects, having always their chastisement before their eyes, may not forget Thy justice.

12. "Depone eos." That is: Reduce them to such a state that they may not be able to raise their heads to injure me.

13. Let this be the punishment of their slanderous mouth

¹ Many interpreters unite the second part of this verse to the following, and translate: And Thou O Lord, the God of hosts, the God of Israel, attend . . .

6. Deus locutus est in sancto suo: Lætabor, et partibor Sichimam: et convallem tabernaculorum metibor.

7. Meus est Galaad, et meus est Manasses: et Ephraim fortitudo capitis mei.

8. Juda rex meus: Moab olla spei meæ.

9. In Idumæam extendam calceamentum meum: mihi alienigenæ subditi sunt.

10. Quis deducet me in civitatem munitam? quis deducet me usque in Idumæam?

11. Nonne tu Deus, qui repulisti nos: et non egredieris Deus in virtutibus nostris?

12. Da nobis auxilium de tribulatione: quia vana salus hominis.

13. In Deo faciemus virtutem: et ipse ad nihilum deducet tribulantes nos.

6. God hath spoken in his holy place: I will rejoice, and I will divide Sichem: and will mete out the vale of tabernacles.

7. Galaad is mine, and Manasses is mine: and Ephraim is the strength of my head.

8. Juda is my king: Moab is the pot of my hope.

9. Into Edom will I stretch out my shoe: to me the foreigners are made subject.

10. Who will bring me into the strong city? who will lead me into Edom?

11. Wilt not thou, O God, who hast cast us off: and wilt not thou, O God, go out with our armies?

12. Give us help from trouble: for vain is the salvation of man.

13. Through God we shall do mightily: and he shall bring to nothing them that afflict us.

1. O great God! it seems that Thou hast deprived us of Thy protection, since Thou hast let us see ourselves defeated; but, though Thou didst at first show Thyself angry with me, Thou hast in the end had compassion on me.

2. "Sana contritiones ejus, quia commota est." It now remains for Thy mercy to repair the ruins made by this great shock.

3. Thou hast given proof of chastising us severely; Thou hast made us taste of the bitter wine of compunction (or, according to the Hebrew, of fear), and that in order to see us holily contrite.

4. "Ut fugiant a facie arcus." In order that they may preserve themselves from the arrows of Thy wrath at the sight of the already bended bow.

5. Thou hast acted in this manner in order to save those that love Thee; hear me, then, and let Thy hand save me.¹

6. God has declared from his sanctuary that one day I shall have the joy of dividing at my will the country of Sichein or Samaria, and of measuring the plains of the Valley of Tents, beyond the Jordan, to distribute them at my pleasure.

7. I already see under my sway Galaad, Manasses, and Ephraim, which are the strength of my head. Under these names are meant the provinces occupied by the tribes of Israel, which David called the strength of his head, that is, of his crown.

8. "Juda, rex meus." It is in the tribe of Juda that my throne is established, because God has willed that the kings should be chosen from this tribe. "Moab, olla spei meæ." The province of Moab, which is abundant as a platter filled with meat, is my hope. That is: I hope to satiate my people with the spoils of the Moabites.

9. "Alienigenæ." Foreigners.¹

10. Who will lead me into Edom, and make me master of that kingdom whose capital city is very strong?

11. Will it not be Thou, O Lord! who seemed at first to abandon us! And wilt Thou not Thyself go forth at the head of our troops to make us victorious?

12. "Vana salus hominis." It is in vain that we can hope for our salvation in human intercourse; Thou must aid us Thyself.

13. In placing our hope in God we shall obtain the victory; he will destroy our enemies.

PSALM VIII., WHICH IS PSALM LX. OF THE PSALTER.

Full of confidence in the power of God, the psalmist prays to him to come to his aid. St. Jerome and St. Hilary say that all afflicted souls find here an excellent prayer which they may recite in time of tribulation.²

1. EXAUDI Deus deprecationem meam: intende orationi meæ.

1. HEAR, O God, my supplication: be attentive to my prayer.

2. A finibus terræ ad te cla-

2. To thee have I cried from

¹ It is thus the Septuagint call the Philistines, because they had no affinity with the Israelites; whereas the Edomites were descended from Esau, or Edom, the brother of Jacob, and the Ammonites and Moabites from Lot, the nephew of Abraham. See Psalm lxxxv. 4. According to Menochius the meaning of the verse is: I will go to take possession of Edom; for already the Philistines obey me.

² All these verses apply very well to the Church militant.

mavi: dum anxiaretur cor meum, in petra exaltasti me.

3. Deduxisti me, quia factus es spes mea: turris fortitudinis a facie inimici.

4. Inhabitabo in tabernaculo tuo in sæcula: protegar in velamento alarum tuarum.

5. Quoniam tu Deus meus exaudisti orationem meam: dedisti hereditatem timentibus nomen tuum.

6. Dies super dies regis adjicies: annos ejus usque in diem generationis et generationis.

7. Permanet in æternum in conspectu Dei: misericordiam et veritatem ejus quis requiret?

8. Sic psalmum dicam nomini tuo in sæculum sæculi: ut reddam vota mea de die in diem.

the ends of the earth: when my heart was in anguish, thou hast exalted me on a rock.

3. Thou hast conducted me; for thou hast been my hope: a tower of strength against the face of the enemy.

4. In thy tabernacle I shall dwell forever: I shall be protected under the covert of thy wings.

5. For thou, my God, hast heard my prayer: thou hast given an inheritance to them that fear thy name.

6. Thou wilt add days to the days of the king: his years even to generation and generation.

7. He abideth forever in the sight of God: his mercy and truth who shall search?

8. So will I sing a psalm to thy name forever and ever: that I may pay my vows from day to day.

2. From the lowest depths of the earth, O Lord! I have cried to Thee; and when my heart was in anguish through fear, Thou didst lift me upon a rock, that is, Thou didst place me as it were on a high rock where I see myself safe from my enemies.¹

3. Thou hast led me by a sure way because Thou hast become for me as a strong tower in the face of my enemies.

5. In this place that Thou hast given me I shall always dwell securely, since there I shall be protected by Thy wings.

6. "Annos ejus usque in diem generationis et generationis." Thou wilt even make his reign to endure from generation to generation.

7. He will never cease to keep himself in the presence of his God; and who shall ever be able to see his goodness and his faithfulness fail?

8. "Ut reddam vota mea de die in diem." In order to render Thee all the days of my life the thanks that I owe Thee.

3. “In hominem.” Upon himself. You are all killing me, at least by the desire that you have to take my life, and consider me as a leaning wall that is ready to fall.

4. “Pretium meum.” My honor, which is so precious to me. So this is understood by St. Ambrose and St. Augustine. “Cucurri in siti.” For this honor I so much toiled and sweated. Bossuet explains it thus: I fled like a thirsty stag pursued by the hunters. “Benedicebant.” They praised me.

5. “Ab ipso patientia mea.” Thou wilt receive from him patience to suffer all.

6. “Non emigrabo.” I will not quit my kingdom. I shall not be driven out. I shall not fall from the state in which I am.¹

9. “In idipsum.” That is, Simul, according to St. Jerome’s translation. They are deceiving one another.

10. “Divitiæ si affluent.” If riches come to you abundantly in the way of justice and honesty.

11. “Potestas Dei est, et tibi, Domine, misericordia.” God has power to punish the wicked, and mercy to console the just.

PSALM X., WHICH IS PSALM LXIII. OF THE PSALTER.

Pursued by calumny, David implores the help of God, and proclaims his hope of seeing this persecution turn to the ruin of his enemies and to the advantage of the just. In the mystical sense this psalm applies to the Passion of Jesus Christ.

1. EXAUDI Deus orationem meam cum deprecor: a timore inimici eripe animam meam.

1. HEAR, O God, my prayer, when I make supplication to thee: deliver my soul from the fear of the enemy.

2. Protexisti me a conventu malignantium: a multitudine operantium iniquitatem.

2. Thou hast protected me from the assembly of the malignant: from the multitude of the workers of iniquity.

3. Quia exacuerunt ut gladium linguas suas: intenderunt arcum rem amaram, ut sagittent in occultis immaculatum.

3. For they have whetted their tongues like a sword: they have bent their bow a bitter thing, to shoot in secret secret the undefiled.

4. Subito sagittabunt eum, et non timebunt: firmaverunt sibi sermonem nequam.

4. They will shoot at him on a sudden, and will not fear: they are resolute in wickedness.

¹ St. Jerome translates: Non timebo. But Bellarmine says that in the Hebrew the terms are here the same as in verse 2: Non movebor.

5. Narraverunt ut absconderent laqueos: dixerunt: Quis videbit eos?

6. Scrutati sunt iniquitates: defecerunt scrutantes scrutiny.

7. Accedet homo ad cor altum: et exaltabitur Deus.

8. Sagittæ parvulorum factæ sunt plagæ eorum: et infirmatæ sunt contra eos linguæ eorum.

9. Conturbati sunt omnes qui videbant eos: et timuit omnis homo.

10. Et annuntiaverunt opera Dei: et facta ejus intellexerunt.

11. Lætabitur justus in Domino, et sperabit in eo, et laudabuntur omnes recti corde.

5. They have talked of hiding snares: they have said: Who shall see them?

6. They have searched after iniquities: they have failed in their search.

7. Man shall come to a deep heart: and God shall be exalted.

8. The arrows of children are their wounds: and their tongues against them are made weak.

9. All that saw them were troubled: and every man was afraid.

10. And they declared the works of God: and understood his doings.

11. The just shall rejoice in the Lord, and shall hope in him, and all the upright in heart shall be praised.

6. "Iniquitates." According to Bossuet: Vias nocendi—Their ways of injuring. The sense of the verse is: They have studied the ways of doing injury; but in this research they have found themselves foiled. This applies to the testimony brought forward against Jesus Christ.

7. Bossuet well explains this verse: When the wicked man cannot find fault with the just on the score of his actions, he tries to give a wrong interpretation to the secret thoughts of his heart; but God, who defends the innocent, will be exalted by punishing the wicked.

8. As the arrows discharged by children inflict only slight wounds, so the plots and calumnies of the wicked will have no effect; and therefore the arrows discharged by their tongues have become powerless to injure the objects of their calumny, and have fallen back upon themselves. This is according to the translation of St. Jerome: Et corruent in semetipsos plagis suis.

9. Those that have seen their chastisement were seized with surprise; and every one will henceforth fear to follow them.

10. In this all have recognized the hand of God, and have published it abroad.

PSALM XI., WHICH IS PSALM LXV. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm is a song of thanksgiving addressed by the people to God for having delivered them from their enemies. It may be applied to the Gentiles delivered from the tyranny of the devil.¹

1. JUBILATE Deo omnis terra, psalmum dicite nomini ejus: date gloriam laudi ejus.

2. Dicite Deo, quam terribilia sunt opera tua Domine! in multitudine virtutis tuæ mentientur tibi inimici tui.

3. Omnis terra adoret te, et psallat tibi: psalmum dicat nomini tuo.

4. Venite, et videte opera Dei: terribilis in consiliis super filios hominum.

5. Qui convertit mare in aridam, in flumine pertransibunt pede: ibi lætabimur in ipso.

6. Qui dominatur in virtute sua in æternum, oculi ejus super gentes respiciunt: qui exasperant, non exaltentur in semetipsis.

7. Benedicite Gentes Deum nostrum: et auditam facite vocem laudis ejus.

8. Qui posuit animam meam ad vitam: et non dedit in commotionem pedes meos.

9. Quoniam probasti nos Deus: igne nos examinasti, sicut examinatur argentum.

10. Induxisti nos in laqueum, posuisti tribulationes in dorso nostro: imposuisti homines super capita nostra.

11. Transivimus per ignem et aquam: et eduxisti nos in refrigerium.

1. SHOUT with joy to God, all the earth, sing ye a psalm to his name, give glory to his praise.

2. Say unto God, How terrible are thy works, O Lord! in the multitude of thy strength thy enemies shall lie to thee.

3. Let all the earth adore thee, and sing to thee: let it sing a psalm to thy name.

4. Come and see the works of God: who is terrible in his counsels over the sons of men.

5. Who turneth the sea into dry land, in the river they shall pass on foot: there shall we rejoice in him.

6. Who by his power ruleth forever, his eyes behold the nations: let not them that provoke him be exalted in themselves.

7. O bless our God, ye gentiles: and make the voice of his praise to be heard.

8. Who hath set my soul to live: and hath not suffered my feet to be moved.

9. For thou, O God, hast proved us: thou hast tried us by fire, as silver is tried.

10. Thou hast brought us into a net, thou hast laid afflictions on our back: thou hast set men over our heads.

11. We have passed through fire and water: and thou hast brought us out into a refreshment.

¹ Many, also, understand thereby the resurrection, either spiritual or eternal, in accordance with the title: Canticum psalmi resurrectionis—A Canticle of the Psalm of the Resurrection.

14. "Holocausta medullata." Victims, fat and full of marrow; that is, not only sacrifices of external works, but also of inward affections of the heart. "Cum incenso arietum." Rams, fragrant with incense.

17. If I had regarded with attachment any iniquity in my heart, the Lord would not have heard me.

19. May God be forever blessed, since he has not suffered me to forget to pray to him, because by my praying to him I have obtained his mercy so that he has not removed from me. St. Augustine has written this beautiful maxim: "Cum videres non a te amotam deprecationem tuam, securus esto, quia non est a te amota misericordia ejus—When thou seest that thy prayer is not removed from thee, be sure that neither is his mercy removed from thee."

PSALM XII., WHICH IS PSALM LXVII. OF THE PSALTER.

In a figurative sense this psalm refers to Jesus Christ, who overcame death and ascended gloriously into heaven. It also foreshadows the sanctity of the Church and the protection that God, according to his promise, does not cease to give it—a protection that should firmly establish it and make it glorious by so many victories. The prophet describes various prodigies of the Old Testament, figures of the prodigies that occurred in the New Testament. This psalm is, moreover, very obscure.¹

1. EXURGAT Deus, et dissipentur inimici ejus, et fugiant qui oderunt eum, a facie ejus.

2. Sicut deficit fumus, deficient: sicut fluit cera a facie ignis, sic pereant peccatores a facie Dei.

1. LET God arise, and let his enemies be scattered: and let them that hate him flee from before his face.

2. As smoke vanisheth, so let them vanish away: as wax melteth before the fire, so let the wicked perish at the presence of God.

3. And let the just feast, and

¹ This psalm is thought to have been composed for the translation of the Ark of the Covenant to Jerusalem (2 Kings, vi.). The first verse is a reproduction of the prayer of Moses in the desert when the Ark was raised to begin the journey: "Surge, Domine, et dissipentur inimici tui; et fugiant, qui oderunt te, a facie tua—Arise, O Lord, and let Thy enemies be scattered, and let them that hate Thee flee from before Thy face" (Num. x. 35).

4. Sing ye to God, sing a psalm to his name: make a way for him who ascendeth upon the west: the Lord is his name.

5. Rejoice ye before him: but the wicked shall be troubled at his presence, who is the father of orphans, and the judge of widows.

6. God in his holy place: God who maketh men of one manner to dwell in a house:

7. Who bringeth out them that were bound in strength, in like manner them that provoke, that dwell in sepulchres.

8. O God when thou didst go forth in the sight of thy people, when thou didst pass through the desert:

9. The earth was moved, and the heavens dropped at the presence of the God of Sinai, at the presence of the God of Israel.

10. Thou shalt set aside for thy inheritance a free rain, O God: and it was weakened, but thou hast made it perfect.

11. In it shall thy animals dwell: in thy sweetness, O God, thou hast provided for the poor.

12. The Lord shall give the word to them that preach good tidings, with great power.

13. The king of powers is beloved, of the beloved; and the beauty of the house shall divide spoils.

14. If you sleep among the midst of lots; you shall be as the wings of a dove covered with silver, and the hinder parts of her back with the paleness of gold.

22. Deus noster, Deus salvos faciendi: et Domini Domini exitus mortis.

23. Verumtamen Deus confringet capita inimicorum suorum: verticem capilli perambulantium in delictis suis.

24. Dixit Dominus: Ex Basan convertam, convertam in profundum maris:

25. Ut intingatur pes tuus in sanguine: lingua canum tuorum ex inimicis, ab ipso.

26. Viderunt ingressus tuos Deus, ingressus Dei mei: Regis mei qui est in sancto.

27. Prævenerunt principes conjuncti psallentibus, in medio juvenularum tympanistiarum.

28. In ecclesiis benedicite shall be whited with snow in Selmon: the mountain of God is a fat mountain.

16. A curdled mountain, a fat mountain: Why suspect ye curdled mountains?

17. A mountain in which God is well pleased to dwell: for there the Lord shall dwell unto the end.

18. The chariot of God is attended by ten thousand, thousands of them that rejoice: the Lord is among them in Sinai, in the holy place.

19. Thou hast ascended on high, hast led captivity captive: thou hast received gifts in men.

20. Yea for those also that do not believe, the dwelling of the Lord God.

21. Blessed be the Lord day by day: the God of our salvation will make our journey prosperous to us.

22. Our God is the God of salvation: and of the Lord, of the Lord are the issues from death.

23. But God shall break the heads of his enemies; the hairy crown of them that walk on in their sins.

24. The Lord said: I will turn them from Basan, I will turn them into the depth of the sea.

25. That thy foot may be dipped in the blood of thy enemies; the tongue of thy dogs be red with the same.

26. They have seen thy goings, O God, the goings of my God: of my king who is in his sanctuary.

that at the Last Judgment he will console all those that have been afflicted here on earth.

6. God sits in his sanctuary in heaven; and there in his house he makes his servants dwell; "Unius moris," of one manner, that is, as one in unity of virtue and sentiments.

7. He sets free those that are held captive by their passions, and likewise those that have embittered him by their faults, and have dwelt in the sepulchre, the abode of death; that is, in his displeasure.

8, 9. When Thou didst go forth in the sight of Thy people set free from Egypt, and didst go before them in the desert, in a cloud of light, the whole earth was moved, because the heavens showered down manna.

10. In the same way Thou dost wish to store up a great outpouring of grace for Thy inheritance, that is, for Thy new Church; so that, however infirm it may be, Thou knowest how to heal her and make her perfect.

11. There Thy flock shall abide, for which because of itself it is utterly poor, Thou hast in Thy goodness prepared abundant pastures.

12. The Lord will inspire words to those that will announce the new law, giving them great power to convert entire nations.

13. "Rex virtutum dilecti dilecti." According to the Hebrew: Reges exercituum confæderabuntur—The most powerful kings of the earth will become subjects of the Well-Beloved (according to the Hebrew Dilecti dilecti); that is, of the Redeemer, who will be greatly beloved by them. "Et speciei domus dividere spolia." And he, in order to render his house, that is, his Church, beautiful, will give her the power to divide the spoils of those kings converted by means of the Evangelists: that is, of the apostles, who divided among themselves all the kingdoms of the world, to lead them to embrace the faith.

14. This verse is very obscure, says Bellarmine; hence it will be necessary to explain it in detail. "Si dormiatis." If you who preach the word of God sleep, that is, if you repose. "Inter medios cleros." The word Clerus in Greek signifies lot, or inheritance; meaning: In the midst of the Church. But St. Jerome, St. Augustine, Theodoret, and others, understand by the word Cleros, the Old and New Testaments, and explain the first part of the words thus: If you repose in the midst of the two Testaments. “Pennæ columbæ deargentatæ.” The Church, or the union of the faithful, will be like a dove with its wings silvered with the purity of wisdom. “Et posteriora dorsi ejus in pallore auri.” And with its back gilt by the fervor of charity, which makes it all beautiful.

15, 16. “Dum discernit cælestis reges.” While the heavenly King, that is, Christ, will divide and send forth his preachers, raised to the dignity of kings by the spiritual power given them over souls. “Super eam.” Over the Church scattered throughout the kingdoms of the earth. “Nive dealbabuntur.” Then the nations, purified from the blackness of their sins, will become whiter than snow. “Mons Dei, mons pinguis, mons coagulatus.” The mountain of God, the Church, is a fat, or rich mountain, a coagulated, that is, a very rich mountain; for the milk of divine grace, with which it abounds, does not run off, but remains there coagulated and firm. “Ut quid suspicamini montes coagulatos?” O men, why do you think that there is another Church as fat and as rich as this one?

18. The chariot of the Lord is borne by many thousands of angels in great jubilee; it was thus the Lord was borne upon these celestial spirits, when he descended upon the holy mountain of Sinai.

19. This passage is referred to by St. Paul (Eph. iv. 8): Ascendens in altum, captivam duxit captivitatem; dedit dona hominibus—Ascending on high, He led captivity captive; He gave gifts to men. He adds: Quod autem ascendit, quid est, nisi quia et descendit primum in inferiores partes terræ?—Now, that he ascended, what is it, but because he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth? The verse is, therefore, thus explained: Thou, O Saviour of the world! coming forth from the sepulchre, didst ascend to the highest heavens, and didst take with Thee those that were captives here below; and in heaven Thou didst receive the gifts from Thy Father, to dispense them to men.

20. For Thou hast bestowed Thy gifts on those who before did not believe that the Lord dwells in his holy mountain, that is, in his Church.

22. He is our God, whose property it is to save us; and it is his own gift to set us free from death. “Exitus mortis.” According to Bellarmine and Menochius: Evasio mortis, ereptio et liberatio a morte—Rescue and deliverance from death.

23. "Verticem capilli." Denoting the top of the hair of the head; which means, that God will bring down the summit of their proud locks, or the crest of those that walk with pride in their sins, and do not walk in the law of God.

24. "Ex Basan convertam." Mattei translates the Hebrew thus: Ex Basan reducam. That is: My people, I will deliver thee from the Basanites, or the people of Basan: and I will cast that people into the depths of the sea, as I did with Pharaoh.

26. Then did they see Thy glorious march, and Thy triumphs, O my King and my God! who art now in the holy place; that is, according to Bellarmine and Menochius, in heaven, or in the Church.

27. "Principes." The heads of the people.

28. "De fontibus Israel." According to the Chaldee version: De semine Israel—From the race of Israel. This is the reading adopted by St. Hilary, Theodoret, Euthemius, Vatable, and Tirinus, who cites these authors; and it is applicable to Jesus Christ: Christo Domino, ortum habenti ex Israel—To the Lord God, who has sprung from Israel.

29, 30. "Ibi." There in that triumph, described in verses 26, 27, and 28. "Benjamin adolescentulus." The tribe of Benjamin, who was the last of the children of Jacob. "In mentis excessu." In a transport of joy, as if in ecstasy. St. Hilary, St. Jerome, Theodoret, Bellarmine, and others, apply this passage to the apostles, who were almost all from one of the four tribes here named: St. Paul was of the tribe of Benjamin; St. James and St. John, and other relatives of our Lord, were of the tribe of Juda; and Galilee comprised especially the whole tribe of Zabulon and Nephthali.

32. "A templo tuo." Mattei translates: Post templum tuum; and Bossuet: Propter templum tuum. The verse, then, is thus explained: After Thy temple has been built at Jerusalem, or, because of Thy temple that shall be built in Jerusalem, kings will offer Thee their gifts.

33. "Feras arundinis." Bellarmine says that by this we are to understand the wild animals that hide among rushes. "In vaccis." According to the Hebrew: In vitulis—Calves. The verse therefore means: Frighten our enemies, who, as wild beasts, and like an assemblage or a troop of savage bulls, together with the calves of the people, that is, the dissolute

Thursday at Matins.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM LXVIII., OF THE PSALTER.

The holy Fathers and interpreters agree that this psalm refers to our Lord who was ill-treated by the Jews; it is also frequently quoted in the New Testament.¹

1. SALVUM me fac Deus; quoniam intraverunt aquæ usque ad animam meam.

2. Infixus sum in limo profundi: et non est substantia.

3. Veni in altitudinem maris: et tempestas demersit me.

4. Laboravi clamans, raucæ factæ sunt fauces meæ: defecerunt oculi mei, dum spero in Deum meum.

5. Multiplicati sunt super capillos capitis mei, qui oderunt me gratis.

6. Confortati sunt qui persecuti sunt me inimici mei iniuste: quæ non rapui, tunc exsolvebam.

7. Deus tu scis insipientiam meam: et delicta mea a te non sunt abscondita.

8. Non erubescant in me, qui expectant te Domine, Domine virtutum.

9. Non confundantur super me, qui quærunt te, Deus Israel.

1. SAVE me, O God: for the waters are come in even unto my soul.

2. I stick fast in the mire of the deep: and there is no sure standing.

3. I am come into the depth of the sea: and a tempest hath overwhelmed me.

4. I have labored with crying, my jaws are become hoarse: mine eyes have failed, whilst I hope in my God.

5. They are multiplied above the hairs of my head, who hate me without cause.

6. Mine enemies are grown strong who have wrongfully persecuted me: then did I pay that which I took not away.

7. O God, thou knowest my foolishness: and my offences are not hid from thee.

8. Let not them be ashamed for me, who look for thee, O Lord, the Lord of hosts.

9. Let them not be confounded on my account, who seek thee, O God of Israel.

¹ The following is what we read in regard to verse 5: Quia odio habuerunt me gratis—They have hated me without cause (John, xv, 25).—12: Zelus domus tuæ comedit me—The zeal of thy house hath eaten me up (John, ii. 17).—26: (John, xix. 28).—30: Fiat commoratio eorum deserta, et non sit qui inhabitet in ea—Let their habitation become desolate, and let there be none to dwell therein (Acts, i. 20). The prophet makes Jesus Christ speak through the whole psalm.

10. Quoniam propter te sustinui opprobrium: operuit confusio faciem meam.

11. Extraneus factus sum fratribus meis, et peregrinus filiis matris meæ.

12. Quoniam zelus domus tuæ comedit me: et opprobria exprobrantium tibi ceciderunt super me.

13. Et operui in jejunio animam meam: et factum est in opprobrium mihi.

14. Et posui vestimentum meum cilicium: et factus sum illis in parabolam.

15. Adversum me loquebantur qui sedebant in porta: et in me psallebant qui bibebant vinum.

16. Ego vero orationem meam ad te Domine: tempus beneplaciti Deus.

17. In multitudine misericordiæ tuæ exaudi me, in veritati salutis tuæ.

18. Eripe me de luto, ut non infigar: libera me ab iis, qui oderunt me, et de profundis aquarum.

19. Non me demergat tempestas aquæ, neque absorbeat me profundum: neque urgeat super me puteus os suum.

20. Exaudi me Domine, quoniam benigna est misericordia tua: secundum multitudinem miserationum tuarum respice in me.

21. Et ne avertas faciem tuam a puero tuo: quoniam tribulor, velociter exaudi me.

22. Intende animæ meæ, et libera eam: propter inimicos meos eripe me.

23. Tu scis improperium meum, et confusionem meam, et reverentiam meam.

10. Because for thy sake I have borne reproach: shame hath covered my face.

11. I am become a stranger to my brethren, and an alien to the sons of my mother.

12. For the zeal of thy house hath eaten me up: and the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me.

13. And I covered my soul in fasting: and it was made a reproach to me.

14. And I made haircloth my garment: and I became a by-word to them.

15. They that sat in the gate spoke against me: and they that drank wine made me their song.

16. But as for me, my prayer is to thee, O Lord; for the time of thy good pleasure, O God.

17. In the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy salvation.

18. Draw me out of the mire, that I may not stick fast: deliver me from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters.

19. Let not the tempest of water drown me, nor the deep swallow me up: and let not the pit shut her mouth upon me.

20. Hear me, O Lord, for thy mercy is kind: look upon me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies.

21. And turn not away thy face from thy servant: for I am in trouble, hear me speedily.

22. Attend to my soul, and deliver it: save me because of my enemies.

23. Thou knowest my reproach, and my confusion, and my shame,

24. In conspectu tuo sunt omnes qui tribulant me: improperium expectavit cor meum, et miseriam.

25. Et sustinui qui simul contristaretur, et non fuit: et qui consolaretur, et non inveni.

26. Et dederunt in escam meam fel: et in siti mea potaverunt me aceto.

27. Fiat mensa eorum coram ipsis in laqueum, et in retributiones, et in scandalum.

28. Obscurentur oculi eorum ne videant: et dorsum eorum semper incurva.

29. Effunde super eos iram tuam: et furor iræ tuæ comprehendat eos.

30. Fiat habitatio eorum deserta: et in tabernaculis eorum non sit qui inhabitet.

31. Quoniam quem tu percussisti, persecuti sunt: et super dolorem vulnerum meorum addiderunt.

32. Appone iniquitatem super iniquitatem eorum: et non intrent in justitiam tuam.

33. Deleantur de libro viventium: et cum justis non scribantur.

34. Ego sum pauper et dolens: salus tua Deus suscepit me.

35. Laudabo nomen Dei cum cantico: et magnificabo eum in laude:

36. Et placebit Deo super vitulum novellum: cornua producentem et ungulas.

37. Videant pauperes, et lætentur: quærite Deum, et vivet anima vestra:

24. In thy sight are all they that afflict me, my heart hath expected reproach and misery.

25. And I looked for one that would grieve together with me, but there was none: and for one that would comfort me, and I found none.

26. And they gave me gall for my food: and in my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink.

27. Let their table become as a snare before them, and a recompense, and a stumbling-block.

28. Let their eyes be darkened that they see not; and their back bend thou down always.

29. Pour out thy indignation upon them: and let thy wrathful anger take hold of them.

30. Let their habitation be made desolate: and let there be none to dwell in their tabernacles.

31. Because they have persecuted him whom thou hast smitten: and they have added to the grief of my wounds.

32. Add thou iniquity upon their iniquity: and let them not come into thy justice.

33. Let them be blotted out of the book of the living; and with the just let them not be written.

34. But I am poor and sorrowful: thy salvation, O God, hath set me up.

35. I will praise the name of God with a canticle: and I will magnify him with praise.

36. And it shall please God better than a young calf: that bringeth forth horns and hoofs.

37. Let the poor see and rejoice: seek ye God, and your soul shall live.

13. This verse is very obscure. “Operui in jejunio animam meam.” According to the Hebrew: I overwhelmed myself with my tears in my fast.

15. “Qui sedebant in porta.” Those that were sitting at the gate; that is, the magistrates, who had their station in the public place of judgment. “Qui bibebant vinum.” The drunkards.

16. “Tempus beneplaciti.” St. Jerome’s translation is: Tempus reconciliationis est. For behold now the time of Thy good pleasure; that is, the time destined for the peace and reconciliation of men.

17. “In veritate salutis tuæ.” That is, according to the faithfulness of the promise which Thou hast made to save us.

19 “Neque urgeat.” According to Bellarmine and others: Non claudat. This is to be understood of the sepulchre from which Jesus Christ willed to rise, and to pass to life eternal.

23. “Reverentiam.” St. Jerome’s translation is: Ignominiam.

27. Their table, in retribution for their cruelty, shall become unto them a snare and an occasion of their ruin. Jesus Christ here predicts, under the form of imprecation, the evils that were to fall on the Jews. For this reason the text is given in the future tense; it is thus Menochius and the others understand it.

28. Their eyes will remain darkened, so that they will not see the precipice over which they shall fall; Thou wilt cause them to bend the back forever: that is, Thou wilt always keep them under the yoke of strange masters.

31. God has stricken his Son for the sins of the human race, as is written in Isaias (liiii. 8): Propter scelus populi mei percussit eum—For the wickedness of my people have I struck Him. Moreover, the Jews have persecuted and added pain upon pain to his wounds.

32. On this text Bellarmine makes a wise remark: Dicitur Deus facere, quando permittit fieri id quod sine ejus permissione fieret—God is said to do, when he permits to be done, that which, without his permission, would not be done. The sense therefore is: Thou permittest these wicked men to add iniquity to iniquity, and that they should not enter into Thy justice, that is, that they should not be admitted to receive from Thee justification.

33. “De libro viventium.” That is, from the number of the elect.

34.¹ “Salus tua . . . suscepit me.” Thy salvation has taken me, or withdrawn me from these pains, by causing me to rise again. Or, as others explain the text, in a prophetic sense Thy power will save me by withdrawing me from these pains.

36. “Cornua producentem et ungulas.” That begins to have horns and hoofs.²

37. The poor and afflicted will see it and will rejoice: O men, seek God, and thus your souls will live forever.

38. “Vinctos suos non despexit.” He does not despise his captives; that is, those that are loaded with the chains of their sins.

40. By Sion is understood the Church in general, and by the cities of Juda, the particular Churches. This is the explanation given by Bossuet and others.

41. In this happy land men redeemed shall dwell, and shall possess it as their own inheritance.

42. “Qui diligunt nomen ejus, habitabunt in ea.” It shall always be inhabited by those that love the glory of the Lord.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM LXIX. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm is almost the repetition of the last seven verses of Psalm XXXIX. According to most of the Latin interpreters it is the prayer that Jesus Christ was to make on the cross. It may serve as a model to the faithful in their prayers, especially when they find themselves in grave danger.

1. DEUS in adjutorium meum intende: Domine ad adjuvandum me festina.

2. Confundantur et revereantur, qui quærunt animam meam:

3. Avertantur retrorsum, et erubescant, qui volunt mihi mala.

4. Avertantur statim erubes-

1. O GOD, come to my assistance: O Lord, make haste to help me.

2. Let them be confounded and ashamed that seek my soul:

3. Let them be turned backward, and blush for shame that desire evils to me:

4. Let them be presently

¹ In this last part of the psalm, the prophet, always speaking in the person of Jesus Christ, predicts the glory of the Saviour and the establishment of the Church.

² That is, which has all the qualities of a choice victim.

centes: qui dicunt mihi: Euge, euge.

5. Exultent et lætentur in te omnes qui quærunt te, et dicant semper: Magnificetur Dominus: qui diligunt salutare tuum.

6. Ego vero egenus, et pauper sum: Deus adjuva me.

7. Adjutor meus, et liberator meus es tu: Domine ne moreris.

turned away blushing for shame that say to me: 'Tis well, 'tis well.

5. Let all that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee, and let such as love thy salvation say always: The Lord be magnified.

6. But I am needy and poor: O God, help me.

7. Thou art my helper and my deliverer: O Lord, make no delay.

2. "Qui quærunt animam meam." Those that seek to take my life.

4. Euge, euge." Well done, well done, we have struck him down. Instead of this word, St. Jerome translates: Vah! vah! a word, as Bossuet remarks, not of praise, but of mockery, just as people sometimes cry out in derision: Hurrah! hurrah!

5. "Qui diligunt salutare tuum." Those that love the salvation that Thou hast promised. Or, as Bossuet explains: Those that wish to be saved by Thee.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM LXX. OF THE PSALTER.

David prays to God to come to his aid in the persecution raised against him by his son Absalom. This psalm will serve for all the faithful when they are afflicted by temptations in order to trust in God and ask his help.

1. IN te Domine speravi, non confundar in æternum: in iustitia tua libera me, et eripe me.

2. Inclina ad me aurem tuam, et salva me.

3. Esto mihi in Deum protectorem, et in locum munitum: ut salvum me facias.

4. Quoniam firmamentum meum, et refugium meum es tu.

5. Deus meus eripe me de manu peccatoris, et de manu contra legem agentis et iniqui:

1. IN thee, O Lord, I have hoped, let me never be put to confusion: deliver me in thy justice, and rescue me.

2. Incline thy ear unto me, and save me.

3. Be thou unto me a God, a protector, and a place of strength: that thou mayst make me safe.

4. For thou art my firmament and my refuge.

5. Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the sinner, and out of the hand of the transgressor of the law and of the unjust:

19. Et usque in senectam et senium: Deus ne derelinquas me,

20. Donec annuntiem brachium tuum generationi omni, quæ ventura est:

21. Potentiam tuam, et justitiam tuam Deus usque in altissima, quæ fecisti magnalia: Deus quis similis tibi?

22. Quantas ostendisti mihi tribulationes multas, et malas: et conversus vivificasti me: et de abyssis terræ iterum reduxisti me:

23. Multiplicasti magnificentiam tuam: et conversus consolatus es me.

24. Nam et ego confitebor tibi in vasis psalmi veritatem tuam: Deus psallam tibi in cithara, sanctus Israel.

25. Exultabunt labia mea cum cantavero tibi: et anima mea, quam redemisti.

26. Sed et lingua mea tota die meditabitur justitiam tuam: cum confusi et reveriti fuerint qui quærunt mala mihi.

19. And unto old age and gray hairs: O God, forsake me not,

20. Until I show forth thy arm to all the generation that is to come.

21. Thy power, and thy justice, O God, even to the highest great things thou hast done: O God, who is like to thee?

22. How great troubles hast thou shown me, many and grievous: and turning thou hast brought me to life, and hast brought me back again from the depths of the earth:

23. Thou hast multiplied thy magnificence: and turning to me thou hast comforted me.

24. I will also give praise to thee, I will extol thy truth with the instruments of psaltery: O God, I will sing to thee with the harp, thou holy one of Israel.

25. My lips shall greatly rejoice, when I shall sing to thee: and my soul which thou hast redeemed.

26. Yea and my tongue also shall meditate on thy justice all the day: when they shall be confounded and put to shame that seek evils to me.

1. I have placed in Thee my hopes; I hope that I shall not be confounded forever; deliver me from the confusion in honor of Thy justice.

2. Give ear to my prayers, and save me from the dangers that threaten me.

6. "Patientia." St. Jerome translates: Expectatio. Hence the verse may be explained with Bellarmine: Thou art my patience, that is, Thou art that divine Lord from whom I expect with patience my deliverance, since from my youth Thou hast been my only hope.

7. "In te confirmatus sum." According to the Hebrew: Super te innixus sum; or, as St. Jerome's translation is: A te susten- tatus sum. This means: In Thee I have been confirmed, that is, I have found my support and my prop.

8. My chant shall always be occupied with Thee, that is, I will always celebrate Thy goodness with praises; I am admired by many as a prodigy, through the benefits that Thou hast conferred upon me; and Thou art looked upon as a strong defence of those whom Thou protectest.

11. "Qui custodiebant animam meam, consilium fecerunt in unum." St. Jerome translates: Qui observabant animam meam, inierunt consilium pariter. Those that spied out my life, my way of living, have conspired against me. Others understand this of the guards whom David kept about his person, and explain it thus: Those that before guarded my life are now united to plot my ruin.

13. "In auxilium meum respice." St. Jerome's translation is better: Ad auxilium meum festina.

15. But I will always hope in Thee, my Lord, and I will add new praises to all those that I have given Thee. According to Bellarmine, Menochius, and Bossuet, something is here to be supplied.

16. "Salutare tuum." The salvation that I have received from Thee.

17. "Non cognovi litteraturam." I am little versed in human wisdom. Interpreters generally understand the word Litteraturam as if David meant to say: I have never made profession of that infamous cunning in which my enemy Achitophel abounds. "Introibo in potentias Domini." I shall enter into the power of the Lord, that is, I shall set myself to praise the divine power. "Memorabor justitiæ tuæ solius." I shall have nothing else before my eyes but the memory of Thy justice.

18. "Et usque nunc pronuntiabo mirabilia tua." Wherefore I will never cease to celebrate the wonderful graces that Thou hast done unto me.

20. Till I succeed in proclaiming Thy arm, that is, Thy great power, to all the generations that shall come to inhabit this earth.

22. "Et conversus, vivificasti me, et de abyssi terræ iterum re-duxisti me." Then, appeased, Thou hast so to say restored to me life, and hast brought me back from the abyss of the earth, that is, from the depth of miseries.

23. "Multiplicasti magnificentiam tuam." That is, Thou hast in many ways shown the greatness of Thy goodness towards me. "Conversus." A Hebraism which signifies that the action is repeated.

24. "In vasis psalmi." According to Menochius and Bosuet: In musicis instrumentis. "Veritatem tuam." The faithfulness of Thy promises.¹

25. "Anima mea, quam redemisti." My soul, which Thou hast redeemed, that is, hast set free from so many dangers.

26. "Meditabitur." That is: Shall praise while meditating.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM LXXI. OF THE PSALTER.

David speaks here of his son Salomon, the presumptive heir of the kingdom of Israel, a figure of the spiritual kingdom of Jesus Christ. Thus speak commonly the holy Fathers and the commentators. Indeed, it seems to me that the whole or nearly the whole psalm should be applied to Jesus Christ; for certain expressions that are found in it, and especially verses 5, 11, 12, and 17, can only refer to Jesus Christ, to his coming among us, and to the vocation of the Gentiles; all of which mysteries David clearly saw by the prophetic light.²

1. DEUS judicium tuum regi da: et justitiam tuam filio regis:

2. Judicare populum tuum in justitia, et pauperes tuos in judicio.

3. Suscipiant montes pacem populo: et colles justitiam.

1. GIVE to the king thy judgment, O God: and to the king's son thy justice:

2. To judge thy people with justice, and thy poor with judgment.

3. Let the mountains receive peace for the people: and the hills justice.

¹ "In vasis." See Psalm vii. 14. "Sanctus Israel." God was called the Holy One of Israel, because he sanctified the people of Israel with his grace, and that people was to acknowledge and celebrate the sanctity of God with the worship that they rendered to him.

² Title of the Psalm: In Salomonem—On Salomon At the end we read: Defecerunt laudes David, filii Jesse—The praises of David, the son of Jesse, are ended. By this it appears that this psalm was the last that David composed, although it is not placed here in the last place. The name of Salomon signifies Pacific, a name most suitable for him who is the Son of David by excellence, the Prince of peace, of whom Salomon was the figure. Hence it is generally acknowledged that this psalm, taken as a whole, is applicable only to the divine Messias.

17. Sit nomen ejus benedictum in sæcula: ante solem permanet nomen ejus.

18. Et benedicentur in ipso omnes tribus terræ: omnes gentes magnificabunt eum.

19. Benedictus Dominus Deus Israel, qui facit mirabilia solus:

20. Et benedictum nomen majestatis ejus in æternum: et replebitur majestate ejus omnis terra: fiat, fiat.

17. Let his name be blessed for evermore: his name continueth before the sun.

18. And in him shall all the tribes of the earth be blessed: all nations shall magnify him.

19. Blessed be the Lord the God of Israel, who alone doth wonderful things:

20. And blessed be the name of his majesty forever: and the whole earth shall be filled with his majesty: So be it. So be it.

1. Give to the king the grace to judge justly, and grant to the son of David a righteous justice like Thine own.

3. "Montes." This word is variously understood. Maldonatus understands it as if it were Undique; and meaning: May peace be enjoyed everywhere, even on the mountains. Emmanuel Sa writes: Montes, id est, primores, seu præfecti—the chief men or rulers. Malvenda: Montes, id est, totum regnum montibus abundans—the whole kingdom abounding with mountains. It is in this way Bossuet, with Bellarmine and Menochius, explains the verse: Descendat de cælo pax et justitia, et super regnum Israeliticum requiescat—May peace and justice descend from heaven and rest upon the kingdom of Israel. Lastly, Mariana, and with him Tirinus, says: Montes, ubi scilicet solent esse latrones et feræ—Mountains, that is, where robbers and wild beasts are wont to be. This last interpretation, as Lallemand thinks, seems to be the most probable. Hence the sense would be: May the mountains and the hills receive peace for the good of the people, that is: may even the people of the mountains, who are usually fierce and turbulent, taste the sweetness of peace and enjoy the fruits of the justice of the prince.

5. "Ante lunam." Translation of St. Jerome: Ultra lunam—Beyond the moon. That is: His kingdom shall endure as long as the sun and the moon, and even beyond that.

6. "Vellus." About this word there is a great diversity of opinion. Malvenda, Bellarmine, Menochius, Tirinus, etc., understand by it the fleece, or skin covered with wool, upon which Gedeon asked that all the dew that fell from heaven might be collected (Judges, vi. 37). Others, as Maldonatus, Mariana, Bossuet, Mattei, with Mark Marino, and Father Lallemand, are of opinion that the word Vellus here means something cut or shorn; hence Lallemand translates the passage thus: His coming to the throne will be like a rain that waters a meadow newly mown. But the first interpretation agrees better with that of St. Ambrose, Rupertus, and Procopius, who understand by the fleece the Mother of God, and by the dew the divine Word, who came down gently as the dew into the womb of the Virgin Mary, by the operation of the Holy Ghost. Moreover, the verse taken in this sense, has a better connection with the following: Orietur in diebus ejus justitia et abundantia pacis—In his days shall justice spring up, and abundance of peace. This is certainly to be understood of the coming of the Messiah.¹

7. "In diebus ejus." Under his reign. "Donec auferatur luna." This happy state will last till the end of the world.

8. "A flumine." St. Augustine, Theodoret, etc., understand by the river, the Jordan, because it was there, at the baptism of Jesus Christ, the eternal Father's voice was heard saying: Hic est Filius meus dilectus, in quo mihi complacui—This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased (Matt. iii. 17).

9. "Terram lingent." Shall lick the earth, that is, shall bow down to kiss the earth that is under his feet.

10. "Reges Tharsis, et insulæ." The kings of India and the inhabitants of the isles.

11. These verses, from verse 5th, can apply only to Jesus Christ.

12. "Pauperem." The weak, or the feeble.²

13. "Parcet." According to the Chaldee: Miserebitur—He will have compassion.

¹ Let us add to these authorities the authority of St. Bernard, who (De Laud. Virg. Matris, s. 2) thus applies this verse: "Descendet sicut pluvia in vellus." The Son of God at first descended into the womb of the Blessed Virgin without show and noise, like gentle dew on pure wool; but afterwards as an abundant rain: "Et sicut stillicidia super terram," he spread over the whole earth with show and noise; namely, the show of miracles and the sound of the voices of the preachers of the Gospel.

² By "Pauperem"—Poor, Bellarmine understands the human race after its fall, despoiled of all its goods, and incapable of help from any creature. By "A potente"—the Powerful, he understands the devil, whose miserable slave man had become.

14. "Ex usuris." According to the Chaldee: Ab oppressione—From oppression. "Et iniquitate." And from iniquity, that is, from injustice.

15. "Vivet." He shall live, that is, his reign shall be everlasting. "Vivet et dabitur ei." According to the Hebrew: Vivet, et dabit ei. Hence Maldonatus thus interprets this passage: The poor delivered by him shall live, and out of gratitude will give him gold of Arabia. "Adorabunt de ipso." St. Jerome translates: Orabunt de eo. These words are thus commented upon by Emmanuel Sa: De eo, id est, pro eo. The people will continually pray for him and for the prosperity of his kingdom.¹

16. "Firmamentum." The Hebrew text, St. Jerome, Bellarmine, Mattei, Lallemand, and all the interpreters of the Compilation of Venice, attest that Firmamentum is put here for Frumentum; and this is the explanation that is given: There will be such an abundance of wheat upon earth, and even on the summits of the mountains, that its fruits will rise above Lebanon, that is, the ears will rise higher than the cedars of Lebanon; and the inhabitants of the city of God, which is the Church, shall flourish or spring up like the herb of the field.

17. "Nomen ejus." The name of this new king. "Ante solem." According to the Hebrew: Coram sole; and as St. Jerome translates: Ultra solem. "Permanet." According to St. Jerome, Menochius, Bossuet, etc., this verb is to be understood in the future.

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM LXXII. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm describes the wretched happiness of the wicked and the blessed afflictions of the just, since the end of the one class will be very different from that of the other. We learn, hence, not to be astonished when we see the wicked prosper and the good afflicted.²

¹ "Adorabunt de ipso semper." Bellarmine's explanation is: Redempti ab ipso adorabunt Deum verum ex ipsius ritu, doctrina, et institutione, usque ad mundi consummationem—Those redeemed by Jesus Christ will adore the true God according to Christ's own rite, teaching, and institution. And Ganme translates: He shall always be adored on his own account.

² The psalmist makes the man who is just, but poor and afflicted, speak: at first, he confesses that at the sight of the prosperity of the impious here below, of whom he gives a description, he was tempted

14. Et fui flagellatus tota die, et castigatio mea in matutinis.

15. Si dicebam: Narrabo sic: ecce nationem filiorum tuorum reprobavi.

16. Æstimabam ut cognoscerem hoc, labor est ante me:

17. Donec intrem in Sanctuarium Dei: et intelligam in novissimis eorum.

18. Verumtamen propter dolos posuisti eis: dejecisti eos dum allevarentur.

19. Quomodo facti sunt in desolationem, subito defecerunt: perierunt propter iniquitatem suam.

20. Velut somnium surgentium Domine, in civitate tua imaginem ipsorum ad nihilum rediges.

21. Quia inflammatum est cor meum, et renes mei commutati sunt: et ego ad nihilum redactus sum, et nescivi.

22. Ut jumentum factus sum apud te: et ego semper tecum.

23. Tenuisti manum dexteram meam: et in voluntate tua deduxisti me, et cum gloria suscepisti me.

24. Quid enim mihi est in cœlo? et a te quid volui super terram?

25. Deficit caro mea, et cor meum: Deus cordis mei, et pars mea Deus in æternum.

26. Quia ecce, qui elongantur a te, peribunt: perdidisti

14. And I have been scourged all the day, and my chastisement hath been in the mornings.

15. If I said: I will speak thus: behold I should condemn the generation of thy children.

16. I studied that I might know this thing, it is a labor in my sight:

17. Until I go into the sanctuary of God: and understand concerning their last ends.

18. But indeed for deceits thou hast put it to them: when they were lifted up thou hast cast them down.

19. How are they brought to desolation, they have suddenly ceased to be: they have perished by reason of their iniquity.

20. As the dream of them that awake, O Lord, so in thy city thou shalt bring their image to nothing.

21. For my heart hath been inflamed, and my reins have been changed: and I am brought to nothing, and I knew not.

22. I am become as a beast before thee: and I am always with thee.

23. Thou hast held me by my right hand: and by thy will thou hast conducted me, and with thy glory thou hast received me.

24. For what have I in heaven? and besides thee what do I desire upon earth?

25. For thee my flesh and my heart hath fainted away: thou art the God of my heart, and the God that is my portion forever.

26. For behold, they that go far from thee shall perish: thou omnes, qui fornicantur abs te.

27. Mihi autem adhærere Deo bonum est: ponere in Domino Deo spem meam:

28. Ut annuntiem omnes prædicationes tuas, in portis filiæ Sion.

hast destroyed all them that are disloyal to thee.

27. But it is good for me to stick close to my God, to put my hope in the Lord God:

28. That I may declare all thy praises, in the gates of the daughter of Sion.

1. "Israel." To Israel, or towards the people of Israel. Father Lallemand has understood this name as if it were in the genitive; but in the Greek it is preceded by the article in the dative, and so in the Hebrew text, of which the sense is: Certe bonus est Deus Israeli—Truly, God is good to Israel. It is thus that Bossuet, with several others, explains it.

2. That is to say: My belief was almost shaken through the emotion that I felt.

3. "Super iniquos." St. Jerome's translation is: *Contra iniquos. "Pacem peccatorum videns."*¹ At seeing the peace in which sinners live on account of the prosperity which they enjoy, or to speak more correctly, which they flatter themselves that they enjoy.

4. "Quia non est respectus morti eorum." St. Jerome translates: Quod non recogitaverint de morte sua—Because they have not reflected on their death. "Et firmamentum in plaga eorum." This passage is obscure, and is differently explained by interpreters. The word Firmamentum presents the greatest difficulty; But Gordona observes that if the particle Non be repeated, by understanding Et as Nec, the sense becomes easy. Thus: "Nec est firmamentum in plaga eorum;" hoc est: Si quod illis accidit malum, cito transit, leve est, et sine firmamento—Nor is there firmness in their wounds; that is, if any evil happens to them, it quickly passes, it is light and has no firmness. Hence the most natural explanation seems to be this: And in their wound, that is, when they feel themselves tormented by the fear of death, their affliction has no strength or firmness, and does not last long.

5. They are not in the travail of men, that is, they are exempt from poverty, from fatigues, and from other evils that afflict the generality of men; so that they are not scourged, that is, they do not suffer with other men.

¹ Gaume has preferred the sense of the Vulgate,

7. “Prodiit quasi ex adipe iniquitas eorum.” Their iniquity has been produced by fatness, that is, by the abundance of their good things of the earth. Such is the explanation of Menochius. “Transierunt in affectum cordis.” According to the Hebrew: Transierunt cogitationes cordis; that is: Omnia contingunt illis supra spem—They all have come to surpass their desires by obtaining more than they wished and hoped for.

8. They have meditated and uttered their wickedness, that is, they have employed their thoughts and their words to put in execution their wicked designs; and they have not been ashamed to publish their iniquity “in excelso” as from a high place, to make it known to the whole world.

9. They have opened their mouth ever against heaven; that is, according to Bellarmine, against God and his saints, and they have not abstained either from employing their tongue on earth against men. Malvenda’s comment is: Quasi dicat: Nec Deo nec hominibus parcunt—As though he would say: They spare neither God nor man.

10. Wherefore my people shall turn and see that for these impious men, notwithstanding their iniquity, these are days full of worldly satisfaction. Such is the explanation of Bellarmine and Lallemand.

11. And the men of my people say: How can it be that God, in whom is the science or knowledge of all that comes to pass on earth, should know this; and it may be added, should permit it?

12. “Abundantes in sæculo.” According to the Hebrew: Pacifici sæculi. Behold these sinners abound in riches in this world, so that they are esteemed as those who enjoy peace on earth.

13. “Sine causa justificavi.” According to the Hebrew: Frustra mundavi. “Inter innocentes.” That is, with the innocent.

14. “Flagellatus.” Scourged, chastised; that is, afflicted by the wicked.

15. St. Jerome’s translation: Et dixi: Si narravero sic, ecce generationem filiorum tuorum reliqui. The sense of the verse is; But afterwards I said: If I spoke thus, I should do wrong, henceforth, I desire to be always united to Thee, who art my only good.

23. Thou hast held my right hand; that is, Thou hast kept me up, so that I might not be lost; Thou hast led me to live according to Thy will, and Thou hast covered me with glory.

25. My flesh and my heart have failed, that is, can no longer resist the attraction of Thy love, which draws me to Thee; Thou art the God of my heart; it is for Thee alone to possess it eternally; Thou alone must be my portion and all my good.

26. Those that withdraw from Thee will in the end perish; for Thou justly sendest to perdition those that love other objects than Thee. It is thus that Menochius, Sa, Mariana, and Tirinus understand the expression: "Qui fornicantur abs te."¹

27. My only good is to adhere and entirely unite myself to God, and to place in him all my hopes.

28. And thus I hope, one day, to publish Thy glories in Jerusalem, which is called the daughter of Jerusalem.²

PSALM VI., WHICH IS PSALM LXXIII. OF THE PSALTER.

The Jewish people, submissive and humbled, weep over their captivity and the destruction of the temple; then, imploring Heaven to favor their religion and their kingdom, the children of Israel called to mind the many prodigies worked by God and the numerous benefits received from his bounty. Bellarmine and other interpreters think that there is question here of the persecution of Antiochus at the time of the Machabees. This psalm may be used for asking God's help in the persecutions that the Church suffers at the hands of her enemies.

I. UT quid Deus repulisti in finem: iratus est furor tuus super oves pascuæ tuæ?

I. O GOD, why hast thou cast us off unto the end: why is thy wrath enkindled against the sheep of thy pasture?

¹ A metaphor frequently used in Scripture. It makes us understand that there exists between God and the soul of his servant a union similar to that of married persons; so that the soul that violates this happy union by giving way to an inordinate love of creatures, or to sin, especially to apostacy, becomes in reference to God like a spouse that has committed the sin of adultery. See Psalm cv. 37.

² See Psalm ix. 14.

2. Memor esto congregationis tuæ, quam possedisti ab initio.

3. Redemisti virgam hereditatis tuæ: mons Sion, in quo habitasti in eo.

4. Leva manus tuas in superbias eorum finem: quanta malignatus est inimicus in sancto!

5. Et gloriati sunt qui oderunt te: in medio solemnitatis tuæ.

6. Posuerunt signa sua, signa: et non cognoverunt sicut in exitu super summum.

7. Quasi in silva lignorum securibus exciderunt januas ejus in idipsum: in securi, et ascia dejecerunt eam.

8. Incenderunt igni Sanctuarium tuum: in terra polluerunt tabernaculum nominis tui.

9. Dixerunt in corde suo cognatio eorum simul: quiescere faciamus omnes dies festos Dei a terra.

10. Signa nostra non vidimus, jam non est Propheta: et nos non cognoscet amplius.

11. Usquequo Deus improperabit inimicus: irritat adversarius nomen tuum in finem?

12. Ut quid avertis manum tuam, et dexteram tuam, de medio sinu tuo in finem?

13. Deus autem Rex noster ante sæcula: operatus est salutem in medio terræ.

14. Tu confirmasti in virtute

2. Remember thy congregation, which thou hast possessed from the beginning.

3. The sceptre of thy inheritance which thou hast redeemed: mount Sion in which thou hast dwelt.

4. Lift up thy hands against their pride unto the end: see what things the enemy hath done wickedly in the sanctuary!

5. And they that hate thee have made their boasts: in the midst of thy solemnity.

6. They have set up their ensigns for signs: and they knew not both in the going out, and on the highest top.

7. As with axes in a wood of trees, they have cut down at once the gates thereof: with axe and hatchet they have brought it down.

8. They have set fire to thy sanctuary: they have defiled the dwelling place of thy name on the earth.

9. They said in their heart, the whole kindred of them together: Let us abolish all the festival days of God from the land.

10. Our signs we have not seen, there is now no prophet: and he will know us no more.

11. How long, O God, shall the enemy reproach: is the adversary to provoke thy name forever?

12. Why dost thou turn away thy hand, and thy right hand out of the midst of thy bosom forever?

13. But God is our king before ages: he hath wrought salvation in the midst of the earth.

14. Thou by thy strength tua mare: contribulasti capita draconum in aquis.

15. Tu confregisti capita draconis: dedisti eum escam populis Æthiopum.

16. Tu dirupisti fontes, et torrentes: tu siccasti fluvios Ethan.

17. Tuus est dies, et tua est nox; tu fabricatus es auroram et solem.

18. Tu fecisti omnes terminos terræ: æstatem et ver tu plasmasti ea.

19. Memor esto hujus, inimicus improperavit Domino: et populus insipiens incitavit nomen tuum.

20. Ne tradas bestiis animas confitentes tibi, et animas pauperum tuorum ne obliviscaris in finem.

21. Respice in testamentum tuum: quia repleti sunt, qui obscurati sunt terræ, domibus iniquitatum.

22. Ne avertatur humilis factus confusus: pauper et inops laudabunt nomen tuum.

23. Exurge Deus, judica causam tuam: memor esto improperiorum tuorum, eorum quæ ab insipiente sunt tota die.

24. Ne obliviscaris voces inimicorum tuorum: superbia eorum, qui te oderunt, ascendit semper.

2. "Ab initio." Menochius understands by this the time when the people of Israel had no other king than God: Quæ nullum habuit regem ante te.

3. "Virgam." According to St. Augustine, Theodoret, Symdidst make the sea firm: thou didst crush the heads of the dragons in the waters.

15. Thou hast broken the heads of the dragon: thou hast given him to be meat for the people of the Ethiopians.

16. Thou hast broken up the fountains and the torrents: thou hast dried up the Ethan rivers.

17. Thine is the day, and thine is the night: thou hast made the morning light and the sun.

18. Thou hast made all the borders of the earth: the summer and the spring were formed by thee.

19. Remember this, the enemy hath reproached the Lord: and a foolish people hath provoked thy name.

20. Deliver not up to beasts the souls that confess to thee, and forget not to the end the souls of thy poor.

21. Have regard to thy covenant: for they that are the obscure of the earth, have been filled with dwellings of iniquity.

22. Let not the humble be turned away with confusion: the poor and needy shall praise thy name.

23. Arise, O God, judge thine own cause: remember thy reproaches with which the foolish man hath reproached thee all the day.

24. Forget not the voices of thy enemies: the pride of them that hate thee ascendeth continually.

16. “Dirupisti fontes et torrentes.” According to Bellarmine: Dirupta petra, fecisti scaturire fontes et torrentes—When Thy people passed through the desert, Thou, from a dry rock broken by Moses, didst cause to spring forth fountains and torrents of water. “Siccasti fluvijs Ethan.” Thou didst dry up the river Ethan. Bellarmine, Menochius, Lallemand, and Panigarola understand here the river Jordan; but Mattei says that it is in vain to seek what is this river Ethan, and that this word is rather an adjective, which means Rapid. In fact, St. Jerome translates: Flumina fortia—Strong rivers. Bellarmine, Menochius, and Tirinus also give this meaning. Rotigni and Mattei say, however, with Bellarmine: Interpretes cæteri relinquere maluerunt ipsam vocem hebraicam non interpretatam—that is, they prefer to leave the word untranslated.

17. “Tuus est dies, et tua est nox.” That is: Thou hast made both the day and the night.

18. “Æstatem et ver.” By the summer and the spring is meant the whole year; because anciently, say the learned, the year was divided only in two parts; and in fact, according to the Hebrew, instead of “Ver,” it is Hyemem—Winter.

19. “Hujus.” Some refer this pronoun to what has gone before as if the psalmist said: O Lord! remember this, namely, these works of Thine. But others more commonly, with Bellarmine, refer it to that which follows, in this sense: Have before Thy eyes what I am about to say to Thee. “Incitavit.” Has provoked or blasphemed.

20. “Ne tradas bestiis animas confitentes tibi.” Abandon not to the power of these wild beasts, as are these our enemies, the lives of those that are faithful to Thee.

21. “Testamentum tuum.” That is, the covenant that Thou hast made with our fathers. “Qui obscurati sunt terræ.” According to Bellarmine: Qui obscurati sunt in terra, viles et barbari homines. “Iniquitatem,” that is, Inique. Hence this interpretation: Consider how these vile men have unjustly possessed themselves of our houses and of all our property. This second part of the verse is very obscure, as Mattei and others remark.

22. Permit not, O Lord! that Thy people, after having been so humiliated, should be brought to confusion: they are poor, are needy; but raised up by Thee, they will know how to praise Thy name and to give Thee thanks.

23. "Causam tuam." This cause which is not only ours, but in truth Thy own.

24. "Voces." The blasphemies.

PSALM VII., WHICH IS PSALM LXXIV. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm a prayer is offered to God to hasten to the help of the good and the punishment of the wicked. Yet it is in some way a dialogue between God and his people who are in slavery. May the just here learn to reanimate their courage, and the wicked to tremble.¹

1. CONFITEBIMUR tibi Deus: confitebimur, et invocabimus nomen tuum.

2. Narrabimus mirabilia tua: cum accepero tempus, ego justitias judicabo.

3. Liquefacta est terra, et omnes qui habitant in ea: ego confirmavi columnas ejus.

4. Dixi iniquis: Nolite inique agere: et delinquentibus: Nolite exaltare cornu.

5. Nolite extollere in altum cornu vestrum: nolite loqui adversus Deum iniquitatem.

6. Quia neque ab Oriente: neque ab Occidente, neque a desertis montibus: quoniam Deus judex est.

7. Hunc humiliat, et hunc exaltat: quia calix in manu Domini vini meri plenus misto.

8. Et inclinavit ex hoc in hoc: verumtamen fæx ejus non est exinanita: bibent omnes peccatores terræ.

9. Ego autem annuntiabo in sæculum: cantabo Deo Jacob.

1. WE will praise thee, O God: we will praise, and we will call upon thy name.

2. We will relate thy wondrous works: when I shall take a time, I will judge justices.

3. The earth is melted, and all that dwell therein: I have established the pillars thereof.

4. I said to the wicked: Do not act wickedly: and to the sinners: Lift not up the horn.

5. Lift not up your horn on high: speak not iniquity against God.

6. For neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the desert hills: for God is the judge.

7. One he putteth down, and another he lifteth up: for in the hand of the Lord there is a cup of strong wine full of mixture.

8. And he hath poured it out from this to that, but the dregs thereof are not emptied: all the sinners of the earth shall drink.

9. But I will declare forever: I will sing to the God of Jacob.

¹ According to Bellarmine and others it is a notice addressed to all men to induce them to lay aside pride in the expectation of God's judgment.

10. Et omnia cornua peccatorum confringam: et exaltabuntur cornua justi.

10. And I will break all the horns of sinners: but the horns of the just shall be exalted.

2. "Cum accepero tempus." That is: When the fitting time has come. (Here it is God that speaks). "Justitias judicabo." Quod justum est, decernam—What is just I will determine. This is the explanation of Tirinus with St. Jerome and Theodoret.

3. "Liquefacta est." St. Jerome translates: Dissolvetur. Then in the time of my vengeance the earth shall be dissolved, and all its inhabitants with it through the terror that they shall feel; but I will again set up its columns, that is, its foundations, its solidity. This verse is obscure, and different interpretations are given of it.

4. (Some think that God continues to speak; but Lallemand with more probability says that it is the psalmist who speaks here). "Cornu." According to Bellarmine: Superbiam—Pride.

5. "Cornu vestrum." According to the Chaldee: Gloriam vestram—Do not take pride in your glory.

6. "Neque ab Oriente." . . . According to Bossuet and Mattei here should be supplied: Veniet vobis auxilium. The sense is: At the time of punishment there shall come to you no help, neither from the East nor from the West. . . . Others explain thus: In vain will you hope to fly for refuge in the East. . . . But the former explanation is more common, and pleases me better. "Quoniam Deus judex est." God himself being judge, no one can hinder the execution of his judgments.

7. "Vini meri plenus misto." Full of pure wine, that is, of justice, and also, at the same time, of mixture, that is, of pity, so as to temper justice with mercy, as says St. Jerome (In Malach. iii.)

8. "Inclinavit." According to the Hebrew: Effudit, propinavit. From this cup thus tempered the Lord pours in turn one and the other on men, giving them at one time graces, at another punishments. "Veruntamen fœx ejus non est exinanita; bibent omnes peccatores terræ." But let sinners know that the dregs, that is, the bitterest part of this cup, is not entirely emptied; the wicked shall all drink of it. Bellarmine remarks that for sinners the greater part of their pains, besides those of this life, is reserved for them on the Day of Judgment.

11. Vovete, et reddite Domino Deo vestro: omnes qui in circuitu ejus affertis munera.

11. Vow ye, and pay to the Lord your God: all you that round about him bring presents.

12. Terribili et ei qui aufert spiritum principum, terribili apud reges terræ.

12. To him that is terrible, even to him who taketh away the spirit of princes, to the terrible with the kings of the earth.

2. "In pace." According to the Hebrew: In Salem. The word Salem signifies Peace; but here it denotes the city of Jerusalem. Lallemand with others has, therefore, well translated the verse: He has chosen his dwelling-place in Jerusalem, and his habitation on the mountain of Sion.

3. He has broken: "the powers of the bows," that is, the bows of the hostile powers, and the shields, and the swords, and all the forces of their enemies who were making war.

4. "A montibus æternis." Nearly all the modern interpreters read according to the Hebrew: A montibus prædæ or rapinæ; and this agrees with the translation of St. Jerome: A montibus captivitatis. Whence it is thus explained: Thou, O Lord! hast caused a marvellous light to shine forth from the mountains of plunder, that is, where our army seized on the spoils of the enemy. "Turbati sunt omnes insipientes corde." St. Jerome's translation is: Spoliati sunt superbi corde. The proud remained conquered and despoiled of everything.

5. These men, so proud of their power and of their riches, stricken by the sleep of death, have no longer found anything in their hands. This is the translation of Lallemand; but according to this sense I should prefer to render the verse thus: To the rich of the earth, at the hour of death, all the riches that they have possessed will seem like a dream, since then they will find nothing any more in their hands. Others, however, following the Hebrew text, which instead of "Divitiarum" has Fortitudinis, explain the passage in a sense quite different, thus: They slept and on awaking they found no strength in their hands, that is, they saw that their strength was gone. Bossuet, quoting the translation of St. Jerome, in which we read the word Exercitus for Fortitudinis or Divitiarum, gives still another interpretation: Parte exercitus casa, et somnum mortis dormiente, reliqui, conterriti, nec pugnare potuerunt. A part of the army being killed, the rest, seized with terror, were unable to fight any more. I see no reason for departing from the first sense. The word Fortitudinis, given in the Hebrew, makes nothing against it; for men of the world regard riches as their strength. This fully accords with the Hebrew text.

6. By reason of Thy wrath, or of Thy chastisement, even those were smitten with death that thought themselves the strongest, because they were mounted on horseback.

7. "Ex tunc ira tua." According to Estius and others: Cum ira tua fuerit commota—When Thy anger is aroused.

8. "Judicium." The sentence of punishment launched against the enemy: "Terra tremuit, et quievit." The earth quaked with terror, and then at once there was calm. But according to the Hebrew, instead of "quievit" it is "siluit." That is: The inhabitants of the earth trembled and kept silence through terror.

9. "Mansuetos." All those that are meek, that is, his humble servants.

10. This verse is obscure. Lallemand explains it thus: Hence Thy servants who have received mercies from Thee will never think of them without thanking and praising Thee for them; and the memory thereof will cause them to celebrate feasts in Thy honor. But others more commonly, as Maldonatus, Malvenda, Grotius, Mariana, Rotigni, Mattei, etc., supported by the Hebrew text, which instead of the word "Cogitatio" gives Ira, explain it thus: For the fury of hostile man will cause us to praise Thy goodness and power on seeing his defeat; and the remains of the enemy's fury will serve Thee for a feast, since it will move us to celebrate a festival in Thy honor, in order to praise Thee and return Thee thanks.

12. "Qui aufert spiritum principum." Who takes away life from princes; or, following this translation from the Hebrew: Qui coercet spiritum principum—Who subdues the pride of princes.

PSALM IX., WHICH IS PSALM LXXVI. OF THE PSALTER.

According to a large number of interpreters, we have here the prayer that the captive people at Babylon offered up to God. However this may be, this psalm finds a natural place on the lips of those that are in affliction, who aspire, as St. Augustine says, to leaving the exile of this earth in order to enter the heavenly country.

1. VOCE mea ad Dominum clamavi: voce mea ad Deum, et intendit mihi.

2. In die tribulationis meæ Deum exquisivi, manibus meis nocte contra eum: et non sum deceptus.

3. Renuit consolari anima mea, memor fui Dei, et delectatus sum, et exercitatus sum, et defecit spiritus meus.

4. Anticipaverunt vigiliæ oculi mei: turbatus sum, et non sum locutus.

5. Cogitavi dies antiquos: et annos æternos in mente habui.

6. Et meditatus sum nocte cum corde meo, et exercitabar, et scopebam spiritum meum.

7. Numquid in æternum projiciet Deus: aut non apponet ut complacitior sit adhuc?

8. Aut in finem misericordiam suam abscindet, a generatione in generationem?

9. Aut obliviscetur misereri Deus? aut continebit in ira sua misericordias suas?

10. Et dixi, Nunc cœpi: hæc mutatio dexteræ Excelsi.

11. Memor fui operum Domini: quia memor ero ab initio mirabilium tuorum.

12. Et meditabor in omnibus operibus tuis: et in adinventionibus tuis exercebor.

13. Deus in sancto via tua: quis Deus magnus sicut Deus noster? tu es Deus qui facis mirabilia.

1. I cried to the Lord with my voice: to God with my voice, and he gave ear to me.

2. In the day of my trouble I sought God, with my hands lifted up to him in the night: and I was not deceived.

3. My soul refused to be comforted, I remembered God, and was delighted, and was exercised: and my spirit swooned away.

4. My eyes prevented the watches: I was troubled, and I spoke not.

5. I thought upon the days of old: and I had in my mind the eternal years.

6. And I meditated in the night with my own heart, and I was exercised, and I swept my spirit.

7. Will God then cast off forever: or will he never be more favorable again?

8. Or will he cut off his mercy forever, from generation to generation?

9. Or will God forget to show mercy? or will he in his anger shut up his mercies?

10. And I said, Now have I begun: this is the change of the right hand of the most High.

11. I remembered the works of the Lord: for I will be mindful of thy wonders from the beginning.

12. And I will meditate on all thy works: and will be employed in thy inventions.

13. Thy way, O God, is in the holy place: who is the great God like our God? Thou art the God that dost wonders, bered God, and instead of being consoled by his remembrance, I was thereby still more troubled. "Exercitatus sum." St. Jerome translates thus: Loquebar in memetipso. The sense then of this latter part of the verse is: And speaking, complaining, in myself, I remained anxious and restless through sadness, so that my spirit fainted within me.

4. My eyes looked forward to the dawn, that is. I passed the whole night without being able to sleep because of the trouble that I suffered, and without saying a word.

5. "Annos æternos." St. Jerome translates: Annos sæculorum—I thought of the ancient days, and I had in my mind the ages of the past. David recalled to his memory, in order to comfort himself, the graces and the favors that he had formerly received from God, and the benefits conferred upon his people.

6. "Et meditatus sum." According to the Hebrew: Recordabar cantici mei; or, following the translation of St. Jerome: Psalmorum meorum. At night I meditated in my heart the time when I sang canticles; and thus I exercised myself, and searched out my spirit, that is, I examined my conscience. "Scopebam." St. Augustine in his day read: Per-scrutabar—I searched through.

7. "Non apponet ut complacitior sit adhuc?" Will he not show himself more appeased and propitious? Such is the sense that St. Jerome gives according to the Hebrew: Non repropitiabitur ultra? And thus also Bellarmine, Bossuët, etc., understand it.

10. "Hæc mutatio." Some understand this change in respect to God, following the translation of St. Jerome, who renders the verse thus: Et dixi: Imbecillitas mea est hæc: commutatio dexteræ Excelsi. That is: I said that my weakness, or my wickedness, is the cause of the change of the right hand of the Most High, who from being clement has changed so as to become severe. But others, as Lallemand, with St. Augustine, understand the change to be wrought in the psalmist who speaks: "Et dixi: Nunc cæpi . . ."; which is explained thus: I said that now I begin to breathe again by means of hope; or, according to others, I have now determined to change my life, and this change is the work of the right hand of the Most High, that is, of divine grace, dispellentis, writes St. Augustine, priorem nebulam et caliginem: of grace, which delivering me from the cloud of darkness in which I was before, draws me to himself with a new light. St. Antony, the abbot, enjoined, upon his disciples to repeat every morning, when renewing the good intention of giving themselves entirely to God, these words: Et dixi: Nunc cœpi.

11. "Quia." According to the Hebrew: Certe, quin etiam. And assuredly, I shall continue to remember the wonderful things which Thou, O my God, hast wrought since the beginning of the world.

12. "In adinventionibus tuis exercebor." St. Jerome translates: Adinventiones tuas loquar. And Bossuet explains the passage thus: Sapientiæ tuæ arcana, et ad salutem nostram excogitata consilia—I shall exercise myself in praising the loving inventions of Thy wisdom with a view to our salvation.

13. "In sancto via tua." Bossuet: Via tuæ sanctæ. That is, following the explanation of Bossuet: Thy designs and Thy works are always in holiness.

14. "Redemisti." Thou hast redeemed or delivered Thy people from the hands of their enemies.¹

15. The waters saw Thee, O God Almighty! they were stricken with terror, and out of reverence and awe they drew back to their abysses, that is, to their lowest depths. Bellarmine explains this of the waters of the Red Sea, which at the command of God divided to give a passage for the Hebrews.

¹ "Populum tuum, filios Jacob et Joseph." The name of Joseph is frequently found in the psalms, with or instead of the name of the Patriarch Jacob, as representing the entire people of God. Several reasons may be given for this: God as well as Jacob, had a particular affection for Joseph, and preferred him to his brethren on account of his virtue; besides, the right of primogeniture, of which Ruben had rendered himself unworthy, was given to the family of Joseph (1 Paral. vi.), and in the division of the promised land it formed two tribes instead of one, those of Ephraim and Manasses, whom Jacob (Gen. xliii. 5) had adopted and raised to the rank of his own sons, in transferring the birthright of Manasses to Ephraim. The tribe of Ephraim was established in the centre, and for a long time it had the privilege of possessing at Silo the Tabernacle with the Ark of the Covenant, as may be seen in the following psalm. Moreover, Bellarmine says (Ps. lxxix. 1) that Joseph, who had fed the people of Israel in Egypt, was looked upon as their chief.

16. Then there was heard a great sound, that is, the great roaring of the waves of the sea, when they rushed on the Egyptians to overwhelm them; the clouds also gave forth their voice, raining with fury on the enemies.

17. Lallemand translates: Thy lightnings flashed on all sides, and Thy thunderbolts broke up the wheels of the enemy's chariots. But other interpreters render the sense better thus: The hailstones struck like arrows, and the voice of Thy thunder, that is, the thunder made a noise like that of a wheel creaking by reason of its rapid motion. "In rota." Bossuet says: Instar rotæ rapide discurrentis. Thus also is it explained by Maldonatus and Mariana.

19. "Vestigia tua non cognoscentur." St. Jerome translates: Vestigia tua non sunt agnita. Thy traces, that is, those of Thy people who passed over dry shod, were not known by the enemy, who remained submerged.

PSALM X., WHICH IS PSALM LXXVII. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm recalls briefly all that the Lord has done for his people from the time of Moses till the days of David. The psalmist, while exalting the munificence of God, expresses his detestation of the ingratitude of the Hebrews.

1. ATTENDITE popule meus legem meam: inclinate aurem vestram in verba oris mei.

2. Aperiam in parabolis os meum: loquar propositiones ab initio.

3. Quanta audivimus, et cognovimus ea: et patres nostri narraverunt nobis.

4. Non sunt occultata a filiis eorum, in generatione altera.

5. Narrantes laudes Domini, et virtutes ejus, et mirabilia ejus quæ fecit.

6. Et suscitavit testimonium in Jacob: et legem posuit in Israel.

7. Quanta mandavit patribus nostris nota facere ea filiis suis: ut cognoscat generatio altera.

1. ATTEND, O my people, to my law: incline your ears to the words of my mouth.

2. I will open my mouth in parables: I will utter propositions from the beginning.

3. How great things have we heard and known: and our fathers have told us.

4. They have not been hid from their children, in another generation.

5. Declaring the praises of the Lord, and his powers, and his wonders which he hath done.

6. And he set up a testimony in Jacob: and made a law in Israel.

7. How great things he commanded our fathers, that they should make the same known to their children; that another generation might know them.

22. Et male locuti sunt de Deo: dixerunt: Numquid poterit Deus parare mensam in deserto?

23. Quoniam percussit petram, et fluxerunt aquæ, et torrentes inundaverunt.

24. Numquid et panem poterit dare, aut parare mensam populo suo?

25. Ideo audivit Dominus, et distulit: et ignis accensus est in Jacob, et ira ascendit in Israel.

26. Quia non crediderunt in Deo, nec speraverunt in salutari ejus:

27. Et mandavit nubibus desuper, et januas cœli aperuit.

28. Et pluit illis manna ad manducandum, et panem cœli dedit eis.

29. Panem Angelorum manducavit homo: cibaria misit eis in abundantia.

30. Transtulit Austrum de cœlo: et induxit in virtute sua Africum.

31. Et pluit super eos sicut pulverem carnes: et sicut arenam maris volatilia pennata.

32. Et ceciderunt in medio castrorum eorum: circa tabernacula eorum.

33. Et manducaverunt et saturati sunt nimis, et desiderium eorum attulit eis: non sunt fraudati a desiderio suo.

34. Adhuc escæ eorum erant in ore ipsorum: et ira Dei ascendit super eos.

35. Et occidit pingues eorum, et electos Israel impedivit.

22. And they spoke ill of God: they said: Can God furnish a table in the wilderness?

23. Because he struck the rock, and the waters gushed out, and the streams overflowed.

24. Can he also give bread, or provide a table for his people?

25. Therefore the Lord heard, and was angry: and a fire was kindled against Jacob, and wrath came up against Israel.

26. Because they believed not in God, and trusted not in his salvation:

27. And he had commanded the clouds from above, and had opened the doors of heaven.

28. And had rained down manna upon them to eat and had given them the bread of heaven.

29. Man eat the bread of angels: he sent them provisions in abundance.

30. He removed the south-wind from heaven: and by his power brought in the south-west wind.

31. And he rained upon them flesh as dust: and feathered fowls like as the sand of the sea.

32. And they fell in the midst of their camp: round about their pavilions.

33. So they did eat, and were filled exceedingly, and he gave them their desire: they were not defrauded of that which they craved.

34. As yet their meat was in their mouth: and the wrath of God came upon them.

35. And he slew the fat ones amongst them, and brought down the chosen men of Israel

36. In omnibus his peccaverunt adhuc: et non crediderunt in mirabilibus ejus.

37. Et defecerunt in vanitate dies eorum: et anni eorum cum festinatione.

38. Cum occideret eos, quærebant eum: et revertebantur, et diluculo veniebant ad eum.

39. Et rememorati sunt quia Deus adjutor est eorum: et Deus excelsus redemptor eorum est.

40. Et dilexerunt eum in ore suo, et lingua sua mentiti sunt ei:

41. Cor autem eorum non erat rectum cum eo: nec fideles habiti sunt in testamento ejus:

42. Ipse autem et misericors, et propitius fiet peccatis eorum: et non disperdet eos.

43. Et abundavit ut averteret iram suam: et non accendit omnem iram suam:

44. Et recordatus est quia caro sunt: spiritus vadens, et non rediens.

45. Quoties exacerbaverunt eum in deserto, in iram concitaverunt eum in inaquoso?

46. Et conversi sunt, et tentaverunt Deum: et sanctum Israel exacerbaverunt.

47. Non sunt recordati manus ejus, die qua redemit eos de manu tribulantis.

48. Sicut posuit in Ægypto signa sua; et prodigia sua in campo Taneos.

49. Et convertit in sanguinem flumina eorum, et imbres eorum, ne biberent.

50. Misit in eos cœnomy-

36. In all these things they sinned still: and they believed not for his wondrous works.

37. And their days were consumed in vanity: and their years in haste.

38. When he slew them, then they sought him: and they returned, and came to him early in the morning.

39. And they remembered that God was their helper: and the most High God their redeemer.

40. And they loved him with their mouth, and with their tongue they lied unto him:

41. But their heart was not right with him: nor were they counted faithful in his covenant.

42. But he is merciful, and will forgive their sins: and will not destroy them.

43. And many a time did he turn away his anger: and did not kindle all his wrath.

44. And he remembered that they are flesh: a wind that goeth and returneth not.

45. How often did they provoke him in the desert, and move him to wrath in the place without water?

46. And they turned back and tempted God: and grieved the Holy One of Israel.

47. They remembered not his hand, in the day that he redeemed them from the hand of him that afflicted them,

48. How he wrought his signs in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Tanis.

49. And he turned their rivers into blood, and their showers that they might not drink.

50. He sent amongst them

iam, et comedit eos: et ranam, et disperdidit eos.

51. Et dedit ærugini fructus eorum: et labores eorum locustæ.

52. Et occidit in grandine vineas eorum: et moros eorum in pruina.

53. Et tradidit grandini jumenta eorum: et possessionem eorum igni.

54. Misit in eos iram indignationis suæ: indignationem, et iram, et tribulationem, immissiones per angelos malos.

55. Viam fecit semitæ iræ suæ, non pepercit a morte animabus eorum: et jumenta eorum in morte conclusit.

56. Et percussit omne primogenitum in terra Ægypti: primitias omnis laboris eorum in tabernaculis Cham.

57. Et abstulit sicut oves populum suum: et perduxit eos tamquam gregem in deserto.

58. Et deduxit eos in spe, et non timuerunt: et inimicos eorum operuit mare.

59. Et induxit eos in montem sanctificationis suæ, montem, quem acquisivit dextera ejus.

60. Et ejecit a facie eorum gentes et sorte divisit eis terram in funiculo distributionis.

61. Et habitare fecit in tabernaculis eorum tribus Israel.

62. Et tentaverunt, et exacerbaverunt Deum excelsum: et testimonia ejus non custodierunt.

divers sort of flies, which devoured them: and frogs which destroyed them.

51. And he gave up their fruits to the blast: and their labors to the locust.

52. And he destroyed their vineyards with hail: and their mulberry-trees with hoar frost.

53. And he gave up their cattle to the hail: and their stock to the fire.

54. And he sent upon them the wrath of his indignation indignation and wrath and trouble: which he sent by evil angels.

55. He made a way for a path to his anger, he spared not their souls from death, and their cattle he shut up in death.

56. And he killed all the first-born in the land of Egypt: the first-fruits of all their labor in the tabernacles of Cham.

57. And he took away his own people as sheep: and guided them in the wilderness like a flock.

58. And he brought them out in hope, and they feared not: and the sea overwhelmed their enemies.

59. And he brought them into the mountain of his sanctuary, the mountain which his right hand had purchased.

60. And he cast out the Gentiles before them: and by lot divided to them their land by a line of distribution.

61. And he made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tabernacles.

62. Yet they tempted, and provoked the most high God: and they kept not his testimonies.

fulness of his hands.

1. "Legem meam." My precepts, or my teaching.

2. "In parabolis." The learned Mazzochi (Spicil. Bibl. in Num. xxiii. 7) says, that in Scripture the word Parabola is used for every kind of poetical composition; whence it is explained: I will open my mouth to sing in verse. "Loquar propositiones ab initio." St. Jerome translates: Loquar ænigmata antiqua—I will speak ancient enigmas. This agrees with the Gospel of St. Matthew (xiii. 35), in which we read: Eructabo abscondita a constitutione mundi—I will utter things hidden from the foundation of the world: I will declare unto you the mysteries of ancient deeds, come to pass since the beginning of the world.

3. "Quanta audivimus." St. Jerome translates: Quæ audivimus.

6. "Suscitavit." St. Jerome translates: Statuit—He established. "In Jacob, . . . In Israel." Among the posterity of Jacob.

7. "Quanta." According to the Hebrew: Quæ—Which.

10. "Prava et exasperans." According to the Hebrew: Amara et rebellis; or, following the translation of St. Jerome: Declinans et provocans—Inconstant and irritating.

11. "Non est creditus cum Deo." St. Jerome has: Non credit Deo—Believe not God.

12. "Filii Ephrem." The tribe of Ephraim.¹

¹ Bellarmine adds here a useful remark: David in mentioning the tribe of Ephraim means all the Israelites; it was the most powerful after the tribe of Juda, and in Scripture most frequently reproaches are addressed to the tribe of Ephraim, and praises to the tribe of Juda. Hence it is that the afflictions of the entire people are represented under the name of Ephraim rather than that of the other tribes; and towards the end of the psalm, v. 73, 74, the tribe of Juda is chosen in preference of that of Ephraim. See the Prophet Osee. Moreover, in

15. "Taneos." Tanis, the capital city of Lower Egypt (Menochius).

16. "Quasi in utre." According to the Hebrew: Quasi cumulum; or, according to St. Jerome: Quasi acervum—Piled up high in a heap.

17. "Diei, . . . In illuminatione." St. Jerome translates: Pre diem . . . In lumine. The Lord went before them to show the way by day in a pillar of cloud, and by night in a pillar of fire (Exod. xiii. 21).

18. "Adaquavit." According to the Hebrew: Potum dedit. "Velut in abyso multa." Menochius explains: Ac si essent ad ripam profundissimi fluminis—As though they were on the bank of a deep river.

20. "Apaosuerunt adhuc peccare." According to the Hebrew: Iterum peccaverunt; or, according to the translation of St. Jerome: Addiderunt ultra peccare. "In inaquosa." According to the Chaldee: In arido deserto.

21. In the psalm of the invitatorium, verse 4, is explained what we read here. The Hebrews in asking of God for bread and flesh, in the midst of the desert (Exod. xvi. 3; Num. xi. 4), wished to tempt him in order to see by this experiment whether he were really able to provide them with such food in a place deprived of everything.

22. "Parare mensam." Prepare for us a table such as we desire.

25. "Distulit." Mattei interprets: Distulit implere—He delayed to fulfil his promises; but it appears to me better to say: He suspended the course of his benefits to those ungrateful men. "Jacob . . . Israel." The posterity of Jacob.

27. "Januas cæli aperuit." This is said to show the abundance of manna that came down from heaven.

28. "Manna." Bellarmine says that this name comes from the wonder excited in the people when they saw the earth covered with this extraordinary food, spread over the ground like hoar-frost, and said to one another: Man Hu? which signifies:

the tribe of Ephraim was situated the town of Silo, which for a long time had the privilege of possessing the holy Tabernacle, a favor of which it was afterwards deprived as is related in verse 66. See note to preceding psalm, v. 14.

Quid est hoc—What is this? (Exod. xvi. 15). The same author adds that manna was the seed of the coriander. “Panem cæli.” The manna was thus called, because it came from heaven or from the atmosphere.

29. “Panem angelorum.” It was thus called, because it was formed by the operation of the angels.

30. According to the interpretation of Lallemand, the Lord caused the Auster or east wind to cease, and made the Africus or south wind blow in its place. But Bellarmine remarks that the east wind, Auster (or Eurus), denoted in the Hebrew text is not opposed to the Africus, but is rather next to it and united with it. Hence Theodoret, Euthymius, and others, do not give to the word Transtulit the sense of Cessare fecit—Made to cease; but that of Flare jussit—Commanded to blow; as if it were said, following the explanation of St. Augustine: Transtulit de cælesti thesauro, et emisit in terram—So that God ordained that these two winds together should bring the quails in the desert.

34. “Ascendit.” The same expression as in verse 25. When the fire of anger is great, its flame rises on high.

35. “Pingues eorum.” Bellarmine understands by this: The most voluptuous; Lallemand: The strongest. “Electos Israel impedivit.” This means, according to Lallemand, that he struck with death the choice or the pick of their youth; and, according to Bellarmine, that the strongest among them were by God prevented from escaping death.

36. “Non crediderunt in mirabilibus ejus.” Such wonders could not induce them to fear the Lord and trust in him.

37. They consumed uselessly their days in the desert; and their years were shortened.

40. They promised to love him; but this promise was only in their mouth, on their tongue, and they thus lied to God.

42. “Non disperdet eos.” God, who is always compassionate towards others, notwithstanding their sins, would not utterly destroy all his people as they deserved.

44. God remembers, that is, he considers that these sinners are men of flesh, weak, and filled with misery, whose life is as a passing wind that lasts but a short time, which comes and goes but does not return. Thus the young man passes on to old age, but does not return to youth.

58. He led the Israelites full of confidence and without fear, because their enemies were now sunk in the Red Sea; and thus their slavery was at an end.

59. "In montem sanctificationis suæ." This, as Bellarmine explains, signifies the Promised Land; a mountain, that is, a mountainous land, which God had chosen for himself to be there honored by his people; a mountain, or land, which he had acquired by his own right hand; having wrought so many miracles to help the Israelites in conquering and driving out the idolaters who inhabited it.

60. "Gentes." The hostile nations, or the Chanaanites, who inhabited the land. "In funicula distributionis." The lands were measured with cords, according to the custom of those times, to be then distributed by lots to the families of the Israelites.

66. "Silo." A town of the tribe of Ephraim, where abode for some time the Ark of the Covenant, which God caused to be made in the desert, and where the Lord in some sense dwelt amongst men; since it was thence he gave to them his answers.

67. "Virtutem eorum et pulchritudinem eorum." The strength and the glory of the people of Israel was the holy Ark, as Menochius, Lallemand, and Bossuet, with St. Augustine, explain: God permitted that it should become the spoil of the enemy, namely, of the Philistines (1 Kings, iv. 11).

68. He suffered, moreover, that his people should be encompassed on all sides by the swords of their enemies; and thus he had to despise that people whom he had chosen as his heritage; that is, to be to him a peculiar and special people.

69. "Ignis." The fire of war, or rather of the divine wrath "Lamentata." Some explain this word in an active sense; but Bellarmine, Lallemand, and Mattei think with more reason that it should be taken in the passive sense; thus the meaning is: After the death of the young men, the young maidens whom they were to marry had no one to lament their sad lot; because in the general massacre every one had to bewail the losses in his own family, rather than those of others; and this explanation agrees well with the Hebrew text, which St. Jerome renders thus: Virgines ejus (populi) nemo luxit—No one mourned the virgins of the people.

70. "Sacerdotes eorum." Ophni et Phinees, the sons of Heli

(1 Kings, iv. 11). “Non plorabantur.” St. Jerome translates: Non sunt fletæ. None consoled nor even pitied them, because all were occupied with weeping the death of their own relatives.

71. But at last the Lord awoke, as wakes up a strong warrior who, heavy with wine, has fallen into a deep sleep. This is the interpretation given by Bellarmine, Menochius, Gordona, and Lallemand; they say that God when he does not punish the wicked seems to sleep a deep sleep. But Mattei justly remarks that the parallel of a drunken man waking up from sleep is ill becoming to God; and he adds that the verse contains not one but two similes; the first is that of the awaking: “Excitatus est tamquam dormiens;” the second is that of the return that God makes against his enemies, like a mighty warrior, strengthened and whetted for fight by the wine that he has taken: Tamquam potens miles exhilaratus a vino; this agrees with the Hebrew text, which is rendered by Ovans or Exhilaratus—Cheered or Refreshed, instead of “Crapulatus.”

72. “Inimicos suos.” The Philistines. “In posteriora.” That is: In secretiori parte natium (1 Kings, v. 6). God punished their pride by sores so disgraceful, that they were a perpetual cause of shame to them.

73. “Tabernaculum Joseph.” That is, the Tabernacle containing the Ark of the Covenant, which was at Silo, a city of the tribe of Ephraim, son of Joseph.¹

74. “Elegit tribum Juda, montem Sion, quem dilexit.” He chose the tribe of Juda, to establish his Tabernacle, Mount Sion, preferring it to all other places in Juda.

75. And on this Mount Sion, that is, at Jerusalem, a land that he established to last forever, he built his sanctuary, firm and strong as the horn of the unicorn. Bellarmine says that Jerusalem, which was afterwards destroyed, is here a figure of the Church, which is to endure till the end of the world. Mattei adds that Mount Sion was compared to the unicorn because upon it was the Temple, which was the only temple of Judea.

77. God took David from the humble condition of a shepherd, to place in his hand the royal sceptre and the government of his people, composed of the children of his servant Jacob.

78. David governed this people with a right heart, and directed them with counsel and prudence in all the works that he did for their good.¹

PSALM XI., WHICH IS PSALM LXXVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm shows us the miserable state of the Jewish people during the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes, in the time of the Machabees. This at least is to be inferred from the first book of the Machabees, chapter vii, verse 17, in which the author cites the second verse of our psalm as a prophecy realized in his presence. But, according to St. Augustine, reference is here made to the persecutions that the Church suffered under the pagan emperors.

1. DEUS, venerunt Gentes in hereditatem tuam, polluerunt templum sanctum tuum: posuerunt Jerusalem in pomorum custodiam.

2. Posuerunt morticina servorum tuorum, escas volatilibus cœli: carnes sanctorum tuorum bestiis terræ.

3. Effuderunt sanguinem eorum tamquam aquam in circuitu Jerusalem: et non erat qui sepeliret.

4. Facti sumus opprobrium vicinis nostris: subsannatio et illusio his, qui in circuitu nostro sunt.

5. Usquequo Domine irasceris in finem: accendetur velut ignis zelus tuus?

6. Effunde iram tuam in Gentes, quæ te non noverunt: et in regna, quæ nomen tuum non invocaverunt:

7. Quia comederunt Jacob: et locum ejus desolaverunt.

1. O GOD, the heathens are come into thy inheritance, they have defiled thy holy temple: they have made Jerusalem as a place to keep fruit.

2. They have given the dead bodies of thy servants to be meat for the fowls of the air: the flesh of thy saints for the beasts of the earth.

3. They have poured out their blood as water, round about Jerusalem: and there was none to bury them.

4. We are become a reproach to our neighbors: a scorn and derision to them that are round about us.

5. How long, O Lord, wilt thou be angry forever: shall thy zeal be kindled like a fire?

6. Pour out thy wrath upon the nations that have not known thee: and upon the kingdoms that have not called upon thy name.

7. Because they have devoured Jacob: and have laid waste his place.

¹ Bellarmine observes that this eulogium is applicable to David only in a limited sense; but it is perfectly verified in him of whom David was the figure, Jesus Christ, the King of future ages and the Good Shepherd of the flock of his faithful.

5. "In finem." According to the Hebrew and Chaldee: In perpetuum. "Zelus." Tirinus explains this to be: Indignatio—Indignation. "Velut ignis." Like fire which is not extinguished till it has reduced everything to ashes, says Bellarmine: Qui crescere solet in immensum, et in cinerem omnia redigere.

7. "Jacob." The children of Jacob, that is, Thy people. "Locum ejus." Their country; or, according to the Hebrew, their Temple.

8. "Anticipent nos misericordiæ tuæ." That is: Prevent by Thy mercy the ruin with which our enemies threaten us.

9. "Propter gloriam nominis tui . . . propter nomen tuum." Not for our merits, but for the glory of Thy name. "Libera nos." Deliver us from the miseries in which we are. "Propitius esto peccatis nostris." Pardon us our sins which have drawn this persecution upon us.

10, 11. "Innotescat . . . Ultio sanguinis servorum tuorum." Let Thy justice be manifest to all, by avenging the blood of Thy servants.

12. "Posside filios." Possess, that is, preserve the children who have escaped from slaughter.

13. "Vicinis nostris." To those enemies who are our neighbors. Some think that these are Edomites and Philistines; some others, as Bellarmine, those that brought ruin upon Jerusalem under Antiochus, king of Syria. "Septuplum." Sevenfold, or many times as much, or simply the double, expressing a complete retribution. "In sinu eorum." In the centre of their hearts.

PSALM XII., WHICH IS PSALM LXXIX. OF THE PSALTER.

We find in this psalm, according as we take it in the literal or the mystical sense, the prayer which the Jews who were prisoners addressed to God for their deliverance, or which the patriarchs offered up, that the Messiah might put an end to the tyranny of the devil.

1. QUI regis Israel, intende:
qui deducis velut ovem Joseph.

1. GIVE ear, O thou that rulest Israel: thou that leadest Joseph like a sheep.

2. Qui sedes super Cherubim, manifestare coram Ephraim, Benjamin, et Manasse.

2. Thou that sittest upon the cherubim, shine forth before Ephraim, Benjamin and Manasses.

3. Excita potentiam tuam, et veni, ut salvos facias nos.

4. Deus convertè te nos: et ostende faciem tuam, et salvi erimus.

5. Domine Deus virtutum, quousque irascaris super orationem servi tui?

6. Cibabis nos pane lacrymarum: et potum dabit nobis in lacrymis in mensura?

7. Posuisti nos in contradictionem vicinis nostris: et inimici nostri subsannaverunt nos.

8. Deus virtutum converte nos: et ostende faciem tuam, et salvi erimus.

9. Vineam de Ægypto transtulisti: ejecisti gentes, et plantasti eam.

10. Dux itineris fuisti in conspectu ejus: plantasti radices ejus, et implevit terram.

11. Operuit montes umbra ejus: et arbusta ejus cedros Dei.

12. Extendit palmites suos usque ad mare: et usque ad flumen propagines ejus.

13. Ut quid destruxisti maceriam ejus: et vindemiant eam omnes, qui prætergrediuntur viam?

14. Exterminavit eam aper de silva: et singularis ferus depastus est eam.

15. Deus virtutum convertere: respice de cœlo, et vide, et visita vineam istam.

16. Et perfice eam, quam plantavit dextera tua: et super filium hominis, quem confirmasti tibi.

3. Stir up thy might, and come to save.

4. Convert us, O God: and show us thy face, and we shall be saved.

5. O Lord God of hosts, how long wilt thou be angry against the prayer of thy servant?

6. How long wilt thou feed us with the bread of tears: and give us for our drink tears in measure?

7. Thou hast made us to be a contradiction to our neighbors: and our enemies have scoffed at us.

8. O God of hosts, convert us: and show thy face: and we shall be saved.

9. Thou hast brought a vineyard out of Egypt: thou hast cast out the Gentiles and planted it.

10. Thou wast the guide of its journey in its sight: thou plantedst the roots thereof, and it filled the land.

11. The shadow of it covered the hills: and the branches thereof the cedars of God.

12. It stretched forth its branches unto the sea: and its boughs unto the river.

13. Why hast thou broken down the hedge thereof: so that all they who pass by the way do pluck it?

14. The boar out of the wood hath laid it waste: and a singular wild beast hath devoured it.

15. Turn again, O God of hosts: look down from heaven, and see, and visit this vineyard.

16. And perfect the same which thy right hand hath planted: and upon the son of man whom thou hast confirmed for thyself.

17. Incensa igni, et suffossa ab increpatione vultus tui peribunt.

18. Fiat manus tua super virum dexteræ tuæ: et super filium hominis, quem confirmasti tibi.

19. Et non discedimus a te, vivificabis nos: et nomen tuum invocabimus.

20. Domine Deus virtutum converte nos: et ostende faciem tuam, et salvi erimus.

17. Things set on fire and dug down shall perish at the rebuke of thy countenance.

18. Let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand: and upon the son of man whom thou hast confirmed for thyself.

19. And we depart not from thee, thou shalt quicken us: and we will call upon thy name.

20. O Lord God of hosts, convert us: and show thy face, and we shall be saved.

1. "Qui regis Israel." According to the Hebrew: O Pastor Israel! or, according to St. Jerome: Qui pascis Israel: O God, who as a shepherd rulest and feedest the people of Israel. "Intende." St. Jerome translates: Ausculata: Hear, Thou who guidest as Thy flock the posterity of Joseph. "Ovem." The Hebrew word, though singular, denotes a multitude, as Menochius remarks. "Joseph." Menochius and Tirinus give the reasons why under the name of Joseph are comprised all the Israelites, descendants of Joseph and of his brethren. (See Psalm, lxxvi. 14.)

2. "Qui sedes super Cherubim." That is: Thou to whom the first angels in heaven serve as a throne. "Manifestare." According to the Hebrew: Splende, Inclarescere—Make Thy power brilliantly shine forth. "Coram Ephrem, Benjamin, et Manasse." By these three tribes are meant the whole people of Israel, according to the explanation of Bellarmine and others.¹

3. "Excita potentiam tuam." Awake Thy power; for, as Bellarmine explains, it seems to be asleep, when Thou permittest our enemies to afflict us in this way. "Ut salvos facias nos." By delivering us from this captivity.

4. "Converte nos." According to the Hebrew: Reduc nos—

¹ We remark, in order to better understand the verse, that these are the tribes that have sprung from Rachel. In the desert they walked and camped together, having always the Ark before their eyes; so in the promised land they were grouped towards the centre, and kept the Ark, at first at Silo, in the tribe of Ephraim, and then on the mountain of Sion, in the tribe of Benjamin. Now the holy Ark was adorned with two figures of Cherubim extending their wings upon the propitiatory, where the Lord manifested his presence and rendered his oracles.

14. "Aper de silva." Euthymius, Bellarmine, Malvenda, Mattei, and others understand by the wild boar Nabuchodonosor; and, allegorically, according to St. Jerome, it is the devil. "Singularis ferus." Bellarmine, Mattei, and others say that according to the Hebrew phrase these words designate the same wild boar; it is the ordinary repetition.¹

15. "Vide, et visita vineam." Consider our miseries, and visit with Thy compassion this vine thus brought to ruin.

16. "Super Filium hominis." According to the Chaldee version: Propter Regem Christum. We beg Thee for the love of the Son of man; that is, the Messias, whom Thou hast confirmed; that is, hast established, as Thy Son. It is thus that St. Jerome, St. Augustine, Theodoret, Euthymius, Bellarmine, etc., explain this verse.

17. "Ab increpatione vultus tui peribunt." Some, as Estius, Sa, and Bossuet, explain this passage thus: But those that have thus laid it waste shall perish through the wrath of Thy angry countenance. Others, more commonly, as Malvenda, Menochius, Rotigni, Tirinus, and Mattei, with Vatablus, Genebrard, Maldonatus, and Mariana, apply it to the Jewish people in this sense: If Thy countenance continues to appear threatening, and to show forth Thy wrath, all those that belong to the Synagogue will perish.

18. Cause Thy power to be known upon the Man of Thy right hand;² and upon the Son of man whom Thou hast willed for Thy glory to send into the world to restore Thy vineyard.

19. "Discedimus." St. Jerome translates: Recedemus. "Vivificabis nos." Thou wilt give us the strength to serve Thee.

20. Repetition of verses 4 and 8.

¹ "Singularis." This verse properly signifies Solitary, and is here a substantive, as Bellarmine explains it; it is, says Gaume, the name given by hunters to the old wild boar that lives isolated. From Singularis, understood Porcus, comes the Italian Cinghiale, and the French Sanglier.

² "Virum dexteræ tuæ." Bellarmine and other interpreters, understand by these words Jesus Christ, whom God formed with his own hand, or by the operation of the Holy Ghost, in the womb of the Blessed Virgin. We may add that he was to take his seat at the right hand of the eternal Father, Friday at Matins.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM LXXX. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist reproves the people for the negligence with which they celebrate the praises of the Lord, and urges them to celebrate them with devotion and in thanksgiving for the benefits received from the Lord; for this end the feasts are instituted. Every Christian can apply this psalm to himself.

1. EXULTATE Deo adjutori nostro: jubilate Deo Jacob.

2. Sumite psalmum, et date tympanum: psalterium jucundum cum cithara.

3. Buccinate in Neomenia tuba, in insigni die solemnitatis vestræ:

4. Quia præceptum in Israel est: et judicium Deo Jacob.

5. Testimonium in Joseph posuit illud, cum exiret de terra Ægypti: linguam, quam non noverat, audivit.

6. Divertit ab oneribus dorsum ejus: manus ejus in cophino servierunt.

7. In tribulatione invocasti me, et liberavi te: exaudivi te in abscondito tempestatis: probavi te apud aquam contradictionis.

8. Audi populus meus, et contestabor te: Israel si audieris me, non erit in te deus recens, neque adorabis deum alienum.

9. Ego enim sum Dominus Deus tuus, qui eduxi te de terra Ægypti: dilata os tuum, et implebo illud.

1. REJOICE to God our helper: sing aloud to the God of Jacob.

2. Take a psalm, and bring hither the timbrel: the pleasant psaltery with the harp.

3. Blow up the trumpet on the new moon, on the noted day of your solemnity:

4. For it is a commandment in Israel, and a judgment to the God of Jacob.

5. He ordained it for a testimony in Joseph, when he came out of the land of Egypt: he heard a tongue which he knew not.

6. He removed his back from the burdens: his hands had served in a basket.

7. Thou calledst upon me in affliction, and I delivered thee: I heard thee in the secret place of tempest: I proved thee at the waters of contradiction.

8. Hear, O my people, and I will testify to thee: O Israel, if thou wilt hearken to me, there shall be no new god in thee, neither shalt thou adore a strange god.

9. For I am the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt: open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it,

10. Et non audivit populus meus vocem meam: et Israel non intendit mihi.

11. Et dimisi eos secundum desideria cordis eorum, ibunt in adinventionibus suis.

12. Si populus meus audisset me: Israel si in viis meis ambulasset:

13. Pro nihilo forsitan inimicos eorum humiliassem: et super tribulantes eos misissem manum meam.

14. Inimici Domini mentiti sunt ei: et erit tempus eorum in sæcula.

15. Et cibavit eos ex adipe frumenti: et de petra, melle saturavit eos.

10. But my people heard not my voice: and Israel hearkened not to me.

11. So I let them go according to the desires of their heart, they shall walk in their own inventions.

12. If my people had heard me: if Israel had walked in my ways:

13. I should soon have humbled their enemies: and laid my hand on them that troubled them.

14. The enemies of the Lord have lied to him: and their time shall be forever.

15. And he fed them with the fat of wheat: and filled them with honey out of the rock.

3. "Neomenia." We should here remark, that the Hebrews celebrated every month the Feast of the New Moon; but the most solemn Feast of the New Moon was in September, when the trumpets were sounded, and hence it was called the Feast of Trumpets: Dies clangoris est et tubarum (Num. xxix. 1). "Vestræ." According to the Hebrew: Nostræ—Our.

4. In the Book of Numbers, x. 10.

7. "In Joseph." That is: On the posterity of Joseph and his brethren; that is, on the people of Israel. "Linguam quam non noverat." A language which he did not know, because this was the first time that God spoke to his people.

6. According to the Hebrew: Liberavi ab onere dorsum ejus, et manus ejus a cophinis cessaverunt. The prophet recalls to mind the burdens, the baskets full of mud and bricks, that the Israelites were condemned to carry.

7. Here it is God that speaks. "Exaudivi te in abscondito tempestatis." This passage is variously interpreted. Mattei understands it as referring to the chastisements that God poured upon the enemies of his people; but I prefer the view of Genebrardus, who explains it thus: I heard thee in the tempest of afflictions which thou didst suffer at the hands of the Egyptians, when it seemed to thee that I hid myself away, and selves will have to be judged. The last verse shows us Jesus Christ coming to judge all men at the end of the world.

1. DEUS stetit in synagoga deorum: in medio autem deos dijudicat.

2. Usquequo judicatis iniquitatem: et facies peccatorum sumitis?

3. Judicate egeno, et pupillo: humilem, et pauperem justifycate.

4. Eripite pauperem: et egenum de manu peccatoris liberate.

5. Nescierunt, neque intellexerunt, in tenebris ambulat: movebuntur omnia fundamenta terræ.

6. Ego dixi: Dii estis, et filii Excelsi omnes.

7. Vos autem sicut homines moriemini: et sicut unus de principibus cadetis.

8. Surge, Deus, judica terram: quoniam tu hereditabis in omnibus gentibus.

1. GOD hath stood in the congregation of gods: and being in the midst of them he judgeth gods.

2. How long will you judge unjustly: and accept the persons of the wicked?

3. Judge for the needy and fatherless: do justice to the humble and the poor.

4. Rescue the poor: and deliver the needy out of the hand of the sinner.

5. They have not known nor understood, they walk on in darkness: all the foundations of the earth shall be moved.

6. I have said: You are gods, and all of you the sons of the Most High.

7. But you like men shall die: and shall fall like one of the princes.

8. Arise, O God, judge thou the earth: for thou shalt inherit among all the nations.

1. "Deorum." According to the Chaldee: Judicum. "Deos dijudicat." He weighs the judgments that they render.

2. Here God is speaking to the judges. "Facies peccatorum sumitis?" Bellarmine says that Sumere faciem alicujus in judicio, is to judge, not according to the rule that justice demands, but according to the pleasure of him whom the judge wishes to favor. But Mattei says that Sumere faciem peccatorum, according to the proper sense of the Hebrew expression, signifies: Erigere faciem peccatorum, and says he, when judges favor the wicked, they cause the wicked to hold up their head; that is, their pride.

4. "De manu peccatoris." From the hands of the sinner who is more powerful and would oppress them.

5. The wicked judges do not understand these maxims; they walk in the dark, and they put all the world in confusion by their-unjust practices.

6. O judges! I have set you up as gods of the earth, by giving you a share of my own power; by virtue of this authority that you have received from the Most High, you are his sons.

7. But take note that you are men, and as men you have all to die, and one day each one of you will fall from his post, as the princes who went before you have fallen.

8. "Hereditabis in omnibus gentibus." Thy reign shall extend over all the nations as Thy heritage, and at the last day all these must submit to Thy justice and power.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM LXXXII. OF THE PSALTER.

We have in this psalm the prayer that the Jewish people addressed to God, asking him for help against the Ammonites, the Moabites, and other Gentiles, who threatened to ruin the Temple and the holy city. This psalm may be used to pray to the intention of the Church whenever she suffers any special persecution.

1. DEUS, quis similis erit tibi? ne taceas, neque compescaris Deus:

2. Quoniam ecce inimici tui sonuerunt: et qui oderunt te, extulerunt caput.

3. Super populum tuum malignaverunt consilium: et co-gitaverunt adversus sanctos tuos.

4. Dixerunt: Venite, et dis-perdamus eos de gente: et non memoretur nomen Israel ultra.

5. Quoniam cogitaverunt unanimiter: simul adversum te testamentum disposuerunt, tabernacula Idumæorum, et Is-mahelitæ:

6. Moab, et Agareni, Gebal, et Ammon, et Amalec: alienigenæ cum habitantibus Tyrum.

7. Etenim Assur venit cum

1. O GOD, who shall be like to thee? hold not thy peace, neither be thou still, O God:

2. For lo thy enemies have made a noise: and they that hate thee have lifted up the head.

3. They have taken a malicious counsel against thy people: and have consulted against thy saints.

4. They have said: Come and let us destroy them, so that they be not a nation: and let the name of Israel be remembered no more.

5. For they have contrived with one consent: they have made a covenant together against thee, the tabernacles of the Edomites, and the Ismahelites:

6. Moab, and the Agarens, Gebal, and Ammon and Amalec: the Philistines, with the inhabitants of Tyre.

7. Yea and the Assyrian also illis: facti sunt in adiutorium filiis Lot.

8. Fac illis sicut Madian, et Sisaræ: sicut Jabin in torrente Cisson.

9. Disperierunt in Endor: facti sunt ut stercus terræ.

10. Pone principes eorum sicut Oreb, et Zeb, et Zebee, et Sahnana:

11. Omnes principes eorum, qui dixerunt: Hereditate possideamus Sanctuarium Dei.

12. Deus meus pone illos ut rotam: et sicut stipulam ante faciem venti.

13. Sicut ignis, qui comburit silvam: et sicut flamma comburens montes:

14. Ita persequeris illos in tempestate tua: et in ira tua turbabis eos.

15. Imple facies eorum ignominia: et quærent nomen tuum, Domine.

16. Erubescant, et conturbentur in sæculum sæculi: et confundantur, et pereant.

17. Et cognoscant quia nomen tibi Dominus: tu solus Altissimus in omni terra.

is joined with them: they are come to the aid of the sons of Lot.

8. Do to them as thou didst to Madian and to Sisara: as to Jabin at the brook of Cisson,

9. Who perished at Endor: and became as dung for the earth.

10. Make their princes like Oreb and Zeb, and Zebee and Salmana.

11. All their princes: who have said: Let us possess the sanctuary of God for an inheritance.

12. O my God, make them like a wheel: and as stubble before the wind.

13. As fire which burneth the wood: and as a flame burning mountains:

14. So shalt thou pursue them with thy tempest: and shalt trouble them in thy wrath.

15. Fill their faces with shame: and they shall seek thy name, O Lord.

16. Let them be ashamed and troubled forever and ever: and let them be confounded and perish.

17. And let them know that the Lord is thy name: thou alone art the most High over all the earth.

1. "Quis similis erit tibi?" Who shall have power to do what Thou canst? "Neque compescaris." St. Jerome translates: Et non quiescas. Hide not Thy just indignation by keeping silence and peace.

2. "Sonuerunt." St. Jerome translates: Tumultuati sunt.

3. "Malignaverunt consilium." St. Jerome translates: Nequiter tractaverunt. "Sanctos tuos." Those that adore Thee:

4. "Disperdamus eos de gente." According to Mattei, this is a Hebraism, which means: Let us remove this people from the world:

of Thy vengeance, and confuse them with the whirlwind of Thy wrath.

15. "Quærent nomen tuum." That is, they will enter into themselves and be converted to Thee. But others more commonly explain it thus: They will ask to know Thy name, that is, Thy power; they will be instructed therein, and they will venerate it.

16. If this is not enough to bring about their conversion, let them remain troubled with continual fear of Thy power all their lives, and let them die in confusion.

17. Let them know that the name of the Lord belongs properly to Thee alone, since Thou alone art King of kings throughout the earth.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM LXXXIII. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm shows us with what ardor the psalmist, desolate in finding himself far from the Temple of Jerusalem, sighed after the moment of seeing it again. And as the Temple was the figure of heaven, one must believe that he sighed at the same time after the happiness of going to contemplate God in the heavenly kingdom. Nothing is more fitted than this psalm to excite in us the desire of leaving the earth, and of entering the abode of the blessed.

1. QUAM dilecta tabernacula tua Domine virtutum! concupiscit, et deficit anima mea in atria Domini.

2. Cor meum, et caro mea exultaverunt in Deum vivum.

3. Etenim passer invenit sibi domum: et turtur nidum sibi, ubi ponat pullos suos.

4. Altaria tua Domine virtutum: Rex meus, et Deus meus.

5. Beati, qui habitant in domo tua Domine: in sæcula sæculorum laudabunt te.

6. Beatus vir, cujus est auxilium abs te: ascensiones in corde suo disposuit, in valle lacrymarum, in loco quem posuit.

1. HOW lovely are thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts: my soul longeth, and fainteth for the courts of the Lord.

2. My heart and my flesh have rejoiced in the living God.

3. For the sparrow hath found herself a house: and the turtle a nest for herself where she may lay her young ones.

4. Thy altars, O Lord of hosts: my king and my God.

5. Blessed are they that dwell in thy house, O Lord: they shall praise thee forever and ever.

6. Blessed is the man whose help is from thee: in his heart he hath disposed to ascend by steps, in the vale of tears, in the place which he hath set.

7. Etenim benedictionem dabit legislator, ibunt de virtute in virtutem: videbitur Deus deorum in Sion.

8. Domine Deus virtutum exaudi orationem meam: auribus percipe Deus Jacob.

9. Protector noster aspice Deus: et respice in faciem Christi tui.

10. Quia melior est dies una in atriis tuis super milia.

11. Elegi abjectus esse in domo Dei mei: magis quam habitare in tabernaculis peccatorum.

12. Quia misericordiam, et veritatem diligit Deus: gratiam, et gloriam dabit Dominus.

13. Non privabit bonis eos, qui ambulant in innocentia: Domine virtutum, beatus homo, qui sperat in te.

7. For the lawgiver shall give a blessing, they shall go from virtue to virtue: the God of gods shall be seen in Sion.

8. O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer: give ear, O God of Jacob.

9. Behold, O God our protector: and look on the face of thy Christ:

10. For better is one day in thy courts above thousands.

11. I have chosen to be an abject in the house of my God: rather than to dwell in the tabernacles of sinners.

12. For God loveth mercy and truth: the Lord will give grace and glory.

13. He will not deprive of good things them that walk in innocence: O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee.

1. "Atria Domini." See verse 10.

2. That is: My soul and my body leap for joy in thinking of Thee, O living God! Our God is called the living God, in contrast with the gods of the Gentiles, who are dead gods.

3. 4. For the sparrow finds its dwelling in some house, and the turtle a nest in which it places its young in safety; and cannot I retire near Thy altars, that is, in Thy Temple, which would be my happy asylum and my happy nest.—This is thus understood by Bellarmine, Maldonatus, and Lallemant. Mattei translates: Altaria tua—Thy altar was my nest, my haven.

6. This is the sense that St. Augustine gives to this verse: Happy the man that hopes to receive from Thee the help that he needs, having resolved in his heart to rise more and more to higher degrees of perfection, as long as he is in this valley of tears,—a place where God has placed him to gain merit. But Mattei with Bossuet interprets this in a very different manner. He says that the psalmist, sighing to return from Babylon to Jerusalem, imagines that he is already free, and exclaims: Happy he that hopes for and obtains Thy help; he already returns, he passes by the valley of Bocha, and is there refreshed by the water that Thou causest to rain down. The same author gives afterwards some explanations: 1. "Ascensiones." This word, according to the Hebrew, expresses the return to Jerusalem, and it is this that the prophet represents to himself in spirit: "In corde suo." 2. "Disposuit." A verb that is found joined to the following words: "In valle lacrymarum," which are expressed in Hebrew by the name of Bocha, which was an arid valley, called the Place of Tears: Locus flentium, sive Lacrymarum (Jud. ii. 5. In the Hebrew we read: Bochim). 3. "In loco quem posuit." Here the Hebrew word instead of Locus—Place, signifies Fons, a Fountain; so that we translate: Fons ibi ponetur—There shall be set a fountain of water.

7. Mattei, following the sense which he gives to the preceding verse, renders this verse as follows: Etenim propitia dabitur pluvia; hinc ibit de cœtu in cœtum, donec videbit Deum deorum in Sion—For a kindly rain shall be granted; and thence he shall go from company to company, till he comes to see the great God in Sion. Thus the psalmist imagining himself refreshed in the valley of Bocha with the water of a most salutary rain, and that he is marching in the midst of the companies of Israelites who are going to Jerusalem, rejoices as if he were already in the Temple and saw the God of gods. But others, following the sense that they at first adopted, give this explanation: For God, who has given the law, which is the road to arrive at life eternal, will give them his blessing; and so they will walk from virtue to virtue till they see the God of gods in the heavenly Sion. What is certain is that these two verses, 6 and 7, are obscure; and interpreters have made them still more so.

9. O God, who art our protector! regard us with a gracious eye, and especially look upon our king, who is the figure of the Saviour whom Thou art to send us. "Christi." According to Bossuet: Regis, qui est Christi figura—The king who is a figure of Christ. But it may well be understood as applying principally to the Messias.

10. "In atriis tuis." These words designate the Temple, says Mariana: Sic Templum vocat, in quo varia atria erant—He thus speaks of the Temple, in which there were various

6. Deus tu conversus vivificabis nos: et plebs tua lætabitur in te.

7. Ostende nobis Domine misericordiam tuam: et salutare tuum da nobis.

8. Audiam quid loquatur in me Dominus Deus: quoniam loquetur pacem in plebem suam:

9. Et super sanctos suos, et in eos, qui convertuntur ad cor.

10. Verumtamen prope timentes eum salutare ipsius: ut inhabitet gloria in terra nostra.

11. Misericordia, et veritas obviaverunt sibi: justitia, et pax osculatæ sunt.

12. Veritas de terra orta est: et justitia de cœlo prospexit.

13. Etenim Dominus dabit benignitatem: et terra nostra dabit fructum suum.

14. Justitia ante eum ambulabit: et ponet in via gressus suos.

1. "Benedixisti, Domine, terram tuam." St. Jerome translates: Placatus es, Domine, terræ tuæ—At last, O Lord, Thou hast been appeased in respect to Thy land,¹ and Thou hast blessed it. "Jacob." Of Jacob, or his children.

2. "Operuisti omnia peccata eorum." Thou hast covered all their sins; or, as is very well explained by Bellarmine, Thou hast hidden them from Thy face, in order not to see them, nor to punish them. When God covers sins, he effaces them and remits them as if they had never existed. See what has been said in Psalm xxxi., verse 1.

3. "Avertisti ab ira indignationis tuæ." St. Jerome translates: Conversus es ab ira furoris tui—Thou hast put off Thy wrath, as Bellarmine explains it; Thou hast turned away from Thy anger and Thy indignation: Avertisti te ab ira et indignatione tua.

6. Thou wilt turn, O God, and bring us to life: and thy people shall rejoice in thee.

7. Show us, O Lord, thy mercy: and grant us thy salvation.

8. I will hear what the Lord God will speak in me: for he will speak peace unto his people:

9. And unto his saints: and unto them that are converted to the heart.

10. Surely his salvation is near to them that fear him: that glory may dwell in our land.

11. Mercy and truth have met each other: justice and peace have kissed.

12. Truth is sprung out of the earth: and justice hath looked down from heaven.

13. For the Lord will give goodness: and our earth shall yield her fruit.

14. Justice shall walk before him: and shall set his steps in the way.

¹ Thy land; that is, its inhabitants, or Thy people,

4. “Deus salutaris noster.” St. Jerome translates: Deus, Jesus noster.

6. “Deus, tu conversus.” St. Jerome translates: Nonne tu convertens . . . ? That is: If Thou, O Lord, art appeased, and turnest Thy eyes towards us, Thou wilt give us life, by causing us to rise again from sin to grace; and Thy people will rejoice in Thee, singing Thy praises.

7. “Misericordiam tuam.” The effects of Thy mercy. “Salutare tuum da nobis.” That is, according to Bellarmine and Menochius: Give us salvation by sending us the Saviour, or the expected Messias.

8. “Loquetur pacem in plebem suam.” He will speak of peace for his people, that is, of the reconciliation that Jesus Christ their Redeemer will obtain for them, who is called by Isaias: Princeps pacis (Is. ix. 6).

9. He will make me understand that he wishes to save the just, and even the sinners, who entering into themselves will be converted, seriously and with all their heart; according to Bellarmine and Bossuet: Qui serio resipiscunt.

10. “Verumtamen.” According to the Hebrew: Certe, Utique—Surely, of a truth; as Malvenda, Menochius, Sa, Tirinus, and Lallemand observe. “Salutare ipsius.” The salvation that God will give them with the coming of the Messias. “Gloria.” That is: Jesus Christ; Splendor gloriæ (Heb. i. 3). Thus Madonatus et Malvenda.

11. Mercy and truth, or justice, will meet at the coming of the Messias, so that then justice satisfied and peace bestowed shall embrace each other. St. Jerome and St. Augustine understand by Mercy, the coming of the Saviour for the Gentiles, to whom he was not promised; and by Truth, the faithfulness of the Messias with respect to the Jews, to whom he was promised. We have used the future will meet and will embrace, because in this psalm the coming of the Messias is predicted, as Bellarmine remarks, and the poetical language of the Orientals often expresses the future in the past tense, to denote the certainty of the prophecy.

12. “Veritas de terra orta est.” That is, according to Lallemand: Innocence will again spring up on earth. Others explain it thus: The inhabitants of the earth will embrace the truth, or the true faith. But the interpretation that seems to me better is that of Bellarmine and of Menochius, namely: Truth shall spring from the earth, that is, from the virginal womb of Mary; so also St. Augustine understands it of the Eternal Word, who is the Truth itself, clothing himself with human flesh in the womb of the Blessed Virgin.¹

13. God in his goodness will send his Son to become man; and our earth, the Blessed Virgin will give us her fruit, Jesus Christ, who was called the fruit of Mary's womb (Luke, i. 42); thus was accomplished the prophecy of Isaias: Aperiat^r terra, et germinet Salvatorem—Let the earth be opened, and bud forth a Saviour (Is. xlv. 8).

14. That is: All his actions and all his steps during his life shall be conformed to rectitude and justice, in order that men by following him may arrive at the country of the Blessed.

PSALM VI., WHICH IS PSALM LXXXV. OF THE PSALTER.

We have in this psalm one of those fervent prayers that the royal prophet addressed to God in the midst of his tribulations. For, according to the common opinion, David is the author of this psalm. Moreover, he initiates us into the sentiments that filled the soul of Jesus Christ during his Passion, and he prophesies the conversion of the Gentiles. Afflicted souls may use it during their trials to implore the help of God.

1. INCLINA Domine aurem tuam, et exaudi me: quoniam inops et pauper sum ego.

2. Custodi animam meam, quoniam sanctus sum: salvum fac servum tuum, Deus meus, sperantem in te.

3. Miserere mei Domine, quoniam ad te clamavi tota die: lætifica animam servi tui, quoniam ad te Domine animam meam levavi.

4. Quoniam tu Domine suavis, et mitis: et multæ miseri-

1. BOW down thy ear, O Lord, and hear me: for I am needy and poor.

2. Preserve my soul, for I am holy: save thy servant, O my God, that trusteth in thee.

3. Have mercy on me, O Lord, for I have cried to thee all the day: Give joy to the soul of thy servant, for to thee, O Lord, I have lifted up my soul.

4. For thou, O Lord, art sweet and mild: and plente-

¹ "Justitia de cælo prospexit." Therefore divine Justice will direct its eyes from the heights of the heavens down upon the earth, to exact from the Man-God due satisfaction and thereby re-establish us in sanctity. Such is the explanation given by Canon Gaume.

2. "Custodit animam meam." Preserve my life. "Sanctus sum." St. Jerome translates: Sanctus ego. According to the Syriac version and the Psalter of Milan: Sanctus es; but commonly the interpreters read: Sanctus sum; and Mattei says that we should not depart from the Hebrew. Hence this explanation: I am Thy faithful servant, devoted to Thy service.

3. "At te clamavi." I have cried to Thee by asking Thee for mercy. "Ad te . . . animam meam levavi." Dom Calmet explains: I have desired Thy help with ardor. But Mattei's translation is better: I have raised my heart to Thee.

4. "Mitis." St. Jerome translates: Propitiabilis—Ready to be propitiated, to pardon.

5. "Intende voci deprecationis meæ." Deign to listen to what I ask of Thee.

6. "Exaudisti me." That is, according to Bellarmine, Menochius, Sa, and Mariana: Thou hast always been willing to hear me.

7. "In diis." Among all the gods whom men adore.

8. "Venient." They will come not by leaving the country that they inhabit, but by embracing the faith.

10. "In via tua." In the way of Thy commandments. "Ingrediar in veritate tua." Make me to enter it and walk in it with a firm step. Mattei says that according to the Hebrew the word Veritas marks the perfection of anything that is done. "Lætetur cor meum." According to the Chaldee: Uni cor meum; that is, according to Mattei: Collige cor meum; this agrees with St. Jerome's translation: Unicum fac cor meum. Unite, gather together to Thyself all the affections of my heart; make my heart to be only for Thee, so that it may fear nothing else than to give Thee displeasure.

12. "Ex inferno inferiori." That is, according to some: From great dangers which were for me a deep grave. But it is better to understand it, with Gordona, of the depth of hell where are the damned; or the abyss of sin, which according to St. Jerome is a kind of hell.

13. "Synagoga potentium quæsierunt animam meam." My powerful enemies have assembled in numbers to seek for me and to take away my life. "Non proposuerunt te in conspectu suo." They have not set before their eyes that Thou protectest the just and punishest the guilty. This is thus understood by Bellarmine and Lallemand, with St. Augustine.¹

14. "Verax." That is: Faithful to Thy promises.

15. "Imperium." According to the Hebrew Mattei notes: Robur, strength; or following St. Jerome's translation: Fortitudinem. This passage, as Mariana, Sa, and Rotigni say, may easily apply to Jesus Christ the Son of the Blessed Virgin, who is called herself the servant of the Lord: Ecce ancilla Domini.

PSALM VII., WHICH IS PSALM LXXXVI. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm is consecrated to the praise of Jerusalem, this glorious city that God had chosen for his dwelling-place. And since Jerusalem is a figure of the Church, the Fathers and the interpreters refer unanimously this psalm to the Catholic Church; built upon the holy mountains, that is, upon the apostles, as St. Jerome, St. Augustine, Theodoret, Euthymius, explain, and as one may infer from these words of St. Paul: Superædificati super fundamentum Apostolorum. Built upon the foundation of the apostles (Eph. ii. 20). This psalm is as obscure as it is short.

1. FUNDAMENTA ejus in montibus sanctis: diligit Dominus portas Sion super omnia tabernacula Jacob.

2. Gloriosa dicta sunt de te, civitas Dei.

3. Memor ero Rahab, et Babylonis scientium me.

4. Ecce alienigenæ, et Tyrus, et populus Æthiopum, hi fuerunt illic.

5. Numquid Sion dicet: Homo et homo natus est in ea, et ipse fundavit eam Altissimus?

6. Dominus narrabit in scripturis populorum, et principum: horum, qui fuerunt in ea.

7. Sicut lætantium omnium habitatio est in te.

1. THE foundations thereof are in the holy mountains:

The Lord loveth the gates of Sion above all the tabernacles of Jacob.

2. Glorious things are said of thee, O city of God.

3. I will be mindful of Rahab and of Babylon knowing me.

4. Behold the foreigners and Tyre, and the people of the Ethiopians, these were there.

5. Shall not Sion say: This man and that man is born in her: and the Highest himself hath founded her?

6. The Lord shall tell in his writings of peoples and of princes of them that have been in her?

7. The dwelling in thee is as it were of all rejoicing.

1. "Fundamenta ejus." That is, according to Bellarmine, Mattei, and others: The foundations of the holy city which I contemplate in spirit. "In montibus sanctis." On the mountains of Sion and Moria, where the Temple is built; hence St. Jerome translates: In montibus sanctuarii. "Portas Sion." That is to say: The city of Jerusalem. "Tabernacula Jacob." The habitation of Jacob, that is, according to Menochius, Bossuet, Mattei, Rotigni, etc.: The other cities of Judea.

2. "Gloriosa dicta sunt." Many glorious things have been said by the prophets; thus, Menochius, Mariana, and Tirinus.

3. God here speaks. "Rahab." According to the Hebrew: Superbi; but the interpreters, following the Chaldee, commonly understand Egypt.¹ "Scientium me." The inhabitants of which shall one day know me through the faith, and shall adore me. It is thus explained by Menochius, Lallemant, and several others.

4. "Alienigenæ." The Philistines. So it is understood by Lallemant, Mariana, and all the interpreters.² "Fuerunt." This past tense expresses here the future: All the people will be there. This is a prophecy that has been well verified in the Church of Jesus Christ by the conversion of the Gentiles, as Mattei observes.

5. This verse is more obscure than the others. "Numquid Sion dicet." In this phrase Sion is not in the nominative case. St. Jerome translates: Ad Sion autem dicetur; Estius with Symmachus has: De Sion autem dicetur; et Pagnini: Et ipsi Sion dicetur. "Homo et homo." A Hebraism, which, as Mattei says, can have two senses: it can signify the multiplicity of men, and so it is understood by Lallemant, or the excellence of man, a wise man, a powerful man, etc., as St. Augustine, St. Jerome, Theodoret, Tertullian, and Bellarmine, and others understand it. Hence the verse is explained thus: What! Is there then no one there to say to Sion, that is to Jerusalem, that in the midst of her will be born a Man the most excelling, who will be the Most High, at once God and man, becoming man in the city founded by himself? In ea factus

¹ Superbus in Hebrew Rahab, in Psalm lxxxviii. 11, and in Isaias li. 9; Pharaoh is designated thereby.

² See note to Psalm lxxxii. 6. This is especially explained by Bellarmine and Menochius (Ps. lix.).

memor amplius: et ipsi de manu tua repulsi sunt.

6. Posuerunt me in lacu inferiori: in tenebrosis, et in umbra mortis.

7. Super me confirmatus est furor tuus: et omnes fluctus tuos induxisti super me.

8. Longe fecisti notos meos a me: posuerunt me abominationem sibi.

9. Traditus sum, et non egrediebar: oculi mei languerunt præ inopia.

10. Clamavi ad te Domine tota die: expandi ad te manus meas.

11. Numquid mortuis facies mirabilia: aut medici suscitabunt et confitebuntur tibi?

12. Numquid narrabit aliquis in sepulchro misericordiam tuam, et veritatem tuam in perditione?

13. Numquid cognoscentur in tenebris mirabilia tua: et justitia tua in terra oblivionis?

14. Et ego ad te Domine clamavi: et mane oratio mea præveniet te.

15. Ut quid Domine repellis orationem meam: avertis faciem tuam a me?

16. Pauper sum ego, et in laboribus a juventute mea: exaltatus autem, humiliatus sum et conturbatus.

17. In me transierunt iræ tuæ: et terrores tui conturbaverunt me.

18. Circumdederunt me sicut aqua tota die: circumdederunt me simul.

memberest no more: and they are cast off from thy hand.

6. They have laid me in the lower pit: in the dark places, and in the shadow of death.

7. Thy wrath is strong over me: and all thy waves thou hast brought in upon me.

8. Thou hast put away my acquaintance far from me: they have set me an abomination to themselves.

9. I was delivered up, and came not forth: my eyes languished through poverty.

10. All the day I cried to thee, O Lord: I stretched out my hands to thee.

11. Wilt thou show wonders to the dead: or shall physicians raise to life, and give praise to thee?

12. Shall any one in the sepulchre declare thy mercy, and thy truth to destruction?

13. Shall thy wonders be known in the dark; and thy justice in the land of forgetfulness?

14. But I, O Lord, have cried to thee: and in the morning my prayer shall prevent thee.

15. Lord, why castest thou off my prayer: why turnest thou away thy face from me?

16. I am poor, and in labors from my youth: and being exalted have been humbled and troubled.

17. Thy wrath hath come upon me: and thy terrors have troubled me.

18. They have come round about me like water all the day: they have compassed me about together.

19. Elongasti a me amicum, et proximum: et notos meos a miseria.

19. Friend and neighbor
thou hast put far from me:
and my acquaintance, because of misery.

1. "Deus salutis meæ." God, from whom I look for my salvation
3. This verse agrees with what Jesus Christ said in the garden of Olives: Tristis est anima mea usque ad mortem—My soul is sorrowful even unto death (Matt. xxvi. 38). It is thus applied by St. Augustine.

4. "Inter mortuos liber." Here the word Liber gives rise to different interpretations. St. Augustine applies it to Jesus Christ in two ways: first, in the sense of, Free from sin, in contrast with other men who are subject to death by reason of sin: Inter peccatores solus sine peccato—Though among sinners he himself alone without sin; and then in this sense that he died not through necessity, but only by an act of his free will. This second explanation is adopted by Bellarmine and Bossuet; it appears to me to be more adequate according to the letter in relation to Jesus Christ, typified under the person of David. But, speaking literally of the person of David, Mattei says that the words Inter mortuos liber signify: Separate from the other dead. He cites the example of king Azarias, who, on account of his leprosy, dwelt in a free house: in domo libera (4 Kings, xv. 5); that is, in a free house—in domo separata (2 Parall. xxvi. 21); and Josephus, the historian, attests that the same king when dead was also buried by himself in a place apart: Seorsum solus sepultus est. Hence Mattei, explaining this passage with regard to the person of David, renders it thus: I am reputed as separate even from the other dead, as though unworthy to remain amongst them.

5. "Vulnerati." St. Jerome translates: Interfecti—Killed. "De manu tua repulsi." That is, according to Bellarmine and Tirinus: Deprived of all help from Thee.

6. "Posuerunt." St. Jerome translates: Posuisti. That is: Thou hast permitted that I should be deposed. "In umbra mortis." St. Jerome translates: In profundis. According to Bellarmine, the sense is the same: he adds that the words Umbra mortis signify: A shadow so dense as it deprives of all light, like the shadow of death. He says, moreover, with St. Jerome, that this verse, applied to Jesus Christ, may be understood of his descent in Limbo.

7. "Furor." St. Augustine justly remarks that this word is better rendered by Indignation, because fury (wrath) is ordinarily found in those that have a troubled mind. "Omnes fluctus tuos induxisti super me." Thou hast heaped upon me all the floods of ills.

8. This was truly accomplished in Jesus Christ when he was abandoned by his disciples: Tunc discipuli omnes, relicto eo, fugerunt—Then the disciples, all leaving him, fled (Matt. xxvi. 56). Stabant autem omnes noti ejus a longe—And all his acquaintance . . . stood afar off (Luke, xxiii. 49).

9. "Traditus sum." I have been given up to the power of my enemies. "Non egrediebar." That is, as Bellarmine explains: Non volebam egredi. I did not wish to withdraw myself, my Father having decreed that I should suffer for the salvation of men. "Oculi mei languerunt præ inopia." That is, according to the same interpreter: My eyes have become faint, as if drained by reason of shedding tears.

10. To ask help according to what the Apostle says: Preces supplicationesque, ad eum qui possit illum salvum facere a morte, cum clamore valido et lacrymis offerens—Who in the days of his flesh with a strong cry and tears offering up prayers and supplications to him that was able to save him from death (Heb. v. 7).¹

12. "Veritatem tuam." Thy fidelity to Thy promises. "In perditione." After having lost his life.

13. Can the admirable prodigies of Thy goodness and justice be known in the darkness of the tomb and in this place of forgetfulness, to render Thee the homage that is due to Thee?²

14. "Mane oratio mea præveniet te." I will not cease to present to Thee my prayers from the break of day.

15. This may be understood of the prayer that Jesus Christ made in the garden of Olives: Transeat a me calix iste—May this chalice pass from me; a prayer that his Father did not hear because our Redeemer wished effectively to die, to save

¹ This text well applies to the beginning of the psalm, as also to verses 9 and 10.

² On the subject of these three verses, 11, 12, and 13, one may see the Canticle of Ezechias, verse 13; and Psalm cxiii. 26.

3. Quoniam dixisti: In æternum misericordia ædificabitur in cœlis: præparabitur veritas tua in eis.

4. Disposui testamentum electis meis, juravi David servo meo: usque in æternum præparabo semen tuum.

5. Et ædificabo in generationem, et generationem sedem tuam:

6. Confitebuntur cœli mirabilia tua Domine: etenim veritatem tuam in ecclesia sanctorum.

7. Quoniam quis in nubibus æquabitur Domino: similis erit Deo in filiis Dei?

8. Deus, qui glorificatur in consilio sanctorum: magnus et terribilis super omnes, qui in circuitu ejus sunt.

9. Domine Deus virtutum quis similis tibi? potens es Domine, et veritas tua in circuitu tuo.

10. Tu dominaris potestati maris: motum autem fluctuum ejus tu mitigas.

11. Tu humiliasti sicut vulneratum, superbum: in brachio virtutis tuæ dispersisti inimicos tuos.

12. Tui sunt cœli, et tua est terra, orbem terræ et plenitudinem ejus tu fundasti: Aquilonem, et mare tu creasti.

13. Thabor et Hermon in nomine tuo exultabunt: tuum brachium cum potentia.

14. Firmetur manus tua, et exaltetur dextera tua: justitia et judicium præparatio sedis tuæ.

15. Misericordia et veritas

3. For thou hast said: Mercy shall be built up forever in the heavens: thy truth shall be prepared in them.

4. I have made a covenant with my elect, I have sworn to David my servant: Thy seed will I settle forever.

5. And I will build up thy throne unto generation and generation.

6. The heavens shall confess thy wonders, O Lord: and thy truth in the church of the saints.

7. For who in the clouds can be compared to the Lord: or who among the sons of God shall be like to God?

8. God, who is glorified in the assembly of the saints: great and terrible above all them that are about him.

9. O Lord God of hosts, who is like to thee? thou art mighty, O Lord, and thy truth is round about thee.

10. Thou rulest the power of the sea: and appeasest the motion of the waves thereof.

11. Thou hast humbled the proud one, as one that is slain: with the arm of thy strength thou hast scattered thy enemies.

12. Thine are the heavens, and thine is the earth, the world and the fulness thereof thou hast founded: the north and the sea thou hast created.

13. Thabor and Hermon shall rejoice in thy name: thy arm is with might.

14. Let thy hand be strengthened, and thy right hand exalted: justice and judgment are the preparation of thy throne.

15. Mercy and truth shall go præcedent faciem tuam : beatus populus, qui scit jubilationem.

16. Domine, in lumine vultus tui ambulabunt, et in nomine tuo exultabunt tota die : et in justitia tua exaltabuntur.

17. Quoniam gloria virtutis eorum tu es : et in beneplacito tuo exaltabitur cornu nostrum.

18. Quia Domini est assumptio nostra : et sancti Israel Regis nostri.

19. Tunc locutus es in visione sanctis tuis, et dixisti : Posui adjutorium in potente : et exaltavi electum de plebe mea.

20. Inveni David servum meum : oleo sancto meo unxi eum.

21. Manus enim mea auxiliabitur ei : et brachium n.eum confortabit eum.

22. Nihil proficiet inimicus in eo, et filius iniquitatis non apponet nocere ei.

23. Et concidam a facie ipsius inimicos ejus : et odientes eum in fugam convertam.

24. Et veritas mea, et misericordia mea cum ipso : et in nomine meo exaltabitur cornu ejus.

25. Et ponam in mari manum ejus : et in fluminibus dexteram ejus.

26. Ipse invocabit me : Pater meus es tu : Deus meus, et susceptor salutis meæ.

27. Et ego primogenitum ponam illum excelsum præ regibus terræ.

28. In æternum servabo illi before thy face : blessed is the people that knoweth jubilation.

16. They shall walk, O Lord, in the light of thy countenance : and in thy name they shall rejoice all the day : and in thy justice they shall be exalted.

17. For thou art the glory of their strength : and in thy good pleasure shall our horn be exalted.

18. For our protection is of the Lord : and of our king the holy one of Israel.

19. Then thou spakest in a vision to thy saints, and saidst : I have laid help upon one that is mighty, and have exalted one chosen out of my people.

20. I have found David my servant : with my holy oil I have anointed him.

21. For my hand shall help him : and my arm shall strengthen him.

22. The enemy shall have no advantage over him, nor the son of iniquity have power to hurt him.

23. And I will cut down his enemies before his face : and them that hate him I will put to flight.

24. And my truth and my mercy shall be with him : and in my name shall his horn be exalted.

25. And I will set his hand in the sea : and his right hand in the rivers.

26. He shall cry out to me : Thou art my father : my God, and the support of my salvation :

27. And I will make him my first-born, high above the kings of the earth.

28. I will keep my mercy for miser ricordiam meam: et testamentum meum fidele ipsi.

29. Et ponam in sæculum sæculi semen ejus: et thronum ejus sicut dies cœli.

30. Si autem dereliquerint filii ejus legem meam: et in judiciis meis non ambulaverint:

31. Si justitias meas profanaverint: et mandata mea non custodierint:

32. Visitabo in virga iniquitates eorum: et in verberibus peccata eorum.

33. Misericordiam autem meam non dispergam ab eo: neque nocebo in veritate mea:

34. Neque profanabo testamentum meum: et quæ procedunt de labiis meis, non faciem irrita.

35. Semel juravi in sancto meo, si David mentiar: semen ejus in æternum manebit.

36. Et thronus ejus sicut sol in conspectu meo: et sicut luna perfecta in æternum: et testis in cœlo fidelis.

37. Tu vero repulisti et despexisti: distulisti Christum tuum.

38. Evertisti testamentum servi tui: profanasti in terra sanctuarium ejus.

39. Destruxisti omnes sepes ejus: posuisti firmamentum ejus formidinem.

40. Diripuerunt eum omnes transeuntes viam: factus est opprobrium vicinis suis.

41. Exaltasti dexteram deprimentium eum: lætificasti omnes inimicos ejus.

42. Avertisti adjutorium gla-him forever: and my covenant faithful to him.

29. And I will make his seed to endure for evermore: and his throne as the days of heaven.

30. And if his children forsake my law: and walk not in my judgments:

31. If they profane my justices: and keep not my commandments:

32. I will visit their iniquities with a rod: and their sins with stripes.

33. But my mercy I will not take away from him: nor will I suffer my truth to fail:

34. Neither will I profane my covenant: and the words that proceed from my mouth I will not make void.

35. Once I have sworn by my holiness, I will not lie unto David: his seed shall endure forever.

36. And his throne as the sun before me, and as the moon perfect forever, and a faithful witness in heaven.

37. But thou hast rejected and despised: thou hast been angry with thy anointed.

38. Thou hast overthrown the covenant of thy servant: thou hast profaned his sanctuary on the earth.

39. Thou hast broken down all his hedges: thou hast made his strength fear.

40. All that pass by the way have robbed him: he has become a reproach to his neighbors.

41. Thou hast set up the right hand of them that oppress him: thou hast made all his enemies to rejoice.

42. Thou hast turned away dom to the posterity of David, and this promise was verified in the person of Jesus Christ, as is taught by St. Jerome, St. Augustine, Theodoret, etc. Mattei observes very well that the kingdom of David was perpetuated in Jesus Christ, his descendant, who has continued and will continue eternally to maintain and to govern the spiritual empire of the Church.

5. That is: I will establish for thee a royal throne through all ages. Bellarmine justly remarks that this was properly verified only in our Saviour, of whom David was the figure.

6. "Etenim." According to the Hebrew: Et, Etiam. "Veritatem tuam." Thy fidelity to the promises that Thou hast made.

7. "In nubibus." That is: In the heavens. "In filiis Dei." According to the Chaldee: Among the angels.

8. "Sanctorum." That is: Of the angels.

9. "Veritas tua in circuitu tuo." That is: Thy faithfulness always accompanies Thee. Mattei understands this part of the verse thus: Thou art powerful; and therefore Thou dost promise much, and Thou art faithful to fulfil Thy promises.

10. "Potestati maris." St. Jerome translates: Superbia maris—The pride of the sea.

11. "Vulneratum." The Hebrew word signifies, according to Menochius: Mortally wounded. "Superbum." In Hebrew: Rahab. That is: King Pharaoh, or else Egypt.¹ "Dispersisti." Thou hast scattered Thine enemies by drowning them in the Red Sea, according to the interpretation of Bellarmine.

12. "Aquilonem et mare." Bellarmine, Menochius, Lalle-mant, and Mattei, with Symmachus, hereby understand the North and the South.²

13. "Thabor et Hermon." That is, as Lalle-mant explains: The East and the West.

14. "Firmetur." St. Jerome translates: Roboretur. "Præparatio." According to the Hebrew: Basis; or, according to St. Jerome's translation: Firmamentum.

15. "Veritas." Fidelity to Thy promises. "Præcedent faciem tuam." That is: Are always before Thy eyes. "Beatus populus qui scit jubilationem." Happy the people that know the joy that is felt in praising Thee! Thus Bellarmine, Menochius, Tirinus, and Bossuet.

16. That is, according to Bellarmine and Menochius: Those that praise Thee shall walk in the light of Thy grace, in following the way of Thy precepts; they shall exult with joy all the day long in celebrating Thy name; and Thy justice, which will never fail to recompense Thy servants, will elevate them to a higher degree of perfection.

17. Thou art the glory of their virtue, since all their vigor comes from Thy grace, and not from their own works; and it is only by Thy good pleasure that our strength will be raised against the enemy. "Inbeneplacito tuo exaltabitur." St. Jerome translates: In voluntate tua elevabis—In Thy will shalt Thou raise up. "Cornu." According to the Chaldee: Robur—Our strength.

18. "Assumptio." St. Jerome translates: Protectio.

19. "Sanctis tuis." To ye holy prophets. According to the Hebrew: Sancto tuo; which may be understood of the prophet Samuel; but Malvenda, Lallemand, and Mattei say that the other prophets may also be very well understood in accordance with the Vulgate.¹ "In potente." In a mighty man, who is David. "Exaltavi." I have raised him to the throne.

20. "Unxi eum." I have anointed him, or I will cause him to be anointed as king of Israel; as was done by the ministry of Samuel (1 Kings, xvi. 13).

24. "Veritas mea." My fidelity to my promises. "In nomine meo." That is: By my help. The interpreters say that the expressions of this verse and of the following verses apply better to the person of Jesus Christ.

25. That is: I will give him the dominion of the sea and of the rivers. If one wishes to apply to David this verse, one may understand by the Sea the Persian Gulf, the Arabian Gulf, or the Red Sea, and the whole Erythræan Sea, where the Edomites, the Amalekites, and the Arabs, all tributaries of David, lived; and by the rivers, the Euphrates, the Orontes, and others subject to David, when he took Syria, Mesopotamia, and Damascus. But Maldonatus, Bellarmine, Menochius, and many others apply the verse better to Jesus Christ, of whom David was the figure, and to whom God made subject the seas, the rivers, and the whole earth.

26. Jesus Christ, speaking of God, calls him his Father, as to his divinity, and his God, his Saviour, as to his humanity. Such is the explanation given by Bellarmine and Menochius.

27. Bellarmine and Menochius say that Jesus Christ as God is the only Begotten, and that as man he is the First-born, because he was the Head of the predestined (Eph. i.). Others apply this verse to the person of David. Mattei justly remarks that in the spiritual sense the expressions in the verse are fully verified only in Jesus Christ.

28. St. Augustine also applies this verse to the person of Jesus Christ, saying: Propter ipsum fidele testamentum; which means that God on account of the merits of Jesus Christ kept his promise to save mankind. But others commonly apply it to David in this sense: I will be faithful to him in the promise that I have made him; namely, to give him a Son who shall be Jesus Christ, through whom his reign shall become eternal. This promise was made to David by the prophet Nathan (2 Kings, vii. 12). Such is the explanation given by Bellarmine and Menochius.

29. This verse corresponds to what we read in the Gospel: Dabit illi Dominus Deus sedem David, patris ejus; et regnabit in domo Jacob in æternum, et regni ejus non erit finis—The Lord shall give unto him the throne of David, his father; and he shall reign in the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there shall be no end (Luke, i. 32, 33). It also corresponds to the prophecy of Isaias: Super solium David et super regnum ejus sedebit, ut confirmet illud, et corroboret in judicio et justitia, a modo et usque in sempiternum—He shall sit upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom; to establish it and strengthen it with judgment and with justice, from henceforth and forever (Is. ix. 7). Jesus Christ was, in fact, to reign over all Israel and over the whole earth; not, indeed, with a temporal rule, which it was not his will to exercise, but with a spiritual rule, of which the earthly kingdom of David was a figure. Hence the verse may be thus explained: I will preserve his race by giving him still keepest Thy promise, for Thou hast not cast off Thy Christ, but Thou hast delayed him.

38. “Sanctuarium.” According to the Hebrew: Diadema. The verse is thus explained: It seems as if Thou hast revoked the covenant and the promise Thou hast made to Thy servant David; for Thou hast permitted Thy sanctuary to be profaned on earth, by allowing the crown to pass into the hands of a Gentile king, who has seized upon the throne. This happened when Jechonias and Sedecias, descendants of David, were taken captive. But St. Augustine, Bede, Cassiodorus, and others, apply this text to the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus.

39. “Destruxisti omnes sepes ejus.” Thou hast willed all the walls of the kingdom of David to be ruined, so that it remained as a vineyard without hedges. “Posuisti firmamentum ejus formidinem.” According to the Hebrew: Posuisti in munitionibus ejus formidinem; or, according to the translation of St. Jerome: Posuisti munitiones ejus pavorem. That is: Thou hast set fear in the place of the fortresses of the kingdom. Thus Lallemand explains it: Fecisti ut in locum munitionis succederet formido—Thou hast caused terror to take the place of defence.

41. “Exaltasti dexteram.” Thou hast increased the strength, the power.

42. St. Augustine, applying this passage to the destruction of the Jewish people, and to the ruin of their kingdom for having put to death Jesus Christ, exclaims: Terram perdidit, pro qua Dominum occidit!—It has lost that land for which it killed the Lord!

43. We translate this verse as Father Lallemand¹ does. But St. Augustine explains differently the words “Destruxisti eum ab emundatione;” he says that the Jews not believing in Jesus Christ remained deprived of the grace which would have purified them: Soluti sunt ab emundatione; for faith alone was able to purify their hearts from their sins.

44. “Minorasti dies temporis ejus.” St. Augustine says that the Jews believed that their kingdom would last forever: Putabant se in æternum regnatos.

45.¹ “Avertis.” According to the Hebrew: Absconderis—Wilt Thou hide Thyself? “In finem?” Is it to be until our ruin is complete? The sense of the verse is: How long, O Lord, wilt Thou refuse to look graciously upon us? Is Thy anger, then, like fire, which is not quenched until it has utterly consumed whatsoever it lays hold of? Thus Lallemand explains the words with Bellarmine.

46. “Memorare quæ mea substantia.” Bellarmine thus translates the Hebrew: Memorare ego quanti temporis sim—Consider how short the time is that remains for me to live. St. Augustine, explaining these words with reference to Jesus Christ, makes David say: Remember, O Lord, what is my substance, that is, that Thy Son is to take flesh from my blood.

48. “In veritate tua.” That is, according to Thy fidelity.

49. “Quod continui in sinu meo.” Mattei explains: Quibus opprobriis plenus est sinus meus—Of which reproach my own heart is full.

50. “Commutationem.” According to the Hebrew: Claudicationem—Limping. That is: Thy enemies, O Lord, upbraid us, and for what? Because Thy Christ, or the Messiah, comes limping with too slow a pace. When the Gentiles insulted the Jews, the latter answered them that the Messiah would soon come to deliver them from their miseries; but the Gentiles, continuing their reproaches, rejoined: How is this? Is your Messiah lame, that he never arrives?

51. That is: But may the Lord be blessed forever, for he cannot fail in his promises; let us, then, humbly pray to him to accomplish with all speed the promise that he has made to send us the Saviour.²

PSALM X., WHICH IS PSALM XCIII. OF THE PSALTER.

The subject of this psalm is the Providence of God, attentive to the punishing of the wicked and to the rewarding of the just; although, by ¹ The beginning of the prayer to hasten the coming of the Messiah, and the accomplishment of the divine promises.

² This conclusion of the psalm, says Canon Gaume, shows that in the complaints of the prophet there was neither impatience nor murmuring; a judgment full of wisdom, it often happens that the wicked prosper in this world and the just are afflicted. The first fourteen verses of this psalm show us the just who are afflicted and who lament in seeing the prosperity of the wicked. The psalmist rebukes the just for their little faith, and exhorts them to be patient and to put their trust in God.

2. “Exaltare.” That is: Let Thy all-powerful justice be known.¹ St. Augustine here remarks that the prophet, under the imperative form, is simply predicting. He says: Prophetia est prædicentis, non audacia jubentis—The prophecy of one that predicts, not the presumptuousness of one that commands.

5. “Humiliaverunt.” According to the Hebrew: Attriverunt. That is: They have oppressed and tormented this people who are Thy inheritance.

6. That is: They did not hesitate to put to death all those that they found before them: the widows, the orphans, and even strangers whom they did not know.

7. “Nec intelliget Deus Jacob.” According to St. Augustine: Deus nec advertit ut sciat—God does not pay attention to know these things.

9. “Plantavit.” That is: Has formed.² “Considerat.” St. Jerome translates: Videbit—Shall he not see?

10. “Corripit.” St. Jerome and St. Augustine translate: Erudit—Instructs. “Qui docet hominem scientiam.” St. Augustine says: Ipse non scit, qui te fecit scire?—Does he not know who made thee know?

11. “Vanæ.” Vain: or, as Mattei prefers, Evil; he says that in the language of the Bible vanity means sin.

12, 13. “Ut mitiges ei.” According to the Hebrew: Ut quietem des illi—That Thou mayest give him rest; or, according to St. Jerome’s translation: Ut quiescat—That he may rest. Hence it is thus explained: Happy he whom thou dost instruct, so as to mitigate his pain in the time of tribulation. “Fovea.” The pit of the grave, that is, death; this signifies that the sinner, though he is not afflicted in this life, yet has to die.

14. “Plebem suam, et hereditatem suam.” His people who are faithful to him, and his inheritance which is the same faithful people. (See verse 7.)

¹ “Superbis.” That is: To the proud that refuse to humble themselves to do penance.

² Bellarmine and Gaume admire this expression: Plantavit aurem. In fact it is an image that well shows on one side the hand of the author of nature, and on the other the organ of hearing buried in the head with its numerous sinuosities, like the plant that extends its tortuous roots into the bosom of the earth.

15. Different interpretations are given to this verse; but the following appears to me clear: God does not abandon his faithful servants until justice is resolved into judgment, and according to the same justice, all those that are upright in heart shall be judged. This sense seems to me to be that of St. Jerome's translation, although it is expressed in different terms, namely: Quoniam ad justitiam revertetur judicium, et sequentur illud omnes recti corde—Because judgment shall return to justice, and all the upright in heart shall follow it (that is, judgment).

16. "Consurget mihi . . . Stabit mecum." St. Jerome repeats: Stabit pro me—Will stand up for me.

17. "In inferno." St. Augustine understands thereby the real hell of the damned; he thus explains: Prope rueram in illam fossam quæ paratur peccatoribus—I was on the point of falling into the pit which is prepared for sinners.

18. "Motus est pes meus." That is: I am in danger of falling.

20. That is: Wouldst Thou have a throne like that of unjust judges, Thou who feignest or imaginest that Thy precepts are accomplished only with labor and irksomeness? Estius says that here in the Hebrew the word "Laborem," signifies Affliction. So also Bellarmine, whose explanation seems to be the best.

PSALM XI., WHICH IS PSALM XCV. OF THE PSALTER.

We see, according to 1 Paral. xvi. 7–36, that David composed this psalm when the Ark was transferred from the house of Obbedom to the Tabernacle erected on Mount Sion, which is the figure of our holy Church. In this psalm the Jews are exhorted to praise the Lord, and especially are Christians called on to serve Jesus Christ. With St. Jerome, St. Augustine, St. Ambrose, and with the generality of interpreters, Bellarmine says that David in this psalm aimed chiefly at foretelling the coming of the Messiah and the establishment of his kingdom.¹

1. CANTATE Domino canticum novum: cantate Domino omnis terra.

2. Cantate Domino, et benedicite nomini ejus: annuntiate de die in diem salutare ejus.

1. SING ye to the Lord a new canticle: sing to the Lord, all the earth.

2. Sing ye to the Lord and bless his name: show forth his salvation from day to day.

¹ The two following psalms refer to the same subject.

3. Annuntiate inter Gentes gloriam ejus, in omnibus populis mirabilia ejus.

4. Quoniam magnus Dominus et laudabilis nimis: terribilis est super omnes deos.

5. Quoniam omnes dii Gentium dæmonia: Dominus autem cœlos fecit.

6. Confessio, et pulchritudo in conspectu ejus: sanctimonia, et magnificentia in sanctificatione ejus.

7. Afferte Domino patriæ gentium, afferte Domino gloriam et honorem: afferte Domino gloriam nomini ejus.

8. Tollite hostias, et introite in atria ejus: adorate Dominum in atrio sancto ejus.

9. Commoveatur a facie ejus universa terra: dicite in Gentibus quia Dominus regnavit.

10. Etenim correxit orbem terræ, qui non commovebitur: judicabit populos in æquitate.

11. Lætentur cœli, et exultet terra, commoveatur mare, et plenitudo ejus: gaudebunt campi, et omnia, quæ in eis sunt.

12. Tunc exultabunt omnia ligna silvarum a facie Domini, quia venit: quoniam venit judicare terram.

13. Judicabit orbem terræ in æquitate, et populos in veritate sua.

2. "Salutare ejus." According to the Hebrew: Salutem ejus; and the Chaldee: Redemptionem ejus. That is: The salvation that he has procured us by Redemption.

5. "Dæmonia." According to the Hebrew: Dii vani, falsi, nihil—Vain, false gods, nothing.

3. Declare his glory among the Gentiles, his wonders among all people.

4. For the Lord is great, and exceedingly to be praised: he is to be feared above all gods.

5. For all the Gods of the Gentiles are devils: but the Lord made the heavens.

6. Praise and beauty are before him: holiness and majesty in his sanctuary.

7. Bring ye to the Lord, O ye kindreds of the Gentiles, bring ye to the Lord glory and honor: bring to the Lord glory unto his name.

8. Bring up sacrifices, and come into his courts: adore ye the Lord in his holy court.

9. Let all the earth be moved at his presence: Say ye among the Gentiles: The Lord hath reigned.

10. For he hath corrected the world, which shall not be moved: he will judge the people with justice.

11. Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad, let the sea be moved, and the fullness thereof: the fields and all things that are in them shall be joyful.

12. Then shall all the trees of the woods rejoice before the face of the Lord, because he cometh: because he cometh to judge the earth.

13. He shall judge the world with justice: and the people with his truth.

1. DOMINUS regnavit, exultet terra: lætentur insulæ multæ.

2. Nubes, et caligo in circuitu ejus: justitia, et judicium correctio sedis ejus.

3. Ignis ante ipsum præcedet, et inflammabit in circuitu inimicos ejus.

4. Illuxerunt fulgura ejus orbi terræ: vidit, et commota est terra.

5. Montes sicut cera fluxerunt a facie Domini: a facie Domini omnis terra.

6. Annuntiaverunt cœli justitiam ejus: et viderunt omnes populi gloriam ejus.

7. Confundantur omnes qui adorant sculptilia: et qui gloriantur in simulacris suis.

8. Adorate eum omnes Angeli ejus: audivit, et lætata est Sion.

9. Et exultaverunt filiæ Judæ, propter judicia tua Domine:

10. Quoniam tu Dominus altissimus super omnem terram: nimis exaltatus es super omnes deos.

11. Qui diligitis Dominum, odite malum: custodit Dominus animas sanctorum suorum, de manu peccatoris liberabit eos.

12. Lux orta est justo, et rectis corde lætitia.

13. Lætamini justi in Domino: et confitemini memoriæ sanctificationis ejus.

1. THE Lord hath reigned, let the earth rejoice; let many islands be glad.

2. Clouds and darkness are round about him: justice and judgment are the establishment of his throne.

3. A fire shall go forth before him, and shall burn his enemies round about.

4. His lightnings have shone forth to the world: the earth saw, and trembled.

5. The mountains melted like wax, at the presence of the Lord: at the presence of the Lord all the earth.

6. The heavens declared the justice: and all people saw his glory.

7. Let them be all confounded that adore graven things: and that glory in their idols.

8. Adore him, all ye his Angels: Sion heard, and was glad.

9. And the daughters of Juda rejoiced; because of thy judgments, O Lord:

10. For thou Lord art most high Lord over all the earth: thou art exalted exceedingly above all gods.

11. You that love the Lord, hate evil: the Lord preserveth the souls of his saints, he will deliver them out of the hand of the sinner.

12. Light is risen to the just, and joy to the right of heart.

13. Rejoice, ye just in the Lord: and give praise to the remembrance of his holiness.

1. That is: Behold, the Lord has come to govern and to judge the world; let them all, the inhabitants of the earth, rejoice.

2. "Correctio." According to the Hebrew: Firmamentum; which signifies that the firmness of his tribunal will consist in the justice of his judgments.¹

3. Fire will consume everything on the last day according to what St. Peter says: Terra autem, et quæ in ipsa sunt opera, exurentur—The earth and the works that are in it shall be burnt (2 Peter, iii. 10).

7. “In simulacris suis.” In the protection of the idols that they invoke.

8. “Audivit, et lætata est Sion.” Sion, the faithful people, the Church, hearing of these things was full of joy, according to the invitation given in verse 1.

9. “Filiæ Judæ.” The same faithful people. “Propter judicia tua.” Knowing that Thou art to judge the world.

10. “Omnes deos.” That is, according to Mattei: All the judges of the earth.

11. “Sanctorum suorum.” Of his servants. “De manu peccatoris.” According to the Hebrew: De manu impiorum—From the hands of the ungodly.

12. The gift of light is granted to the just man, and that of joy to all those that are right of heart.

13. “Confitemini memoriæ sanctificationis ejus.” Praise him, ever mindful of the gift of sanctification which you have received from him.

¹ The following may be the idea of this verse and of the rest of the psalm: The Lord will at first appear enveloped in obscurity, like the sun when hidden by the clouds; yet he will govern all with a sovereign justice which he will manifest by showing himself in his justice at the last day.

Saturday at Matins.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM XCVII. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet thanks God for having delivered his people from captivity; he at the same time foretells in a figurative sense the coming of Jesus Christ and the Redemption of mankind.

1. CANTATE Domino canticum novum: quia mirabilia fecit.

2. Salvavit sibi dextera ejus, et brachium sanctum ejus.

3. Notum fecit Dominus salutare suum: in conspectu gentium revelavit justitiam suam.

4. Recordatus est misericordiæ suæ, et veritatis suæ domui Israel.

5. Viderunt omnes termini terræ salutare Dei nostri.

6. Jubilate Deo omnis terra: cantate, et exultate, et psallite.

7. Psallite Domino in cithara, in cithara et voce psalmi: in tubis ductilibus, et voce tubæ corneæ.

8. Jubilate in conspectu Regis Domini: moveatur mare, et plenitudo ejus: orbis terrarum, et qui habitant in eo.

9. Flumina plaudent manu, simul montes exultabunt a conspectu Domini: quoniam venit judicare terram.

10. Judicabit orbem terrarum in justitia, et populos in æquitate.

1. SING ye to the Lord a new canticle: because he hath done wonderful things.

2. His right hand hath wrought for him salvation: and his arm is holy.

3. The Lord hath made known his salvation: he hath revealed his justice in the sight of the Gentiles.

4. He hath remembered his mercy and his truth toward the house of Israel.

5. All the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.

6. Sing joyfully to God, all the earth: make melody, rejoice and sing.

7. Sing praise to the Lord on the harp, on the harp, and with the voice of a psalm: with long trumpets, and sound of cornet.

8. Make a joyful noise before the Lord our king: let the sea be moved and the fulness thereof: the world and they that dwell therein.

9. The rivers shall clap their hands, the mountains shall rejoice together at the presence of the Lord: because he cometh to judge the earth.

10. He shall judge the world with justice, and the people with equity.

2. Dominus in Sion magnus :
et excelsus super omnes popu-los.

3. Confiteantur nomini tuo magno : quoniam terribile, et sanctum est : et honor regis judicium diligit.

4. Tu parasti directiones :
judicium et justitiam in Jacob tu fecisti.

5. Exaltate Dominum Deum nostrum, et adorate scabellum pedum ejus : quoniam sanctum est.

6. Moyses, et Aaron in sa-cerdotibus ejus : et Samuel inter eos, qui invocant nomen
ejus.

7. Invocabant Dominum, et ipse exaudiebat eos : in columna nubis loquebatur ad eos.

8. Custodiebant testimonia ejus : et præceptum quod dedit illis.

9. Domine Deus noster tu exaudiebas eos : Deus tu pro-pitius fuisti eis, et ulciscens in omnes adinventiones eorum.

10. Exaltate Dominum Deum nostrum, et adorate in monte sancto ejus : quoniam sanctus Dominus Deus noster.

1. The Lord has established his reign in spite of the idolatrous nations who are enraged thereat. He has his throne above the Cherubim, however much the earth be thereby troubled ; this signifies that no one can resist his power.

3. Let all praise and fear Thy great name ; for it is terrible on account of its power and its sanctity, and the honor of a king, that is, his dignity, his authority, requires him to love justice, that is, to exercise righteous judgment by rendering to every one according to his deserts.

4. Thou hast established righteous laws for the direction of ity, his patience, his humility, his obedience, the merits of his holy life, the shedding of his precious blood, and his death on the cross,

2. The Lord is great in Sion : and high above all peoples.

3. Let them give praise to thy great name : for it is terrible and holy : and the king's honor loveth judgment.

4. Thou hast prepared directions : thou hast done judgment and justice in Jacob.

5. Exalt ye the Lord our God, and adore his foot-stool :
for it is holy.

6. Moses and Aaron among his priests : and Samuel among them that call upon his name.

7. They called upon the Lord, and he heard them : he spoke to them in the pillar of the cloud.

8. They kept his testimonies, and the commandment which he gave them.

9. Thou didst hear them, O
Lord, our God : thou wast a merciful God to them : and taking vengeance on all their inventions.

10. Exalt ye the Lord our God, and adore at his holy mountain : for the Lord our God is holy.

the conduct of men, as Thou hast shown in the midst of the people of Israel, exercising justice and judgment, that is, judging always according to judgment.

5. "Scabellum pedum ejus." They invoked the Lord before the holy Ark. "In columna nubis." According to St. Augustine, by the column of fire we must understand the obscure language that the Lord used.¹

8. "Testimonia ejus." That is, according to Bellarmine: All the precepts given in common to all. "Preceptum quod dedit illis." The special precept that he had given them, namely, to govern and to instruct the people.

9. "Propitius fuisti eis, et ulciscens in omnes adinventiones eorum." St. Augustine and Menochius give this explanation: Thou wast propitious to them in pardoning the people for their sake, but without letting go unpunished the injuries and the calumnies that they had to suffer from this people. Bellarmine says that these two interpretations are probable.

10. "Sanctus Dominus Deus." God is holy by essence, and consequently worthy of every homage.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM XCIX. OF THE PSALTER.²

The royal prophet exhorts the faithful to praise God and to thank him first for having created us; then for having given us for our mother this holy Church which nourishes her children as young and tender sheep.

1. JUBILATE Deo omnis terra: servite Domino in lætitia.

2. Introite in conspectu ejus, in exultatione.

3. Scitote quoniam Dominus ipse est Deus: ipse fecit nos, et non ipsi nos.

1. SING joyfully to God, all the earth: serve ye the Lord with gladness.

2. Come in before his presence with exceeding great joy.

3. Know ye that the Lord he is God: he made us, and not we ourselves.

¹ God was regarded as seated on the wings of Cherubim, stretched out over the Propitiatory or Mercy-seat (2 Kings, vi. 2). Hence the Ark is called God's foot-stool (1 Par. xxviii. 2). But according to several Fathers, the prophet could also have had in view another holy Ark, another foot-stool of God, yet more worthy of our adoration, namely, the Humanity of Jesus Christ personally united with the Divinity.

² For Psalm XCI.—Bonum est—which is sometimes said instead of the above, see Saturday at Lauds.

4. Populus ejus, et oves pascuæ ejus: introite portas ejus in confessione, atria ejus in hymnis: confitemini illi.

5. Laudate nomen ejus: quoniam suavis est Dominus, in æternum misericordia ejus, et usque in generationem et generationem veritas ejus.

1. All ye people of the earth, let all your joy be to praise your God, and to serve him as is meet.

3. Have always before the eyes of your mind that the Lord is the true God; we did not of ourselves come into the world, nor did we make ourselves; it is he that gave us being.

4. "Introite portas ejus in confessione." Enter, therefore, the gates of his tabernacle, by confessing yourselves unworthy to stand in his presence. "Confitemini illi." Acknowledge that all that you have has come from his beneficent hand.

5. "Veritas ejus." The truth of his teachings and of his promises.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM C. OF THE PSALTER.

David here gives excellent instructions to those that govern, and particularly to princes how they should live well. Also, every father of a family will find in this psalm rules for his conduct.

1. MISERICORDIAM et judicium cantabo tibi Domine:

2. Psallam, et intelligam in via immaculata, quando venies ad me.

3. Perambulabam in innocentia cordis mei, in medio domus meæ.

4. Non proponebam ante oculos meos rem injustam: facientes prævaricationes odivi.

5. Non adhæsit mihi cor pravum: declinantem a me malignum non cognoscebam.

6. Detrahentem secreto

1. MERCY and judgment I will sing to thee, O Lord:

2. I will sing, and I will understand in the unspotted way, when thou shalt come to me.

3. I walked in the innocence of my heart, in the midst of my house.

4. I did not set before my eyes any unjust thing: I hated the workers of iniquities.

5. Not to me did the perverse heart cleave: and the malignant, that turned aside from me, I would not know.

6. The man that in private

Cor pravum recedet a me. Explanation of this verse: I will never associate with those who have their heart perverse; and if any one of those wicked persons keeps away from me, that is, does not wish to have me for a friend by changing his conduct, I will not know him, that is, I will show that I do not wish to know him.

6. That is: For him who secretly rends the character of his neighbor, I will keep him at a distance, or I will ever persecute him by reproaching him with his vice.

7. I will never sit at table with those who have a proud eye, that is, who look upon others with contempt; nor with the insatiable of heart, that is, with the ambitious and avaricious.

8. My eyes shall be attentive to choose for my companions faithful men who live with me on this earth, and I will not have myself served or aided in my needs except by those that live apart from vice.

9. The proud man shall not live in my house, and he that speaks unjustly, by lies or detraction, shall not remain long before my eyes, that is, I will drive him from my presence. "Non dixerit." According to the Hebrew: Non firmabitur—shall not be established.

10. I will hasten to exterminate all the wicked from the country, taking care that they are punished; thus I shall banish from the city of the Lord all those that lead bad lives, and who seek to have companions in evil.

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM CI. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm, which is one of the seven penitential psalms, we see one humbling himself before God, praying for himself and for all the people.¹ According to St. Augustine, it is Jesus Christ who prays for us; in fact, it cannot be denied that in certain verses the Messiah and his coming are spoken of.

I. DOMINE exaudi orationem meam: et clamor meus ad te veniat.

I. HEAR, O Lord, my prayer: and let my cry come to thee:

¹ The very title of the psalm in the Hebrew as well as in the Greek and the Latin clearly indicates its subject: Oratio pauperis, cum anxius fuerit, et in conspectu Domini effuderit precem suam: Prayer of the poor man when he is in anxiety, and when he pours out his prayer in the presence of the Lord.

2. Non avertas faciem tuam a me: in quacumque die tribulor, inclina ad me aurem tuam.

3. In quacumque die invocavero te, velociter exaudi me.

4. Quia defecerunt sicut fumus dies mei: et ossa mea sicut cremium aruerunt.

5. Percussus sum ut fœnum, et aruit cor meum: quia oblitus sum comedere panem meum.

6. A voce gemitus mei: adhæsit os meum carni meæ.

7. Similis factus sum pellicano solitudinis: factus sum sicut nycticorax in domicilio.

8. Vigilavi, et factus sum sicut passer solitarius in tecto.

9. Tota die exprobrabant mihi inimici mei: et qui laudabant me adversum me jurabant.

10. Quia cinerem tamquam panem manducabam, et potum meum cum fletu miscebam.

11. A facie iræ et indignationis tuæ: quia elevans allisisti me.

12. Dies mei sicut umbra declinaverunt: et ego sicut fœnum arui.

13. Tu autem Domine in æternum permanes: et memoriale tuum in generationem et generationem.

14. Tu exurgens misereberis Sion: quia tempus miserendi ejus, quia venit tempus.

15. Quoniam placuerunt servis tuis lapides ejus: et terræ ejus miserebuntur.

2. Turn not away thy face from me: in the day when I am in trouble, incline thy ear to me.

3. In what day soever I shall call upon thee, hear me speedily.

4. For my days are vanished like smoke: and my bones are grown dry like fuel for the fire.

5. I am smitten as grass, and my heart is withered: because I forgot to eat my bread.

6. Through the voice of my groaning, my bone hath cleaved to my flesh.

7. I am become like to a pelican of the wilderness: I am like a night-raven in the house.

8. I have watched, and am become as a sparrow, all alone on the house top.

9. All the day long my enemies reproached me: and they that praised me did swear against me.

10. For I did eat ashes like bread, and mingled my drink with weeping.

11. Because of thy anger and indignation: for having lifted me up thou hast thrown me down.

12. My days have declined like a shadow: and I am withered like grass.

13. But thou, O Lord, endurest forever: and thy memorial to all generations.

14. Thou shalt arise and have mercy on Sion: for it is time to have mercy on it, for the time is come.

15. For the stones thereof have pleased thy servants: and they shall have pity on the earth thereof.

16. Et timebunt Gentes nomen tuum Domine, et omnes reges terræ gloriam tuam.

17. Quia ædificavit Dominus Sion: et videbitur in gloria sua.

18. Respexit in orationem humilium: et non sprexit precem eorum.

19. Scribantur hæc in generatione altera: et populus, qui creabitur, laudabit Dominum:

20. Quia prospexit de excelso sancto suo: Dominus de cælo in terram aspexit:

21. Ut audiret gemitus compeditorum: ut solveret filios interemptorum:

22. Ut annuntient in Sion nomen Domini: et laudem ejus in Jerusalem.

23. In conveniendo populos in unum, et reges ut serviant Domino.

24. Respondit ei in via virtutis suæ: Paucitatem dierum meorum nuntia mihi.

25. Ne revoces me in dimidio dierum meorum: in generationem et generationem annitui.

26. Initio tu Domine terram fundasti: et opera manuum tuarum sunt cæli.

27. Ipsi peribunt, tu autem permanes: et omnes sicut vestimentum veterascent.

28. Et sicut opertorium mutabis eos, et mutabuntur: tu autem idem ipse es, et annitui non deficient.

16. And the Gentiles shall fear thy name, O Lord, and all the kings of the earth thy glory.

17. For the Lord hath built up Sion: and he shall be seen in his glory.

18. He hath had regard to the prayer of the humble: and he hath not despised their petition.

19. Let these things be written unto another generation: and the people that shall be created shall praise the Lord:

20. Because he hath looked forth from his high sanctuary: from heaven the Lord hath looked upon the earth:

21. That he might hear the groans of them that are in fetters: that he might release the children of the slain:

22. That they may declare the name of the Lord in Sion: and his praise in Jerusalem.

23. When the people assemble together, and kings to serve the Lord.

24. He answered him in the way of his strength: Declare unto me the fewness of my days.

25. Call me not away in the midst of my days: thy years are unto generation and generation.

26. In the beginning, O Lord, thou foundedst the earth: and the heavens are the works of thy hands.

27. They shall perish but thou remainest: and all of them shall grow old like a garment.

28. And as a vesture thou shalt change them, and they shall be changed: But thou art always the self-same, and thy years shall not fail.

ejus." The Hebrew, according to Menochius, Bossuet, and Mattei, here signifies Pulveris ejus—The dust of its ruins.

16. "Gloriam tuam" That is: They shall know and fear Thy power.

17. Thus it shall happen when God shall build up Sion; and he shall be seen in his glory, that is, in his temple, according to Maldonatus, Mariana, and Mattei.

19. "Populus qui creabitur." Mattei says that this is to be understood of Christians, who, regenerated by baptism, are called by St. Paul: Nova creatura—New creature (Gal. vi. 15).

21. "Filios interemptorum." According to the Hebrew: Filios mortis. Mattei observes that these two versions according to the Hebrew expression signify the same thing, namely: Those doomed to death; that is, men deprived of the grace before the Redemption.

23. "In unum." In one church, in one same faith. Du Hamel thus comments: Hæc ad Ecclesiam sub Christo referuntur. Bellarmine, Malvenda, Mariana, and Menochius say the same.

24. Bellarmine and Mattei say that this verse is very obscure, as indeed it is. "Respondit ei." Bellarmine thinks that it is the psalmist who answers God in regard to what the Lord ordained in verse 19. "In via virtutis suæ." That is: In the time of the vigor of his age. "Paucitatem dierum meorum nuntia mihi." O Lord, make me know the shortness of my days, that is, according to the interpreters, if my life shall be too short for me to see the end of these evils on the day of man's redemption.

25. "Ne revoces me." St. Jerome translates: Ne rapias me: For mercy's sake, do not withdraw me from the world. "In generationem et generationem anni tui." Thou whose years are eternal, canst add to the number of my years.

26. St. Paul applies to Jesus Christ this verse and the two following verses (Heb. i. 10).

27. "Permanes." St. Jerome translates: Stabis: Thou shalt ever remain the same. "Veterascent." St. Jerome translates: Atterentur—They shall come to an end, as a garment worn out by long use.

28. "Opertorium." St. Jerome translates: Pallium, a cloak, Mattei here admires the images of the Oriental poetry.

29. "Habitabunt." Shall dwell there, that is, in the holy city. "Semen eorum in sæculum dirigetur." That is: Thou wilt ever have a care of their posterity.¹

PSALM VI., WHICH IS PSALM CII. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist extols the divine mercy; but finding himself incapable of praising and thanking God as his benefits deserve, he invites the angels and all creatures to do so in his name.

1. BENEDIC anima mea Domino: et omnia, quæ intra me sunt, nomini sancto ejus.

2. Benedic anima mea Domino: et noli oblivisci omnes retributiones ejus.

3. Qui propitiatur omnibus iniquitatibus tuis: qui sanat omnes infirmitates tuas.

4. Qui redimit de interitu vitam tuam: qui coronat te in misericordia et miserationibus.

5. Qui replet in bonis desiderium tuum: renovabitur ut aquilæ juvenus tua.

6. Faciens misericordias Dominus: et judicium omnibus injuriam patientibus.

7. Notas fecit vias suas Moysi, filiis Israel voluntates suas.

8. Miserator, et misericors Dominus: longanimis, et multum misericors.

9. Non in perpetuum irascetur: neque in æternum comminabitur.

10. Non secundum peccata nostra fecit nobis: neque secundum iniquitates nostras retribuit nobis.

1. BLESS the Lord, O my soul: and let all that is within me bless his holy name.

2. Bless the Lord, O my soul: and never forget all he hath done for thee:

3. Who forgiveth all thy iniquities: who healeth all thy diseases.

4. Who redeemeth thy life from destruction: who crowneth thee with mercy and compassion.

5. Who satisfieth thy desire with good things: thy youth shall be renewed like the eagle's:

6. The Lord doth mercies: and judgment for all that suffer wrong.

7. He hath made his way known to Moses, his wills to the children of Israel.

8. The Lord is compassionate and merciful: long suffering, and plenteous in mercy:

9. He will not always be angry: nor will he threaten forever.

10. He hath not dealt with us according to our sins: nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

¹ The terms of this last verse suit perfectly the holy Church, which is the city of God, in which a happy people always dwell under the inflexible direction of the Vicar of Jesus Christ, until it becomes established in the abode of the eternal beatitude.

11. Quoniam secundum altitudinem cœli a terra: corroboravit misericordiam suam super timentes se.

12. Quantum distat ortus ab occidente: longe fecit a nobis iniquitates nostras.

13. Quomodo miseretur pater filiorum, misertus est Dominus timentibus se: quoniam ipse cognovit figmentum nostrum.

14. Recordatus est quoniam pulvis sumus: homo, sicut fœnum dies ejus, tamquam flos agri sic effloret.

15. Quoniam spiritus pertransibit in illo, et non subsistet: et non cognoscet amplius locum suum.

16. Misericordia autem Domini ab æterno, et usque in æternum super timentes eum.

17. Et justitia illius in filios filiorum, his qui servant testamentum ejus:

18. Et memores sunt mandatorum ipsius, ad faciendum ea.

19. Dominus in cœlo paravit sedem suam: et regnum ipsius omnibus dominabitur.

20. Benedicite Domino omnes Angeli ejus: potentes virtute, facientes verbum illius, ad audiendam vocem sermonum ejus.

21. Benedicite Domino omnes virtutes ejus: ministri ejus, qui facitis voluntatem ejus.

22. Benedicite Domino omnia opera ejus: in omni loco dominationis ejus, benedic anima mea Domino.

11. For according to the height of the heaven above the earth: he hath strengthened his mercy towards them that fear him.

12. As far as the east is from the west: so far hath he removed our iniquities from us.

13. As a father hath compassion on his children, so hath the Lord compassion on them that fear him: for he knoweth our frame.

14. He remembereth that we are dust: man's days are as grass, as the flower of the field so shall he flourish.

15. For the spirit shall pass in him, and he shall not be: and he shall know his place no more.

16. But the mercy of the Lord is from eternity, and unto eternity upon them that fear him.

17. And his justice unto children's children, to such as keep his covenant:

18. And are mindful of his commandments to do them.

19. The Lord hath prepared his throne in heaven: and his kingdom shall rule over all.

20. Bless the Lord, all ye his angels: you that are mighty in strength, and execute his word, hearkening to the voice of his orders.

21. Bless the Lord, all his hosts: you ministers of his that do his will.

22. Bless the Lord, all his works: in every place of his dominion, O my soul, bless thou the Lord.

1. "Omnia quæ intra me sunt." All my powers.

3. "Propitiatur omnibus iniquitatibus tuis." He is propitious

19. “Regnum ipsius omnibus dominabitur.” That is: All will have to obey his rule.

PSALM VII., WHICH IS PSALM CIII. OF THE PSALTER.

According to the interpreters, this psalm presents a brilliant description of the glory of the Saviour as manifested in the works of nature. In it we find a eulogy of the wisdom and of the power that God has shown forth in creating heaven and earth. The author of the arguments, placed at the head of the psalms in the Compilation of Venice, adds that we learn here how to see nature and the manifold variety of created things.

1. BENEDIC anima mea Domino: Domine Deus meus magnificatus es vehementer.

2. Confessionem et decorem induisti: amictus lumine sicut vestimento:

3. Extendens cœlum sicut pellem: qui tegis aquis superiora ejus.

4. Qui ponis nubem ascensum tuum: qui ambulas super pennas ventorum.

5. Qui facis angelos tuos spiritus: et ministros tuos, ignem urentem.

6. Qui fundasti terram super stabilitatem suam: non inclinabitur in sæculum sæculi.

7. Abyssus, sicut vestimentum, amictus ejus: super montes stabunt aquæ.

8. Ab increpatione tua fugient: a voce tonitruui tui formidabunt.

9. Ascendunt montes, et descendunt campi in locum quem fundasti eis.

10. Terminum posuisti, quem non transgredientur: neque convertentur operire terram.

11. Qui emittis fontes in con-

1. BLESS the Lord, O my soul: O Lord my God, thou art exceedingly great.

2. Thou hast put on praise and beauty: and art clothed with light as with a garment:

3. Who stretchest out the heavens like a pavilion: who coverest the higher rooms thereof with water.

4. Who makest the clouds thy chariot: who walkest upon the wings of the winds.

5. Who makest thy angels spirits: and thy ministers a burning fire.

6. Who hast founded the earth upon its own base: it shall not be moved forever and ever.

7. The deep, like a garment, is its clothing; above the mountains shall the waters stand.

8. At thy rebuke they shall flee: at the voice of thy thunder they shall fear.

9. The mountains ascend, and the plains descend into the place which thou hast founded for them.

10. Thou hast set a bound which they shall not pass over: neither shall they return to cover the earth.

11. Thou sendest forth

vallibus: inter medium montium pertransibunt aquæ.

12. Potabunt omnes bestię agri: expectabunt onagri in siti sua.

13. Super ea volucres cœli habitabunt: de medio petrarum dabunt voces.

14. Rigans montes de superioribus suis: de fructu operum tuorum satiabitur terra.

15. Producens fœnum jumentis, et herbam servituti hominum:

16. Ut educas panem de terra: et vinum lætificet cor hominis:

17. Ut exhilaret faciem in oleo: et panis cor hominis confirmet.

18. Saturabuntur ligna campi, et cedri Libani, quas plantavit: illic passeret nidificabunt.

19. Herodii domus dux est eorum: montes excelsi cervis: petra refugium herinaciis.

20. Fecit lunam in tempora: sol cognovit occasum suum.

21. Posuisti tenebras, et facta est nox: in ipsa pertransibunt omnes bestię silvæ.

22. Catuli leonum rugientes, ut rapiant, et quærant a Deo escam sibi.

23. Ortus est sol, et congregati sunt: et in cubilibus suis collocabuntur.

24. Exhibit homo ad opus springs in the vales: between the midst of the hills the waters shall pass.

12. All the beasts of the field shall drink: the wild asses shall expect in their thirst.

13. Over them the birds of the air shall dwell: from the midst of the rocks they shall give forth their voices.

14. Thou waterest the hills from thy upper rooms: the earth shall be filled with the fruit of thy works:

15. Bringing forth grass for cattle, and herb for the service of men:

16. That thou mayest bring bread out of the earth: and that wine may cheer the heart of man:

17. That he may make the face cheerful with oil: and that bread may strengthen man's heart.

18. The trees of the field shall be filled, and the cedars of Libanus which he hath planted: there the sparrows shall make their nests.

19. The highest of them is the house of the heron. The high hills are a refuge for the harts: the rock for the urchins.

20. He hath made the moon for seasons: the sun knoweth his going down.

21. Thou hast appointed darkness, and it is night: in it shall all the beasts of the woods go about.

22. The young lions roaring after their prey, and seeking their meat from God.

23. The sun ariseth, and they are gathered together: and they shall lie down in their dens.

24. Man shall go forth to suam: et ad operationem suam usque ad vesperum.

25. Quam magnificata sunt opera tua Domine! omnia in sapientia fecisti: impleta est terra possessione tua.

26. Hoc mare magnum, et spatiosum manibus: illic reptilia, quorum non est numerus.

27. Animalia pusilla cum magnis: illic naves pertransibunt.

28. Draco iste, quem formasti ad illudendum ei: omnia a te expectant, ut des illis escam in tempore.

29. Dante te illis, colligent: a periente te manum tuam, omnia implebuntur bonitate.

30. Avertente autem te faciem, turbabuntur: auferes spiritum eorum, et deficient, et in pulverem suum revertentur.

31. Emittes spiritum tuum, et creabuntur: et renovabis faciem terræ.

32. Sit gloria Domini in sæculum: lætabitur Dominus in operibus suis:

33. Qui respicit terram, et facit eam tremere: qui tangit montes, et fumigant.

34. Cantabo Domino in vita mea: psallam Deo meo quamdiu sum.

35. Jucundum sit ei eloquium meum: ego vero delectabor in Domino.

36. Deficiant peccatores a terra, et iniqui ita ut non sint: benedic anima mea Domino.

his work: and to his labor until the evening.

25. How great are thy works, O Lord! thou hast made all things in wisdom: the earth is filled with thy riches.

26. So is this great sea, which stretcheth wide its arms: there are creeping things without number.

27. Creatures little and great: there the ships shall go.

28. This sea-dragon which thou hast formed to play therein: all expect of thee that thou give them food in season.

29. What thou givest to them they shall gather up: when thou openest thy hand, they shall all be filled with good.

30. But if thou turnest away thy face, they shall be troubled: thou shalt take away their breath, and they shall fail, and shall return to their dust.

31. Thou shalt send forth thy spirit, and they shall be created: and thou shalt renew the face of the earth.

32. May the glory of the Lord endure forever: the Lord shall rejoice in his works.

33. He looketh upon the earth, and maketh it tremble: he toucheth the mountains, and they smoke.

34. I will sing to the Lord as long as I live: I will sing praise to my God while I have my being.

35. Let my speech be acceptable to him: but I will take delight in the Lord.

36. Let sinners be consumed out of the earth, and the unjust, so that they be no more: O my soul, bless thou the Lord.

12. “Onagri.” Wild asses, by which may be understood all wild animals.

13. “Super ea.” According to the Chaldee: Juxta eos. Above or beside these fountains or these springs of water. “De medio petrarum.” According to the Hebrew: Inter ramos; or according to St. Jerome’s translation: De medio nemorum—In the midst of the neighboring groves.

14. Thou waterest the mountains with the upper waters, which descend from the clouds; thus the earth by Thy Providence shall be satisfied, and shall abound in fruit.

16. “Vinum lætificet cor hominis.” Here St. John Chrysostom makes this reflection: “Some say: Let there be no wine; but we should rather say: Let there be no drunkenness; for wine is the work of God, but drunkenness the work of the devil” (Ad pop. Ant. Hom. 1).

17. We should here remark, that according to Theodoret, Maldonatus, Menochius, Tirinus, and others, the Orientals used to anoint the face with oil to show a cheerful countenance. The sense then is: Thou producest the olives, the oil of which serves to anoint the countenance to make it look joyous, and grain to make bread wherewith to sustain the life of man.

18. “Saturabuntur.” Shall be sated with these waters of fountains and of rains. “Ligna campi.” Mattei hereby understands wild plants. “Passeres.” The sparrows and the other birds.

19. “Herodii.” It is uncertain what kind of bird this name denotes: according to St. Jerome, it is the kite; but Estius, Lallemant, and others, following the Chaldee, say that it is the stork. “Herodii domus dux est eorum.” According to the Hebrew: Herodii abies est domus ejus. That is: The top of the fir-tree is her house. “Herinacii.” According to the Greek, Leporibus—For the rabbits. See Mattei.

the valleys to lower themselves; but it may also be understood of the waves, which, pressed by the order of the Most High, rose up like mountains, and lowered themselves like valleys by rolling into the abysses that were prepared for them. Moreover, the Lord said to the sea: Thou shalt come so far, and no farther: Usque huc venies, et non procedes amplius, et hic confringes tumentes fluctus tuos—Hitherto thou shalt come, and shalt go no farther, and here thou shalt break thy swelling waves (Job, xxxviii. 11),

20. "Fecit lunam in tempore." The Hebrews used to regulate their calendar by the moon: A luna signum diei festi—From the moon is the sign of the festival day (Ecclus. lxiii. 7). "Sol cognovit occasum suum." The sun runs its course to its setting; or as Malvenda explains the verse, the sun knows how to go through its course without the variations incident to the moon.

22. The lions come forth roaring with their cubs to seek for prey in the forests; and by their roaring they seem to ask of God their food.

25. "Possessione tua." According to the Greek: Creatura tua—With Thy creatures. Menochius and Mattei explain thus: The earth is filled with the goods that Thou hast created.

26. "Reptilia." Properly: Reptiles, animals without legs, that crawl on their bellies. Here the word signifies every kind of fish.

28. "Draco." St. Jerome writes: Leviathan. Others, as Lallemand, and perhaps all, commonly say that it is the whale; but according to Mattei this is not certain; it is only certain that some sea-monster is signified. "Ad illudendum ei." According to the Hebrew: Ut luderet in eo. Thus it is understood by Maldonatus, Estius, Sa, Malvenda, Mattei, etc.

30. That is: If Thou withdraw Thy gracious looks, they will languish; Thou wilt take away their life and they will cease to be; they return to the dust whence Thou didst draw them.

31. That is: Thou wilt send forth the breath of life into other animals, to which Thou wilt give being, and thus Thou wilt renew the face of the earth. Du Hamel applies this in a mystical sense to the Holy Ghost, who by his grace renews the face of the earth, that is, of the souls living in this world; and thus the Church uses this verse in her Liturgy at Pentecost.

32. That is: Let then the Lord be glorified forever! and let us act in such a manner that he may rejoice in us, who are his works, and that he may not be saddened by our faults.

33. That is: Let us beware of provoking this powerful Lord, who with a single glance makes the earth tremble, and who by touching the mountains causes them to smoke with his thunder and lightning, as he did on Mount Sinai: Totus autem mons Sinai fumabat—And all Mount Sinai was in a smoke (Exod. xix. 18).

PSALM VIII., WHICH IS PSALM CIV. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet urges the Jews to praise God, and to thank him for all the benefits bestowed on their fathers.¹

1. CONFITEMINI Domino, et invocate nomen ejus: annuntiate inter Gentes opera ejus.

2. Cantate ei, et psallite ei: narrate omnia mirabilia ejus.

3. Laudamini in nomine sancto ejus: lætetur cor quærentium Dominum.

4. Quærite Dominum, et confirmamini: quærite faciem ejus semper.

5. Mementote mirabilium ejus, quæ fecit: prodigia ejus, et judicia oris ejus.

6. Semen Abraham, servi ejus: filii Jacob electi ejus.

7. Ipse Dominus Deus noster: in universa terra judicia ejus.

8. Memor fuit in sæculum testamenti sui: verbi, quod mandavit in mille generationes:

9. Quod disposuit ad Abraham: et juramenti sui ad Isaac:

10. Et statuit illud Jacob in præceptum: et Israel in testamentum æternum:

11. Dicens: Tibi dabo terram Chanaan, funiculum hereditatis vestræ.

12. Cum essent numero brevi, paucissimi et incolæ ejus:

13. Et pertransierunt de gen-

1. GIVE glory to the Lord, and call upon his name: declare his deeds among the Gentiles.

2. Sing to him, yea sing praises to him: relate all his wondrous works.

3. Glory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord.

4. Seek ye the Lord, and be strengthened: seek his face evermore.

5. Remember his marvellous works which he hath done: his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth.

6. O ye seed of Abraham his servant: ye sons of Jacob his chosen.

7. He is the Lord our God: his judgments are in all the earth.

8. He hath remembered his covenant forever; the word which he commanded to a thousand generations.

9. Which he made to Abraham; and his oath to Isaac:

10. And he appointed the same to Jacob for a law: and to Israel for an everlasting testament.

11. Saying: To thee will I give the land of Chanaan, the lot of your inheritance.

12. When they were but a small number, yea very few, and sojourners therein:

13. And they passed from

31. Posuit pluvias eorum grandinem: ignem comburentem in terra ipsorum.

32. Et percussit vineas eorum, et ficulneas eorum: et contrivit lignum finium eorum.

33. Dixit, et venit locusta, et bruchus, cujus non erat numerus:

34. Et comedit omne fœnum in terra eorum: et comedit omnem fructum terræ eorum.

35. Et percussit omne primogenitum in terra eorum: primitias omnis laboris eorum.

36. Et eduxit eos cum argento et auro: et non erat in tribubus eorum infirmus.

37. Lætata est Ægyptus in protectione eorum: quia incubuit timor eorum super eos.

38. Expandit nubem in protectionem eorum, et ignem ut luceret eis per noctem.

39. Petierunt, et venit coturnix: et pane cœli saturavit eos.

40. Dirupit petram, et fluxerunt aquæ: abierunt in sicco flumina:

29. Their land brought forth frogs in the inner chambers of their kings.

30. He spoke, and there came divers sorts of flies: and sciniphs in all their coasts.

31. He gave them hail for rain: a burning fire in their land.

32. And he destroyed their vineyards and their fig-trees: and he broke in pieces the trees of their coasts.

33. He spoke, and the locust came, and the bruchus, of which there was no number:

34. And they devoured all the grass in their land: and consumed all the fruit of their ground.

35. And he slew all the first-born in their land: the first-fruits of all their labor.

36. And he brought them out with silver and gold: and there was not among their tribes so much as one that was feeble.

37. Egypt was glad when they departed: for the fear of them lay upon them.

38. He spread a cloud for their protection, and fire to give them light in the night.

39. They asked, and the quail came: and he filled them with the bread of heaven.

40. He opened the rock, and waters flowed: rivers ran down in the dry land.

41. Because he remembered his holy word, which he had spoken to his servant Abraham.

42. And he brought forth his people with joy, and his chosen with gladness.

43. Et dedit illis regiones Gentium : et labores populorum possederunt :

43. And he gave them the lands of the Gentiles : and they possessed the labors of the peoples :

44. Ut custodiant justificationes ejus, et legem ejus requirant.

44. That they might observe his justifications, and seek after his law.

3. "Laudamini in nomine sancto ejus." That is: Render yourselves worthy of praise by your zeal in procuring glory to his holy name.¹

4. Be constant in seeking God ; try to be in spirit always in his presence.²

5. "Judicia oris ejus." His commandments, or his law.

6. I say this to you who are the posterity of Abraham, and the servants of the Lord ; to you, children of Jacob, who are the chosen people of God.³

7. "In universa terra judicia ejus." That is: He governs the whole earth.

8. He has always been mindful of his covenant with his servants, and of the promise that he made them in words that expressed his will, to make all subsequent generations have part therein.

10. "Præceptum." According to the Hebrew: Statutum, Decretum. "Testamentum æternum." A covenant or compact that was always to be observed.

¹ "Laudamini." St. Jerome translates the Hebrew: Exsultate ; and Bellarmine: Laudate vos ipsos ; which the learned Cardinal thus explains: Congratulate yourselves or glory, not in yourselves or in your virtue, but in this that the holy name of God has been manifested to you, according to the advice of the Apostle: Qui gloriatur, in Domino gloriatur—He that glorieth, may glory in the Lord (1 Cor. i. 31). In Paralipomenon we read simply: Laudate nomen sanctum ejus—Praise ye his holy name (1 Par. xvi. 10).

² Seek always his face. "Faciem ejus." That is, his benevolent looks, his favor, his grace, by avoiding all that may displease him, and by doing what is agreeable to him.

12. "Incolæ." According to the Hebrew: Peregrini, Advencæ.

13. The patriarchs Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob had to pass from one country to another, as from Palestine to Egypt (Gen. xii., xx., xxvi., xxviii., xxxi., lxvi.).

15. "Christos meos . . . Prophetis meis." My anointed . . . my prophets; that is, the patriarchs.²

16. "Firmamentum panis." That is: The support of human life, which consists in bread.³

17. He ordained that Joseph, who had been sold by his brethren, should be taken before them into Egypt, and thus deliver them from famine (Gen. xxxvii. 28).

18. "Ferrum pertransiit animam ejus." According to the Greek: Anima, instead of "Animam." The Hebrew may be understood either way; but Bellarmine says that in the Vulgate the sense is clearer, and that thus St. Jerome, St. Augustine, and others explain the passage; namely: The pain caused by the iron fetters afflicted the soul of Joseph. "Donec veniret verbum ejus." That is: Until the accomplishment of his prophecy concerning the release from prison of Pharaoh's chief butler, which release was followed by his own (Gen. xl. 12, xli. 9).

19. The spirit of prophecy with which Joseph felt himself inspired was as a torch which inflamed him; that is, which encouraged him to make this prediction. Then king Pharaoh, this prince of many peoples, set him at liberty.

20. "Principem omnis possessionis suæ." Chief of his whole kingdom.

21. "Principes ejus." The great men of his court, of his possessions. "Senex ejus." The ancients of his council.

¹ The promises of God to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob may be seen in Gen. xii. 7, xiii. 15, xvii. 7, xxvi. 3, xxviii. 13. On the word "Funiculum," see Psalm lxxvii. 60.

² Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, called Christs, or Anointed, and Prophets, because they were specially consecrated to the service of God, exercised the functions of the priesthood, and foretold the future (Gen. xx. 7, xxvii. 49).

³ "Firmamentum." According to the Hebrew: Baculum—the Staff, as we read in Leviticus: Postquam confregero baculum panis vestri—After I have broken the staff of your bread (Lev. xxvi. 26).

that this cloud is not the pillar spoken of in Exodus: Domini- nus autem præcedebat eos, ad ostendendam viam, per diem in columnam nubis—And the Lord went before them to show the way by day in a pillar of cloud (Exod. xiii. 21). The pillar was to go before them to show them the way, and not to be spread out over their heads; moreover, the cloud spread out above them could not take the shape of a pillar. Hence, adds Bellar- mine, we are justified in saying that besides the pillar of cloud which went before the Israelites, and which once we read went behind them to protect them against the Egyptians (Exod. xiv. 19), there was another cloud spread out over them to shelter them from the heat during their journey. This explanation is supported by the Hebrew text, which St. Jerome thus renders: Expandit nubem in tentorium—He spread out a cloud for a tent or covering; as well as by the following words in the Book of Wisdom: Fuit illis in velamento diei, et in luce stellarum per noctem—She was to them for a covert by day, and for the light of stars by night (Wisd. x. 17).¹

39. The Israelites asked for means to feed on flesh and bread; the Lord sent among them an abundance of quails, and he satiated them with manna, which he caused to fall from heaven.

40. They were thirsty, and the Lord by the hand of Moses broke a rock, whence ran waters seen flowing as torrents in that arid place (Num. xx. 11).²

43. “Labores populorum possederunt.” They came into pos- session of the labors of those nations, that is, of the cities which they had built, and of the fields which they had cul- tivated.

¹ Menochius (Exod. xiii. 21) expresses the same opinion by quoting another text: Nubes quoque Domini super eos erat per diem—The cloud also of the Lord was over them by day when they marched (Num. x. 34). He joins to it the Greek version in these words: Nubes Domini fuit obumbrans super eos—In this arid desert, in which the people of God passed forty years, the heat of the day must have been excessive.

² For this verse and the preceding see Psalm lxxvii. 18, and the fol- lowing verses. The last verses sum up the benefits of God, according to promise, and the obligations of his people.

PSALM IX., WHICH IS PSALM CV. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist exhorts the Israelites to thank the Lord for all the wonders wrought in their behalf from the time that they left Egypt till the time of the Judges, and reproaches them for their ingratitude to the Lord. A matter of confusion for us Christians, who have received from God far greater benefits.

1. CONFITEMINI Domino quoniam bonus: quoniam in sæculum misericordia ejus.

2. Quis loquetur potentias Domini, auditas faciet omnes laudes ejus?

3. Beati, qui custodiunt judicium, et faciunt justitiam in omni tempore.

4. Memento nostri Domine in beneplacito populi tui: visita nos in salutari tuo:

5. Ad videndum in bonitate electorum tuorum, ad lætandum in lætitia gentis tuæ: ut lauderis cum hereditate tua.

6. Peccavimus cum patribus nostris: injuste egimus, iniquitatem fecimus.

7. Patres nostri in Ægypto non intellexerunt mirabilia tua: non fuerunt memores multitudinis misericordiæ tuæ.

8. Et irritaverunt ascendentes in mare, mare Rubrum.

9. Et salvavit eos propter nomen suum: ut notam faceret potentiam suam.

10. Et increpuit mare Rubrum, et exsiccatum est: et deduxit eos in abyssis sicut in deserto.

11. Et salvavit eos de manu odientium: et redemit eos de manu inimici.

12. Et operuit aqua tribulantes eos: unus ex eis non remansit.

1. GIVE glory to the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth forever.

2. Who shall declare the powers of the Lord? who shall set forth all his praises?

3. Blessed are they that keep judgment, and do justice at all times.

4. Remember us, O Lord, in the favor of thy people: visit us with thy salvation.

5. That we may see the good of thy chosen, that we may rejoice in the joy of thy nation: that thou mayest be praised with thy inheritance.

6. We have sinned with our fathers: we have acted unjustly, we have wrought iniquity.

7. Our fathers understood not thy wonders in Egypt: they remembered not the multitude of thy mercy.

8. And they provoked to wrath going up to the sea, even the Red Sea.

9. And he saved them for his own name's sake: that he might make his power known.

10. And he rebuked the Red Sea, and it was dried up: and he led them through the depths, as in a wilderness.

11. And he saved them from the hand of them that hated them: and he redeemed them from the hand of the enemy.

12. And the water covered them that afflicted them: there was not one of them left.

13. Et crediderunt verbis ejus: et laudaverunt laudem ejus.

14. Cito fecerunt, obliti sunt operum ejus: et non sustinuerunt consilium ejus.

15. Et concupierunt concupiscentiam in deserto: et tentaverunt Deum in aquoso.

16. Et dedit eis petitionem ipsorum: et misit saturitatem in animas eorum.

17. Et irritaverunt Moysen in castris: Aaron sanctum Domini.

18. Aperta est terra, et deglutivit Dathan: et operuit super congregationem Abiron.

19. Et exarsit ignis in synagoga eorum: flamma combussit peccatores.

20. Et fecerunt vitulum in Horeb: et adoraverunt sculptile.

21. Et mutaverunt gloriam suam in similitudinem vituli comedentis fœnum.

22. Obliti sunt Deum, qui salvabit eos, qui fecit magnalia in Ægypto, mirabilia in terra Cham: terribilia in mari Rubro.

23. Et dixit ut disperderet eos: si non Moyses electus ejus stetisset in confractione in conspectu ejus.

24. Ut averteret iram ejus, ne disperderet eos: et pro nihilo habuerunt terram desiderabilem:

25. Non crediderunt verbo ejus, et murmuraverunt in tabernaculis suis: non exaudierunt vocem Domini.

26. Et elevavit manum suam super eos: ut prosterneret eos in deserto:

13. And they believed his words: and they sang his praises.

14. They had quickly done, they forgot his works: and they waited not for his counsel.

15. And they coveted their desire in the desert: and they tempted God in the place without water.

16. And he gave them their request: and sent fulness into their souls.

17. And they provoked Moses in the camp: Aaron, the holy one of the Lord.

18. The earth opened and swallowed up Dathan: and covered the congregation of Abiron.

19. And a fire was kindled in their congregation: the flame burnt the wicked.

20. They made also a calf in Horeb: and they adored the graven thing.

21. And they changed their glory into the likeness of a calf that eateth grass.

22. They forgot God, who saved them, who had done great things in Egypt, wondrous works in the land of Cham: terrible things in the Red Sea.

23. And he said that he would destroy them: had not Moses his chosen stood before him in the breach:

24. To turn away his wrath, lest he should destroy them: and they set at naught the desirable land.

25. They believed not his word; and they murmured in their tents: they hearkened not to the voice of the Lord.

26. And he lifted up his hand over them: to overthrow them in the desert:

into the hands of the nations: and they that hated them had dominion over them.

40. And their enemies afflicted them: and they were humbled under their hands: many times did he deliver them.

41. But they provoked him with their counsel: and they were brought low by their iniquities.

42. And he saw when they were in tribulation: and he heard their prayer.

43. And he was mindful of his covenant: and repented according to the multitude of his mercy.

44. And he gave them unto mercies; in the sight of all those that had made them captives.

45. Save us, O Lord, our God: and gather us from among the nations.

46. That we may give thanks to thy holy name, and may glory in thy praise.

47. Blessed be the Lord the God of Israel from everlasting to everlasting: and let all the people say: So be it, so be it.

1. "In sæculum." St. Jerome translates: In æternum.

2. "Loquetur." According to the Chaldee: Eloqui poterit. That is: Who shall show forth . . . ?¹

3. "Judicium." Judgment, equity, or the law of God.²

¹ "Omnes laudes ejus." All the praises that he merits for the marvels of his goodness, mercy, power, wisdom, etc. The psalm begins by acknowledging that his subject is above his strength.

² It is by this means that the Lord is deservedly praised. Rectos decet collaudatio—Praise becometh the upright (Ps. xxii. 1). Petition for this grace in the two following verses.

³ In the Greek version the plural is used as it is in Latin. Bellarmine puli tui.” St. Jerome translates: In repropitiatione populi tui. That is: According to the goodness which Thou hast so often shown towards Thy people. “In salutari tuo.” According to the Hebrew: In salute tua; and according to the Chaldee: In redemptione tua. That is: By sending us salvation, or redemption through Jesus Christ, as St. Augustine explains: Ipse est enim Salvator . . . ; de illo quippe dixit Simeon senex: Quia viderunt oculi mei salutare tuum—Because my eyes have seen Thy salvation. “Ad videndum in bonitate.” According to the Hebrew: Ut videam bonum; or, according to St. Jerome, bona—In order that I may see the good things prepared for Thy elect. “Ad lætandum in lætitia gentis tuæ.” That is, according to the Hebrew: That I may rejoice in the joy, or that I may have part in the joy, of Thy faithful people. “Ut lauderis cum hereditate tua.” That is: That Thou mayest be forever praised in the midst of this people who are Thy inheritance, or Thy domain, chosen for all eternity.

7. That is: They did not appreciate the wonders wrought by Thee for their deliverance, and too soon they forgot Thy many mercies towards them.

8. “Ascendentes in mare.” According to the Hebrew: Juxta mare. That is: They provoked Thy anger near the Red Sea, where they received so many benefits (Exod. xiv.).

10. Here the prophet returns to speak of the benefits done them in their progress through the Red Sea. “Increpuit Mare Rubrum.” St. Jerome translates: Comminatus est Mari Rubro. God threatened the Red Sea to make it obey; that is, he bade the Red Sea to dry up, its waters withdrawing on both sides to make a way for the Israelites.

13. They then chanted the Canticle of Moses (Exod. xv.).

14. “Fecerunt.” They made a change. “Obliti sunt operum ejus.” They forgot all the wonders that God had wrought in explains and conciliates well the two numbers by saying that it is the people who speak, or the psalmist in the name of the people; this can be expressed in the plural as well as in the singular. In these few words he asks for the election or predestination, justification, or glorification, which are the principle, the means, and the end of eternal beatitude in order that God may be praised there in a perfect manner. We may remark that the rest of the psalm is found in the plural, even in the Hebrew: Peccavimus, etc.

their favor. “Non sustinuerunt consilium ejus.” St. Jerome translates: Non expectaverunt voluntatem ejus—They would not wait for the execution of his will.

15. “In inaquosa.” St. Jerome translates: *In solitudine.*¹

16. “Misit saturitatem in animas eorum.” That is: God sent them to satiety the food that they craved.

17. “Irritaverunt.” According to the Hebrew: Inviderunt; and the Chaldee: Invidia commoti sunt. Reference is here made to the envy that Dathan and Abiron, named in the following verse, had conceived against Moses and Aaron on seeing them constituted leaders of the people, envy that led them to address to Moses and Aaron these words: Cur elevamini super populum Domini?—Why lift you up yourselves above the people of the Lord? (Num. xvi. 3.) “Sanctum Domini. Aaron, consecrated to God as his priest.

18. The earth swallowed them both up, with all those that had joined their party of revolt (Num. xvi. 32.)

19. “Synagoga eorum.” The multitude of those that murmured the following day (Num. xvi. 41.)

20. The psalmist refers here to another rising of the Israelites, when they worshipped the golden calf (Exod. xxxii.). “In Horeb,” near Mount Horeb, or Sinai.

21. “Gloriam suam.” Some understand these words to mean the glory of the Israelites; but according to the Chaldee we read: Gloriam Domini sui; and Estius says the sense of the verse is: They gave to the image of a calf the glory that is due to God.²

23. That is: God then declared that he would destroy his people (Exod. xxii. 10.), and so he would have done if Moses, whom he had chosen to be their leader, had not interposed in his presence as their mediator.³ “In confractione.” Accord-

² “Gloriam suam.” Bellarmine, Menochius, Carrières, Ganme, etc., thus explain: The true God who was, or was contributory to, their glory. It seems to us that the psalmist explains clearly enough the following verse: Deum qui salvabit eos . . . The God who wrought so many wonders to save them.

according to some interpreters: The disorder ceased. But the sense of the Chaldee is: Cessavit mors; and St. Jerome translates in the same sense: Est retenta percussio—The slaughter ceased. This last interpretation is the best; for we read in Numbers: Cessavitque plaga a filiis Israel—And the scourge ceased from the children of Israel (Num. xxv. 8).

31. This act of Phinees was ascribed to him for merit, as a work of justice and of true zeal. He received in recompense the dignity of high-priest (Num. xxv. 13), which continued in his family for more than thirteen centuries, according to Mattei, with Mariana, Menochius, etc. "In sempiternum." That is: He received this reward for as long as the Mosaic law should last; Quamdiu lex duraret, says Emmanuel Sa.

32. The Israelites committed another sin (Num. xx.) when, suffering from want of water in the desert, they broke out in unjust murmurings. Moses then, though he had received from God the command to speak to the rock, hesitated somewhat, having conceived a certain feeling of diffidence; however, he struck the rock and water flowed from it in great abundance. God, displeased with Moses on account of his hesitation, punished him by making him die before entering the Promised Land. "Ad aquas contradictionis." That is: In the place where on account of the want of water there arose a contradiction and a contest against Moses. "Exacerbaverunt spiritum ejus." They so embittered his soul that he hesitated to execute the order that God had given him to speak to the rock.¹

38. "Hereditatem suam." Those whom he had chosen for his own people.

² We may see in regard to this and the following verses the Book of Judges.

³ See Psalm lxxii. 26.

41. “In consilio suo.” According to the Hebrew: In consilio ipsorum—By the purpose, as Menochius explains, which they formed of serving idols. “Humiliati sunt in iniquitatibus suis.” According to Mattei we are by this not to understand that they were humbled in their wickedness, but that they grew more wicked in their humiliations.¹

42. However, the Lord, seeing them thus afflicted, had pity on them and lent his ear to their prayers.

43. “Testamenti sui.” That is, of the promises made to their fathers. “Pœnituit eum.” According to the Chaldee: Conversus est ab ira sua. He turned aside from his anger, as though he felt sorrow for having punished them.

44. That is, according to Maldonatus, Mariana, Tirinus, and Mattei: He caused them to meet with compassion from their enemies, who held them captives.²

45. “Congrega nos de nationibus.” Gather us together by delivering us from the midst of the Gentiles, where we are scattered.

46. That is: In order that we may come to render Thee thanks in celebrating . . .

47. Then we shall sing: Blessed be, etc.

PSALM X., WHICH IS PSALM CVI. OF THE PSALTER.

In the literal sense this psalm sets forth the sufferings that the Jews endured in their captivity and in the desert, and it exhorts them to return thanks to God for having delivered them therefrom. In the figurative sense it represents the miseries from which Jesus Christ has delivered Christians. In it, moreover, the prophet clearly announces the ruin of the Synagogue, the vocation of the Gentiles, and the establishment of the Church.³

² Others translate: He showed his mercy towards them in the sight of all those, etc. Such is the meaning which St. Augustine and Bellarmine regard as the most probable.

³ The psalmist begins by an invitation to praise the goodness and the mercy of God. He then describes four examples of recourse to the Lord in affliction, and at the end of each repeats his invitation: see verses 6–8, 13–15, 19–21, and 28–31. He concludes by an eulogium

1. CONFITEMINI Domino quoniam bonus: quoniam in sæculum misericordia ejus.

2. Dicant qui redempti sunt a Domino, quos redemit de manu inimici: et de regionibus congregavit eos.

3. A solis ortu, et occasu: ab Aquilone, et mari.

4. Erraverunt in solitudine in inaquoso: viam civitatis habitaculi non invenerunt.

5. Esurientes, et sitientes: anima eorum in ipsis defecit.

6. Et clamaverunt ad Dominum cum tribularentur: et de necessitatibus eorum eripuit eos.

7. Et deduxit eos in viam rectam: ut irent in civitatem habitationis.

8. Confiteantur Domino misericordiæ ejus: et mirabilia ejus filiis hominum.

9. Quia satiavit animam inanem: et animam esurientem satiavit bonis.

10. Sedentes in tenebris, et umbra mortis: vinctos in mendicitate, et ferro.

11. Quia exacerbaverunt eloquia Dei: et consilium Altissimi irritaverunt.

12. Et humiliatum est in laboribus cor eorum: infirmati sunt, nec fuit qui adjuvaret.

13. Et clamaverunt ad Dominum cum tribularentur: et de necessitatibus eorum liberavit eos.

1. GIVE glory to the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth forever.

2. Let them say so that have been redeemed by the Lord, whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the enemy and gathered out of the countries.

3. From the rising and from the setting of the sun: from the north and from the sea.

4. They wandered in a wilderness, in a place without water: they found not the way of a city for their habitation.

5. They were hungry and thirsty: their soul fainted in them.

6. And they cried to the Lord in their tribulation; and he delivered them out of their distresses.

7. And he led them into the right way, that they might go to a city of habitation.

8. Let the mercies of the Lord give glory to him: and his wonderful works to the children of men.

9. For he hath satisfied the empty soul, and hath filled the hungry soul with good things.

10. Such as sat in darkness and in the shadow of death: bound in want and in iron.

11. Because they had exasperated the words of God: and provoked the counsel of the Most High:

12. And their heart was humbled with labors: they were weakened, and there was none to help them.

13. Then they cried to the Lord in their affliction: and he delivered them out of their distresses.

and a prophecy of the all-powerful and ever-merciful Providence of the Most High towards his servants, or his Church.

35. Posuit desertum in stagna aquarum: et terram sine aqua in exitus aquarum.

36. Et collocavit illic esurientes: et constituerunt civitatem habitationis.

37. Et seminaverunt agros, et plantaverunt vineas: et fecerunt fructum nativitatis.

38. Et benedixit eis, et multiplicati sunt nimis: et jumenta eorum non minoravit.

39. Et pauci facti sunt: et vexati sunt a tribulatione malorum, et dolore.

40. Effusa est contemptio super principes: et errare fecit eos in invio, et non in via.

reeled like a drunken man, and all their wisdom was swallowed up.

28. And they cried to the Lord in their affliction, and he brought them out of their distresses.

29. And he turned the storm into a breeze: and its waves were still.

30. And they rejoiced because they were still: and he brought them to the haven which they wished for.

31. Let the mercies of the Lord give glory to him, and his wonderful works to the children of men.

32. And let them exalt him in the church of the people: and praise him in the chair of the ancients.

33. He hath turned rivers into a wilderness: and the sources of waters into dry ground.

34. A fruitful land into barrenness, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein.

35. He hath turned a wilderness into pools of waters, and a dry land into water springs.

36. And hath placed there the hungry: and they made a city for their habitation.

37. And they sowed fields, and planted vineyards: and they yielded fruit of birth.

38. And he blessed them, and they were multiplied exceedingly: and their cattle he suffered not to decrease.

39. Then they were brought to be few: and they were afflicted through the trouble of evils and sorrow.

40. Contempt was poured forth upon their princes: and he caused them to wander where there was no passing, and out of the way.

41. Et adjuvit pauperem de inopia: et posuit sicut oves familias.

42. Videbunt recti, et lætabuntur: et omnis iniquitas oppilabit os suum.

43. Quis sapiens, et custodiet hæc, et intelliget misericordias Domini?

41. And he helped the poor out of poverty: and made him families like a flock of sheep.

42. The just shall see, and shall rejoice; and all iniquity shall stop her mouth.

43. Who is wise, and will keep these things? and will understand the mercies of the Lord?

3. From the East and from the West, from the North and from the South.¹

4. "Erraverunt." The Israelites wandered, etc.²

9. He provided in the desert a marvellous food, and he satisfied those that were famishing.

10. He assisted them when they were in dark prisons, which were as the shadow of death;³ in want of everything and bound with iron chains.

12. Then was their heart humbled by labors, that is, the pride of their heart was brought low by the hardships that they suffered in the midst of all their afflictions. They grew too weak to resist their enemies, and there was no one to help them to deliver themselves from their hands.

14. "De tenebris et umbra mortis." See verse 10.

16. That is, he has delivered them from prison or from captivity.

18. By reason of their infirmity or sickness.

19. In repeating this verse several times, the prophet wishes to make us understand the compassion that God has for our miseries, and at the same time the efficacy of prayer which makes the Lord not know how to refuse help to him who asks it of him.

20. "Verbum suum." His word, or his orders.⁴

² Such is the literal sense of these verses, 4 to 7; but the history of the Israelites is here an example of what happens to all men, people or individuals. So it is understood by Bellarmine.

³ "Umbra mortis." See Psalm xliiii. 21.

⁴ Tuus. Domine, sermo, qui sanat omnia—Thy word, O Lord, which healeth all things (Wis. xvi. 12). In the most exalted sense we may understand the mission of the Incarnate Word. Word consubstantial

25. "Dixit." God commanded. "Stetit spiritus procellæ." The wind that makes the storm went forth immediately.

26. The waves of the sea mount and then sink again; the mariners are troubled by fear and their strength begins to fail.

27. "Omnis sapientia eorum devorata est." In the midst of their confusion they have lost all their seaman's craft.

30. "Deduxit eos." The Lord has conducted them.

32. "Seniorum." The ancients, or the chiefs of the people.

33. "Posuit." The Lord has wrought these other wonders; he has, etc.¹

39. Afterwards, in punishment for their sins, they were reduced, etc.

40. Contempt was also cast upon their princes, that is, the Lord made the chiefs who ruled them to be despised by allowing them to fall into many mistakes, when they strayed from the path of justice and prudence.²

42. The just shall see these mercies and rejoice thereat; while the wicked for shame of their iniquity shall not dare to open their mouth.

43. He that is wise will remember these things; and while meditating on them will understand how far reach the mercies of the Lord.

PSALM XI., WHICH IS PSALM CVII. OF THE PSALTER.

David consecrates this chant to giving thanks to God for his benefits, and to praying to him for victory over the Edomites. It must be remarked that this psalm has already been explained, partly in verses with the eternal Father, sent to heal the human race of the wounds inflicted by sin.

¹ Bellarmine with St. Augustine applies this last part, even in its literal sense, or at least in its allegorical and prophetic sense, to the Synagogue and the Church. This is mentioned by St. Alphonsus in the heading of the psalm. In fact, it is easy to recognize in these striking figures the fields of the Synagogue, once so favored, now sterile and abandoned; while the deserts and uncultivated lands of the Gentile world, receiving the seed of the Gospel with the waters of grace, are peopled with saints, and produce in abundance fruits of salvation.

² These two verses, 39, 40, well apply to the reprobation of the obstinate Jews, and the two following to the vocation of the Gentiles.

1. My heart is disposed to write whatever Thou ordainest; in all I will bless Thee, and I will sing Thy praises.¹

2. "Gloria mea." My spirit, which loves to praise God. "Exurgam diluculo." I wish to praise Thee at early morn.

4. I shall say that for all, from earth even to the heavens, is full of Thy mercy and fidelity.

5. "Ut liberentur . . ." Psalm lix. 5.

6, 7. Hear me, O Lord, and let Thy right hand save me. God has declared from his sanctuary that I shall one day have the joy of dividing the country of Sichein, or Samaria, and of measuring the lands of the valley of Tents beyond the Jordan, to distribute them at my will.

8. The names of Galaad, Manasses, and Ephraim designate the provinces occupied by the tribes of Israel, whom David called the strength of his head or crown.

9. It is in the tribe of Juda that my throne is established; and the land of Moab which is abundant, makes me hope fully to satisfy my people.

10. "Alienigenæ." Strangers.²

11. Who will lead me into Edom, to take possession of this country, the capital of which is very strong?

12. Shall it not be Thou, my God, who at first didst repel us? Wilt not Thou Thyself go forth with our troops to give us victory?

13. "Vana salus hominis." In vain can we hope for help from others.

14. Placing our hopes in God, we shall obtain the victory; he will exterminate our enemies.

PSALM XII., WHICH IS PSALM CVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

Interpreters have given various explanations of this psalm. Some apply it to Saul giving vent to his anger against Doeg and those that resemble him. Others to David predicting in form of imprecation the chastisements reserved for Doeg and Achitophel, his enemies. Others, as Xavier Mattei, Mark Marius, and Louis Mingarella suppose that the imprecations are uttered against David and Jesus Christ by their enemies. But commonly the Fathers and the other interpreters regard these imprecations as pronounced against Judas and the other enemies of our Lord. This interpretation, which we follow, agrees especially with that of St. Augustine.

¹ "In gloria mea." Bellarmine says with Theodoret that David calls his glory the spirit or the gift of prophecy.

1. DEUS laudem meam ne tacueris: quia os peccatoris, et os dolosi super me apertum est.

2. Locuti sunt adversum me lingua dolosa, et sermonibus odii circumdederunt me: et expugnauerunt me gratis.

3. Pro eo ut me diligenter, detrahebant mihi: ego autem orabam.

4. Et posuerunt adversum me mala pro bonis: et odium pro dilectione mea.

5. Constitue super eum peccatorem: et diabolus stet a dextris ejus.

6. Cum judicatur, exeat condemnatus: et oratio ejus fiat in peccatum.

7. Fiant dies ejus pauci, et episcopatum ejus accipiat alter.

8. Fiant filii ejus orphani, et uxor ejus vidua.

9. Nutantes transferantur filii ejus, et mendicent: et ejiciantur de habitationibus suis.

10. Scrutetur fœnerator omnem substantiam ejus: et diripiant alieni labores ejus.

sight of the Lord: and let not the sin of his mother be blotted out.

14. May they be before the Lord continually, and let the memory of them perish from the earth: because he remembered not to show mercy.

15. But persecuted the poor man and the beggar, and the broken in heart, to put him to death.

16. And he loved cursing, and it shall come unto him: and he would not have blessing, and it shall be far from him.

17. And he put on cursing like a garment: and it went in like water into his entrails, and like oil in his bones.

18. May it be unto him like a garment which covereth him: and like a girdle with which he is girded continually.

19. This is the work of them who detract me before the Lord: and who speak evils against my soul.

20. But thou, O Lord, Lord, do with me for thy name's sake: because thy mercy is sweet.

21. Do thou deliver me, for I am poor and needy: and my heart is troubled within me.

22. I am taken away like the shadow when it declineth: and I am shaken off as locusts.

23. My knees are weakened through fasting: and my flesh is changed for oil.

24. And I am become a reproach to them: they saw me, and they shook their heads.

25. Help me, O Lord, my God: save me according to thy mercy.

bunal of God. "Oratio ejus fiat in peccatum." That is, as Lallemand very well explains: If he dares speak in self-defence, may it be ascribed to him as a new crime on account of his temerity.

7. "Episcopatum ejus." Some understand by this his place of honor or administration; but it may be justly remarked that by the word Episcopate we must understand the apostolate, as St. Peter interprets it in applying this passage to Judas in the assembly of the apostles, who afterwards addressed this prayer to the Lord: Ostende quem elegeris ex his duobus unum, accipere locum ministerii hujus, et apostolatus, de quo prævaricatus est Judas—Show which of these two Thou hast chosen, to take the place of his ministry and apostleship, from which Judas hath by transgression fallen (Acts, i, 20–24).

8. Here we must remark, that St. John Chrysostom, Theodoret, and Euthymius are of opinion that Judas was never married. Moreover, Genebrardus and Tirinus think that these imprecations against Judas did not all have their effect in his person, but those only that could reach him. On the other hand, St. Augustine teaches that they were verified with regard to the Jewish people, of whom Judas is here the figure: for by the destruction of Jerusalem the Synagogue became a widow, and the Jews, her children, were made orphans.¹

9. This happened after the destruction of Jerusalem. "Nutantes transferantur." St. Jerome translates: Justabiles vagentur.

10. Here Menochius remarks: In excidio Hierosolymitano, adeo Judæorum divitias scrutabantur milites Romani, ut etiam, corporibus sectis aliquorum, viscera scrutati sint, sperantes se aurum, quod deglutivissent, inventuros. Testis Josephus—In the destruction of Jerusalem the Roman soldiers made such a close search after the riches and property of the Jews, that they even ripped up the bodies of some and searched their bowels to find gold which they might have swallowed, as Josephus testifies (De Bello Judaico, l. 6, c. 15).

12. That is, as Lallemand explains: May death carry off his children before they are able to have their father's name pass to a second generation.²

¹ We may add that since that time the Jews have had no High Priest.

² Bellarmine applies this verse and the preceding verses to the Jew-

13. "Iniquitas patrum ejus." The iniquity of the fathers of this same people, to be punished in him, as St. Augustine explains, applying the text of the Gospel: Ut veniat super vos omnis sanguis justus, qui effusus est super terram, a sanguine Abel. . . . That upon you may come all the just blood that hath been shed upon the earth from the blood of Abel . . . (Matt. xxiii. 33). "Matris ejus." By this the holy Doctor understands Jerusalem.

14. "Fiant contra Dominum semper." May the iniquity of their fathers and the sin of their mother, with their own crimes, be always before the eyes of God in punishment.

15. "Hominem inopem. . . ." Jesus Christ himself, who was thus treated without pity.

16. "Dilexit maledictionem." St. Augustine applies this to the time when the Jewish people cried out: Sanguis ejus super nos et super filios nostros—His blood be upon us and upon our children (Matt. xxvii. 25).

17. That is, as St. Augustine explains: May cursing wrap round his body and penetrate within his soul.

19. "Hoc opus." St. Jerome translates: Hæc est retributio—This is the punishment.¹

20. "Propter nomen tuum." For the glory of Thy name. "Suavis." St. Jerome translates: Bona. Bent on helping the afflicted.

21. "Cor meum conturbatum est intra me." St. Augustine refers this passage to what Jesus Christ said in the garden: Tristis est anima mea usque ad mortem—My soul is sorrowful even unto death (Matt. xxvi. 38).

ish people after the ruin of Jerusalem, and he shows in this the fulfilment of the prophecy of Osee: Dies multos sedebunt filii Israel sine rege, et sine principe, et sine sacrificio, et sine altari, et sine ephod—The children of Israel shall sit many days without king, and without prince, and without sacrifice, and without altar, and without ephod (Osee, iii. 4). Thenceforward the Jews no longer formed one family, one people, or one kingdom; they were so many separate units scattered among foreign nations, without king, without leader, without altar, and without High Priest.

¹ The word opus is used in the sense of wages: Non morabitur opus mercenarii tui apud te usque mane—The wages of him that hath been hired by thee shall not abide with thee until the morning (Lev. xix. 13).

22. "Excusans sum sicut locustæ." The locust goes lopping from place to place; and thus, says Du Hamel, did it happen to Jesus Christ: Ex uno tribunali in aliud jactatus—Who was cast about from one tribunal to another.

23. "Propter oleum." St. Jerome translates: Absque oleo—Without oil. We should then understand that ill and infirm condition of body was brought on not by the use of oil, but through being debarred from its use; for Estius, Sa, Mariana, Malvenda, Tirinus, and Mattei say that unctions with the use of oil were customary among the Hebrews, and that their health suffered if they failed to use them. Hence Mattei asserts that to understand here that flesh was lost by the use of oil is a most evident error. Besides, Bellarmine thus translates and explains the Hebrew literally: Caro mea immutata est a pinguedine; id est, ex pingui macilenta reddita est. And according to the Chaldee we read: Macilenta est absque pinguedine. The sense, therefore, is: My flesh has been changed from being fat, and is become lean for want of food that produces fatness. Otherwise, I do not see how this verse can with propriety be applied to Jesus Christ.

24. "Moverunt capita sua." They shook their heads to insult me. This was verified, as Bellarmine remarks, when the enemies of Jesus Christ blasphemed him as he was on the cross: Prætereuntes autem blasphemabant eum, moventes capita sua—And they that passed by blasphemed him, wagging their heads (Matt. xxvii. 39).

26. That is, as Menochius explains it: Let them know that all that I have suffered, I have suffered by Thy will, according to the words of Isaias: Propter scelus populi mei percussi eum—For the wickedness of my people have I struck him (Is. liii. 8).

27. "Maledicent illi." They will curse me. And thus St. Paul wrote: Christus nos redemit de maledicto legis, factus pro nobis maledictus—Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us (Gal. iii. 13). Du Hamel comments on the last words thus: Nostram ipse suscipiens maledictionem—Taking upon himself our curse. "Confundantur." May they remain confounded, and be converted, as St. Augustine understands it.

28. "Diploide." With a double cloak, that is, according to St. Augustine, both within and without.

Sunday at Lauds.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM XCII. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist exalts the power that God manifested in creating heaven and earth; and transporting himself in thought to the first moment of creation, he represents to himself God, who in some way proceeds from the mystery of his eternal existence, in order to reveal himself in the production of creatures.¹

1. DOMINUS regnavit, decorem indutus est: indutus est Dominus fortitudinem, et præcinxit se.

2. Etenim firmavit orbem terræ, qui non commovebitur.

3. Parata sedes tua ex tunc: a sæculo tu es.

4. Elevaverunt flumina Domine: elevaverunt flumina vocem suam.

5. Elevaverunt flumina fluctus suos, a vocibus aquarum multarum.

6. Mirabiles elationes maris, mirabilis in altis Dominus.

1. THE Lord hath reigned, he is clothed with beauty: the Lord is clothed with strength, and hath girded himself.

2. For he hath established the world, which shall not be moved.

3. Thy throne is prepared from of old: thou art from everlasting.

4. The floods have lifted up, O Lord: the floods have lifted up their voice.

5. The floods have lifted up their waves: with the noise of many waters.

6. Wonderful are the surges of the sea: wonderful is the Lord on high.

¹ Title of the psalm: Laus cantici ipsi David, in die ante Sabbatum, quando fundata est terra—Praise in the way of a canticle, for David himself, on the day before the Sabbath, when the earth was founded. By this we see that formerly this psalm was sung on the eve of the Sabbath, the day on which the work of creation was completed by the formation of man, whose dominion the earth was to be. On this same day the earth was renewed and restored by the Passion of our divine Saviour, to which mystery interpreters likewise apply this psalm; but the Church sings it at daybreak on Sunday, at Lauds, because if Jesus Christ redeemed the world by his Passion and death on the eve of the Sabbath, it was at the earliest dawn of Sunday that he took possession of his kingdom by his glorious resurrection: Dominus regnavit, etc. A song of triumph, which, placed at the beginning, characterizes perfectly the entire Office.

7. Testimonia tua credibilia facta sunt nimis : domum tuam decet sanctitudo Domine in longitudinem dierum.

7. Thy testimonies are become exceedingly credible : holiness becometh thy house, O Lord, unto length of days.

1. The Lord has established his kingdom over the whole universe ; he has clothed himself with majesty ; he has girt himself ready to govern the world and to fill it with his benefits.

3. Lord, thy throne or thy reign was established from all eternity, since Thou hast existed eternally before all creatures.

4, 5. The rivers seem to have raised their voice to praise Thee ; the sound of many waters has served them for voice to give Thee glory.

6. Marvellous are the heavings of the waves of the sea when agitated by the winds ; yet more marvellous¹ is the Lord, who from the height of heaven bridles the rage of the billows, and governs all things.

7. The tokens of Thy goodness and grandeur, which are proclaimed from Thy house, that is, from the Church, are but too clear and evident ; it is fitting then that this Thy house should by Thy divine Providence ever be kept holy and pure of all stain.

(For Psalm II., see Psalm XCIX, Jubilate Deo, page 286.)

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM LXII. OF THE PSALTER.

A prayer of David when he was in the desert, pursued by his enemies. He thanks God for his protection ; and it is in his mercy that he always wishes to hope.

1. DEUS, Deus meus, ad te de luce vigilo.

2. Sitivit in te anima mea, quam multipliciter tibi caro mea.

3. In terra deserta, et in via, et in aquosa : sic in sancto apparui tibi, ut viderem virtutem tuam, et gloriam tuam.

4. Quoniam melior est misericordia tua super vitas : labia mea laudabunt te.

1. O GOD, my God, to thee do I watch at break of day.

2. For thee my soul hath thirsted, for thee, my flesh, O how many ways !

3. In a desert-land, and where there is no way, and no water : so in the sanctuary have I come before thee to see thy power and thy glory.

4. For thy mercy is better than lives : thee my lips shall praise.

¹ We may remark that in the text the comparative is understood ; this renders the expression stronger and more suitable. The expression signifies that in regard to Him who is spoken of no comparison is possible.

5. Sic benedicam te in vita mea: et in nomine tuo levabo manus meas.

6. Sicut adipe et pinguedine repleatur anima mea: et labiis exultationis laudabit os meum.

7. Si memor fui tui super stratum meum, in matutinis meditabor in te: quia fuisti adjutor meus.

8. Et in velamento alarum tuarum exultabo, adhæsit anima mea post te: me suscepit dextera tua.

9. Ipsi vero in vanum quæsierunt animam meam, introibunt in inferiora terræ: tradentur in manus gladii, partes vulpium erunt.

10. Rex vero lætabitur in Deo, laudabuntur omnes qui jurant in eo: quia obstructum est os loquentium iniqua.

5. Thus will I bless thee all my life long: and in thy name I will lift up my hands.

6. Let my soul be filled as with marrow and fatness: and my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips.

7. If I have remembered thee upon my bed, I will meditate thee on the morning: because thou hast been my helper.

8. And I will rejoice under the covert of thy wings, my soul hath stuck close to thee: thy right hand hath received me.

9. But they have sought my soul in vain, they shall go into the lower parts of the earth:

They shall be delivered into the hands of the sword, they shall be the portions of foxes.

10. But the kings shall rejoice in God, all they shall be praised that swear by him: because the mouth is stopped of them that speak wicked things.

1. At break of day I wake from sleep and come to Thee.

2. My soul has so great thirst for Thee, that my body also feels the ardor.¹

4. "Labia mea laudabunt te." My lips shall always be employed in praising Thee.

5. Thus throughout my life I will do nought but bless Thee, and I will lift up my hands continually to invoke Thy name.

6. "Sicut adipe et pinguedine." As with an agreeable and nourishing fatness, that is, with the abundance of Thy grace and consolations.

7. If in the time of my repose, when in my bed, I was mindful of Thee, much more when day comes will I meditate upon Thy goodness in having thus protected me.

¹ Or else: My soul desires Thee ardently as its food and its drink, its light, and its joy. Even my body sighs after Thee on account of its numberless necessities and many miseries, which Thou only canst remedy.

1. "Illuminet vultum suum super nos." May God illuminate us by the splendors of his presence.

2. O Lord, let us know here on earth the way to please Thee, and cause that among all nations the Saviour, Thy Son, be known.

3. May all the nations thus enlightened confess that Thou art their God. May they praise and give Thee thanks.

5. May all the people praise Thee, O my God! and thank Thee for all Thy benefits; and especially because the earth, that is, the most pure womb of a Virgin, such as Mary, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, has brought forth the Fruit so greatly desired, the Saviour of the world. Wherefore, Jesus Christ was called by the angel the Blessed Fruit of Mary.¹

6. "Deus, Deus noster, . . . Deus." In this triple repetition of the name of God interpreters recognize a sufficiently clear indication of the Mystery of the Most Blessed Trinity.² "Metuant eum omnes fines terræ." May all men on earth, even to its farthest limits, fear and adore him.

CANTICLE OF THE THREE CHILDREN (Dan. iii. 57).

A hymn sung at Babylon by the three young Israelites, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias, while they were in the midst of the fiery furnace wherein King Nabuchodonozor had condemned them to die for having refused to adore his statue (Dan. iii. 57). This canticle, in which all creatures are invited to bless God, is very easy to understand. We therefore omit to explain it, because such an explanation instead of pleasing and instructing the reader would rather be wearisome to him.³

¹ "Dedit." The past instead of the future, according to the custom of the prophets. "Fructum suum." Its fruit by excellence beyond all comparison. See Psalm lxxxiv. 13; also the text of Isaias: Erit germen Domini in magnificentia et gloria, et Fructus terræ sublimis—The bud of the Lord shall be in magnificence, and glory, and the fruit of the earth shall be high (Is. iv. 2).

² "Benedicat nos Deus." That is: May the Lord fill us with every kind of good, but especially with spiritual and heavenly goods.

³ However, as the present work is not only an explanation, but also, according to its title, a translation (see the Dedication) for the use of persons who do not understand Latin, we have deemed it expedient to furnish also a translation of this admirable canticle. It is abridged from the one found in the prophet Daniel, which consists of thirty-eight verses. In it the three young martyrs, under the inspiration of the

1. BENEDICITE omnia opera Domini Domino: laudate et superexaltate eum in sæcula.

2. Benedicite Angeli Domini Domino: benedicite cœli Domino.

3. Benedicite aquæ omnes, quæ super cœlos sunt, Domino: benedicite omnes virtutes Domini Domino.

4. Benedicite sol, et luna Domino: benedicite stellæ cœli Domino.

5. Benedicite omnis imber, et ros Domino: benedicite omnes spiritus Dei Domino.

6. Benedicite ignis, et æstus Domino: benedicite frigus, et æstus Domino.

7. Benedicite rores, et pruina Domino: benedicite gelu, et frigus Domino.

8. Benedicite glacies, et nives Domino: benedicite noctes, et dies Domino.

9. Benedicite lux, et tenebræ Domino: benedicite fulgura, et nubes Domino.

10. Benedicat terra Dominum: laudet, et superexaltet eum in sæcula.

1. ALL ye works of the Lord, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all forever.

2. O ye Angels of the Lord, bless the Lord: O ye heavens, bless the Lord.

3. O all ye waters that are above the heavens, bless the Lord: O all ye powers of the Lord, bless the Lord.

4. O ye sun and moon, bless the Lord: O ye stars of heaven, bless the Lord.

5. O every shower and dew, bless ye the Lord: O all ye spirits of God, bless the Lord.

6. O ye fire and heat, bless the Lord: O ye cold and heat, bless the Lord.

7. O ye dews and hoar frost, bless the Lord: O ye frost and cold, bless the Lord.

8. O ye ice and snow, bless the Lord: O ye nights and days, bless the Lord.

9. O ye light and darkness, bless the Lord: O ye lightnings and clouds, bless the Lord.

10. O let the earth bless the Lord: let it praise and exalt him above all forever.

Holy Ghost, call first (v. 1) upon all creatures in general, animate and inanimate, to bless the Lord; then (verses 2 to 14) they address themselves to the several kinds of creatures in particular, beginning with the angels of heaven above and descending by degrees down to earth; then (verses 15-17) they encourage all the servants of God, and lastly (v. 18) their own selves, to praise him. The two last verses have been added by the Holy Church; but the last being formed from the verses 52 and 56 of Daniel.—Remarks: Verse 3. “Aquæ omnes quæ super cœlos sunt.” See next psalm, verse 4. “Virtutem Domini.” This expression is variously understood; it seems to denote the angelic hosts charged with executing the intimations of God’s will throughout the universe. See Psalm cii. v. 22, and next psalm, v. 2. Verse 5. “Spiritus Dei.” The winds. Verse 6. “Frigus est æstus.” Some understand hereby winter and summer.

11. Benedicite montes, et colles Domino: benedicite universa germinantia in terra Domino.

12. Benedicite fontes Domino: benedicite maria, et flumina Domino.

13. Benedicite cete, et omnia, quæ moventur in aquis, Domino: benedicite omnes volucres cœli Domino.

14. Benedicite omnes bestiæ, et pecora Domino: benedicite filii hominum Domino.

15. Benedicat Israel Dominum: laudet, et superexaltet eum in sæcula.

16. Benedicite sacerdotes Domini Domino benedicite: servi Domini Domino.

17. Benedicite spiritus, et animæ justorum Domino: benedicite sancti, et humiles corde Domino.

18. Benedicite Anania, Azaria, Misael Domino: laudate et superexaltate eum in sæcula.

19. Benedicamus Patrem, et Filium cum sancto Spiritu: laudemus et superexaltemus eum in sæcula.

20. Benedictus es Domine in firmamento cœli: et laudabilis, et gloriosus, et superexaltatus in sæcula.

11. O ye mountains and hills, bless the Lord: O all ye things that spring up in the earth, bless the Lord.

12. O ye fountains, bless the Lord: O ye seas and rivers, bless the Lord.

13. O ye whales, and all that move in the waters, bless the Lord: O all ye fowls of the air, bless the Lord.

14. O all ye beasts and cattle, bless the Lord: O ye sons of men, bless the Lord.

15. O let Israel bless the Lord: let them praise and exalt him above all forever.

16. O ye priests of the Lord, bless the Lord: O ye servants of the Lord, bless the Lord.

17. O ye spirits and souls of the just, bless the Lord: O ye holy and humble of heart, bless the Lord.

18. O Ananias, Azarias, and Misael, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all forever.

19. Let us praise the Father, and the Son, with the Holy Ghost: let us praise and exalt him above all forever.

20. Thou art praised in the sky of the heavens: and praiseworthy and glorious and exalted above all for ever.

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM CXLVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm, as well as in the two following, all creatures are called upon to praise and thank the Lord for the victory gained over the enemies of his holy name. In an allegorical sense all Christians are invited to bless God for the victory that he helped them to gain over the devil, the world, and the flesh; a victory so great that for it they will be honored by being appointed judges at the day of judgment.

I. LAUDATE Dominum de cœlis: laudate eum in excelsis.

I. PRAISE ye the Lord from the heavens: praise ye him in the high places.

c. 2, 3), St. John Chrysostom (In Genes. hom. 4), Bede (In Hexam.), etc., believe that these waters are above the firmament or starry heavens, and they cite for this opinion Genesis: Et fecit Deus firmamentum, divisitque aquas quæ erant sub firmamento, ab his quæ erant super firmamentum—And God made a firmament, and divided the waters that were under the firmament from those that were above the firmament (Gen. i. 7). And St. Augustine, who holds the same view, says: Major est Scripturæ hujus auctoritas, quam omnis humani ingenii capacitas—The authority of this Scripture is greater than all the capacity of the human mind (De Gen. ad litt. l. 2, c. 5, n. 9). This opinion is also followed by many modern interpreters cited by Tirinus. Others, in fine, such as Rupert, Lorinus, Mariana, etc., with the greatest number of modern commentators, understand by these waters the clouds that are suspended over the earth.¹

6. “Ea.” That is, the angels and the heavenly bodies.

7. “Dracones.” This is the name given by Scripture to sea-monsters. “Abyssi.” Abyesses, that is, deep waters.

8. “Spiritus procellarum.” These are violent winds.

10. “Serpentes.” Animals that crawl upon the earth. “Volucres pennatæ.” Birds that fly in the air.

12. “Exaltatum est nomen ejus solius.” God is raised above everything; it is to him alone all glory belongs.

13. Let then the praises of the Lord resound through heaven and earth, since he has willed to exalt by his power his faithful people, in giving them Jesus Christ, who has made his servants victorious over the devils.

14. Let praise be given at the same time to all his saints, and to all the true children of Israel who form the people that by their faith and virtue approach near to God.

¹ Bellarmine, who holds the second opinion with the holy Fathers, seems to us to refute in a solid way this last opinion; besides, we see that the psalm is divided into two parts, the first of which refers to the higher regions of the heavens. See, moreover, in the preceding canticle, verse 3, and in Psalm ciii., verse 3.

PSALM VI., WHICH IS PSALM CXLIX. OF THE PSALTER.

1. CANTATE Domino canticum novum: laus ejus in ecclesia Sanctorum.

2. Lætetur Israel in eo, qui fecit eum: et filii Sion exultent in rege suo.

3. Laudent nomen ejus in choro: in tympano et psalterio psallant ei.

4. Quia beneplacitum est Domino in populo suo: et exaltabit mansuetos in salutem.

5. Exultabunt sancti in gloria, lætabuntur in cubilibus suis.

6. Exaltationes Dei in gutture eorum: et gladii ancipites in manibus eorum:

7. Ad faciendam vindictam in nationibus: increpationes in populis.

8. Ad alligandos reges eorum in compedibus: et nobiles eorum in manicis ferreis.

9. Ut faciant in eis judicium conscriptum: gloria hæc est omnibus sanctis ejus.

1. SING ye to the Lord a new canticle: let his praise be in the church of the saints.

2. Let Israel rejoice in him that made him: and let the children of Sion be joyful in their king.

3. Let them praise his name in choir: let them sing to him with the timbrel and the psalter.

4. For the Lord is well pleased with his people: and he will exalt the meek unto salvation.

5. The saints shall rejoice in glory: they shall be joyful in their beds.

6. The high praises of God shall be in their mouth: and two-edged swords in their hands.

7. To execute vengeance upon the nations, chastisements among the people:

8. To bind their kings with fetters: and their nobles with manacles of iron.

9. To execute upon them the judgment that is written: this glory is to all his saints.

1. Sing to the Lord a new canticle for all the new benefits that he has bestowed upon us, and especially for having given us Jesus Christ for our Redeemer: it is just that in the assembly of the saints, that is, of Christians, the praises of the Lord should ever resound.

2. Let the children of the holy Church exult in their God who has created them, and who reigns in them by his grace.

4. "Exultabit mansuetos in salutem." He will exalt the meek by giving them eternal salvation.

5. "In gloria." In the glory of heaven, where they shall enjoy eternal gladness.

7. Wherewith to execute a just vengeance upon the nations who had persecuted them by reproaching them with their iniquities.¹

9. “Ut faciant in eos judicium conscriptum.” So they shall execute upon the persecutors the judgment spoken of in Holy Scripture. Judicabunt nationes, et dominabuntur populis—They shall judge nations, and rule over people (Wis. iii. 8).

PSALM VII., WHICH IS PSALM CL.² OF THE PSALTER.

1. LAUDATE Dominum in sanctis ejus: laudate eum in firmamento virtutis ejus.

2. Laudate eum in virtutibus ejus: laudate eum secundum multitudinem magnitudinis ejus.

3. Laudate eum in sono tubæ: laudate eum in psalterio, et cithara.

4. Laudate eum in tympano, et choro: laudate eum in chordis, et organo.

5. Laudate eum in cymbalis benesonantibus: laudate eum in cymbalis jubilationis: omnis spiritus laudet Dominum.

1. PRAISE ye the Lord in his holy places: praise ye him in the firmament of his power.

2. Praise ye him for his mighty acts: praise ye him according to the multitude of his greatness.

3. Praise him with sound of trumpet: praise him with psaltery and harp.

4. Praise him with timbrel and choir: praise him with strings and organs.

5. Praise him on high sounding cymbals: praise him on cymbals of joy: let every spirit praise the Lord.

1. “In sanctis ejus.” According to the Hebrew: In sanctuario ejus—In his sanctuary, which is principally heaven. “In firmamento virtutis ejus.” St. Jerome translates: In fortitudine potentiae ejus—In the strength of his power. The almighty power of God shines forth in a special manner in the firmament, or in the heavens, as is the meaning of the word Firmamentum given in the first chapter of Genesis.

2. “In virtutibus ejus.” In the effects of his power, or in the marvels that he works.

4. “Choro.” Some think that this expression means here some musical instrument, now unknown to us; others that it

¹ Reference is here made to the last judgment. We may remark a striking relation between the next verse and the words of our Lord: Ligatis manibus et pedibus ejus, mittite eum in tenebras exteriores—Bind his hands and feet, and cast him into the exterior darkness.

² This psalm is, as it were, the conclusion of the two preceding psalms and of the whole psalter.

12. Illuminare his, qui in tenebris, et in umbra mortis sedent: ad dirigendos pedes nostros in viam pacis.

12. To enlighten them that sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death: to direct our feet into the way of peace.

2. "Cornu salutis." The strength that saves, that is, the Saviour.

8. "In sanctitate et justitia coram ipso." That is to say: Not merely with external worship, but also with piety and interior justice, which renders us likewise interiorly just in the sight of God.

9. Thou shalt be the prophet of the Lord; for before he manifests himself on earth, thou shalt go forth to prepare souls to follow his teaching.

11. "Per viscera misericordiæ." That is: Through the immense and tender pity. "Oriens." The word Oriens is not the participle of the verb Orior, but according to the Hebrew and the Greek text, is a noun substantive, which, as explained by St. Jerome, St. Cyril, and others cited by Tirinus in his comments on Zachary, iii. 8, denotes the eternal Word begotten by God. Hence the following is the antiphon which the Church sings on the 21st of December in addressing our divine Saviour: O Oriens, Splendor lucis æternæ, et Sol justitiæ! veni, et illumina sedentes in tenebris et umbra mortis—O Orient, Splendor of eternal light, and Sun of justice, come and enlighten those who sit in darkness and the shadow of death.

12. "Qui in tenebris et in umbra mortis sedent." That is: Those that are deprived of the grace of God, a privation which is the shadow of the eternal death. "In viam pacis." In the path that conducts to eternal beatitude.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM L. OF THE PSALTER.

David, contrite and humbled, bewails his sins.¹—In this psalm is perfectly expressed the sorrow that a sinner feels when repenting of his faults he humbly asks God's pardon. It is the fourth penitential psalm.

1. MISERERE mei Deus, secundum magnam misericordiam tuam.

2. Et secundum multitudinem miserationum tuarum, dele iniquitatem meam.

3. Amplius lava me ab iniquitate mea: et a peccato meo munda me.

4. Quoniam iniquitatem meam ego cognosco: et peccatum meum contra me est semper.

5. Tibi soli peccavi, et malum coram te feci: ut justificeris in sermonibus tuis, et vincas cum judicaris.

6. Ecce enim in iniquitatibus conceptus sum: et in peccatis concepit me mater mea.

7. Ecce enim veritatem dilexisti: incerta et occulta sapientiæ tuæ manifestasti mihi.

8. Asperges me hyssopo, et mundabor: lavabis me, et super uivem dealabor.

1. HAVE mercy on me, O God, according to thy great mercy.

2. And according to the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my iniquity.

3. Wash me yet more from my iniquity: and cleanse me from my sin.

4. For I know my iniquity: and my sin is always before me.

5. To thee only have I sinned, and have done evil before thee: that thou mayst be justified in thy words, and mayst overcome when thou art judged.

6. For behold I was conceived in iniquities: and in sins did my mother conceive me.

7. For behold thou hast loved truth: the uncertain and hidden things of thy wisdom thou hast made manifest to me.

8. Thou shalt sprinkle me with hyssop, and I shall be cleansed: thou shalt wash me, and I shall be made whiter than snow.

¹ Title of the psalm: Psalmus David, cum venit ad eum Nathan propheta, quando intravit ad Bethsabee—Psalm of David when Nathan came to him, after he had sinned with Bethsabee (2 Kings, xii.).

9. Auditui meo dabis gaudium et lætitiā: et exultabunt ossa humiliata.

10. Averte faciem tuam a peccatis meis, et omnes iniquitates meas dele.

11. Cor mundum crea in me Deus: et spiritum rectum innova in visceribus meis.

12. Ne projicias me a facie tua: et spiritum sanctum tuum ne auferas a me.

13. Redde mihi lætitiā salutaris tui: et spiritu principali confirma me.

14. Docebo iniquos vias tuas: et impii ad te convertentur.

15. Libera me de sanguinibus Deus, Deus salutis meæ: et exultabit lingua mea justitiam tuam.

16. Domine, labia mea aperies: et os meum annuntiabit laudem tuam.

17. Quoniam si voluisses sacrificium, dedissem utique: holocaustis non delectaberis.

18. Sacrificium Deo spiritus contribulatus: cor contritum, et humiliatum Deus non despicias.

19. Benigne fac Domine in bona voluntate tua Sion: ut ædificentur muri Jerusalem.

20. Tunc acceptabis sacrificium justitiæ, oblationes, et holocausta: tunc imponent super altare tuum vitulos.

1. Show to me great mercy because I am a great sinner.

2. "Dele iniquitatem meam." Blot out from my soul all my sins.

4. I well know the enormity of my sin, which is continually before my eyes, reproaching me with the evil that I have done.

9. To my hearing thou shalt give joy and gladness: and the bones that have been humbled shall rejoice.

10. Turn away thy face from my sins: and blot out all my iniquities.

11. Create a clean heart in me, O God: and renew a right spirit within my bowels.

12. Cast me not away from thy face: and take not thy holy spirit from me.

13. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation: and strengthen me with a perfect spirit.

14. I will teach the unjust thy ways: and the wicked shall be converted to thee.

15. Deliver me from blood, O God, thou God of my salvation: and my tongue shall extol thy justice.

16. O Lord, thou wilt open my lips: and my mouth shall declare thy praise.

17. For if thou hadst desired sacrifice, I would indeed have given it: with burnt-offerings thou wilt not be delighted.

18. A sacrifice to God is an afflicted spirit: a contrite and humble heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.

19. Deal favorably, O Lord, in thy good-will with Sion: that the walls of Jerusalem may be built up.

20. Then shalt thou accept the sacrifice of justice, oblations, and whole burnt-offerings: then shall they lay calves upon thy altar.

sage thus: I was guilty from my birth. But this interpretation seems to favor the opinion of Socinus, who denied original sin, and denied that it was contracted from the moment of conception; whereas this text proves perhaps more clearly than any other that all men are conceived in original sin.

7. Thou lovest the truth, and him also who confesses his fault: I confess my ingratitude, inasmuch as Thou hast favored me by making known to me the secrets of Thy wisdom, secrets uncertain and hidden to others.

8. Reference is here made to the sprinkling of the blood of the victims, which was made over the lepers with hyssop to purify them (Levit. xiv. 6). That is to say: Cleanse me, O Lord! ever⁴ more and more.¹

9. In making me hear that Thou hast pardoned me, Thou wilt give to my soul a joy and gladness so great that my very bones, that is, all my interior powers, which have been so greatly afflicted, shall leap for joy.

10. My God, turn, then, Thy face from my sins, that is, look no longer upon them; and blot out from my soul all my faults, which gave Thee horror.

11. Change my heart, and give me a pure heart, that loves none but Thee: and renew within my bowels, that is, my interior, that right spirit which I had lost by sin.

13. Restore to me the joy of the salvation which Thou hast given me, and confirm me in good by means of a principal spirit, that is, one that is strong, inspired by Thee.

14. I promise Thee, on account of the scandal that I have given, to instruct sinners in Thy law, and I hope that they will be converted to Thee.

15. "Sanguinibus." Rotigni and Lallemand give to this word a sense that is very probable, by explaining it to refer to the remorse of conscience with which David was afflicted on account of the blood of Urias.²—" Justitiam tuam." Bellarmine

¹ We also find in this verse reference to another purification wrought by the sprinkling of water which was mixed with the ashes of the victim offered for sin (Num. xix. 9); this is regarded as a figure of baptism. See Bellarmine.

² "Sanguinibus." The plural instead of the singular, a Hebraism, to denote the abundance of the blood shed, and the enormity of the crime. Besides Urias, David had caused a considerable number of his says that the pardon of sin is mercy with respect to us; but that it is justice with regard to Jesus Christ who, by his death, has merited for us pardon; and this is the divine justice of which David meant to speak.

17. If to satisfy for my sins Thou hadst required of me sacrifices, I would willingly have offered them to Thee; but I well know that with holocausts Thou art not satisfied.

18. The sacrifice that is pleasing to Thee, O my God! is a soul afflicted on account of its sin; when a heart is contrite and humbled Thou knowest not how to despise it.

19. That is: If I do not deserve to be heard, look, O Lord! with a gracious eye upon Thy city Sion, and according to Thy good-will, that is, in accordance with the purpose of Thy good pleasure, which Thou hadst in choosing it as Thy dwelling-place, show to it Thy favor, so that the walls of Jerusalem, now fallen in ruins, may be rebuilt.

20. Then wilt Thou accept with joy my sacrifices of justice, that is, as Bellarmine understands it, my homage justly due to Thee, and all my offerings and holocausts; and many, after my example, will offer to Thee upon Thy altar, calves, that is, choice victims, amongst which the calf was the noblest.¹

bravest soldiers to be destroyed (2 Kings, ix. 17). In praying to God to deliver us from remorse, we should ask him not to take away the remembrance of our faults, but in his goodness to deign to repair the evil that we have done, and even to change it into good, as happened to the royal penitent.

¹ The last two verses apply very well to the spiritual Jerusalem in which the true sacrifice of justice was to be offered, which alone could fully satisfy divine justice, and of which the ancient sacrifices were a figure.

One cannot meditate too much on this psalm, which is an admirable and a salutary prayer, filled with light and unction, and which one never grows weary in repeating. We remark at least the motives invoked by the prophet to touch the heart of God and to obtain his grace, a grace that is perfect, that is, the remission of his sins, v. 2; a pure heart and a light spirit, v. 3, 8, 10, 11, with a holy joy, companion of innocence, v. 9, 13; and the gift of perseverance, v. 12, 13; the first motive, the divine mercy and goodness, v. 1. 2; the second, the knowledge that he had of his sad state, and the sorrow that he felt, v. 4; the third, his avowal and the promise of pardon, v. 5; the PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM V. OF THE PSALTER.

The just man may here understand perfectly how he should conduct himself in adversities and then be consoled by confiding in God. At the end, the psalm shows us the happiness of heaven as a reward promised to souls that suffer patiently here below.

1. VERBA mea auribus percipe Domine, intellige clamorem meum.

2. Intende voci orationis meæ: Rex meus, et Deus meus.

3. Quoniam ad te oraho: Domine, mane exaudies vocem meam.

4. Mane astabo tibi, et videbo: quoniam non Deus volens iniquitatem tu es.

5. Neque habitabit juxta te malignus: neque permanebunt injusti ante oculos tuos.

6. Odisti omnes, qui operantur iniquitatem: perdes omnes, qui loquuntur mendacium.

7. Virum sanguinum et dolosum abominabitur Dominus: ego autem in multitudine misericordiæ tuæ.

8. Introibo in domum tuam: adorabo ad templum sanctum tuum in timore tuo.

9. Domine deduc me in justitia tua: propter inimicos meos dirige in conspectu tuo viam meam.

10. Quoniam non est in ore eorum veritas: cor eorum vanum est.

1. GIVE ear, O Lord, to my words: understand my cry.

2. Hearken to the voice of my prayer, O my King and my God.

3. For to thee will I pray: O Lord in the morning thou shalt hear my voice.

4. In the morning I will stand before thee, and will see: that thou art not a God that willest iniquity.

5. Neither shall the wicked dwell near thee: nor shall the unjust abide before thy eyes.

6. Thou hatest all the workers of iniquity: thou wilt destroy all that speak a lie.

7. The bloody and the deceitful man the Lord will abhor:

8. But as for me in the multitude of thy mercy I will come into thy house: I will worship towards thy holy temple in thy fear.

9. Conduct me, O Lord, in thy justice: because of my enemies, direct my way in thy sight.

10. For there is no truth in their mouth: their heart is vain.

CANTICLE OF THE PROPHET ISAIAS (Ch. XII.).

Isaias, after having prophesied the coming of the Messias, the call of the Gentiles, the end of the captivity, and the return of the Jews to the Land of Promise, composed this canticle that it might be chanted by the people in thanksgiving to the Lord. (Is. xii.)—The Church appoints it to be sung as a thanksgiving to Jesus Christ for having given us the law of grace and for having by this signal benefit delivered us from the slavery of the devil.

1. CONFITEBOR tibi Domine, quoniam iratus es mihi: conversus est furor tuus, et consolatus es me.

2. Ecce Deus salvator meus, fiducialiter agam, et non timebo.

3. Quia fortitudo mea, et laus mea Dominus, et factus est mihi in salutem.

4. Haurietis aquas in gaudio de fontibus Salvatoris: et dicetis in illa die: Confitemini Domino, et invocate nomen ejus.

5. Notas facite in populis ad-inventiones ejus: mementote quoniam excelsum est nomen ejus.

6. Cantate Domino, quoniam magnifice fecit; annuntiate hoc in universa terra.

7. Exulta, et lauda habitatio Sion: quia magnus in medio tui sanctus Israel.

1. I WILL give thanks to thee, O Lord, for thou wast angry with me: thy wrath is turned away, and thou hast comforted me.

2. Behold, God is my saviour, I will deal confidently, and will not fear:

3. Because the Lord is my strength, and my praise, and he is become my salvation.

4. You shall draw waters with joy out of the saviour's fountains: and you shall say in that day: Praise ye the Lord, and call upon his name:

5. Make his works known among the people: remember that his name is high.

6. Sing ye to the Lord, for he hath done great things: show this forth in all the earth.

7. Rejoice, and praise, O thou habitation of Sion: for great is he that is in the midst of thee, the holy One of Israel.

1. I will ever thank Thee, because after being justly angry with me for my sins, Thy wrath is turned to clemency, and has consoled me.

2, 3. My God has come himself to save me; I shall then live henceforward in confidence and without fear; for the Lord will be my strength and the object of my praise, since he has willed to become my Saviour.

4, 5. The prophet here addresses his words to the faithful, and says to them: You will draw with joy from the very fountains of the Saviour the waters ¹ of salvation; that is, according to St. Cyril and St. Jerome, his holy doctrine; or, according to St. Ambrose and Origen, the sacraments; or, according to St. Bernard, the gifts of the Holy Ghost. And in that day you will say one to another: Give praise to the Lord, and invoke his name; make known to the people the inventions ² of his love, and remember always to praise him, for his name is exceedingly great, even high above all praise.

6. "Quoniam magnifice fecit." For the magnificence that he has wrought in making us pass from death to life.

7. "Habitatio Sion." The assembly of the faithful, the holy Church.—"Magnus in medio tui, Sanctus Israel." That is: Emmanuel, the expected of Israel, is in the midst of thee, to enrich thee with his graces.

¹ Our divine Saviour himself employed this figure of the water when speaking of the spiritual goods that he brought into the world (John, iv. 13; vii. 38). And he has chosen water as the matter of the sacrament of baptism. Moreover, St. Paul says that the rock from which Moses made water flow represented Jesus Christ (1 Cor. x. 4).

² "Adinventiones ejus." The marvels of mercy and goodness which he invented and wrought for our sanctification and our salvation, as is said in the following verse: "Magnifice fecit."

Psalm Miserere mei Deus of Monday at Lauds.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XLII. OF THE PSALTER.

David begs of God to be delivered from his enemies, and consoles himself with the hope of again seeing the Tabernacle of the Lord. In the spiritual sense this psalm applies to the just man who in the trials of the present life longs to leave this world, and to go to his heavenly country.¹

1. JUDICA me, Deus, et discerne causam meam de gente non sancta, ab homine iniquo et doloso erue me.

2. Quia tu es Deus fortitudo mea: quare me repulisti? et quare tristis incedo, dum affligit me inimicus?

3. Emitte lucem tuam et veritatem tuam: ipsa me deduxerunt, et adduxerunt in montem sanctum tuum, et in tabernacula tua.

4. Et introibo ad altare Dei: ad Deum, qui lætificat juventutem meam.

5. Confitebor tibi in cithara Deus Deus meus: quare tristis es anima mea? et quare conturbas me?

6. Spera in Deo, quoniam adhuc confitebor illi: salutare vultus mei, et Deus meus.

1. JUDGE me, O God, and distinguish my cause from the nation that is not holy, deliver me from the unjust and deceitful man.

2. For thou art God my strength: why hast thou cast me off? and why do I go sorrowful whilst the enemy afflicteth me?

3. Send forth thy light and thy truth: they have conducted me, and brought me unto thy holy hill, and into thy tabernacles.

4. And I will go to the altar of God: to God who giveth joy to my youth.

5. To thee, O God my God, I will give praise upon the harp: Why art thou sad, O my soul, and why dost thou disquiet me?

6. Hope in God, for I will still give praise to him: the salvation of my countenance and my God.

1. "De gente non sancta." Against the wicked who persecute me.

2. "Quare me repulisti?" Why dost Thou seem to have cast me off?

3. Send forth Thy light, and make me enjoy Thy promises;

3. Non aspiciam hominem ultra, et habitatorem quietis.

4. Generatio mea ablata est, et convoluta est a me, quasi tabernaculum pastorum:

5. Præcisa est velut a te-xeute, vita mea: dum adhuc ordier, succidit me: de mane usque ad vesperam finies me.

6. Sperabam usque ad mane, quasi leo sic contrivit omnia ossa mea:

7. De mane usque ad vesperam finies me: sicut pullus hirundinis sic clamabo, meditabor ut columba.

8. Attenuati sunt oculi mei, suspicientes in excelsum.

9. Domine vim patior, responde pro me. Quid dicam, aut quid respondebit mihi, cum ipse fecerit?

10. Recogitabo tibi omnes annos meos in amaritudine animæ meæ.

11. Domine si sic vivitur, et in talibus vita spiritus mei, corripies me, et vivificabis me. Ecce in pace amaritudo mea amarissima.

12. Tu autem eruisti animam meam ut non periret, projecisti post tergum tuum omnia peccata mea.

13. Quia non infernus confitebitur tibi, neque mors laudabit te: non expectabunt qui descendunt in lacum veritatem tuam.

14. Vivens vivens ipse confitebitur tibi, sicut et ego hodie: pater filiis notam faciet veritatem tuam.

3. I shall behold man no more, nor the inhabitant of rest.

4. My generation is at an end, and it is rolled away from me, as a shepherd's tent.

5. My life is cut off, as by a weaver: whilst I was but yet beginning, he cut me off: from morning even to night thou wilt make an end of me.

6. I hoped till morning, as a lion so hath he broken all my bones.

7. From morning even to night wilt thou make an end of me. I will cry like a young swallow, I will meditate like a dove.

8. My eyes are weakened looking upward.

9. Lord, I suffer violence, answer thou for me. What shall I say, or what shall he answer for me, whereas he himself hath done it?

10. I will recount to thee all my years in the bitterness of my soul.

11. O Lord, if man's life be such, and the life of my spirit be in such things as these, thou shalt correct me, and make me to live. Behold in peace is my bitterness most bitter.

12. But thou hast delivered my soul that it should not perish, thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back.

13. For hell shall not confess to thee, neither shall death praise thee: nor shall they that go down into the pit, look for thy truth.

14. The living, the living, he shall give praise to thee, as I do this day: the father shall make thy truth known to the children.

15. Domine salvum me fac, et psalmos nostros cantabimus cunctis diebus vitæ nostræ in domo Domini.

15. O Lord, save me, and we will sing our psalms all the days of our life in the house of the Lord.

1. I said: In the middle of my life's course¹ I shall enter the tomb.

2. I set myself to consider the rest of the years which I might have lived, and I said: So here on earth I shall not any more have the joy of going to the temple, there to visit and to adore my Lord and my God.

3. I shall see no more the inhabitants of my kingdom, who now live in peace.

4. Behold I remain deprived of all posterity, and my family will be destroyed, as is the wont to destroy a shed of shepherds. Such is the explanation of St. Jerome, St. Thomas, and others.²

5. My life is being cut off like a web that is cut off by the weaver; I was still weaving it when the Lord cut it off; thus, my God, from morning till evening, Thou wilt make an end of me, that is, within the space of one day Thou wilt bring my life to a close.

6. I hoped to live until the morning of the second day; but the violence of the disease, like a lion, has broken all my bones, that is, has taken away all my strength.

7. My state is such that I cannot now last to see the evening. Like a little callow swallow that is in the nest, without feathers, suffering from cold and hunger, I cry out and beg for pity; and like a plaintive dove, so do I meditate upon my miseries, and implore for help by my moanings.

9. O Lord! I am oppressed by evil; do Thou answer for me.³

¹ Ezechias was then thirty-nine years old (4 Kings, xviii. 2; xx. 6).

² As Ezechias had as yet no child, it grieved him to think that the promised Messiah would not be in his line. However, according to the Hebrew the word Generatio means here: Vita, ætas, tempus vitæ—Life, age, time of life; hence the words are more commonly interpreted: My life has been taken away.

³ That is: Give security for me by undertaking my defence, and by protecting me from the evil that oppresses me like a tyrant.—After these complaints the sick man opens his eyes, and recognizes the hand of God justly striking him; then he humbles himself, confessing his faults, and the Lord with the pardon restores to him his health by prolonging his life for fifteen years.

But what is it that I ask for, or what will the Lord reply to me since it is he himself who has done it, that is, it is he that has reduced me to the state in which I am?

10. This being so, I will go over in thought all my past years, in bitterness of soul for the sins that I have committed.

11. If this be man's life, that is, a life of sin, and if thus my life has been passed, punish me, and thus preserve my life. Behold, in the time even of my great bitterness I have regained peace.

12. But Thou, O my God! hast delivered me from death; and in order to deliver me therefrom, Thou hast cast all my sins behind Thy back, no more to behold them.

13. He that is dead in the tomb can no longer praise Thee, nor can he hope to see the fulfilment of Thy promises.

14. Only the living sing Thy praises, as I am doing this day; and so fathers shall recount to their children Thy fidelity to the promises which Thou hast made to them.

15. Save me, and so I shall celebrate Thy glories in Thy temple all the days of my life.

Bellarmino (Ps. vi. 5) thinks, with St. Jerome and other Fathers, that Ezechias speaks here of eternal death and hell, as the preceding verse Eruisti animam, etc., would seem to indicate.—The just soul, he adds, after the death of its body, is always alive and continues to praise God; and even without its body, in the tomb, it awaits the truth of God, who has promised to resuscitate it. We may see similar passages in the psalm v. 5; lxxxvii. 11–13; cxiii. 26, 27.—As we recite this canticle in the Office of the dead, it is then proper to apply it to the souls of the dead in the sense given by the holy Fathers; hence the House of the Lord, v. 15, can only be heaven.

Thursday at Lauds.

The psalm Miserere mei Deus as on Monday at Lauds.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM LXXXIX. OF THE PSALTER.

According to St. Jerome, it is Moses who in this psalm¹ represents to God the brevity and the miseries of human life, and prays to him to have pity on his people. Other interpreters, however, apply it to the Jews who are captives at Babylon and implore help from God.

1. DOMINE, refugium factus es nobis: a generatione in generationem.

2. Priusquam montes, fierent, aut formaretur terra, et orbis: a sæculo et usque in sæculum tu es Deus.

3. Ne avertas hominem in humilitatem: et dixisti: Convertimini filii hominum.

4. Quoniam mille anni ante oculos tuos, tamquam dies hesterna, quæ, præteriit:

5. Et custodia in nocte, quæ pro nihilo habentur, eorum anni erunt.

6. Mane sicut herba transeat, mane floreat, et transeat: vespere decidat, induret, et arescat.

7. Quia defecimus in ira tua, et in furore tuo turbati sumus.

8. Posuisti iniquitates nostras in conspectu tuo: sæculum nostrum in illuminatione vultus tui.

1. LORD, thou hast been our refuge: from generation to generation.

2. Before the mountains were made, or the earth and the world was formed: from eternity to eternity thou art God.

3. Turn not man away to be brought low: and thou hast said: Be converted, O ye sons of men.

4. For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday, which is past and gone.

5. And as a watch in the night, as things that are counted nothing, so shall their years be.

6. In the morning man shall grow up like grass, in the morning he shall flourish and pass away: in the evening he shall fall, grow dry and wither.

7. For in thy wrath we are quickly consumed: and are troubled in thy indignation.

8. Thou hast set our iniquities before thy eyes: our life in the light of thy countenance.

¹ “ According to its title: Oratio Moysi, hominis Dei—A prayer for Moses, the man of God. Many with St. Athanasius (Ep. ad Marcell.) and St. Jerome (Ep. ad Cypr.) think that these words are to be understood literally, and consequently that Moses is the author of the psalm. Bellarmine combats this opinion. Bossuet defends it.

9. Quoniam omnes dies nostri defecerunt: et in ira tua defecimus.

10. Anni nostri sicut aranea meditabuntur: dies annorum nostrorum in ipsis, septuaginta anni.

11. Si autem in potentatibus, octoginta anni: et amplius eorum, labor et dolor.

12. Quoniam supervenit mansuetudo: et corripiemur.

13. Quis novit potestatem iræ tuæ, et præ timore tuo iram tuam dinumerare?

14. Dexteram tuam sic notam fac, et eruditos corde in sapientia.

15. Convertere Domine usquequo? et deprecabilis esto super servos tuos.

16. Repleti sumus mane misericordia tua: et exultavimus, et delectati sumus omnibus diebus nostris.

17. Lætati sumus pro diebus, quibus nos humiliasti: annis, quibus vidimus mala.

18. Respice in servos tuos, et in opera tua: et dirige filios eorum.

19. Et sit splendor Domini Dei nostri super nos, et opera manuum nostrarum dirige super nos: et opus manuum nostrarum dirige.

9. For all our days are spent: and in thy wrath we we have fainted away.

10. Our years shall be considered as a spider: the days of our years in them are threescore and ten years.

11. But if in the strong they be fourscore years: and what is more of them is labor and sorrow.

12. For mildness is come upon us, and we shall be corrected.

13. Who knoweth the power of thy anger, and for thy fear thy wrath can number?

14. So make thy right hand known: and make us learned in heart in wisdom.

15. Return, O Lord, how long? and be entreated in favor of thy servants.

16. We are filled in the morning with thy mercy: and we have rejoiced, and are delighted all our days.

17. We have rejoiced for the days in which thou hast humbled us: for the years in which we have seen evils.

18. Look upon thy servants and upon their works: and direct their children.

19. And let the brightness of the Lord our God be upon us, and direct thou the works of our hands over us: yea the work of our hands do Thou direct.

1. Thou hast been at all times our refuge, and Thou wilt be so to the end.

2. Thou hast ever been and wilt ever be the God that Thou art.¹

¹ “Deus.” Bellarmine thinks that this word is in the vocative case, which gives it more energy and expression; he notes also the force of

3. Some explain this verse thus: Do not Thou suffer that men should turn their back upon Thee to give themselves up to worthless creatures; for Thou hast said to them: O men! turn ye unto me, and I will make you feel the effects of my mercy. But others, as Maldonatus, Bossuet, Mattei, etc., follow the Hebrew text, which says: Convertis hominem in pulverem, or, according to St. Jerome: Convertes hominem usque ad contritionem, et dices: Convertimini, or Revertimini, filii Adam; and they explain the verse thus: Thou, O Lord, art eternal; but Thou hast ordained that all men should one day return to the dust out of which they are formed. This explanation is founded on the Hebrew text; but the former, which follows the Vulgate, appears more simple and natural.

4. Even if we were to live a thousand years, what more would these be in Thy sight, that is, compared with Thy eternity, than as yesterday which is already past? Such is the explanation that the learned commonly give, as Malvenda thus attests: Omnes fere.

5. All these thousand years are no more than one of the four watches into which the night is divided, and which are counted as nothing; what then do all the years of men count when compared with eternity?

6. St. Jerome translates: Mane floruit et abiit; ad vesperam conteretur atque siccabitur—The life of man is like a blade of grass that soon passes; in the morning it flourishes and in the evening it falls, withers, and dries up.

7. Such is our lot, because by our sins we have provoked Thy wrath; we have become mortal, and we are afflicted by the horror and the fear of death on account of Thy just anger. So it is explained by Bellarmine and many others.

8. When God wills to punish the sinner, he keeps his eyes fixed on his faults; when, on the contrary, he wills to show him mercy, he turns away his eyes in order not to see them: Avertit faciem. It is for this reason that David says in Psalm 1.: Avertit faciem tuam a peccatis meis—Turn away Thy face from my sins. “In illuminatione vultus tui.” Thou exposest the present tense: “Tu es” as showing the eternity of God, without past or future.

Thou show Thyself in anger? Suffer Thyself to be moved by the prayers of Thy servants.

16.¹ And thus we shall at once see ourselves filled with Thy mercy; we shall exult with joy and we shall be glad all the days of our life.

18. “In servos tuos et in opera tua.” That is, according to Menochius and Tirinus: Upon Thy servants, who are the work of Thy hands—“Et dirige filios eorum.” Look graciously upon their children, and direct them in the way of salvation.

19. May the grace of our Lord shine upon us: direct in us our actions and all that we do.

(The psalms Deus, Deus meus, and Deus misereatur, as on Sunday at Lands.)

CANTICLE OF MOSES (Exodus xv.).

Moses composed this canticle that the people might chant it in thanksgiving for the miraculous passage of the Red Sea. He predicts in it the conquest by the Israelites of the promised land through the defeat of their enemies.²

1. CANTEMUS Domino: gloriose enim magnificatus est, equum et ascensorem dejecit in mare.

1. LET us sing to the Lord: for he is gloriously magnified, the horse and the rider he hath thrown into the sea.

2. Fortitudo mea, et laus

2. The Lord is my strength

¹ This verse and the following may be extended to the past tense, as we find them in the Vulgate; but in the beginning we must supply these words: Make that we may be able to say: We have been, etc.—The translation of St. Jerome is clearer: Imple nos matutina misericordia tua, et laudabimus et lætabimur in cunctis diebus nostris. Lætifica nos pro diebus quibus afflixisti nos, et annis in quibus vidimus mala—Fill us in the morning with Thy mercy, and we shall give praise and rejoice all our days. Gladden us for the days wherein Thou hast afflicted us, and for the years in which we have seen evils.

² The faithful soul, while reciting this admirable canticle, will think of baptism, which delivered it from the yoke of Satan, and of the heavenly country, where it hopes to arrive, God conducting it, in order to repeat there eternally this same song of praise and thanksgiving that St. John (Apoc. xv. 3) says that he heard. There is no doubt that it was composed in verse; but we are ignorant of the ancient rhythm of Hebrew poetry. This truly divine poem is the most ancient of all that exist in any language.

mea Dominus, et factus est mihi in salutem :

3. Iste Deus meus, et glorificabo eum : Deus patris mei, et exaltabo eum.

4. Dominus quasi vir pugnator, omnipotens nomen ejus. Currus Pharaonis et exercitum ejus projecit in mare :

5. Electi principes ejus submersi sunt in mari Rubro. Abyssi operuerunt eos, descenderunt in profundum quasi lapis.

6. Dexterata tua Domine magnificata est in fortitudine : dextera tua, Domine, percussit inimicum. Et in multitudine gloriæ tuæ deposuisti adversarios tuos :

7. Misisti iram tuam, quæ devoravit eos sicut stipulam. Et in spiritu furoris tui congregatæ sunt aquæ :

8. Stetit unda fluens, congregatæ sunt abyssus in medio mari.

9. Dixit inimicus : Persequar et comprehendam, dividam spolia, implebitur anima mea :

10. Evaginabo gladium meum, interficiet eos manus mea.

11. Flavuit spiritus tuus, et operuit eos mare : submersi sunt quasi plumbum in aquis vehementibus.

12. Quis similis tui in fortibus Domine ? quis similis tui, magnificus in sanctitate, terribilis atque laudabilis, faciens mirabilia ?

13. Extendisti manum tuam, et devoravit eos terra. Dux fuisti in misericordia tua populo quem redemisti :

14. Et portasti eum in forti-and my praise, and he is become salvation to me.

3. He is my God, and I will glorify him : the God of my father, and I will exalt him.

4. The Lord is as a man of war, Almighty is his name. Pharaoh's chariots and his army he hath cast into the sea.

5. His chosen captains are drowned in the Red Sea. The depths have covered them, they are sunk to the bottom like a stone.

6. Thy right hand, O Lord, is magnified in strength : thy right hand, O Lord, hath slain the enemy. And in the multitude of thy glory thou hast put down thy adversaries.

7. Thou hast sent thy wrath, which hath devoured them like stubble. And with the blast of thy anger the waters were gathered together.

8. The flowing water stood, the depths were gathered together in the midst of the sea.

9. The enemy said : I will pursue and overtake, I will divide the spoils, my soul shall have its fill.

10. I will draw my sword, my hand shall slay them.

11. Thy wind blew and the sea covered them : they sunk as lead in the mighty waters.

12. Who is like to thee, among the strong, O Lord ? who is like to thee, glorious in holiness, terrible and praiseworthy, doing wonders ?

13. Thou stretchedst forth thy hand, and the earth swallowed them. In thy mercy thou hast been a leader to the people which thou hast redeemed.

14. And in thy strength thou tudine tua, ad habitaculum sanctum tuum.

15. Ascenderunt populi, et irati sunt: dolores obtinuerunt habitatores Philisthiim.

16. Tunc conturbati sunt principes Edom, robustos Moab obtinuit tremor: obriguerunt omnes habitatores Chanaan.

17. Irruat super eos formido et pavor, in magnitudine brachii tui:

18. Fiant immobiles quasi lapis, donec pertranseat populus tuus Domine, donec pertranseat populus tuus iste, quem possedisti.

19. Introduces eos, et plantabis in monte hereditatis tuæ, firmissimo habitaculo tuo, quod operatus es Domine:

20. Sanctuarium tuum Domine, quod firmaverunt manus tuæ. Dominus regnabit in æternum, et ultra.

21. Ingressus est enim eques Pharao cum curribus et equitibus ejus in mare: et reduxit super eos Dominus aquas maris.

22. Filii autem Israel ambulaverunt per siccum in medio ejus.

hast carried them to thy holy habitation.

15. Nations rose up, and were angry: sorrows took hold on the inhabitants of Philisthiim.

16. Then were the princes of Edom troubled, trembling seized on the stout men of Moab: all the inhabitants of Chanaan became stiff.

17. Let fear and dread fall upon them, in the greatness of thy arm:

18. Let them become unmoveable as a stone, until thy people, O Lord, pass by: until this thy people pass by, which thou hast possessed.

19. Thou shalt bring them in, and plant them in the mountain of thy inheritance, in thy most firm habitation which thou hast made, O Lord:

20. Thy sanctuary, O Lord, which thy hands have established. The Lord shall reign forever and ever.

21. For Pharao went in on horseback with his chariots and horsemen into the sea:

22. And the children of Israel walked on dry ground in the midst thereof.

1. "Æquum et ascensorem." The horses and riders who pursued us.¹

2. The Lord is our strength and the object of our praise; he has made himself our Saviour.²

3. He is my God, the God of our father Abraham; I will always proclaim his glory.

¹ "Ascensorem." Pharao, and with him his whole army, as we see in verses 4 to 21.

² "Et factus est." That is, according to Cornelius: Nam, or Quia factus est.

19. Thou wilt bring in this Thy people, and wilt establish¹ them on Mount Sion, which Thou hast chosen for Thy inheritance and for Thy fixed abode, having prepared it in order to found there Thy temple.

20. This sanctuary, which Thou, O Lord! hast established to make there Thy perpetual abode, will serve for Thee to reign in throughout the ages and world without end. Here the canticle finishes: what follows is a summary of the history of the passage of the Red Sea, as recorded in Exodus.²

¹ “Plantabis.” As to this expression, see Psalm xliii. 3. The prophet uses this and the preceding verb in the future; but he then uses the past tense: Operatus es, Firmaverunt, though everything refers to the future.

² The simplicity of this summary contrasts strikingly with the grandeur of the canticle of which it retraces the first subject.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CXLII. OF THE PSALTER.

Driven and pursued by Absalom,¹ David regards his removal from Jerusalem as a just punishment for his sins, and gives utterance to sentiments of repentance, and prays to the Lord.

1. DOMINE exaudi orationem meam, auribus percipe obsecrationem meam in veritate tua: exaudi me in tua justitia.

2. Et non intres in iudicium cum servo tuo: quia non justificabitur in conspectu tuo omnis vivens.

3. Quia persecutus est inimicus animam meam: humiliavit in terra vitam meam.

4. Collocavit me in obscuris sicut mortuos sæculi: et anxius est super me spiritus meus, in me turbatum est cor meum.

5. Memor fui dierum antiquorum, meditatus sum in omnibus operibus tuis: in factis manuum tuarum meditabar.

6. Expandi manus meas ad te: anima mea sicut terra sine aqua tibi.

7. Velociter exaudi me Domine: defecit spiritus meus.

8. Non avertas faciem tuam a me: et similis ero descendentibus in lacum.

9. Auditam fac mihi mane misericordiam tuam: quia in te speravi.

1. HEAR, O Lord, my prayer: give ear to my supplication in thy truth: hear me in thy justice.

2. And enter not into judgment with thy servant: for in thy sight no man living shall be justified.

3. For the enemy hath persecuted my soul: he hath brought down my life to the earth.

4. He hath made me to dwell in darkness as those that have been dead of old: and my spirit is in anguish within me: my heart within me is troubled.

5. I remembered the days of old, I meditated on all thy works: I mused upon the works of thy hands.

6. I stretched forth my hands to thee: my soul is as earth without water unto thee.

7. Hear me speedily, O Lord: my spirit hath fainted away.

8. Turn not away thy face from me, lest I be like unto them that go down into the pit.

9. Cause me to hear thy mercy in the morning; for in thee have I hoped.

10. Make the way known to

qua ambulem: quia ad te levavi animam meam.

11. Eripe me de inimicis meis, Domine, ad te confugi: doce me facere voluntatem tuam, quia Deus meus es tu.

12. Spiritus tuus bonus deducet me in terram rectam: propter nomen tuum Domine, vivificabis me, in æquitate tua.

13. Educes de tribulatione animam meam: et in misericordia tua disperdes inimicos meos.

14. Et perdes omnes, qui tribulant animam meam: quoniam ego servus tuus sum.

(The Psalms Deus, Deus meus, and Deus misereatur, as on Sunday at Lauds.)

1. "In veritate tua." According to Thy faithful promise. "In tua justitia." According to the goodness which Thou showest to the truly penitent. Thus St. John Chrysostom understands the word.¹

2. "Non justificabitur in conspectu tuo omnis vivens." There is no one who, living on earth, can be called just before Thee.

3. The enemy, that is, the devil, has persecuted my soul in tempting me to those offences that I have committed; and thus he has humbled my life here on earth, making me become vile in Thy eyes.

4. He has placed me in darkness, making me like a man of the world who no more sees the light by which to walk as he should; and my spirit is restless with anxiety at the sight of my misery, and my heart within me is afflicted and troubled.

5. I was mindful and I reflected on all the wonderful works wrought in our behalf by the Almighty hand.

6. I have stretched forth my hands towards Thee, to obtain mercy, for my soul is become as dried up earth; it is unable to serve Thee, seeing itself deprived of the water of Thy grace.

¹ The holy Doctor observes that David does not say: In justitia: but: In tua justitia. The justice of God demands that according to his promise, he pardons the truly repentant. The following verse elucidates and supports this explanation.

me wherein I should walk: for I have lifted up my soul to thee.

11. Deliver me from my enemies, O Lord, to thee have I fled: teach me to do thy will, for thou art my God.

12. Thy good spirit shall lead me into the right land: for thy name's sake, O Lord, thou wilt quicken me in thy justice.

13. Thou wilt bring my soul out of trouble: and in thy mercy thou wilt destroy my enemies

14. And thou wilt cut off all them that afflict my soul: for I am thy servant.

5. Operuit cœlos gloria ejus, et laudis ejus plena est terra.

6. Splendor ejus ut lux erit: cornua in manibus ejus:

7. Ibi abscondita est fortitudo ejus: ante faciem ejus ibit mors.

8. Et egredietur diabolus ante pedes ejus. Stetit, et mensus est terram.

9. Aspexit, et dissolvit Gentes: et contriti sunt montes sæculi.

10. Incurvati sunt colles mundi ab itineribus æternitatis ejus.

11. Pro iniquitate vidi tentoria Æthiopiæ, turbabuntur pelles terræ Madian.

12. Numquid in fluminibus iratus es Domine? aut in fluminibus furor tuus? vel in mari indignatio tua?

13. Qui ascendes super equos tuos: et quadrigæ tuæ salvatio.

14. Suscitans suscitabis arcum tuum: juramenta tribubus quæ locutus es:

15. Fluvios scindes terræ: viderunt te, et doluerunt montes: gurges aquarum transiit.

16. Dedit abyssus vocem suam: altitudo manus suas levavit.

17. Sol et luna steterunt in habitaculo suo, in luce sagittarum tuarum, ibunt in splendore fulgurantis hastæ tuæ.

18. In fremitu conculcabis terram: et in furore obstupescies Gentes

5. His glory covered the heavens, and the earth is full of his praise.

6. His brightness shall be as the light: horns are in his hands:

7. There is his strength hid: Death shall go before his face.

8. And the devil shall go forth before his feet. He stood, and measured the earth.

9. He beheld, and melted the nations: and the ancient mountains were crushed to pieces.

10. The hills of the world were bowed down by the journeys of his eternity.

11. I saw the tents of Ethiopia for their iniquity, the curtains of the land of Madian shall be troubled.

12. Wast thou angry, O Lord, with the rivers? or was thy wrath upon the rivers? or thy indignation in the sea?

13. Who will ride upon thy horses: and thy chariots are salvation.

14. Thou wilt surely take up thy bow: according to the oaths which thou hast spoken to the tribes.

15. Thou wilt divide the rivers of the earth. The mountains saw thee, and were grieved: the great body of water passed away.

16. The deep put forth its voice: the deep lifted up its hands.

17. The sun and the moon stood still in their habitation, in the light of thy arrows, they shall go in the brightness of thy glittering spear.

18. In thy anger thou wilt tread the earth under foot: in thy wrath thou wilt astonish the nations.

19. Egressus es in salutem populi tui: in salutem cum Christo tuo.

20. Percussisti caput de domo impii: denudasti fundamentum ejus usque ad collum.

21. Maledixisti sceptris ejus, capiti bellatorum ejus, venientibus ut turbo ad dispergendum me.

22. Exultatio eorum sicut ejus, qui devorat pauperem in abscondito.

23. Viam fecisti in mari equis tuis, in luto aquarum multarum.

24. Audivi, et conturbatus est venter meus: a voce contremuerunt labia mea.

25. Ingrediatur putredo in ossibus meis, et subter me sca-teat.

26. Ut requiescam in die tribulationis: ut ascendam ad populum accinctum nostrum.

27. Ficus enim non florebit: et non erit germen in vineis.

28. Mentietur opus olivæ: et arva non afferent cibum.

29. Abscindetur de ovili pecus: et non erit armentum in præsepibus.

30. Ego autem in Domino gaudebo: et exultabo in Deo Jesu meo.

31. Deus Dominus fortitudo mea: et ponet pedes meos quasi cervorum.

32. Et super excelsa mea deducet me victor in psalmis canentem.

19. Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people: for salvation with thy Christ.

20. Thou struckest the head of the house of the wicked: thou hast laid bare his foundation even to the neck.

21. Thou hast cursed his sceptres, the head of his warriors, them that came out as a whirlwind to scatter me.

22. Their joy was like that of him that devoureth the poor man in secret.

23. Thou madest a way in the sea for thy horses, in the mud of many waters.

24. I have heard, and my bowels were troubled: my lips trembled at the voice.

25. Let rottenness enter into my bones, and swarm under me.

26. That I may rest in the day of tribulation: that I may go up to our people that are girded.

27. For the fig-tree shall not blossom: and there shall be no spring in the vines.

28. The labor of the olive-tree shall fail: and the fields shall yield no food.

29. The flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls.

30. But I will rejoice in the Lord: and I will joy in God my Jesus.

31. The Lord God is my strength: and he will make my feet like the feet of harts.

32. And he the conqueror will lead me upon my high places singing psalms.

1. "Auditionem tuam." That is: All that Thou hast revealed to me.

2. "Vivifica." According to Du Hamel: Perfice—Perfect.

Lallemant gives this explanation: Complete Thy work, the deliverance of the Jews from the captivity of Babylon, and in mercy shorten the time of our chastisement. But this passage is better understood in the figurative sense, thus: Bring to perfection the work of man's redemption by means of the Messiah: Grant that it may have its full force and effect within the space of years which Thou hast determined.

3. In the midst of those years appointed; that is, anticipating the time fixed, Thou wilt make manifest the work of the deliverance of the Jews from the captivity of Babylon. (This is in the literal sense; but in the mystical sense is signified the redemption of mankind.) And though angry at the sons of men, yet Thou wilt be mindful of Thy mercy, and wilt not withhold it from us: Licet peccatis hominum iratus, says Du Hamel, misericordiam tuam non subtrahes.

4. God will come from the South to deliver his people, as the Holy One of Israel came of old on Sinai, appearing from Mount Pharan (Deut. xxxiii. 2). So too, from Persia and Media, lying to the South, came Cyrus and Darius to deliver the Jews from Babylon. In the figurative sense this verse, as understood by St. Jerome, Theodoret, Theophylact, and others cited by Tirinus, this verse applies to the Messiah who was to be born at Bethlehem situated to the south of Jerusalem. "Sanc-tus de monte Pharan." Tirinus says that hereby is meant the Holy Ghost, who descended on Mount Pharan and communicated the spirit of prophecy to the seventy judges of the people (Num. xi. 25).

5. His glory overspread the heavens, causing their brightness to pale, and the whole earth was filled with their praises. In a figurative sense this signifies: The Messiah who is to come will fill heaven with glory, and the angels will praise him on earth. It is thus that they chanted at his birth: Gloria in altissimis Deo—Glory to God in the highest (Luke, ii. 14).

6. He shall appear resplendent with light as the sun, and his hands shall be armed with power. "Splendor ejus ut lux erit." This may mean, in the literal sense, that at the coming of Cyrus the light of liberty will shine forth for the Jews; and in the figurative sense that at the coming of the Messiah, of whom Cyrus was a figure, the true light shall shine forth on the world, according to what is said in the Gospel: Erat Lux vera, of the world shall bow down before the Redeemer, bending the knee to adore him, as they consider that on him depends the course of eternal ages. “Ab itineribus æternitatis ejus.” According to the Hebrew: Itinera sæculi æterni ejus sunt—His are the journeys of the eternal age.

11. I saw the tents of the Ethiopians cast down for their wickedness, and the tabernacles of the Madianites thrown to the earth. In the mystical sense: As the hosts of the Ethiopians and of the Madianites were seen destroyed on account of their wicked doings against God’s people, so shall those that oppose the Gospel be likewise punished.

13. Thou didst save Thy people, and didst deliver them from the Egyptians, mounting upon the clouds as on horses which draw the chariot.

14. Thou wilt resume Thy bow, that is, the bow of Thy power, and wilt fulfil the promises that Thou hast sworn to the tribes of Israel. Thus Tirinus, Du Hamel, and Rotigni explain it.

15. Thou didst cut in twain the course of the Jordan, that Thy people might pass over. Its waters saw Thee, that is, understood Thy command, and raising themselves like mountains, remained suspended in the air, as if grieving to see themselves stopped in their course;¹ and thus Thy people crossed over the river.

16. The waters flowed back with noise, and in lifting themselves on high they seemed to raise up their hands to implore Thy permission to return again to their course.

17. At Josue’s voice, in the battle with the Amorrhites, Thou didst cause the sun and the moon to stand still in their course (Jos. x. 13); and didst make his army march by the glare of Thy lightnings, and by the glitterings of Thy spear from which thunderbolts flashed.

18. Thou didst tread underfoot, that is, Thou didst go through the earth with the roar of thunderings and of lightnings; and the hostile nations were astonished and in dismay at Thy wrath.

¹ “Doluerunt montes; gurges aquarum transiit.” While the waters that came down from above stopped before the ark, stood like a mountain; the waters that were beneath ran down into the sea, and this caused the bed of the river to be dry (Jos. iii. 16).

19 “Cum Christo tuo.” Such was Cyrus who came to set free the people from captivity, as Isaias had foretold: Hæc dicit Dominus Christo meo Cyro, cujus apprehendi dexteram, ut subjiciam ante faciem ejus gentes—Thus said the Lord to my anointed Cyrus, whose right hand I have taken hold of to subdue nations before his face (Is. xlv. 1). Now, Cyrus was a type of Jesus Christ, who has saved us by his merits, as remark St. Jerome, St. Augustine (De Civ. D. l. 18, c. 32), and others. The verse is translated thus according to the sixth Greek version: Egressus es ut salvares populum per Jesum Christum tuum.

20. “Percussisti caput de domo impii.” Thou hast struck the head of the house of the impious one, that is, king Balthassar, the head of the Chaldeans, and Thou hast utterly ruined him (Dan. v.). In the mystical sense: Thou hast laid prostrate the devil, the head of impiety. “Denudasti fundamentum ejus usque ad collum.” Tirinus thus interprets this: Denudatum evertisti ab imo sursum. Thou hast despoiled him of his empire, and hast upset him from top to bottom, that is, Thou hast taken from him all his tyrannical power. It is thus, O Lord! that Thou hast willed to save Thy people by means of Jesus Christ.

21. Thou hast cursed his empire,¹ that, namely, of king Balthassar, along with the head of his soldiers, who are come as a whirlwind to destroy Thy people. This is understood mystically of the curse pronounced on the devil, who held sway over the human race, and on his associates, who all contrived our ruin.

22. “Qui devorat pauperem in abscondito.” Who robs and kills a poor man in a secret place where no one can come to his help.

23. Thou didst open a passage in the Red Sea, making the horses of Thy people pass upon its muddy bed in the midst of the piled-up masses of waters. Tirinus observes that here the canticle ends, and that the prophet adds what follows.¹

24. The prophet, knowing by revelation what God's people would have to suffer before their deliverance, says: I heard this prediction and my heart was troubled; at what was told me my lips quivered, so that I was unable to utter a word.

26. So that I may find myself at rest in the tomb on the day of so great a tribulation, and thus be united with our people who have already fought the fight against the enemy. But we read in the old Vulgate: Ad populum peregrinationis meæ. That is: To the people who regard this life as a pilgrimage, as I myself regard it.

27. In the mystical sense, this is what it may mean: In the desolation to which the Jews shall be brought in punishment for having put their Saviour to death, they will cease to produce any fruit of good works, having lost the kingdom of God, which shall be given to the Christian people who will bring forth fruits of holiness, according to the words of Jesus Christ: Ideo dico vobis, quia auferetur a vobis regnum Dei, et dabitur genti facienti fructus ejus—Therefore I say to you, that the kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and shall be given to a nation yielding the fruits thereof (Matt. xxi. 43).

28. "Mentietur opus olivæ." The olive crop shall lie; that is, shall disappoint expectation.

29. St. Augustine (De Civ. D. l. 18, c. 32) applies this passage to the Jews, who after having put Jesus Christ to death, were to remain without pastors, without Temple, and without spiritual food.

30. "In Deo, Jesu meo." In the Hebrew, according to Pagnini, Vatablus, and others, we have: In Deo, salute mea. But ¹ According to Cornelius, the prophet celebrates in this canticle the wonders that God wrought in delivering the Israelites from slavery in Egypt, because these wonders represented those that were to be worked in the deliverance of the Jews from Babylon. Now, these two deliverances prefigured the mystery of the redemption of souls, which the prophet had chiefly in view. Then, in verse 24, he takes up and develops what he said in the beginning, namely, the grief that he felt at the sight of the evils that were to fall upon the people of Israel; but he concludes, verse 30, by putting confidence in the Lord who was to save this same people in the person of whom he speaks.

Saturday at Lauds.

The psalm Miserere mei Deus as on Monday at Lauds.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XCI. OF THE PSALTER.

David here exhorts the people to praise God for the protection that he has given to the just, and for the chastisements inflicted on sinners in order to correct them.¹

1. BONUM est confiteri Domino: et psallere nomini tuo, Altissime.

2. Ad annuntiandum mane misericordiam tuam: et veritatem tuam per noctem.

3. In decachordo psalterio: cum cantico, in cithara.

4. Quia delectasti me Domine in factura tua: et in operibus manuum tuarum exultabo.

5. Quam magnificata sunt opera tua Domine! nimis profundæ factæ sunt cogitationes tuæ.

6. Vir insipiens non cognoscat: et stultus non intelliget hæc.

7. Cum exorti fuerint peccatores sicut fœnum: et apparuerint omnes, qui operantur iniquitatem.

8. Ut intereanti in sæculum sæculi: tu autem Altissimus in æternum, Domine.

9. Quoniam ecce inimici tui Domine, quoniam ecce inimici tui peribunt: et dispergentur

1. IT is good to give praise to the Lord: and to sing to thy name, O most High.

2. To show forth thy mercy in the morning, and thy truth in the night.

3. Upon an instrument of ten strings, upon the psaltery: with a canticle, upon the harp.

4. For thou hast given me, O Lord, a delight in thy doings, and in the works of thy hands I shall rejoice.

5. O Lord, how great are thy works! thy thoughts are exceeding deep:

6. The senseless man shall not know: nor will the fool understand these things.

7. When the wicked shall spring up as grass: and all the workers of iniquity shall appear:

8. That they may perish for ever and ever: but thou, O Lord, art most high forever more.

9. For behold thy enemies, O Lord, for behold thy enemies shall perish: and all the work-

¹ Title of the psalm: Psalmus cantici in die Sabbati—A psalm of a canticle on the Sabbath day. According to Bellarmine, this title signifies that the psalm was composed to be sung on the Sabbath, in order to teach the people that they should praise God on that day, especially for his creating and governing the world.

omnes, qui operantur iniquitatem.

10. Et exaltabitur sicut unicornis cornu meum: et senectus mea in misericordia uberi.

11. Et despexit oculus meus inimicos meos: et in insurgentibus in me malignantibus audiet auris mea.

12. Justus ut palma florebit: sicut cedrus Libani multiplicabitur.

13. Plantati in domo Domini, in atriis domus Dei nostri florebut.

14. Adhuc multiplicabuntur in senecta uberi: et bene patientes erunt, ut annuntient:

15. Quoniam rectus Dominus Deus noster: et non est iniquitas in eo.

ers of iniquity shall be scattered.

10. But my horn shall be exalted like that of the unicorn: and my old age in plentiful mercy.

11. My eye also hath looked down upon my enemies: and my ear shall hear of the downfall of the malignant that rise up against me.

12. The just shall flourish like the palm-tree: he shall grow up like the cedar of Libanus.

13. They that are planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of the house of our God.

14. They shall still increase in a fruitful old age: and shall be well treated, that they may show,

15. That the Lord our God is righteous, and there is no iniquity in him.

1. It is just to give glory to God by rendering him thanks for his benefits, and by singing his praises.¹

2. "Veritatem tuam." Thy faithfulness to Thy promises.²

3. "In decachordo psalterio." Mariana and Sa understand thereby two different instruments, following in this the Hebrew,

¹ "Bonum est." It is good; that is, according to the explanation of Bellarmine, it is just, profitable, pleasant, and honorable: just, because due; profitable, because meritorious; pleasant, because sweet to one that loves to praise the Beloved; honorable, because this is the occupation of the celestial spirits.

² "Mane misericordiam tuam: et veritatem tuam per noctem." We believe that here by the morning, or the day, and by the night we must understand the time of prosperity and the time of adversity: in prosperity we should acknowledge the benefits that we owe to the goodness and mercy of God; in adversity, we should remember the goods that he promises to those that remain faithful to him or who are converted, and who count with certainty and confidence on his faithfulness in keeping all his promises.

which St. Jerome thus translates: “In decachordo et in psalterio.” But Bellarmine thinks that the copulative particle in the Hebrew is redundant; he depends, moreover, on the version of the Septuagint, and on other like expressions that we find in Psalms xxxii. 2, and cxliii. 10.

4 “In factura tua, et in operibus manuum tuarum.” Mattei says with reason that these two expressions are synonymous.

5. “Magnificata.” According to the Chaldee: Magnifica, magnificent. “Cogitationes tuæ.” Thy thoughts, or, according to Sa and Mariana, Thy counsels; or with Menochius, the designs of Thy Providence. “Nimis profundæ.” Impenetrable to our weak intelligence.

7. 8.¹ “Apparuerint.” According to the Hebrew: Floruerint. Explanation of these two verses: When sinners are born into this world, they are multiplied as the grass which grows up thick apace; and when all the wicked have made a show upon earth, with their dignities and riches, they still perish forever, while Thou, O Lord! shalt ever be the same that Thou art.

10. My strength, or glory, by Thy grace, shall rise on high, as on the head of the unicorn rises its single horn, which is its strength and glory; and my old age shall be consoled by Thy mercy, abounding in gifts and helps.

11. “Despexit.” St. Jerome translates: Respiciet—My eyes shall see my enemies cast down so that, far from fearing them, I shall despise them, and my ears shall hear the chastisement inflicted on those that are risen against me in their malice to plot my ruin.

12. The just shall flourish and shall endure as the palm-tree, which always remains green; they shall grow to a great height, like a cedar of Libanon.

13. Planted in the house of the Lord, and cultivated by him, they shall flourish; that is, they will always preserve their vigor and their beauty.²

¹ After having exalted the works of creation which the foolish of the world cannot understand, the prophet has us to consider the justice that God exercises by his Providence, at first towards sinners who perish like grass, and afterwards towards virtuous men, who are compared to palm-trees and cedars.

² Bellarmine explains: Planted in the Church of God by true faith, mina. Quia nomen Domini invocabo :

4. Date magnificentiam Deo nostro : Dei perfecta sunt opera, et omnes viæ ejus judicia :

5. Deus fidelis, et absque ulla iniquitate, justus et rectus. Peccaverunt ei, et non filii ejus in sordibus :

6. Generatio prava atque perversa. Hæccine reddis Domino, popule stulte et insipiens ?

7. Numquid non ipse est pater tuus, qui possedit te, et fecit, et creavit te ?

8. Memento dierum antiquorum, cogita generationes singulas :

9. Interroga patrem tuum, et annuntiabit tibi : majores tuos, et dicent tibi.

10. Quando dividebat Altissimus gentes : quando separabat filios Adam.

11. Constituit terminos populorum juxta numerum filiorum Israel.

12. Pars autem Domini, populus ejus : Jacob funiculus hereditatis ejus.

13. Invenit eum in terra deserta, in loco horroris, et vastæ solitudinis :

14. Circumduxit eum, et docuit : et custodivit quasi pupillam oculi sui.

15. Sicut aquila provocans ad volandum pullos suos, et super eos volitans.

16. Expandit alas suas, et assumpsit eum, atque portavit in humeris suis.

17. Dominus solus dux ejus fuit : et non erat cum eo deus alienus.

the grass. Because I will invoke the name of the Lord.

4. Give ye magnificence to our God. The works of God are perfect, and all his ways are judgments.

5. God is faithful and without any iniquity, he is just and right. They have sinned against him, and are none of his children in their filth.

6. They are a wicked and perverse generation. Is this the return thou makest to the Lord, O foolish and senseless people ?

7. Is not he thy father, that hath possessed thee, and made thee, and created thee ?

8. Remember the days of old, think upon every generation.

9. Ask thy father, and he will declare to thee : thy elders and they will tell thee.

10. When the Most High divided the nations : when he separated the sons of Adam.

11. He appointed the bounds of people according to the number of the children of Israel.

12. But the Lord's portion is his people : Jacob the lot of his inheritance.

13. He found him in a desert land, in a place of horror, and of vast wilderness.

14. He led him about, and taught him : and he kept him as the apple of his eye.

15. As the eagle enticing her young to fly, and hovering over them,

16. He spread his wings, and hath taken him and carried him on his shoulders.

17. The Lord alone was his leader : and there was no strange god with him.

18. Constituit eum super excelsam terram: ut comederet fructus agrorum,

19. Ut sugeret mel de petra, oleumque de saxo durissimo:

20. Butyrum de armento, et lac de ovibus cum adipe agnorum, et arietum filiorum Basan:

21. Et hircos cum medulla tritici, et sanguinem uvæ biberet meracissimum.

22. Incrassatus est dilectus, et recalcitravit: incrassatus, impinguatus, dilatatus.

23. Dereliquit Deum factorem suum, et recessit a Deo salutari suo.

24. Provocaverunt eum in diis alienis, et in abominationibus ad iracundiam concitaverunt.

25. Immolaverunt dæmoniis et non Deo, diis quos ignorabant:

26. Novi recentesque venerunt, quos non coluerunt patres eorum.

27. Deum, qui te genuit, dereliquisti, et oblitus es Domini creatoris tui.

28. Vidit Dominus, et ad iracundiam concitatus est: quia provocaverunt eum filii sui et filiæ.

29. Et ait: Abscondam faciem meam ab eis, et considerabo novissima eorum:

30. Generatio enim perversa est, et infideles filii.

31. Ipsi me provocaverunt in eo, qui non erat deus, et irritaverunt in vanitatibus suis:

32. Et ego provocabo eos in eo qui non est populus, et

18. He set him upon high land: that he might eat the fruits of the fields,

19. That he might suck honey out of the rock, and oil out of the hardest stone,

20. Butter of the herd, and milk of the sheep, with the fat of lambs, and of the rams of the breed of Basan;

21. And goats with the marrow of wheat, and might drink the purest blood of the grape.

22. The beloved grew fat, and kicked: he grew fat, and thick and gross;

23. He forsook God who made him, and departed from God his saviour.

24. They provoked him by strange gods, and stirred him up to anger, with their abominations.

25. They sacrificed to devils and not to God, to gods whom they knew not:

26. That were newly come up, whom their fathers worshipped not:

27. Thou hast forsaken the God that begot thee, and hast forgotten the Lord that created thee.

28. The Lord saw, and was moved to wrath: because his own sons and daughters provoked him.

29. And he said: I will hide my face from them, and will consider what their last end shall be:

30. For it is a perverse generation, and unfaithful children.

31. They have provoked me with that, which was no god, and have angered me with their vanities:

32. And I will provoke them with that which is no people, in gente stulta irritabo illos.

33. Ignis succensus est in furore meo, et ardebit usque ad inferni novissima:

34. Devorabitque terram cum germine suo, et montium fundamenta comburet.

35. Congregabo super eos mala, et sagittas meas complebo in eis.

36. Consumantur fame, et devorabunt eos aves morsu amarissimo:

37. Dentes bestiarum immittam in eos, cum furore trahentium super terram, atque serpentium.

38. Foris vastabit eos gladius, et intus pavor, juvenem simul ac virginem, lactentem cum homine sene.

39. Dixi, Ubinam sunt? cessare faciam ex hominibus memoriam eorum.

40. Sed propter iram inimicorum distuli: ne forte superbirent hostes eorum:

41. Et dicerent: Manus nostra excelsa, et non Dominus, fecit hæc omnia.

42. Gens absque consilio est, et sine prudentia. Utinam saperent, et intelligerent, ac novissima providerent.

43. Quomodo persequatur unus mille, et duo fugent decem millia?

44. Nonne ideo, quia Deus suos vendidit eos, et Dominus conclusit illos?

and will vex them with a foolish nation.

33. A fire is kindled in my wrath, and shall burn even to the lowest hell:

34. And shall devour the earth with her increase, and shall burn the foundations of the mountains.

35. I will heap evils upon them, and will spend my arrows among them.

36. They shall be consumed with famine, and birds shall devour them with a most bitter bite.

37. I will send the teeth of beasts upon them, with the fury of creatures that trail upon the ground, and of serpents.

38. Without, the sword shall lay them waste, and terror within, both the young man and the virgin, the sucking child with the man in years.

39. I said: Where are they? I will make the memory of them to cease from among men.

40. But for the wrath of the enemies I have deferred it: lest perhaps their enemies might be proud,

41. And should say: Our mighty hand, and not the lord, hath done all these things.

42. They are a nation without counsel, and without wisdom. O that they would be wise and would understand, and would provide for their last end.

43. How should one pursue after a thousand, and two chase ten thousand?

44. Was it not, because their God had sold them, and the Lord had shut them up?

60. Si acuero ut fulgur gladium meum, et arripuerit iudicium manus mea :

61. Reddam ultionem hostibus meis, et his qui oderunt me, retribuam.

62. Inebriabo sagittas meas sanguine, et gladius meus devorabit carnes,

63. De cruore occisorum, et de captivitate, nudati inimicorum capitis.

64. Laudate, gentes, populum ejus, quia sanguinem servorum suorum ulciscetur :

65. Et vindictam retribuet in hostes eorum, et propitius erit terræ populi sui.

60. If I shall whet my sword as the lighting, and my hand take hold on judgment :

61. I will render vengeance to my enemies, and repay them that hate me.

62. I will make my arrows drunk with blood, and my sword shall devour flesh,

63. Of the blood of the slain and of the captivity, of the bare head of the enemies.

64. Praise his people, ye nations, for he will revenge the blood of his servants :

65. And will render vengeance to their enemies, and he will be merciful to the land of his people.

2. "Concrescat." According to the Hebrew : Stillet. "Fluat ut ros eloquium meum." Let my speech drop down as dew into the minds of those that hear me.

3. "Nomen Domini invocabo." I will invoke the name of the Lord, that my words may be of profit:

5. God is faithful to his promises, and in him there is no iniquity, for he is just and righteous ; but for all that, the Israelites have turned their back upon him, and by their shameful action have made themselves unworthy to be called his children.

7. "Possedit te." That is : Has chosen thee out of all nations for his own property.

9. Ask of your fathers, and they will recount to you what they have seen ; question your elders, and hear what they will tell you.

11. He fixed the boundaries of the people who were to be the first to dwell in the Land of Promise, according to the number of the children of Israel who should possess that land.

12. For the portion which the Lord reserved to himself, as specially his own, was the people of his choice ; he thus destined Jacob to be his inheritance. In Scripture the portion of inheritance is called Funiculus, a line, because the portions were marked out by a line of cord.

14. "Docuit." He instructed him in his law.

19. That is : That he might draw honey even from the rocks, where the bees made their combs, and gather oil from the olives planted amongst the rocks.

20. "Cum adipe agnorum et arietum." That is: With the flesh of the fat lambs and sheep; for it was forbidden to the Israelites to eat the fat of these animals (Levit. vii. 23). "Filiorum Basan." That is: The country of Basan, east of the Jordan, were there were excellent pasturages, and therefore the best flocks.

22, 23. This people, so beloved by God, after being thus fattened on his gifts, became stubborn: they struck out their heels against him by disobeying his precepts; in fine, having grown fat, and big, and bloated, they forsook their God who created them, and separated themselves from that God who alone could save them.

24. "Provocaverunt eum." These ungrateful ones provoked him to anger.

26. They brought into the world certain new gods, unknown to their fathers.

27. Apostrophe to these foolish people.

28. The Lord saw, and was inflamed with indignation, because those that thus offended him were his own sons and daughters.

29. "Considerabo novissima eorum." I will have before my eyes their last excesses; these were the outrages and torments that the Jews inflicted on Jesus Christ, for which they were left abandoned in their obstinate unbelief.

30. They have rendered themselves undeserving of my mercy.

31, 32. They have provoked me by adoring as god what was not God, by setting themselves to honor vain and false deities; and I will afflict them by substituting for them a people which is not my people, a foolish nation, which knows me not.

33. The wrath is kindled within me against them, and it shall burn them even to the lowest hell, where they shall be forever condemned.

35. "Sagittas meas complebo in eis." That is: I will discharge against them all the arrows of my wrath, all the plagues.

39. "Dixi." After that, I will say.

40. "Propter iram inimicorum distuli." I have delayed the chastisement on account of the hatred borne me by their enemies.

42. These enemies have neither discernment nor prudence; would to God that they had wisdom enough to understand, and prudence enough to provide for the last things, that is, for death and judgment!

43, 44. They should say: How can it be that a single one of us goes against a thousand Hebrews, or two of us against ten thousand, and put them to flight? This could not happen were it not that their God had sold them, and because the Lord had so hemmed them in as to be unable to go forth and deliver themselves from their straits.

46. Tirinus here observes that Moses or the Lord who speaks, returns to the Israelites, and assigns the cause of their chastisement, namely, because their vine¹ has become like the vine of the Sodomites, which bears only fruits of iniquity.

49. "In thesauris meis." Among the treasures of my judgments?

50. To me it belongs to punish sins,² and when the time arrives I will send the chastisement whereby they shall fall into the pit that is prepared for them, their feet stumbling against the stone, that is, as Rotigni explains, Jesus Christ, the corner-stone, set by God for their salvation. The Jews, by rejecting their Saviour, fell into perdition.

53. But this shall not come to pass until the Jews shall be reduced to such weakness that those even who guarded the citadels shall themselves have yielded, and the others shall have perished.

55. They partook of the fat of victims offered to such deities, and drank the wine consecrated to them. The Gentiles consecrated wine to their gods, and such consecrations were called Libations.

56. "Surgant." Let these gods arise. "In necessitate." In the extremities to which you are reduced.

59. "Vivo ego in æternum." A form of oath which God pronounces to confirm the threat that follows.

62, 63. That is, as Tirinus explains: My vengeance shall strike them all, but in different ways: some shall be put to PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM LIII. OF THE PSALTER.

Prayer that David addresses to God to deliver him from the soldiers of Saul by whom he was surrounded.¹ This psalm may serve for all Christians that find themselves assailed by the temptations of the devil. We may remark with Cardinal Bellarmine that the holy Church wishes to teach us how to arm ourselves with prayer against the tribulations and temptations that may assail us every day.

1. DEUS in nomine tuo sal-vum me fac: et in virtute tua judica me.

2. Deus, exaudi orationem meam: auribus percipe verba oris mei.

3. Quoniam alieni insurrexerunt adversum me, et for-tes quæsierunt animam meam:
et non proposuerunt Deum ante conspectum suum.

4. Ecce enim, Deus adjuvat me: et Dominus susceptor est animæ meæ.

5. Averte mala inimicis meis: et in veritate tua disperde illos.

6. Voluntarie sacrificabo tibi, et confitebor nomini tuo, Do-mine, quoniam bonum est:

7. Quoniam ex omni tribu-latione eripuisti me: et super inimicos meos despexit oculus meus.

1. SAVE me, O God, by thy name: and judge me in thy strength.

2. O God, hear my prayer:
give ear to the words of my mouth.

3. For strangers have risen up against me, and the mighty have sought after my soul:
and they have not set God before their eyes.

4. For behold, God is my helper: and the Lord is the protector of my soul.

5. Turn-back the evils upon my enemies: and cut them off in thy truth.

6. I will freely sacrifice to thee, and will give praise, O God, to thy name: because it is good:

7. For thou hast delivered me out of all trouble, and my eye hath looked down upon my enemies.

¹ We read in the title: Cum venissent Ziphæi, et dixissent ad Saul: Nonne David absconditus est apud nos?—When the men of Ziph had come, and said to Saul: Is not David hidden with us? (1 Kings xxiii. 19.) This psalm refers to the danger to which David was exposed when he hid himself in the desert of Ziph.

1. Save me, by the virtue and for the glory of Thy holy name, from the danger in which I am; judge me according to my innocence, and according to Thy power, which protects the innocent.

3. My own fellow-countrymen have separated themselves from me and, as foreign enemies, have armed themselves against me, in order to take away my life, having lost sight of God's justice.¹

4. "Ecce enim." But I already know that, etc.

5. "Averte mala." According to the Hebrew: Revertatur malum—May evil return. Make, O God! to retort upon my enemies the evil that they have planned for me; scatter them according to Thy promises, which are always faithful and true.²

6. Then with ready heart will I offer Thee sacrifices; and I will praise Thy holy name, so full of goodness to him that invokes Thee.

7. Through Thy mercy I find myself delivered by Thy hand from all anxiety, and my eyes shall be able to see with scorn my enemies cast down.

(For other psalms that are to be said, see breviary.)

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CXVII. OF THE PSALTER.

David offers here his solemn thanksgiving for the victory that he gained over his enemies, and for all the other benefits that had been conferred upon him; he thanks him specially for having given to the world Jesus Christ, the Redeemer of mankind.

1. CONFITEMINI Domino, quoniam bonus: quoniam in sæculum misericordia ejus.

2. Dicat nunc Israel quoniam bonus: quoniam in sæculum misericordia ejus.

3. Dicat nunc domus Aaron: quoniam in sæculum misericordia ejus.

4. Dicant nunc qui timent
Dominum: quoniam in sæculum misericordia ejus.

1. GIVE praise to the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy
endureth forever.

2. Let Israel now say, that he is good: that his mercy endureth forever.

3. Let the house of Aaron now say, that his mercy endureth forever.

4. Let them that fear the Lord now say, that his mercy
endureth forever.

² Ordinary prediction under the form of prayer.

5. De tribulatione invocavi Dominum: et exaudivit me in latitudine Dominus.

6. Dominus mihi adjutor: non timebo quid faciat mihi homo.

7. Dominus mihi adjutor: et ego despiciam inimicos meos.

8. Bonum est confidere in Domino, quam confidere in homine.

9. Bonum est sperare in Domino, quam sperare in principibus.

10. Omnes gentes circuierunt me: et in nomine Domini quia ultus sum in eos.

11. Circumdantes circumdederunt me: et in nomine Domini quia ultus sum in eos.

12. Circumdederunt me sicut apes, et exarserunt sicut ignis in spinis; et in nomine Domini quia ultus sum in eos.

13. Impulsus eversus sum, ut caderem: et Dominus suscepit me.

14. Fortitudo mea, et laus mea Dominus: et factus est mihi in salutem.

15. Vox exultationis et salutis in tabernaculis justorum.

16. Dexterâ Domini fecit virtutem: dexterâ Domini exaltavit me: dexterâ Domini fecit virtutem.

17. Non moriar, sed vivam: et narrabo opera Domini.

18. Castigans castigavit me Dominus: et morti non tradidit me.

5. In my trouble I called upon the Lord: and the Lord heard me, and enlarged me.

6. The Lord is my helper: I will not fear what man can do unto me.

7. The Lord is my helper: and I will look over my enemies.

8. It is good to confide in the Lord, rather than to have confidence in man.

9. It is good to trust in the Lord, rather than to trust in princes.

10. All nations compassed me about; and in the name of the Lord I have been revenged on them.

11. Surrounding me they compassed me about: and in the name of the Lord I have been revenged on them.

12. They surrounded me like bees, and they burned like fire among thorns: and in the name of the Lord I was revenged on them.

13. Being pushed, I was overturned that I might fall: but the Lord supported me.

14. The Lord is my strength and my praise: and he is become my salvation.

15. The voice of rejoicing and of salvation is in the tabernacles of the just.

16. The right hand of the Lord hath wrought strength: the right hand of the Lord hath exalted me: the right hand of the Lord hath wrought strength.

17. I shall not die, but live: and shall declare the works of the Lord:

18. The Lord chastising hath chastised me: but he hath not delivered me over to death.

nothing of all the evils that men think to do me; I will despise all the efforts and snares of my enemies.

10, 11, 12. "Ultus sum." I have been revenged. It must be observed that this expression is not to be understood here of vengeance properly speaking, but of a victory gained over the enemy. It applies specially to Jesus Christ triumphing over his enemies, and to all the faithful who by his help overcome their temptations. We may, then, take these three verses together, and explain them thus: My enemies have closed in around me from every side, as an angry swarm of bees, or as a burning flame in a bundle of thorns; but thanks to the protection of the Lord, I have been avenged on them, that is, I have overcome them all.

15. In the tabernacles or tents of the just, no voices were heard but of gladness and victory in thanksgiving to God for having saved me, and caused me to triumph over my enemies.

16. The hand of God in aiding me has shown forth its strength.¹

17. "Non moriar." As I shall not die as my enemies had hoped.

18. "Castigans castigavit me." He has chastised me, but with the tender compassion of a father.

19. The gates of justice are the gates of heaven; for justice is the gate of the kingdom of God; hence we should seek it before all things: Quærite ergo primum regnum Dei, et justitiam ejus—Seek first the kingdom of God and his justice (Matt. vi. 33). Since justice is the only gate by which we can come to God, it is only the just that enter through it. Such is the sense given to this passage by St Jerome, St. John Chrysostom, and St. Augustine.

20. Once having entered this gate, as I have desired, I will, O my God! sing Thy praises always, and render Thee thanks for having heard my prayer, and for having become my Saviour.

21. This verse is to be understood only of Jesus Christ and his Church as St. Peter explains it to the Jews: Hic est lapis qui reprobatus est a vobis ædificantibus, qui factus est in caput anguli—This is the stone which was rejected by you the builders: which is become the head of the corner (Acts, iv. 11).¹ God sent upon earth this most precious Stone, that is, his own beloved Son; but the Jews, who at that time formed the Church, rejected him. This Stone, however, became the head of the corner, joining together the two walls, namely, the Hebrew nation and the Gentile people, into one Church.

¹ This verse, says Bellarmine, expresses the cries of joy and of salutation uttered by the just.

23. This is specially a happy day; it is a particular work of God: let it ever be a day of joy and thanksgiving for the immense benefits received.

24. Save me, O Lord! and be ever gracious to me, so that I may never cease to repeat: Blessed be he that is come in the name of the Lord to save us! This precisely was the cry of the multitude when Jesus Christ made his triumphant entry into Jerusalem: Hosanna Filio David! benedictus, qui venit in nomine Domini!—Hosanna to the son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord (Matt. xxi. 9).²

25, 26. We wish and bespeak you a thousand blessings, you who are of the Church of the Lord; for he is the true God, and he has manifested himself to us by taking to him our human flesh. Celebrate, then, this day with solemn pomp by adorning the temple even to the altar with green and leafy boughs.³

¹ We add that the Saviour applied to himself this and the next verse (Matt. xxi. 42).

² This day, as the Office of Easter attests and in which this verse is frequently repeated, is the day of the resurrection of Jesus Christ, when having been rejected by the Jews in his Passion, he was established and recognized as the Corner-stone of the great edifice of the universal Church. According to Bellarmine, the following verse is joined to this, as if it were: Let us then rejoice, saying: O Domine, etc.

³ After having predicted the advent and the triumph of the Messias, the prophet in the two verses exhorts the faithful people to render to God solemn thanksgiving for such a benefit. Then in vs. 27 and 28, repetition of v. 20, he himself expresses his gratitude to the Lord; he finally concludes as admirably as he began.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XXIII. OF THE PSALTER.

David here announces, according to the exclusively literal sense of the psalm, the principal mysteries of the natural law. He predicts the vocation of the Gentiles ; he describes the character of the predestined ; he speaks of the interior justice with which the souls of the faithful will be adorned by the grace of Jesus Christ ; in fine, after having referred to the divinity of our Lord, he prophesies his victories and his glorious ascension into heaven.

1. DOMINI est terra, et plenitudo ejus : orbis terrarum, et universi qui habitant in eo.

2. Quia ipse super maria fundavit eum : et super flumina præparavit eum.

3. Quis ascendet in montem Domini ? aut quis stabit in loco sancto ejus ?

4. Innocens manibus, et mundo corde, qui non accepit in vano animam suam, nec juravit in dolo proximo suo.

5. Hic accipiet benedictionem a Domino, et misericordiam a Deo salutari suo.

6. Hæc est generatio quærentium eum, quærentium faciem Dei Jacob.

7. Attollite portas, principes, vestras, et elevamini portæ æternales : et introibit Rex gloriæ.

8. Quis est iste Rex gloriæ ? Dominus fortis et potens : Dominus potens in prælio.

9. Attollite portas principes vestras, et elevamini portæ æternales : et introibit Rex gloriæ.

10. Quis est iste Rex gloriæ ? Dominus virtutum ipse est Rex gloriæ.

1. THE earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof : the world, and all they that dwell therein.

2. For he hath founded it upon the seas : and hath prepared it upon the rivers.

3. Who shall ascend into the mountain of the Lord ? or who shall stand in his holy place ?

4. The innocent in hands, and clean of heart, who hath not taken his soul in vain, nor sworn deceitfully to his neighbor.

5. He shall receive a blessing from the Lord, and mercy from God his Saviour.

6. This is the generation of them that seek him, of them that seek the face of the God of Jacob.

7. Lift up your gates, O ye princes, and be ye lifted up, O eternal gates : and the king of glory shall enter in.

8. Who is this King of Glory ? the Lord who is strong and mighty : the Lord mighty in battle.

9. Lift up your gates, O ye princes, and be ye lifted up, O eternal gates : and the King of Glory shall enter in.

10. Who is this King of Glory ? the Lord of hosts, he is the King of Glory.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XXIV. OF THE PSALTER.

Exposed to persecution, David begs God's help; and regarding his afflictions as a just punishment for his sins, he renews his acts of repentance. We may therefore recite this psalm for ourselves when we are assailed and tormented by temptations which men and demons raise against us.

1. AD te, Domine, levavi animam meam: Deus meus in te confido; non erubescam:

2. Neque irrideant me inimici mei: etenim universi, qui sustinent te, non confundentur.

3. Confundantur omnes iniqua agentes supervacue.

4. Vias tuas, Domine, demonstra mihi, et semitas tuas edoce me.

5. Dirige me in veritate tua, et doce me, quia tu es Deus salvator meus, et te sustinui tota die.

6. Reminiscere miserationum tuarum, Domine, et misericordiarum tuarum, quæ a sæculo sunt.

7. Delicta juventutis meæ, et ignorantias meas ne memineris.

8. Secundum misericordiam tuam memento mei tu: propter bonitatem tuam Domine.

9. Dulcis et rectus Dominus: propter hoc legem dabit delinquentibus in via.

10. Diriget mansuetos in iudicio: docebit mites vias suas.

1. To thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul. In thee, O my God, I put my trust; let me not be ashamed:

2. Neither let my enemies laugh at me: for none of them that wait on thee shall be confounded.

3. Let them all be confounded that act unjust things without cause.

4. Show, O Lord, thy ways to me, and teach me thy paths.

5. Direct me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art God my Saviour, and on thee have I waited all day long.

6. Remember, O Lord, thy bowels of compassion: and thy mercies, that are from the beginning of the world.

7. The sins of my youth and my ignorances do not remember.

8. According to thy mercy remember thou me: for thy goodness sake, O Lord.

9. The Lord is sweet and righteous: therefore he will give a law to sinners in the way.

10. He will guide the mild in judgment: he will teach the meek his way.

11. Universæ viæ Domini misericordia et veritas, requirunt testamentum ejus et testimonia ejus.

12. Propter nomen tuum, Domine, propitiaberis peccato meo: multum est enim.

13. Quis est homo qui timet Dominum? legem statuit ei in via, quam elegit.

14. Anima ejus in bonis demorabitur: et semen ejus hereditabit terram.

15. Firmamentum est Dominus timentibus eum: et testamentum ipsius ut manifestetur illis.

16. Oculi mei semper ad Dominum: quoniam ipse evellet de laqueo pedes meos.

17. Respice in me, et miserere mei: quia unicus et pauper sum ego.

18. Tribulationes cordis mei multiplicatæ sunt: de necessitatibus meis erue me.

19. Vide humilitatem meam, et laborem meum: et dimitte universa delicta mea.

20. Respice inimicos meos, quoniam multiplicati sunt, et odio iniquo oderunt me.

21. Custodi animam meam, et erue me: non erubescam, quoniam speravi in te.

22. Innocentes et recti adhæserunt mihi: quia sustinui te.

23. Libera, Deus, Israel ex omnibus tribulationibus suis.

11. All the ways of the Lord are mercy and truth to them that seek after his covenant and his testimonies.

12. For thy name's sake, O Lord, thou wilt pardon my sin: for it is great.

13. Who is the man that feareth the Lord? He hath appointed him a law in the way that he hath chosen.

14. His soul shall dwell in good things: and his seed shall inherit the land.

15. The Lord is a firmament to them that fear him: and his covenant shall be made manifest to them.

16. My eyes are ever towards the Lord: for he shall pluck my feet out of the snare.

17. Look thou upon me, and have mercy on me: for I am alone and poor.

18. The troubles of my heart are multiplied: deliver me from my necessities.

19. See my abjection and my labor: and forgive me all my sins.

20. Consider my enemies, for they are multiplied, and have hated me with an unjust hatred.

21. Keep thou my soul, and deliver me: I shall not be ashamed, for I have hoped in thee.

22. The innocent and the upright have adhered to me: because I have waited on thee.

23. Deliver Israel, O God, from all his tribulations.

1. "Non erubescam." I hope by Thy help that I shall not have the confusion of seeing myself conquered by my enemies.

2. Suffer not that they have me in derision by gaining a victory over me; for all those that wait on Thee shall never be confounded.

3. Let all the wicked rather be speedily put to confusion at seeing how they have worked their iniquity in vain, without the fruit they hoped for.

4. Show me the ways by which Thou wouldst have me walk ; teach me to keep the paths that lead to Thee.

5. “In veritate tua.” In the straight way of Thy law.¹ “Te sustinui tota die.” From Thee I continually look for the help that I need.

6. “Quæ a sæculo sunt.” Which Thou showest to the world for so many ages.

9. “Legem dabit delinquentibus in via.” To those that have sinned in this life he will give the rule to follow so as to be able to return to the right way.

10. He will guide the gentle by the straight paths of his law, which in the Scriptures is called Judicium—Judgment ; he will teach the docile of heart to walk in his ways.²

11. The whole conduct of the Lord is full of mercy and of fidelity to his promises towards his servants, who keep before their eyes the covenant made between God and those that are faithful to his precepts.

12. Thou wilt show mercy with regard to my sins, and their pardon will cause Thy glory to shine forth all the more brightly because they have been grievous and many.

13. Who is the man that truly fears God ? It is he to whom the Lord has taught the way he has chosen to walk.³

14. His soul shall dwell in good things, that is, it shall be continually enriched with goods spiritual and temporal ; and

¹ True way, that does not deceive nor mislead : Omnia mandata tua, veritas.—All thy statutes are truth (Ps. cxviii. 86).

² Twofold explanation of what we read in the preceding verse : Legem dabit delinquentibus. The prophet says, as Bellarmine remarks, that this is not understood of all sinners, but only of those that are humble and meek, submissive to the divine teachings, and well disposed to receive them. He still rests upon this explanation in the following verse.

³ This verse is obscure. According to Menochius, the first part is not interrogative but is expressive of admiration, as if it were said : How happy is the man that fears the Lord ! The prophet then describes in this same verse and in the following verses the happiness of him who fears God.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XXV. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm teaches all those that are unjustly persecuted what virtues they should practise during their trial. Moreover, it makes and explains in detail what are the dispositions with which we should approach the altar, whether to communicate or to offer the holy Sacrifice.

1. JUDICA me Domine, quoniam ego in innocentia mea ingressus sum: et in Domino sperans non infirmabor.

2. Proba me Domine, et tenta me: ure renes meos et cor meum.

3. Quoniam misericordia tua ante oculos meos est: et complacui in veritate tua.

4. Non sedi cum concilio vanitatis: et cum iniqua gentibus non introibo.

5. Odivi ecclesiam malignantium: et cum impiis non sedebo.

6. Lavabo inter innocentes manus meas: et circumdabo altare tuum Domine:

7. Ut audiam vocem laudis, et enarrem universa mirabilia tua.

8. Domine dilexi decorem domus tuæ, et locum habitationis gloriæ tuæ.

9. Ne perdas cum impiis Deus animam meam: et cum viris sanguinum vitam meam:

10. In quorum manibus iniquitates sunt: dextera eorum repleta est muneribus.

11. Ego autem in innocentia mea ingressus sum: redime me, et miserere mei.

1. JUDGE me, O Lord, for I have walked in my innocence: and I have put my trust in the Lord, and shall not be weakened.

2. Prove me, O Lord, and try me: burn my reins and my heart.

3. For thy mercy is before my eyes: and I am well pleased with thy truth.

4. I have not sat with the council of vanity: neither will I go in with the doers of unjust things.

5. I have hated the assembly of the malignant: and with the wicked I will not sit.

6. I will wash my hands among the innocent: and will compass thy altar, O Lord.

7. That I may hear the voice of thy praise: and tell of all thy wondrous works.

8. I have loved, O Lord, the beauty of thy house: and the place where thy glory dwelleth.

9. Take not away my soul, O God, with the wicked: nor my life with bloody men:

10. In whose hands are iniquities: their right hand is filled with gifts.

11. But as for me, I have walked in my innocence: redeem me, and have mercy on me.

12. Pes meus stetit in directo: in ecclesiis benedicam te Domine.

12. My foot hath stood in the direct way: in the churches I will bless thee, O Lord.

1. Be my judge against my persecutors, since I present myself with an unblemished conscience, having nothing to reproach myself with; I hope that Thou wilt not permit that I be declared guilty.

2. Try my fidelity; put to the test in the fire of tribulation my heart and all its secret folds.

3. I abide in peace, because I have not lost sight of Thy mercy, and have tried to live according to the truth, that is, Thy law.¹

4. I have avoided the company of vain and lying men,² and I will ever guard against entering the society of the wicked.

5. "Malignantium." Malicious persons, who turn even good actions to evil.

6, 7.³ I will seek to wash my hands, that is, to purify myself together with the just; and so united with them, I will also join in surrounding Thy altar; that there I may hear the voices of those that praise Thee; and that I may publish all the marvels that Thou hast wrought.

10. They commit acts of injustice in order to receive gifts.

¹ See the preceding psalm, v. 5 and 11.

² "Cum concilio vanitatis." Bellarmine with Theodoret thinks that here there is question of the worship of idols.

³ The prophet has just said what he abhors and what he desires to flee from; he now speaks of what he loves and what he wishes to practise so as to be preserved from the misfortune of the wicked and to share in the felicity of the saints.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XXII. OF THE PSALTER.

The principal end of this psalm is to represent God as a good shepherd who omits nothing, so that in the order of eternal salvation his servants may be abundantly provided with help and spiritual means. The verses 1, 2, 6, and 7 plainly refer to this pre-eminent benefit, which consists in the partaking of the body and blood of Jesus Christ.

1. DOMINUS regit me, et nihil mihi deerit: in loco pascuæ ibi me collocavit.

2. Super aquam refectionis educavit me: animam meam convertit.

3. Deduxit me super semitas justitiæ, propter nomen suum.

4. Nam et si ambulavero in medio umbræ mortis, non timebo mala: quoniam tu mecum es.

5. Virga tua, et baculus tuus: ipsa me consolata sunt.

6. Parasti in conspectu meo mensam, adversus eos, qui tribulant me.

7. Impinguasti in oleo caput meum: et calix meus inebrians quam præclarus est!

8. Et misericordia tua subsequetur me: omnibus diebus vitæ meæ.

9. Et ut inhabitem in domo Domini, in longitudinem dierum.

2. He has nourished me near waters that flow in the very place of my pasturage; and when my soul like a silly, wayward sheep, went away from him, he brought it back again to his fold.

4. "In medio umbræ mortis." In the midst of a thousand dangers that seem to me to be the figure of death.

1. THE Lord ruleth me: and I shall want nothing. He hath set me in a place of pasture.

2. He hath brought me up, on the water of refreshment: he hath converted my soul.

3. He hath led me on the paths of justice, for his own name's sake.

4. For though I should walk in the midst of the shadow of death, I will fear no evils, for thou art with me.

5. Thy rod and thy staff, they have comforted me.

6. Thou hast prepared a table before me, against them that afflict me.

7. Thou hast anointed my head with oil; and my chalice which inebriateth me, how goodly is it!

8. And thy mercy will follow me all the days of my life.

9. And that I may dwell in the house of the Lord unto length of days.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM XXI. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm is to be understood in the literal sense of Jesus Christ, and especially of the prayer which he said before his death from the height of the cross, as also of his glorious resurrection. According to Cardinal Bellarmine, it would be an act of temerity to seek to turn it to any other sense. We have then in this psalm an express prophecy of all that which our Lord suffered when dying on the cross.

1. DEUS Deus meus, respice in me: quare me dereliquisti? longe a salute mea verba delictorum meorum.

2. Deus meus clamabo per diem, et non exaudies: et nocte, et non ad insipientiam mihi.

3. Tu autem in sancto habitas, Laus Israel.

4. In te speraverunt patres nostri: speraverunt et liberasti eos.

5. Ad te clamaverunt, et salvi facti sunt: in te speraverunt, et non sunt confusi.

6. Ego autem sum vermis, et non homo: opprobrium hominum, et abjectio plebis.

7. Omnes videntes me deriserunt me: locuti sunt labiis, et moverunt caput.

8. Speravit in Domino, eripiat eum: salvum faciat eum, quoniam vult eum.

9. Quoniam tu es, qui extraxisti me de ventre: spes mea ab uberibus matris meæ. In te projectus sum ex utero:

1. O GOD, my God, look upon me: why hast thou forsaken me? Far from my salvation are the words of my sins.

2. O my God, I shall cry by day, and thou wilt not hear: and by night, and it shall not be reputed as folly in me.

3. But thou dwellest in the holy place, the praise of Israel.

4. In thee have our fathers hoped: they have hoped, and thou hast delivered them.

5. They cried to thee, and they were saved: they trusted in thee, and were not confounded.

6. But I am a worm, and no man: the reproach of men, and the outcast of the people.

7. All they that saw me have laughed me to scorn: they have spoken with the lips, and wagged the head.

8. He hoped in the Lord, let him deliver him: let him save him, seeing he delighteth in him.

9. For thou art he that hast drawn me out of the womb: my hope from the breasts of my mother. I was cast upon thee from the womb:

10. De ventre matris meæ Deus meus es tu, ne discesseris a me.

11. Quoniam tribulatio proxima est: quoniam non est qui adjuvet.

12. Circumdederunt me vituli multi: tauri pingues obsederunt me.

13. Aperuerunt super me os suum, sicut leo rapiens et rugiens.

14. Sicut aqua effusus sum: et dispersa sunt omnia ossa mea.

15. Factum est cor meum tamquam cera liquescens in medio ventris mei.

16. Aruit tamquam testa virtus mea, et lingua mea adhæsit faucibus meis: et in pulverem mortis deduxisti me.

17. Quoniam circumdederunt me canes multi: concilium malignantium obsedit me.

18. Foderunt manus meas et pedes meos: dinumeraverunt omnia ossa mea.

19. Ipsi vero consideraverunt et inspexerunt me: diviserunt sibi vestimenta mea, et super vestem meam miserunt sortem.

20. Tu autem Domine ne elongaveris auxilium tuum a me: ad defensionem meam conspice.

21. Erue a framea Deus animam meam: et de manu canis unicam meam:

22. Salva me ex ore leonis: et a cornibus unicornium humilitatem meam.

23. Narrabo nomen tuum fratribus meis: in medio ecclesiæ laudabo te.

24. Qui timentis Dominum

10. From my mother's womb thou art my God: depart not from me.

11. For tribulation is very near: for there is none to help me.

12. Many calves have surrounded me: fat bulls have besieged me.

13. They have opened their mouths against me, as a lion ravening and roaring.

14. I am poured out like water; and all my bones are scattered.

15. My heart is become like wax melting in the midst of my bowels.

16. My strength is dried up like a potsherd, and my tongue hath cleaved to my jaws: and thou hast brought me down into the dust of death.

17. For many dogs have encompassed me: the council of the malignant hath besieged me.

18. They have dug my hands and feet. They have numbered all my bones.

19. And they have looked and stared upon me. They parted my garments amongst them; and upon my vesture they cast lots.

20. But thou, O Lord, remove not thy help to a distance from me; look towards my defence.

21. Deliver, O God, my soul from the sword: my only one from the hand of the dog.

22. Save me from the lion's mouth; and my lowness from the horns of the unicorns.

23. I will declare thy name to my brethren: in the midst of the church will I praise thee.

24. Ye that fear the Lord, laudate eum : universum semen Jacob glorificate eum :

25. Timeat eum omne semen Israel : quoniam non sprexit, neque despexit deprecationem pauperis :

26. Nec avertit faciem suam a me : et cum clamarem ad eum, exaudivit me.

27. Apud te laus mea in ecclesia magna : vota mea reddam in conspectu timentium eum.

28. Edent pauperes, et saturabuntur : et laudabunt Dominum qui requirunt eum : vivent corda eorum in sæculum sæculi.

29. Remiscentur et convertentur ad Dominum universi fines terræ :

30. Et adorabunt in conspectu ejus universæ familiæ Gentium.

31. Quoniam Domini est regnum : et ipse dominabitur Gentium.

32. Manducaverunt et adoraverunt omnes pingues terræ : in conspectu ejus cadent omnes qui descendunt in terram.

33. Et anima mea illi vivet : et semen meum serviet ipsi.

34. Annuntiabitur Domino generatio ventura : et annuntiabunt cœli justitiam ejus populo qui nascetur, quem fecit Dominus.

1. My God, look upon the affliction in which I am ; why hast Thou abandoned me ? I see well that my sins,¹ that is, the sins of my people, which I have taken upon myself to praise him : all ye the seed of Jacob, glorify him.

25. Let all the seed of Israel fear him : because he hath not slighted nor despised the supplication of the poor man.

26. Neither hath he turned away his face from me : and when I cried to him he heard me.

27. With thee is my praise in a great church : I will pay my vows in the sight of them that fear him.

28. The poor shall eat and shall be filled : and they shall praise the Lord that seek him : their hearts shall live forever and ever.

29. All the ends of the earth shall remember, and shall be converted to the Lord :

30. And all the kindreds of the Gentiles shall adore in his sight.

31. For the kingdom is the Lord's ; and he shall have dominion over the nations.

32. All the fat ones of the earth have eaten and have adored : all they that go down to the earth shall fall before him.

33. And to him my soul shall live : and my seed shall serve him.

34. Here shall be declared to the Lord a generation to come : and the heavens shall show forth his justice to a people that shall be born, which the Lord hath made.

¹ “ Verba delictorum meorum.” According to Bellarmine and Menochins this is a Hebraism for Delicta mea.

7. All seeing me reduced to this miserable state have set themselves to mock me: they have spoken against me, and insult me by wagging their heads. A reference to the words that we read in the Gospel: Prætereuntes autem blasphemabant eum, moventes capita sua—And they that passed by blasphemed him, wagging their heads (Matt. xxvii. 39).

8. They have said: He put his hope in the Lord; let then the Lord deliver him, since he has a will for him and protects him.¹ Moreover, we read in the Gospel: Confidit in Deo; liberet nunc, si vult eum—He trusted in God; let him now deliver him, if he will have him (Matt. xxvii. 43).

9, 10. It was Thou, O Lord, who hast drawn me out of the womb of my mother, and from her breasts; since then I have placed in Thee all my hopes; I have always acknowledged Thee for my God; in mercy, then, do not abandon me.²

11. Bellarmine says that Jesus Christ is here speaking of his death which is approaching, as what precedes and what follows clearly prove.

12.³ By bulls are meant the chief priests and Pharisees, who by their sharp words and mocking jeers, as if with thrusts of horns, insulted Jesus Christ, saying: Alios salvos fecit, seipsum non potest salvum facere; si rex Israel est, descendat nunc de cruce, et credemus ei—He saved others; himself he cannot save; if he be the king of Israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe him (Matt. xxvii. 42).

13 “Sicut leo rapiens et rugiens.” Like so many famished lions greedy to devour me, roaring with rage Such were the Jews when they cried out to Pilate: Tolle, tolle; crucifige eum—Away with him, away with him, crucify him (John, xix. 15).

14. “Sicut aqua effusus sum.” I am spent of all my strength

¹ “Vult eum.” A Hebraism, say the interpreters, for Amat eum. This then signifies: If it is true that God is with him, as he assures us.

² “Quoniam.” Bellarmine observes that this particle does not always mark the cause, but that it is often put for the conjunction Et or Autem, and that it is even at times redundant, like a simple ornament. “In te projectus sum ex utero.” Allusion, says Canon Ganme, to the ancient custom of putting the child on the knees of the father after it is born through the shedding of my blood, which has poured forth from my body like water from a vase. “Dispersa.” According to the Hebrew: Divulsa—Torn from their sockets, out of joint.

³ “Vituli.” There are some that understand by this the men of the people.

15. Notwithstanding all that, my heart, far from being hardened against my enemies, has become soft like melted wax, through the compassion that I have for their evils.¹

16. “Et in pulverem mortis deduxisti me.” In short, Thou hast, O my God, brought me to lie beneath the dust of the tomb that covers the dead.

18. They have pierced my hands and my feet with nails; they have so stretched my body upon the cross that all my bones can be counted. In these words David clearly describes the crucifixion of Jesus Christ; thus St. Jerome, St. Augustine, Theodoret, and Euthymius explain the passage.

19. My executioners after crucifying me have set themselves to watch me with contempt, and to gaze upon my sufferings with complacency. They have parted my garments among them, and for my under-tunic, which was woven entire, and without seam, they cast lots. This text is quoted in the Gospel where we read: Ut impleretur quod dictum est per Prophetam, dicentem: Diviserunt sibi, etc.—That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying: They divided my garments, etc. (Matt. xxvii. 35). This is a certain proof that our Saviour died naked upon the cross.

21. Save my life promptly from the sword of death by raising up my body after I shall be dead. Cause my soul, which appears now left alone and abandoned, to triumph over the infernal dog.

22. Save me from the lion, which keeps its mouth open to devour me; and protect my weakness from the assaults of these ferocious unicorns.

23. The prophet here speaks more expressly of the resurrection of our Lord, and of the fruit that it would produce, namely, the conversion of the Gentiles. He says: I will publish the glory of Thy name by means of my brethren the apostles, etc.

¹ It is thus that he went so far as to pray for them by excusing them, saying: Pater, dimitte illis; non enim sciunt quid faciunt.—Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do (Luke, xxiii. 34).

24. "Semen Jacob:" By this is meant Christians who have the faith of Jacob.

25. "Pauperis:" This poor man is Jesus Christ himself, who died upon the cross naked and abandoned by all.

27. I will praise Thee, O Lord, in the great assembly, the Church of the faithful gathered together from all the nations. In their presence I will pay my vows, renewing my sacrifice, by the ministry of my priests.

28. The poor in spirit, who are conscious of their spiritual misery, shall feed upon and be satiated with grace; and they that seek the Lord shall praise him, and hence their souls shall live eternally.

29, 30. All the nations even to the farthest bounds of the earth shall call to mind the benefits of God, and the mysteries of the Redemption, which shall be preached to them, and they shall be converted to the Lord; so that all the nations of the Gentiles shall enter the Church to adore the true God.

32. Not only the poor, but also "Pingues terræ," the great and powerful of the earth, who abound in riches, shall eat at the table of the Lord, and shall adore him; and in bowing down to adore, they shall humble themselves even to the earth. "In terram." According to the Hebrew: In pulverem—To the dust. Hence this other interpretation, which is also probable: All men, who since they are mortal must return to dust, shall prostrate themselves before him.

34.¹ The generation to come of believers shall receive the good tidings of the Lord, that is to say, the knowledge of the faith; and the heavens, or heavenly men, shall publish the justice of God, or the justice of faith, which makes men just,—to the new people that shall be born to the life of grace; a people which the Lord has made, that is, a special people of God, created in Jesus Christ.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM CXVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

In the Hebrew text the first eight verses of this psalm begin each by the first letter of the alphabet, the eight following by the second, and so on with the twenty-two letters of the alphabet. This seems to have been done to help the memory. The learned say that this psalm is so

5. Grant, O Lord, that my conduct may always be so directed that I keep Thy precepts.¹

¹ "Justificationes." The precepts of the divine law are thus called in Scripture because they are just, and because they that observe them proach and contempt: because I have sought after thy testimonies.

23. For princes sat, and spoke against me: but thy servant was employed in thy justifications.

24. For thy testimonies are my meditation: and thy justifications my counsel.

25. My soul hath cleaved to the pavement: quicken thou me according to thy word.

26. I have declared my ways, and thou hast heard me: teach me thy justifications.

27. Make me to understand the way of thy justifications: and I shall be exercised in thy wondrous works.

28. My soul hath slumbered through heaviness: strengthen thou me in thy words.

29. Remove from me the way of iniquity: and out of thy law have mercy on me.

30. I have chosen the way of truth: thy judgments I have not forgotten.

31. I have stuck to thy testimonies, O Lord: put me not to shame.

32. I have run the way of thy commandments, when thou didst enlarge my heart.

6. I shall not be confounded at Thy judgment, I have always the intention to observe what Thou dost command me.

7. I will give thanks to Thee with an upright, sincere heart, for having taught me to observe Thy just commandments.

8. I hope with Thy help to observe them faithfully; O Lord! cease not to assist me.

9. "Viam suam." The errors of his life, of his conduct.

10. "Ne repellas me." Permit me not to go astray.

11. I have endeavored to impress Thy laws on my heart, in order to avoid in any way to offend Thee.

12. Thou art blessed by Thy creatures for the graces that Thou vouchsafest them. Grant me the grace to know Thy commandments.

13. My voice has published all the laws that have come from Thy mouth.¹

17. Restore to me the life that I have lost through sin, and thus re-established in Thy grace, I shall be faithful to Thee.

18. Enlighten me with Thy light, and thus I shall see how admirable is Thy law.

19. I am a pilgrim here below, always exposed to go astray; wherefore conceal not from me Thy precepts, by the observance of which I hope to arrive at the heavenly country.

20. I desire with all my heart to keep Thy law now and forever.²

21. "Superbos." Those who through pride refuse to obey Thee.

22. Deliver me from the reproach of seeing myself despised and cursed by Thee, so that the devil should be able to say of shall be found just before the divine Judge. Factores legis justificabuntur—The doers of the law shall be justified (Rom. ii. 13).

¹ "Judicia justitiæ tuæ." The sentences, decrees, the rules of conduct that Thou hast established according to Thy justice. In this verse and the three following verses the prophet expresses his affection for the law of God; it is always in his mouth, in his will, in his intelligence, and in his memory.

² Desire and petition for persevering in fervor. In verses 17 to 32 the prophet makes us ask for the grace to avoid or to overcome what hinders us from practising well the law of God; namely, the death of the soul, the passions that make one blind, the dangers of the world, tepidity, pride, the devil, human respect, earthly affections, ignorance, tediousness, discouragement, sadness.

PSALM CXVIII.—(Continued.)

33. Legem pone mihi Domine viam justificationum tuarum: et exquiram eam semper.

34. Da mihi intellectum, et scrutabor legem tuam: et custodiam illam in toto corde meo.

35. Deduc me in semitam mandatorum tuorum: quia ipsam volui.

36. Inclina cor meum in testimonia tua: et non in avaritiam.

37. Averte oculos meos ne videant vanitatem: in via tua vivifica me.

38. Statue servo tuo eloquium tuum, in timore tuo.

39. Amputa opprobrium meum, quod suspicatus sum: quia judicia tua jucunda.

40. Ecce concupivi mandata tua: in æquitate tua vivifica me.

41. Et veniat super me misericordia tua Domine: salutare tuum secundum eloquium tuum.

42. Et respondebo exprobrantibus mihi verbum: quia speravi in sermonibus tuis.

43. Et ne auferas de ore meo verbum veritatis usquequaque: quia in judiciis tuis supersperavi.

44. Et custodiam legem tuam semper: in sæculum et in sæculum sæculi.

33. Set before me for a law the way of thy justifications, O Lord: and I will always seek after it.

34. Give me understanding, and I will search thy law; and I will keep it with my whole heart.

35. Lead me into the path of thy commandments; for this same I have desired.

36. Incline my heart unto thy testimonies and not to covetousness.

37. Turn away my eyes that they may not behold vanity: quicken me in thy way.

38. Establish thy word to thy servant, in thy fear.

39. Turn away my reproach, which I have apprehended: for thy judgments are delightful.

40. Behold I have longed after thy precepts: quicken me in thy justice.

41. Let thy mercy also come upon me, O Lord: thy salvation according to thy word.

42. So shall I answer them that reproach me in any thing; that I have trusted in thy words.

43. And take not thou the word of truth utterly out of my mouth: for in thy words, I have hoped exceedingly.

44. So shall I always keep thy law: forever and ever.

45. Et ambulabam in latitudine: quia mandata tua exquisivi.

46. Et loquebar in testimoniis tuis in conspectu regum: et non confundebam.

47. Et meditabar in mandatis tuis, quæ dilexi.

48. Et levavi manus meas ad mandata tua, quæ dilexi: et exercebar in justificationibus tuis.

49. Memor esto verbi tui servo tuo, in quo mihi spem dedisti.

50. Hæc me consolata est in humilitate mea: quia eloquium tuum vivificavit me.

51. Superbi inique agebant usquequaque: a lege autem tua non declinavi.

52. Memor fui iudiciorum tuorum a sæculo Domine: et consolatus sum.

53. Defectio tenuit me, pro peccatoribus derelinentibus legem tuam.

54. Cantabiles mihi erant justificationes tuæ, in loco peregrinationis meæ.

55. Memor fui nocte nominis tui Domine: et custodivi legem tuam.

56. Hæc facta est mihi: quia justificationes tuas exquisivi.

57. Portio mea Domine, dixi custodire legem tuam.

58. Deprecatus sum faciem tuam in toto corde meo: miserere mei secundum eloquium tuum.

59. Cogitavi vias meas: et converti pedes meos in testimonia tua.

60. Paratus sum, et non sum turbatus: ut custodiam mandata tua.

45. And I walked at large: because I have sought after thy commandments.

46. And I spoke of thy testimonies before kings: and I was not ashamed.

47. I meditated also on thy commandments, which I loved.

48. And I lifted up my hands to thy commandments, which I loved: and I was exercised in thy justification.

49. Be thou mindful of thy word to thy servant, in which thou hast given me hope.

50. This hath comforted me in my humiliation: because thy word hath enlivened me.

51. The proud did iniquitously altogether: but I declined not from thy law.

52. I remembered, O Lord, thy judgments of old: and I was comforted.

53. A fainting hath taken hold of me, because of the wicked that forsake thy law.

54. Thy justifications were the subject of my song, in the place of my pilgrimage.

55. In the night I have remembered thy name, O Lord: and have kept thy law.

56. This happened to me: because I sought after thy justifications.

57. O Lord, my portion, I have said, I would keep thy law.

58. I entreated thy face with all my heart: have mercy on me according to thy word.

59. I have thought on my ways: and turned my feet unto thy testimonies.

60. I am ready, and am not troubled: that I may keep thy commandments.

61. Funes peccatorum circumplexi sunt me: et legem tuam non sum oblitus.

62. Media nocte surgebam ad confitendum tibi, super iudicia justificationis tuæ.

63. Particeps ego sum omnium timentium te: et custodientium mandata tua.

64. Misericordia tua Domine plena est terra: justificationes tuas doce me.

65. Bonitatem fecisti cum servo tuo Domine, secundum verbum tuum.

66. Bonitatem, et disciplinam, et scientiam doce me: quia mandatis tuis credidi.

67. Priusquam humiliarer, ego deliqui: propterea eloquium tuum custodivi.

68. Bonus es tu: et in bonitate tua doce me justificationes tuas.

69. Multiplicata est super me iniquitas superbiorum: ego autem in toto corde meo scrutabor mandata tua.

70. Coagulatum est sicut lac cor eorum: ego vero legem tuam meditatus sum.

71. Bonum mihi quia humiliasti me: ut discam justificationes tuas.

72. Bonum mihi lex oris tui, super millia auri, et argenti.

73. Manus tuæ fecerunt me, et plasmaverunt me: da mihi intellectum, et discam mandata tua.

74. Qui timent te, videbunt me, et lætabuntur: quia in verba tua supersperavi.

75. Cognovi Domine quia

61. The cords of the wicked have encompassed me: but I have not forgotten thy law.

62. I rose at midnight to give praise to thee; for the judgments of thy justification.

63. I am a partaker with all them that fear thee, and that keep thy commandments.

64. The earth, O Lord, is full of thy mercy: teach me thy justifications.

65. Thou hast done well with thy servant, O Lord, according to thy word.

66. Teach me goodness and discipline and knowledge: for I have believed thy commandments.

67. Before I was humbled I offended; therefore have I kept thy word.

68. Thou art good; and in thy goodness teach me thy justifications.

69. The iniquity of the proud hath been multiplied over me: but I will seek thy commandments with my whole heart.

70. Their heart is curdled like milk; but I have meditated on thy law.

71. It is good for me that thou hast humbled me, that I may learn thy justifications.

72. The law of thy mouth is good to me, above thousands of gold and silver.

73. Thy hands have made me and formed me: give me understanding, and I will learn thy commandments.

74. They that fear thee shall see me, and shall be glad: because I have greatly hoped in thy words.

75. I know, O Lord, that thy transgressing Thy precepts, which are so pleasant to those that observe them.

40. I have set my heart upon Thy law; it is just, then, that Thou shouldst give me strength to observe it.

41. Let Thy mercy come upon me, and Thy saving help according to the promise that Thou hast made to him who prays to Thee in the name of the Saviour.

42. To those that reproach me for living in this state of humiliation, I will answer that I hope in Thy promises, which can never fail.¹

43. Permit not that I ever fail of telling the truth, for I have placed all my hopes in Thy judgments, which are full of mercy.

45. By the effect of Thy love which enlarges hearts, I have found myself at large walking in the way of Thy precepts, for I have sought to observe them with exactness.

49. "Verbi tui." The promise that Thou hast made.

50. This hope has consoled me in my tribulations, for Thy promise has given me strength to suffer them with patience.

51. My enemies, proud of their power, have hitherto unjustly persecuted me, but I have never failed in the observance of Thy law.

52. We here remark that we should fear the judgments of God if we are unfaithful to him; but when we are faithful to him, with his help, which we shall certainly obtain if we are careful to ask it of him by prayer, the judgments of God should not terrify, but should rather console us; for these judgments are full of joy and comfort, because full of mercy, as David says in verse 39: Judicia tua jucunda—Thy judgments are pleasant. This is the reason why he adds in verse 43, that in his confidence in these same judgments he places all his hope of salvation: Quia in judiciis tuis supersperavi—For in Thy judgments I have hoped exceedingly.²

53. I have felt myself as if fainting away for sorrow at the ¹ Promises of recompense for those that observe Thy Law.

² We remark here that the word Judicium or Judicia in this psalm can be understood of three ways that are linked together, namely, of the law itself as in verses 7, 13. etc., of the judgment that will be pronounced on the observance of this law; or of the recompense or chastisement that will be merited.

sight of so many sinners, who despise Thy law. See verses 139 and 158.

54. For myself, whilst here on earth, I have ever praised Thy ordinances.

55. During the night I have been mindful of Thy name; I have invoked it, and so have had strength to keep Thy law.

56. All this has happened to me because I have striven to obey Thy just commands.

57. "Portio mea." My portion, my riches.

58. "Secundum eloquium tuum." According to Thy promise.

59. I have considered the ways that I should keep, and have directed my steps in the path of Thy commandments.

60. "Paratus sum, et non sum turbatus." I have prepared myself to suffer all tribulations, and am not troubled at the sight of difficulties.

62. "Judicia justificationis tuæ." Thy just judgments, decrees, ordinances.

64. "Justificationes tuas doce me." Teach me Thy just ordinances, and give me strength to observe them.

65. "Verbum tuum." Thy promise.

66. Deign to teach me after Thy example the goodness that I should show forth to others; instruct me in the rule of how to live well, and give me the science of the saints, which consists in knowing how to love Thee; for I have placed all my hopes in the fulfilment of Thy precepts.

67. I sinned, and then Thou didst humble me with tribulations; these have taught me to keep Thy law. See verse 71.

69. The iniquity of the proud, who are properly the infernal spirits, is multiplied against me, to make me transgress Thy law; but I will ever study with all my heart to enter into the purposes of Thy holy will concerning me, that I may accomplish them.

70. "Coagulatum est sicut lac." Is hardened like curdled milk.

71. "Ut discam justificationes tuas." That I may learn how to keep Thy precepts. We may here remark how necessary it is to keep ourselves humble before God and before men; for the Lord, as he did with David, is wont to chastise the proud, by permitting them to fall into shameful sins such as they had previously held in abhorrence.

73. Thy hands have formed me so that I am the work of Thy hands; but by sin I have lost the knowledge and the love of Thy law; give me, then, understanding to know it, and love to keep it.

74. Those that fear Thee will rejoice to see that I keep Thy law, and that I have put all my hopes in Thy promises.

75. "In veritate tua." In Thy justice.

76. "Secundum eloquium tuum." According to the promises that Thou hast made.

77. Make me feel the effects of Thy mercy, and then I shall always live in Thy grace, because I meditate only upon Thy law in order not to transgress it.

80. May my heart become pure through the observance of Thy precepts, that I may not one day incur the confusion of having transgressed them.

95. Me expectaverunt peccatores ut perderent me: testimonia tua intellexi.

96. Omnis consummationis vidi finem: latum mandatum tuum nimis.

97. Quomodo dilexi legem tuam Domine? tota die meditatio mea est.

98. Super inimicos meos prudentem me fecisti mandato tuo: quia in æternum mihi est.

99. Super omnes docentes me intellexi: quia testimonia tua meditatio mea est.

100. Super senes intellexi: quia mandata tua quæsivi.

101. Ab omni via mala prohibui pedes meos; ut custodiam verba tua.

102. A judiciis tuis non declinavi: quia tu legem posuisti mihi.

103. Quam dulcia faucibus meis eloquia tua, super mel ori meo?

104. A mandatis tuis intellexi: propterea odivi omnem viam iniquitatis.

105. Lucerna pedibus meis verbum tuum, et lumen semitis meis.

106. Juravi, et statui, custodire judicia justitiæ tuæ.

107. Humiliatus sum usquequaque Domine: vivifica me secundum verbum tuum.

108. Voluntaria oris mei beneplacita fac Domine: et judicia tua doce me,

95. The wicked have waited for me to destroy me: but I have understood thy testimonies.

96. I have seen an end of all perfection: thy commandment is exceeding broad.

97. O how have I loved thy law, O Lord! it is my meditation all the day.

98 Through thy commandment, thou hast made me wiser than my enemies: for it is ever with me.

99. I have understood more than all my teachers: because thy testimonies are my meditation.

100. I have had understanding above ancients: because I have sought thy commandments.

101. I have restrained my feet from every evil way: that I may keep thy words.

102. I have not declined from thy judgments: because thou hast set me a law.

103. How sweet are thy words to my palate, more than honey to my mouth!

104. By thy commandments I have had understanding: therefore have I hated every way of iniquity.

105. Thy word is a lamp to my feet, and a light to my paths.

106. I have sworn and am determined to keep the judgments of thy justice.

107. I have been humbled, O Lord, exceedingly: quicken thou me according to thy word.

108. The free offerings of my mouth make acceptable, O Lord: and teach me thy judgments,

109. Anima mea in manibus meis semper: et legem tuam non sum oblitus.

110. Posuerunt peccatores laqueum mihi: et de mandatis tuis non erravi.

111. Hereditate acquisivi testimonia tua in æternum: quia exultatio cordis mei sunt.

112. Inclinavi cor meum ad faciendas justificationes tuas in æternum, propter retributionem.

113. Iniquos odio habui: et legem tuam dilexi.

114. Adjutor et susceptor meus es tu: et in verbum tuum supersperavi.

115. Declinate a me maligni: et scrutabor mandata Dei mei.

116. Suscipe me secundum eloquium tuum, et vivam: et non confundas me ab expectatione mea.

117. Adjuva me, et salvus ero: et meditabor in justificationibus tuis semper.

118. Sprevistis omnes discedentes a judiciis tuis: quia injusta cogitatio eorum.

119. Prævaricantes reputavi omnes peccatores terræ: ideo dilexi testimonia tua.

120. Confige timore tuo carnes meas: a judiciis enim tuis timui.

121. Feci iudicium et justitiam: non tradas me calumniantibus me.

122. Suscipe servum tuum in bonum: non calumnientur me superbi.

123. Oculi mei defecerunt in salutare tuum: et in eloquium justitiæ tuæ,

109. My soul is continually in my hands: and I have not forgotten thy law.

110. Sinners have laid a snare for me: but I have not erred from thy precepts.

111. I have purchased thy testimonies for an inheritance forever: because they are the joy of my heart.

112. I have inclined my heart to do thy justifications forever: for the reward.

113. I have hated the unjust: and have loved thy law.

114. Thou art my helper and my protector: and in thy word I have greatly hoped.

115. Depart from me, ye malignant: and I will search the commandments of my God.

116. Uphold me according to thy word, and I shall live: and let me not be confounded in my expectation.

117. Help me, and I shall be saved: and I will meditate always on thy justifications.

118. Thou hast despised all them that fall off from thy judgments; for their thought is unjust.

119. I have accounted all the sinners of the earth prevaricators: therefore have I loved thy testimonies.

120. Pierce thou my flesh with thy fear: for I am afraid of thy judgments.

121. I have done judgment and justice: give me not up to them that slander me.

122. Uphold thy servant unto good: let not the proud calumniate me.

123. My eyes have fainted after thy salvation: and for the word of thy justice,

124. Fac cum servo tuo secundum misericordiam tuam: et justificationes tuas doce me.

125. Servus tuus sum ego: da mihi intellectum, ut sciam testimonia tua.

126. Tempus faciendi Domine: dissipaverunt legem tuam.

127. Ideo dilexi mandata tua, super aurum et topazion.

128. Propterea ad omnia mandata tua dirigebar: omnem viam iniquam odio habui.

124. Deal with thy servant according to thy mercy: and teach me thy justifications.

125. I am thy servant: give me understanding that I may know thy testimonies.

126. It is time, O Lord, to do: they have dissipated thy law.

127. Therefore have I loved thy commandments above gold and the topaz.

128. Therefore was I directed to all thy commandments: I have hated all wicked ways.

None.

129. Mirabilia testimonia tua: ideo scrutata est ea anima mea.

130. Declaratio sermonum tuorum illuminat: et intellectum dat parvulis.

131. Os meum aperui, et atraxi spiritum quia mandata tua desiderabam.

132. Aspice in me, et miserere mei, secundum iudicium diligentium nomen tuum.

133. Gressus meos dirige secundum eloquium tuum: et non dominetur mei omnis iniustitia.

134. Redime me a calumniis hominum: ut custodiam mandata tua.

135. Faciem tuam illumina super servum tuum: et doce me justificationes tuas.

136. Exitus aquarum deduxerunt oculi mei: quia non custodierunt legem tuam.

137. Justus es Domine: et rectum iudicium tuum.

138. Mandasti iustitiam testimonia tua: et veritatem tuam nimis.

129. Thy testimonies are wonderful: therefore my soul hath sought them.

130. The declaration of thy words giveth light: and giveth understanding to little ones.

131. I opened my mouth, and panted: because I longed for thy commandments.

132. Look thou upon me, and have mercy on me, according to the judgment of them that loved thy name.

133. Direct my steps according to thy word: and let no iniquity have dominion over me.

134. Redeem me from the calumnies of men: that I may keep thy commandments.

135. Make thy face to shine upon thy servant: and teach me thy justifications.

136. My eyes have sent forth springs of water: because they have not kept thy law.

137. Thou art just, O Lord: and thy judgment is right.

138. Thou hast commanded justice thy testimonies: and thy truth exceedingly.

154. Judica judicium meum et redime me: propter eloquium tuum vivifica me.

155. Longe a peccatoribus salus: quia justificationes tuas non exquisierunt.

156. Misericordiæ tuæ multæ Domine: secundum judicium tuum vivifica me.

157. Multi qui persecuntur me, et tribulant me: a testimoniis tuis non declinavi.

158. Vidi prævaricantes, et tabescebam: quia eloquia tua non custodierunt.

159. Vide quoniam mandata tua dilexi Domine: in misericordia tua vivifica me.

160. Principium verborum tuorum, veritas: in æternum omnia judicia justitiæ tuæ.

161. Principes persecuti sunt me gratis: et a verbis tuis formidavit cor meum.

162. Lætabor ego super eloquia tua: sicut qui invenit spolia multa.

163. Iniquitatem odio habui, et abominatus sum: legem autem tuam dilexi.

164. Septies in die laudem dixi tibi: super judicia justitiæ tuæ.

165. Pax multa diligentibus legem tuam: et non est illis scandalum.

166. Expectabam salutare tuum Domine: et mandata tua dilexi.

167. Custodivit anima mea testimonia tua: et dilexit ea vehementer.

168. Servavi mandata tua, et testimonia tua: quia omnes viæ meæ in conspectu tuo.

154. Judge my judgment and redeem me: quicken thou me for thy word's sake.

155. Salvation is far from sinners: because they have not sought thy justifications.

156. Many, O Lord, are thy mercies: quicken me according to thy judgment.

157. Many are they that persecute me, and afflict me: but I have not declined from thy testimonies.

158. I beheld the transgressors, and I pined away: because they kept not thy word.

159. Behold I have loved thy commandments, O Lord: quicken me thou in thy mercy.

160. The beginning of thy words is truth: all the judgments of thy justice are forever.

161. Princes have persecuted me without cause: and my heart hath been in awe of thy words.

162. I will rejoice at thy words, as one that hath found great spoil.

163. I have hated and abhorred iniquity: but I have loved thy law.

164. Seven times a day I have given praise to thee, for the judgments of thy justice.

165. Much peace have they that love thy law: and to them there is no stumbling-block.

166. I looked for thy salvation, O Lord: and I loved thy commandments.

167. My soul hath kept thy testimonies, and hath loved them exceedingly.

168. I have kept thy commandments and thy testimonies: because all my ways are in thy sight.

169. Appropinquet deprecatio mea in conspectu tuo Domine: juxta eloquium tuum da mihi intellectum.

170. Intret postulatio mea in conspectu tuo: secundum eloquium tuum eripe me.

171. Eructabunt labia mea hymnum, cum docueris me justificationes tuas.

172. Pronuntiabit lingua mea eloquium tuum: quia omnia mandata tua æquitas.

173. Fiat manus tua, ut salvet me: quoniam mandata tua elegi.

174. Concupivi salutare tuum Domine: et lex tua meditatio mea est.

175. Vivet anima mea, et laudabit te: et judicia tua adjuvabunt me.

176. Erravi, sicut ovis, quæ periit: quære servum tuum, quia mandata tua non sum oblitus.

169. Let my supplication, O Lord, come near in thy sight: give me understanding according to thy word.

170. Let my request come in before thee: deliver thou me according to thy word.

171. My lips shall utter a hymn, when thou shalt teach me thy justifications.

172. My tongue shall pronounce thy word: because all thy commandments are justice.

173. Let thy hand be with me to save me: for I have chosen thy precepts.

174. I have longed for thy salvation, O Lord: and thy law is my meditation.

175. My soul shall live, and shall praise thee: and thy judgments shall help me.

176. I have gone astray like a sheep that is lost: seek thy servant, because I have not forgotten thy commandments.

81. My soul has fainted away for desire to see myself saved from so many anguishes and fears that torment me; all my hope is in Thy promise.

82. My eyes too have grown faint through keeping them fixed on Thee, expecting the effect of Thy word.

83. "Pruina." This word has given rise to different interpretations. Mattei thinks that it is put in place of Fumo: In the smoke; because the Hebrew word is thus rendered by St. Jerome in Genesis (xix. 28),¹ and Emmanuel Sa explains it in the same sense according to the Chaldee: Ad fumum. So that the meaning of the passage would be: By reason of my sufferings I am become like a skin that has become shrivelled and blackened by the smoke. But others keeping to the Vulgate explain it thus: The sufferings that I have endured have made me become like a skin grown slack by the damp, and then is contracted and hardened by the frost; that is to say, have made me become tepid. Of these two interpretations the reader can choose the one that most approves itself to him. For my part, I prefer the second, because it is in conformity with the letter of the Vulgate and is the one most commonly received.

¹ But here the holy Doctor translates as in the Vulgate: In pruina. In these three verses and in several others, especially in verse 123, says Gaume, is expressed in a touching manner the happy martyrdom of a soul whom nothing turns aside from the sight of the sovereign good, who sighs after the visit of its God, calls for him in a loud voice, and while waiting, finds its only repose in the confidence and fidelity that it never ceases to offer him.

84. How many days must Thy servant remain thus tried? When wilt Thou pass judgment on my persecutors, and punish them as they deserve?

85. These wicked men have set before my eyes the goods of this world, which in truth are all deceitful fables when confronted with Thy law, which alone satisfies him who keeps it.

86. "Veritas." They are the very truth, which gives true peace to him who observes them.¹

87. They had all but ruined me here on earth with their temptations; but with Thy help I have not ceased to obey Thy precepts.

89-92. These four verses are variously interpreted. The best and most suitable explanation appears to me to be that given by Mattei, with Bossuet and several others, according to which David means here to say: O Lord, the heavens obey Thee, by always remaining in the state wherein Thou hast placed them; in like manner the earth remains the same as when Thou didst first establish it; so, too, the day and all irrational creatures obey Thee. After this the psalmist concludes: If I had not obeyed Thee myself, by meditating and observing Thy law in the numerous persecutions that I have suffered, I should have perished through my weakness.²

93. "Vivificasti me." Thou hast preserved my life.

¹ All is just and true: they will not fail to realize their promises and their menaces. The same expression as in verses 142 and 151.

² "Meditatio." According to the Hebrew: Delectatio. We understand thereby, says Bellarmine, that there is question here of an agreeable and a sweet meditation which recreates and sustains the heart of man in his trials by the consideration of the divine promises.—"In humilitate." St. Jerome translates: In pressura.

112. "Propter retributionem." Mindful of the recompense that Thou hast promised to Thy faithful servants.¹

114. "In verbum tuum supersperavi." In Thy promise I have put all my confidence.

115. Come not to disturb me; I wish to give myself to search into the precepts of my God, that I may observe them with exactness.

116. O Lord, take me under Thy protection, as Thou hast promised, that I may live to Thee; do not, I beseech Thee, permit me to fall into the confusion of being deprived of the help that I expect from Thee.²

118. "Injusta cogitatio eorum." They give themselves to thoughts contrary to justice.³

119. Sinners are such so far as they transgress the divine law; for where there is no law there is no sin.

120. Pierce through and restrain my flesh, that is, my carnal appetites, with Thy holy fear, for Thy judgments make me tremble.

121. I have always taken care to observe justice; suffer not that I remain abandoned in the hands of my calumniators.

122. Take care of me and confirm me unto good, so that the proud, my enemies, whether men or demons, may not overwhelm me by their calumnies.

123. See verses 81 · 83.

124. "Justificationes tuas doce me." Teach me how I should obey Thy precepts.

¹ St. Jerome renders it: Propter æternam retributionem—Because of the eternal reward. This reward is chiefly the possession of God himself as he said to Abraham: Ego . . . merces tua magna nimis—I am . . . thy reward exceeding great (Gen. xv. 1). See, moreover, Psalm xv. 5; lxxii. 24, 25. The whole law is the love of God; now love seeks and wishes only the object loved.

² "Vivam." I shall then live a true life. There are some that believe this verb to be in the subjunctive mood, and thus translate the word: Make me live. See the same expression in verses 77 and 144.

³ Nothing is more unjust than the thoughts of the proud, especially in regard to God whom they refuse to obey as Satan refused; but the more they esteem themselves, the more the Lord despises them; and he lets them fall into the abyss that they dig for themselves by their pride.

125. I am Thy servant, obliged to obey Thee; make me understand well Thy commands, that I may know them and put them in execution.

126. It is time to manifest Thy justice against those that destroy Thy law.

127. For my part, this shameful conduct of theirs moves me to love Thy precepts more than gold and precious stones.

128. Therefore have I set myself not to transgress any one of Thy precepts; and I have abhorred not iniquity only, but also every occasion that might lead me to sin.

129. Thy law and all the truths that Thou hast revealed to us are indeed worthy of our admiration; therefore has my soul studied to penetrate them.

130. When the hidden sense of the divine Scriptures is explained by the holy Doctors, there arises a light that dispels the darkness and that gives to the humble the true intelligence in which the proud can have no part.

131. I opened my mouth in prayer to Thee, and have received from Thee the good spirit,¹ that is, the help to keep Thy commandments; for my desire is to fulfil them exactly.

132. "Secundum judicium." According as Thou art wont to deal with.²

133. Make me conduct myself according to Thy law, and permit not that any unjust passion should have dominion over me.

135. Enlighten me by looking upon Thy servant with a gracious eye and render him faithful to Thy service.

137. "Justus es." Thou art just by essence; Thou art justice itself.

138. Whatsoever Thou hast commanded and attested, all is justice and evident truth.

139. "Zelus meus." My zeal for Thy glory. "Verba tua." Thy commandments. See verses 53 and 158.

140. "Ignitum." According to the Hebrew: Probatum et examinatum igne—Proved and tried in the fire. That is: Thy ¹ "Attraxi spiritum." Literally, I inhaled the air, or drew in my breath, that is, I sighed deeply; a figure that expresses an ardent desire.

² "Judicium." The Hebrew word, says Bellarmine, signifies judicium, morem, consuetudinem, modum, et alia.

law is most pure, as gold refined by fire; and it inflames hearts with an ardent love; therefore I have always loved Thee.¹

141. I am a young man of but few years and without consideration; but I do not forget Thy precepts.²

142. “Veritas.” See verses 86 and 151.

143. In the pains that afflict me, I am sustained by meditating upon Thy law.

144. Thy precepts are and will ever be just; grant that I may understand them well, and thus I shall always live faithful to Thee.

145. “Justificationes tuas requiram.” Thus shall I strive to discover Thy holy will, in order to accomplish it.

146. “Salvum me fac.” Save me by giving me needful help.

147. “In maturitate.” According to the Hebrew and the Greek: In diluculo—At the dawn. I have begun at break of day to call upon Thee, because I have hoped much in Thy promises.

149. “Secundum judicium tuum, vivifica me.” According to Thy promise, give me strength to be faithful.

150. My persecutors have made themselves friends of iniquity by seeking to pervert others. But woe to them! the nearer they approach to iniquity, the farther do they depart from Thy law.

151. Thou art ever at hand to succor him that loves Thy law, which is all just and faithful. “Veritas.” See verses 86 and 142.

152. From the beginning when I knew Thy commandments, I knew at the same time that they are eternal, that is, unchangeable.

154. According to Thy justice, rescue me from the hands of ¹ We can compare this with verse 7 of Psalm xi., and with what Moses has said in speaking of the apparition of God on Mount Sinai: In dextra ejus ignea lex—In his right hand a fiery law (Deut. xxxiii. 2). The law of God can be called thus, because as fire it illumines, purifies, and inflames by producing in souls divine love. See also Psalm xviii.

² St. Jerome translates: Parvulus sum ego, et contemptibilis; sed præcepta tua non sum oblitus. That is, in our opinion: I am small and miserable; but if I observe well Thy law, I shall be tall and rich, as much as it is possible for one to be so. See verses 14, 22, and 162.

172. "Eloquium tuum." Thy law.

173. "Elegi." I have resolved always to keep.

174. I much desired Thy grace, which is to save me; and therefore do I meditate solely upon Thy law.

175. I hope that my soul will always live united to Thee, and will ever praise Thee; and Thy judgments, which are full of mercy, will help me to be faithful to Thee.

176. In time past I have gone astray like a sheep that through leaving its shepherd, was lost; mayest Thou prevent this misfortune from coming over me; and if I should fall into it, deign to bring me back; for notwithstanding my wanderings I have never entirely forgotten Thy law; I have always desired to be Thy servant.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM CIX. OF THE PSALTER.

The reign of Jesus Christ, his eternal and temporal generation, his priesthood and his Passion, form the subject of this psalm. It is in the literal sense that we must understand it as referring to our Lord Jesus Christ; for he himself applies it to himself to convince the Jews that he is the true Son of God, as we read in the Gospel of St. Matthew, xxii. 44. In fact, after asking them how David can proclaim Christ his Lord, since Christ was to descend from him, David, he stated this irrefutable argument: If David calls him his Lord, how being his Lord could he be also his Son?—Si ergo David vocat eum Dominum, quomodo filius ejus est? (Ib. 45.) The Jews did not answer that the Messiah could not be the Lord of David, as true God; but they would not allow that Jesus was the Messiah or Christ of whom David had spoken. We Christians all believe that Jesus Christ was the true Messiah. Thus are refuted the Arians who refuse to acknowledge Jesus Christ as the true Son of God, and true God as his Father. And in fact how can they speak thus since David proclaims as his Lord this same Jesus Christ as his Son?

1. DIXIT Dominus Domino meo: Sede a dextris meis,

2. Donec ponam inimicos tuos, scabellum pedum tuorum.

3. Virgam virtutis tuæ emittet Dominus ex Sion: dominare in medio inimicorum tuorum.

4. Tecum principium in die virtutis tuæ in splendoribus sanctorum: ex utero ante luciferum genui te.

5. Juravit Dominus, et non pœnitebit eum: Tu es sacerdos in æternum secundum ordinem Melchisedech.

6. Dominus a dextris tuis, confregit in die iræ suæ reges.

1. THE Lord said to my Lord: Sit thou at my right hand,

2. Until I make thy enemies, thy footstool.

3. The Lord will send forth the sceptre of thy power out of Sion: rule thou in the midst of thy enemies.

4. With thee is the principality in the day of thy strength, in the brightness of the saints: from the womb before the day-star I begot thee.

5. The Lord hath sworn, and he will not repent: Thou art a priest forever according to the order of Melchisedech.

6. The Lord at thy right hand, hath broken kings in the day of his wrath,

7. Judicabit in nationibus, implebit ruinas: conquassabit capita in terra multorum.

7. He shall judge among nations, he shall fill ruins: he shall crush the heads in the land of many.

8. De torrente in via bibet: propterea exaltabit caput.

8. He shall drink of the torrent in the way: therefore shall he lift up the head.

1. "Dixit Dominus Domino meo." That is: The eternal Father said to Jesus Christ. For "Dominus Domino meo," the Hebrew reads: Jehova Ladoni. Jehova is a name that belongs to God only; it signifies HE WHO IS. The Hebrews through reverence did not pronounce the name of God. Ladoni, the dative of the word Adoni, means: To my Lord; the name that is applied to the Messiah, not only as God, but also as man; and it is for this reason that David uses it here; for if he had designated Jesus Christ by the name of Jehova, he would have been understood as speaking of him as God only, and not as man. "Sede a dextris meis." Be seated. "Sede" signifies supreme authority given to Jesus Christ as sitting at the right hand of God. "A dextris meis." Equality of elevation. In reality Jesus Christ has the same dominion as his Father, not only as God, but as man, since his most sacred humanity has been raised to this exaltation by virtue of his hypostatic union with the Word, according to the words of St. Paul: Qui, cum in forma Dei esset, non rapinam arbitratus est esse se æqualem Deo. . . . Jesus Christus in gloria est Dei Patris—Who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God. . . . Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father (Phil. ii. 6, 11). There is no doubt that In gloria Dei—In the glory of God—is the same as A dextris Dei—At the right hand of God; that is: In majestate Dei—In the majesty of God. So St. Mark (xvi. 19), speaking of our Saviour ascended into heaven, says: Assumptus est in cælum, et sedet a dextris Dei—He was taken into heaven, and sitteth at the right hand of God. St. Ambrose thus comments: Audit quasi Homo, sedet quasi Dei filius—He hears as man, he sits as the Son of God (De David. apol. 2).

2. That is: Thou shalt reign at my right hand, even during the time that Thou shalt subdue Thy enemies; according to what St. Paul writes: Oportet autem illum regnare, donec ponat omnes inimicos sub pedibus ejus—For he must reign until he hath put all his enemies under his feet (1 Cor. xv. 25). “Ex utero ante luciferum genui te.” This is to be understood, according to St. Thomas, of the eternal generation of the Word: I have begotten Thee before the star called Lucifer, that is, to put a part for the whole, before all creatures; and I have begotten Thee from my womb—“Ex utero,” that is to say, from my substance, as St. Jerome explains: De sua natura, substantia. The sense, then, of the verse is this: My Son, Thy principedom over all created things shall appear when Thou shalt sit on Thy throne in the midst of the saints, who shall shine as stars or suns, to judge the world; for I have begotten Thee of my substance before the existence of the stars and of all other creatures, even from eternity.¹

5. The Lord has sworn, and will never repent of it; it is an oath and an immutable decree. He has said: Thou art priest eternal, according to the order of Melchisedech, in contradistinction to the priests according to the order of Aaron, who were subject to change and death. Jesus Christ is a Priest forever, because even in heaven he offers the merits of his Passion for the salvation of men who live on this earth; and even after the end of the world he will ever continue to offer them on behalf of men in thanksgiving for the graces bestowed upon them by God. There is also this difference between the sacrifices of the Old Law that in it animals were offered; while that of Melchisedech, in which bread and wine were offered, was a figure of the sacrifice of Mass, wherein Jesus Christ is the principal Sacrificer.²

¹ In the first four verses the prophet has described the royalty of the Messiah; in the following verse he announces what will be his priesthood.

² The differences that are found between the priesthood of Melchisedech and that of Aaron are as follows: 1. Melchisedech is represented as the perpetual Priest, without predecessor and without successor; therefore it is said of him: Neque initium dierum, neque finem vitæ habens, assimilatus autem Filio Dei, manet sacerdos in perpetuum—Having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but likened unto the Son of God, continueth a priest forever (Heb. vii. 3). Aaron has had successors. 2. Melchisedech was King and Priest; Aaron, Priest only. 3. Melchisedech offers bread and wine; Aaron offers animals. 4. Melchisedech was universal Priest, not of any nation; Aaron was Priest of the Israelites only. 5. Melchisedech had no need of a taber-

6. The Lord shall always be at Thy side, and in the day of his just vengeance he will overthrow the power of those kings who are Thy enemies. Here Mattei justly remarks that according to the Hebrew, instead of "A dextris tuis," it is Super dextera tua. Hence these words mean here, not that Jesus Christ is to sit at the right hand of God, as some understand them, but that the eternal Father, "Dominus," will give to Jesus Christ the strength to vanquish all his enemies.¹

7. Jesus Christ shall judge the rebellious nations, and will carry into effect the chastisements with which they have been threatened; he shall shiver in pieces on the earth the proud heads that rose up against him.²

8. Mattei with Marcus Marinus gives this interpretation: He shall cause the blood of his enemies to flow like a torrent in which he will quench his thirst. But others give this explanation: Nevertheless this God made man shall first during his mortal life drink the water of the torrent, that is, the chalice of his Passion, which like a torrent of pains shall overwhelm him to death; but in consequence of this death, he shall lift up his head; for thereby he shall be exalted to a throne of glory, according to the words of the Apostle: Videmus Jesum, propter passionem mortis, gloria et honore coronatum, ut, gratia Dei, pro omnibus gustaret mortem—We see Jesus . . . for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honor, . . . that through the grace of God he might taste death for all (Heb. ii. 9). Blessed death, which has restored life to all men!³

nacle or a temple to offer his sacrifice; Aaron needed one so that the Jews had no more sacrifice, because their Temple was destroyed.

² This verse well applies to the end of the world and to the Last Judgment. Hence the proud will be confounded, and the humble after having been made to drink with their divine Master of the water of the torrent, shall be glorified with him.

³ St. Paul also says: Humiliavit semetipsum, factus obediens usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis. Propter quod et Deus exaltavit illum, et donavit illi nomen quod est super omne nomen—He humbled himself,

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CX. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm the perfections of God are exalted, and he is praised for the wonders that he has wrought in behalf of his people.

1. CONFITEBOR tibi Domine in toto corde meo: in consilio justorum, et congregatione.

1. I WILL praise thee, O Lord, with my whole heart: in the council of the just, and in the congregation.

2. Magna opera Domini: exquisita in omnes voluntates ejus.

2. Great are the works of the Lord: sought out according to all his wills.

3. Confessio et magnificentia opus ejus: et justitia ejus manet in sæculum sæculi.

3. His work is praise and magnificence: and his justice continueth forever and ever.

4. Memoriam fecit mirabilium suorum, misericors et miserator Dominus: escam dedit timentibus se.

4. He hath made a remembrance of his wonderful works, being a merciful and gracious Lord: he hath given food to them that fear him.

5. Memor erit in sæculum testamenti sui: virtutem operum suorum annuntiabit populo suo:

5. He will be mindful forever of his covenant: he will show forth to his people the power of his works.

6. Ut det illis hereditatem Gentium: opera manuum ejus veritas, et judicium.

6. That he may give them the inheritance of the gentiles: the works of his hands are truth and judgment.

7. Fidelia omnia mandata ejus: confirmata in sæculum sæculi, facta in veritate et æquitate.

7. All his commandments are faithful: confirmed forever and ever, made in truth and equity.

8. Redemptionem misit populo suo: mandavit in æternum testamentum suum.

8. He hath sent redemption to his people; he hath commanded his covenant forever.

9. Sanctum, et terribile nomen ejus: initium sapientiæ timor Domini.

9. Holy and terrible is his name: the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

10. Intellectus bonus omnibus facientibus eum: laudatio ejus manet in sæculum sæculi.

10. A good understanding to all that do it: his praise continueth forever and ever.

1. "In consilio . . . et congregatione." According to the Hebrew: In secreto . . . et synagoga. That is: In private gatherings and in public assemblies.

becoming obedient unto death: even to the death of the cross (Phil. ii. 8). And our Lord himself said: Nonne hæc oportuit pati Christum, et ita intrare in gloriam suam?—Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and so to enter into his glory? (Luke, xxiv. 26).

According to the Hebrew: Facientibus ea, that is, mandata, the commandments. Mattei says that it is the same in substance, though the Hebrew makes us better understand that speculative fear is not enough if we would have the wisdom of the saints, but that we must live practically according to this fear in order to be truly wise. Among those that have the fear of God there are many who, because they lead a bad life, are the greatest fools in the world.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM CXI. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet describes in this psalm the character of the just man and his temporal happiness which he enjoys here below, according to the promises that God made in the Old Law. But we, who love in the New Law, should raise ourselves to the thought of the spiritual happiness that God makes the just taste in this life and in the next.¹

1. BEATUS vir, qui timet Dominum: in mandatis ejus volet nimis.

2. Potens in terra erit semen ejus: generatio rectorum benedicetur.

3. Gloria, et divitiæ in domo ejus, et justitia ejus manet in sæculum sæculi.

4. Exortum est in tenebris lumen rectis: misericors, et miserator, et justus.

5. Jucundus homo qui miseretur et commodat, disponet sermones suos in judicio: quia in æternum non commovebitur.

6. In memoria æterna erit justus: ab auditione mala non timebit.

7. Paratum cor ejus sperare in Domino, confirmatum est

1. BLESSED is the man that feareth the Lord: he shall delight exceedingly in his commandments.

2. His seed shall be mighty upon earth: the generation of the righteous shall be blessed.

3. Glory and wealth shall be in his house: and his justice remaineth forever and ever.

4. To the righteous a light is risen up in darkness: he is merciful, and compassionate and just.

5. Acceptable is the man that showeth mercy and lendeth, he shall order his words with judgment: because he shall not be moved forever.

6. The just shall be in everlasting remembrance: he shall not fear the evil hearing.

7. His heart is ready to hope in the Lord, his heart is

¹ In the Hebrew text this psalm has the same form as the preceding. We may distinguish in it three parts: 1. Happiness of the just man, because of his love for God; 2 (verses 5 to 8). Happiness of the just man, because of his love for his neighbor; 3. Unhappiness of the sinner.

cor ejus: non commovebitur donec despiciat inimicos suos.

8. Dispersit, dedit pauperibus: justitia ejus manet in sæculum sæculi, cornu ejus exaltabitur in gloria.

9. Peccator videbit, et irascetur, dentibus suis fremet et tabescet: desiderium peccatorum peribit.

strengthened: he shall not be moved until he look over his enemies.

8. He hath distributed, he hath given to the poor: his justice remaineth forever and ever, his horn shall be exalted in glory.

9. The wicked shall see, and shall be angry, he shall gnash with his teeth and pine away, the desire of the wicked shall perish.

1. He that fears God as he ought, that is, with a fear not servile but filial, takes all his delight in observing his precepts. St. Jerome says: Anxie mandata ejus non facit, sed vult: The just man obeys not by force, but with a good will, and loves to obey.

3. His house shall enjoy honors and riches; and with all his honors and riches he will firmly persevere in his holy life, and will not regret at leaving them, because the reward due to his justice shall be everlasting in the life to come.

4. The light that comes from the Lord shall not fail the righteous in the darkness of their afflictions; for God will come to their aid, since he is full of mercy and goodness, and a just rewarder of his servants.

5. "Jucundus." Mattei says that according to the Hebrew this word signifies Beatus. Happy is the man that exercises mercy towards the poor, at least in lending them what they need; he will regulate his words and his temporal affairs, or will manage his possessions "in judicio," with prudence, so that he will never be disturbed in his happiness.

6. The just man shall live forever in the memory of men, and he will not fear to lose his character by the calumnies of his enemies.

8. He has given generously of his goods to the poor; his justice, that is, his good deeds, his merits, shall ever be before the eyes of God, to be recompensed eternally in heaven, and he shall be exalted in power and in glory.

9. At seeing this the sinner will be angry; he will gnash with his teeth for rage, and pine away with spite and envy; he would wish to deprive the just man of his happiness, but the desires of the wicked shall vanish as smoke.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM CXII. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist invites just souls to praise God for the care that he takes of all his creatures, even of the most humble.

1. LAUDATE pueri Dominum: laudate nomen Domini.

2. Sit nomen Domini benedictum, ex hoc nunc, et usque in sæculum.

3. A solis ortu usque ad occasum, laudabile nomen Domini.

4. Excelsus super omnes gentes Dominus, et super cœlos gloria ejus.

5. Quis sicut Dominus Deus noster, qui in altis habitat, et humilia respicit in cœlo et in terra?

6. Suscitans a terra inopem, et de stercore erigens pauperem:

7. Ut collocet eum cum principibus, cum principibus populi sui.

8. Qui habitare facit sterilem in domo, matrem filiorum lætantem.

1. PRAISE the Lord, ye children: praise ye the name of the Lord.

2. Blessed be the name of the Lord, from henceforth now and forever.

3. From the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, the name of the Lord is worthy of praise.

4. The Lord is high above all nations, and his glory above the heavens.

5. Who is as the Lord our God, who dwelleth on high, and looketh down on the low things in heaven and in earth?

6. Raising up the needy from the earth, and lifting up the poor out of the dunghill:

7. That he may place him with princes, with the princes of his people.

8. Who maketh a barren woman to dwell in a house, the joyful mother of children.

1. "Pueri." According to the Hebrew: Servi—Servants.

5. Who can be compared with our God, whose goodness is such that from the highest heaven where he dwells he does not disdain to look upon the creatures that are the most lowly.¹

8. This verse applies well to Jesus Christ, who, when the Church was bereaved of children by the perversion of the Jews, made her by his redemption the mother of all the faithful.

¹ The prophet began by saying that God deserves to be praised in every place and at all times on account of his greatness and power; he here shows us that we should praise him most especially with thanksgiving for his goodness and wonderful Providence in behalf of all his creatures.

14. Aures habent, et non audient: nares habent, et non odorabunt.

15. Manus habent, et non palpabunt: pedes habent, et non ambulabunt: non clamabunt in gutture suo.

16. Similes illis fiant qui faciunt ea: et omnes qui confidunt in eis.

17. Domus Israel speravit in Domino: adjutor eorum et protector eorum est.

18. Domus Aaron speravit in Domino: adjutor eorum et protector eorum est.

19. Qui timent Dominum, speraverunt in Domino, adjutor eorum et protector eorum est.

20. Dominus memor fuit nostri: et benedixit nobis.

21. Benedixit domui Israel, benedixit domui Aaron.

22. Benedixit omnibus, qui timent Dominum, pusillis cum majoribus.

23. Adjiciat Dominus super vos: super vos, et super filios vestros.

24. Benedicti vos a Domino, qui fecit cœlum, et terram.

25. Cœlum cœli Domino: terram autem dedit filiis hominum.

26. Non mortui laudabunt te Domine: neque omnes, qui descendunt in infernum.

27. Sed nos qui vivimus, benedicimus Domino, ex hoc nunc et usque in sæculum.

1, 2. When the people of Israel were delivered from the yoke of the Egyptians, God consecrated them to his service, wishing henceforth to rule over them alone.¹

14. They have ears, and hear not: they have noses, and smell not.

15. They have hands and feel not: they have feet and walk not; neither shall they cry out through their throat.

16. Let them that make them become like unto them: and all such as trust in them.

17. The house of Israel hath hoped in the Lord: he is their helper and their protector.

18. The house of Aaron hath hoped in the Lord: he is their helper and their protector.

19. They that fear the Lord have hoped in the Lord: he is their helper and their protector.

20. The Lord hath been mindful of us: and hath blessed us.

21. He hath blessed the house of Israel: he hath blessed the house of Aaron.

22. He hath blessed all that fear the Lord, both little and great.

23. May the Lord add blessings upon you: upon you, and upon your children.

24. Blessed be you of the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

25. The heaven of heaven is the Lord's: but the earth he has given to the children of men.

26. The dead shall not praise thee, O Lord: nor any of them that go down to hell.

27. But we that live, bless the Lord, from this time now and forever.

¹ “Barbaro.” That is: Speaking another language not understood

3. The Red Sea beheld the Hebrews pursued by the Egyptians, and fled, that is, drew back to afford an open passage to the people of God. The river Jordan turned back, that is, its waters stopped in their course, and lifted themselves up on high (Jos. iii. 13) that the faithful people might pass over.

4. Then the mountains exult with joy. Others apply this verse to the trembling of the mountains when the law was given to Moses. I prefer the first sense as agreeing better with the following verse.¹

10. Protect us for Thy mercy's sake, and according to the faithfulness of Thy promises, lest the impious should say in case Thou shouldst abandon us: Where now is their God to help them?

16. Let those who with their own hands make to themselves such gods, and all those that put their trust in them, become like unto them.²

20. "Benedixit nobis." He has blessed us, loading us with graces.³

25. "Cælum cæli." The Emphyrean, as Lallemand and others explain it. The Lord has created the emphyrean heaven for himself, that is, to reign there; and he has given the earth to men for their habitation, that they may there gain merit to be raised to the emphyrean.

(I Cor. xiv. 11). "Facta est Judæa." According to the Hebrew: Factus est Judas. Juda. or the Jewish people. "Ejus." That is: Dei. We may also understand the second verse in this sense: God chose the land of Judæa, there to establish his sanctuary, or his Temple or worship; and chose the people of Israel to exercise or represent his power on earth.

¹ We think that the two ideas may be thus reconciled: The waters that flee represent sinners; the mountains that exult represent the just; the manifestations of the presence of God terrify some and delight others.

² Prediction under the form of an imprecation. This may also signify that these unfortunate beings by their culpable blindness render themselves worthy of a like chastisement.

³ The true God whom we adore, very different from the false divinities whose vanity is described in verses 12 to 16, is also as good and merciful as he is powerful; he does not cease to sustain, to favor, and to protect efficaciously his faithful servants, verses 17 to 22.

26. That is: After death no one can do good works any more.¹

27. That is: We who enjoy the life of grace, let us bless the Lord at the present time, and let us hope to bless him for all eternity.

CANTICLE OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY, OR MAGNIFICAT.

The Most Blessed Virgin extols in this canticle the goodness of God for having chosen her to be his Mother, and for having redeemed the world by means of Jesus Christ. This canticle may be divided into three parts. In the first, the Blessed Virgin thanks the Lord for the favors that have been conferred upon her. In the second, she praises him for the benefits granted to the Hebrew people. In the third, she glorifies him for the grace that he has bestowed upon all men in giving them Jesus Christ for their Saviour.²

1. MAGNIFICAT anima mea
Dominum:

2. Et exultavit spiritus meus in Deo salutari meo.

3. Quia respexit humilitatem ancillæ suæ: ecce enim ex hoc beatam me dicent omnes generationes.

4. Quia fecit mihi magna qui potens est et sanctum nomen
ejus.

5. Et misericordia ejus a progenie in progenies timentibus eum.

6. Fecit potentiam in brachio suo: dispersit superbos mente cordis sui.

7. Deposuit potentes de sede, et exaltavit humiles.

1. MY soul doth magnify the Lord:

2. And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.

3. Because he hath regarded the humility of his hand-maid:
for behold from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed.

4. Because he that is mighty hath done great things to me:
and holy is his name.

5. And his mercy is from generation unto generations, to them that fear him.

6. He hath showed might in his arm: he hath scattered the proud in the conceit of their heart.

7. He hath put down the mighty from their seat, and hath exalted the humble.

¹ The just soul, after the present life, continues to love and to praise God, and does so even in a more perfect manner, but its works are no longer meritorious. See Canticle of Ezechias, v. 13.

² A canticle simple, sublime, and admirable, says Gaume, giving expression to Mary's sentiments, and showing the divine plan for the salvation of the world.

6. God has shown forth his power by putting to rout the proud, that is, the haughty princes of the earth (we may also here understand the rebel angels), and he has defeated all their wicked designs whereby they sought to oppress the innocent.

7. "Potentes." These proud princes.

9, 10. He has taken under his protection Israel, his servant, that is, his chosen people, being mindful of the promise which, in his mercy, he had made to him, to send the Messiah to redeem him, as he promised to our fathers, especially to Abraham, and to all his descendants.

tended through her to all the faithful and to all repentant sinners of every age, so that it is through her as a channel that we receive all graces. Then, verses 6, 7, 8, God has also manifested his power, on the one hand, in his justice in regard to the proud and the rich of the world, his enemies, and on the other hand, in his goodness towards the humble and the poor. And, verses 9, 10, he has also manifested his mercy, at first in the promises made to his servants, and, finally, in his faithfulness in accomplishing them.

Monday at Vespers.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM CXIV. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm David thanks God for having delivered him from the persecution of Absalom. The royal prophet is here the figure of the Christian soul, which, after suffering many dangerous temptations, finds itself at the approach of death victorious over its enemies and on the point of going to heaven to enjoy its God.

1. DILEXI, quoniam exaudiet Dominus vocem orationis meæ.

2. Quia inclinavit aurem suam mihi: et in diebus meis invocabo.

3. Circumdederunt me dolores mortis: et pericula inferni invenerunt me.

4. Tribulationem et dolorem inveni: et nomen Domini invocavi.

5. O Domine, libera animam meam, misericors Dominus, et justus, et Deus noster miseretur.

6. Custodiens parvulos Dominus: humiliatus sum, et liberavit me.

7. Convertere anima mea in requiem tuam: quia Dominus benefecit tibi.

8. Quia eripuit animam meam de morte, oculos meos a lacrymis, pedes meos a lapsu.

9. Placebo Domino in regione vivorum.

1. I HAVE loved, because the Lord will hear the voice of my prayer.

2. For he hath inclined his ear unto me: and in my days will I call upon him.

3. The sorrows of death have compassed me: and the perils of hell have found me.

4. I met with trouble and sorrow: and I called upon the name of the Lord.

5. O Lord, deliver my soul: the Lord is merciful and just, and our God showeth mercy.

6. The Lord is the keeper of little ones: I was humbled, and he delivered me.

7. Turn, O my soul, into thy rest: for the Lord hath been bountiful to thee.

8. For he hath delivered my soul from death: my eyes from tears, my feet from falling.

9. I will please the Lord in the land of the living.

1. I have loved and love my Lord; for he has heard, and I hope will always hear my prayer.

2. He has inclined his ear to my voice; therefore I will never cease to call upon him all the days of my life, confiding in his mercy.

3. Lallemand and Mattei explains this verse as referring to the fears and dangers of losing the life of the body; but Bellarmine interprets it thus: Deadly temptations have surrounded me which would draw me to eternal death, and these temptations have brought me near to the danger of being condemned to hell.

4, 5. In this state I found nothing on all sides but afflictions and sorrows; then I had recourse to the Lord, and called upon his name, saying: My God, deliver my soul from these perils. The Lord is as merciful as he is just; he is our God, and he shows mercy to those that have recourse to him.

6. "Parvulos." The little ones who are humble.

7. "In requiem tuam." To the place of thy repose, that is, to the heavenly country, as Bellarmine with St. Basil understand it. "Benefecit tibi." According to the Hebrew: Retribuit super te—The Lord will recompense thee according to thy good works, by giving thee eternal life, which is a crown of justice. Thus again Bellarmine with St. Basil interprets the words.

9. I hope, then, to find myself in the land of the living, far from hell, where all are dead, and far from this world, where so many are also dead through sin, and there I shall be happy, occupied forever in pleasing the Lord.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CXV. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm does not differ from the preceding; but in it David shows yet more his gratitude for the graces which he acknowledges that he has received from his goodness.¹

1. CREDIDI, propter quod locutus sum: ego autem humiliatus sum nimis.

1. I HAVE believed, therefore have I spoken: but I have been humbled exceedingly.

2. Ego dixi in excessu meo: Omnis homo mendax.

2. I said in my excess: Every man is a liar.

3. Quid retribuam Domino, pro omnibus, quæ retribuit mihi?

3. What shall I render to the Lord, for all the things that he hath rendered to me?

4. Calicem salutaris accipiam, et nomen Domini invocabo.

4. I will take the chalice of salvation; and I will call upon the name of the Lord.

5. Vota mea Domino reddam coram omni populo ejus: pre-

5. I will pay my vows to the Lord before all his people:

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM CXVI. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm invites all the people to praise the mercy and the faithfulness of the Lord for having united them all in one and the same Church. It is thus that the Apostle interprets this psalm in his Epistle to the Romans (xv. 8–11).

1. LAUDATE Dominum omnes gentes : laudate eum omnes populi :

2. Quoniam confirmata est super nos misericordia ejus : et veritas Domini manet in æternum.

2. That is : He has multiplied upon us the effects of his mercy ; and his faithfulness in the promises that he has made to us shall never fail.¹

1. O PRAISE the Lord, all ye nations : praise him, all ye people.

2. For his mercy is confirmed upon us ; and the truth of the Lord remaineth forever.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM CXIX. OF THE PSALTER.

David asks God to defend him against the calumnies of his enemies and he complains that his exile is prolonged during the persecution of Saul. This psalm is suitable to every Christian who struggling with adversity looks forward to the end of his exile here on earth.²

1. AD Dominum cum tribularer clamavi : et exaudivit me.

2. Domine, libera animam meam a labiis iniquis, et a lingua dolosa.

1. IN my trouble I cried to the Lord : and he heard me.

2. O Lord, deliver my soul from wicked lips, and a deceitful tongue.

¹ Mercy has reference to the Jews and the Gentiles ; but the faithfulness of the Lord does not properly regard only the Jews to whom alone his promises were made.

² This psalm and those that follow till Psalm cxxxiii. inclusively, bear each the title Canticum graduum—Songs of Degrees ; a title the meaning of which is not known. They are the fifteen psalms which in the breviary are called Psalmi graduales—Gradual Psalms. Many think that they were chanted by the people while ascending the fifteen steps of the Temple. However this may be, there are other degrees which the Holy Ghost seems to have particularly desired to put before us, namely, the terrestrial Jerusalem, a figure of the two following ; the spiritual Jerusalem, or the Church militant ; and the heavenly Jerusalem, or the Church triumphant. It is to this that we should tend by sighing after the end of our exile, and by invoking without ceasing the help of the Lord as the Israelites did in their captivity in Babylon.

3. Quid detur tibi, aut quid apponatur tibi, ad linguam dolosam?

4. Sagittæ potentis acutæ, cum carbonibus desolatoriis.

5. Heu mihi, quia incolatus meus prolongatus est: habitavi cum habitantibus Cedar: multum incola fuit anima mea.

6. Cum his, qui oderunt pacem, eram pacificus: cum loquebar illis, impugnabant me gratis.

3. What greater evil canst thou have to fear, O my soul, than that of a deceitful tongue?

4. The shafts that go forth from the mouth of a man of power are so sharp and hurtful that they are as burning coals dealing destruction all around.

5. "Cum habitantibus Cedar." That is: With barbarians. Cedar, says Bellarmine, is a Hebrew word which means Swarthiness.¹

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM CXX. OF THE PSALTER.

Here the psalmist makes a just man speak, who lifts his eyes to the blessed mountains, where is seated the holy city, and whence he hopes for divine help.

1. LEVAVI oculos meos in montes, unde veniet auxilium mihi.

2. Auxilium meum a Domino, qui fecit cœlum et terram.

3. Non det in commotionem pedem tuum: neque dormitet qui custodit te.

4. Ecce non dormitabit, neque dormiet, qui custodit Israel.

3. What shall be given to thee, or what shall be added to thee, to a deceitful tongue?

4. The sharp arrows of the mighty, with coals that lay waste.

5. Wo is me, that my sojourning is prolonged: I have dwelt with the inhabitants of Cedar: my soul hath been long a sojourner.

6. With them that hated peace I was peaceable: when I spoke to them they fought against me without cause.

1. I HAVE lifted up my eyes to the mountains, from whence help shall come to me.

2. My help is from the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

3. May he not suffer thy foot to be moved: neither let him slumber that keepeth thee.

4. Behold he shall neither slumber nor sleep, that keepeth Israel.

¹ The Cedarians, whence the name Saracens, inhabited Arabia Petraea. In the spiritual sense, says Gaume, this word designates worldlings, given up to error and corruption, and in the midst of whom the devout soul has much to suffer.

5. Dominus custodit te, Dominus protectio tua super manum dexteram tuam.

6. Per diem sol non uret te, neque luna per noctem.

7. Dominus custodit te ab omni malo: custodiat animam tuam Dominus.

8. Dominus custodiat introitum tuum, et exitum tuum ex hoc nunc, et usque in sæculum.

5. The Lord is thy keeper, the Lord is thy protection, upon thy right hand.

6. The sun shall not burn thee by day: nor the moon by night.

7. The Lord keepeth thee from all evil: may the Lord keep thy soul.

8. May the Lord keep thy coming in and thy going out: from henceforth now and forever.

3. The Lord will not suffer thee to fall, when thou hast recourse to him.

6. Thou wilt not have to fear the burning of the sun, nor the noxious influences of the moon.¹

8. May he protect thee in all thy doings, from the beginning to the end, now and forever.

¹ We have several traits to remark in this beautiful description of the care of divine Providence in regard to the faithful man that confides in his goodness. It not only watches his feet, v. 3, to preserve him from falls and false steps, but it extends its attention to his whole person. In verse 5: "Protectio tua." According to the Hebrew, after Bellarmine: Umbraculum tuum. That is: God is to his servant as a portable pavilion or a shield resting on his hand, and always ready to protect him against all that may be hurtful to him, the dangers of the day and of the night, v. 6, or of prosperity and of adversity, the enemies that attack openly and those that remain hidden. See Psalm xc. v. 4 to 6. In verse 8: "Introitum tuum et exitum tuum." The coming in and the going out, or the beginning and the end of every action, of every undertaking, of every day of our whole life. According to the Hebrew, as St. Jerome translates it, it is in an inverse order: Exitum tuum et introitum tuum; this applies especially to the departure from the land of exile and to the entrance into our country.

4. “Testimonium Israel.” This is understood of the law by which the Israelites were obliged at fixed periods to worship God in the Temple; but on applying it to heaven, it has reference to the souls of the just, who will ascend thither to be solely occupied in praising the Lord.

6. Pray for the prosperity of Jerusalem. May those that love thee, O holy city, possess in thee the abundance of every good.

9. Because thou art the house of the Lord, I desire for thee an abundance of every good.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CXXII. OF THE PSALTER.

Prayer that the Hebrews address to the Lord that he may put an end to the captivity at Babylon. Thus does the Church in her persecutions implore deliverance from God.¹

1. AD te levavi oculos meos, qui habitas in cœlis.

1. To thee have I lifted up my eyes, who dwellest in heaven.

2. Ecce sicut oculi servorum, in manibus dominorum suo-
rum,

2. Behold as the eyes of servants are on the hands of their masters,

3. Sicut oculi ancillæ in manibus dominæ suæ: ita oculi nostri ad D o m i n u m Deum nostrum, donec misereatur nostri.

3. As the eyes of the hand-maid are on the hands of her mistress: so are our eyes unto the Lord our God, until he have mercy on us.

4. Miserere nostri Domine, miserere nostri, quia multum repleti sumus despectione:

4. Have mercy on us, O
Lord, have mercy on us: for we are greatly filled with contempt.

5. Quia multum repleta est anima nostra: opprobrium abundantibus, et despectio superbis.

5. For our soul is greatly filled: we are a reproach to the rich, and contempt to the proud.

¹ In verses 2, 3. “In manibus.” St. Jerome translates: Ad manum; this agrees better with what follows: “Ad Dominum.” Bellarmine thus explains the comparison: When a servant or slave in fault is punished he looks with fear and sadness at the hand of his master who strikes him, and he seems even by his look to ask for mercy.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM CXXIII. OF THE PSALTER.

A hymn of thanksgiving which the Jews addressed to God after the captivity at Babylon. Thus may the just man also address God after his victory over a temptation.

1. NISI quia Dominus erat in nobis, dicat nunc Israel: nisi quia Dominus erat in nobis.

2. Cum exurgerent homines in nos, forte vivos deglutissent nos:

3. Cum irasceretur furor eorum in nos, forsitan aqua absorbuisset nos.

4. Torrentem pertransiuit anima nostra: forsitan pertransisset anima nostra aquam intolerabilem.

5. Benedictus Dominus, qui non dedit nos in captionem dentibus eorum.

6. Anima nostra sicut passer erepta est de laqueo venantium.

7. Laqueus contritus est, et nos liberati sumus.

8. Adjutorium nostrum in nomine Domini, qui fecit cœlum et terram.

1. IF it had not been that the Lord was with us, let Israel now say: If it had not been that the Lord was with us,

2. When men rose up against us, perhaps they had swallowed us up alive.

3. When their fury was enkindled against us, perhaps the water had swallowed us up.

4. Our soul hath passed through a torrent: perhaps our soul had passed through a water insupportable.

5. Blessed be the Lord, who hath not given us, to be a prey to their teeth.

6. Our soul hath been delivered, as a sparrow out of the snare of the fowlers:

7. The snare is broken, and we are delivered.

8. Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

3. "Aqua." That is, this their rage like a torrent of water.

4. We have happily passed through that torrent; but without the assistance of God we could never have passed through so great a flood.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM CXXIV. OF THE PSALTER.

Released from the captivity at Babylon, the Jews receive the assurance that God will never fail as long as they confide in him, to assist them against their enemies.

1. QUI confidunt in Domino, sicut mons Sion: non commovebitur in æternum, qui habitat in Jerusalem.

2. Montes in circuitu ejus: et Dominus in circuitu populi

1. THEY that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Sion: he shall not be moved forever that dwelleth in Jerusalem.

2. Mountains are round about it: so the Lord is round sui, ex hoc nunc, et usque in sæculum.

3. Quia non relinquet Dominus virgam peccatorum super sortem justorum: ut non extendant justi ad iniquitatem manus suas.

4. Benefac Domine bonis, et rectis corde.

5. Declinantes autem in obligationes, adducet Dominus cum operantibus iniquitatem: pax super Israel.

2. Jerusalem shall be defended by the mountains that surround it, and his people shall ever be protected by the Lord who will stand round about them.

5. The Lord will treat those that fail in their duties, departing from the right way, as he treats the wicked; but Israel shall always enjoy peace. "Obligationes." According to the Hebrew and the Greek, as Bellarmine explains it with St. Jerome and Euthymius: Pravitates, Obliquitates—Crooked ways. The prophet said, v. 4, that God will reward the just; he adds here that as to those that turn from an upright heart by engaging in crooked ways, by compounding with their consciences, shall end by finding themselves among the declared enemies, in the midst of the evils that await them, while peace with all its happiness shall be shared by the true servants of God.

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM CXXV. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm contains the sighs of the Jews to be released from captivity at Babylon. It is of service to sinners who wish to be delivered from this slavery of sin, and to the just who sigh for the end of their exile here on earth.

1. IN convertendo Dominus captivitatem Sion: facti sumus sicut consolati.

2. Tunc repletum est gaudio os nostrum: et lingua nostra exultatione.

3. Tunc dicent inter Gentes: Magnificavit Dominus facere cum eis.

about his people, from henceforth now and forever.

3. For the Lord will not leave the rod of sinners upon the lot of the just: that the just may not stretch forth their hands to iniquity.

4. Do good, O Lord, to those that are good, and to the upright of heart.

5. But such as turn aside into bonds, the Lord shall lead out with the workers of iniquity: peace upon Israel.

2. Jerusalem shall be defended by the mountains that surround it, and his people shall ever be protected by the Lord who will stand round about them.

5. The Lord will treat those that fail in their duties, departing from the right way, as he treats the wicked; but Israel shall always enjoy peace. "Obligationes." According to the Hebrew and the Greek, as Bellarmine explains it with St. Jerome and Euthymius: Pravitates, Obliquitates—Crooked ways. PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM CXXV. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm contains the sighs of the Jews to be released from captivity at Babylon. It is of service to sinners who wish to be delivered from this slavery of sin, and to the just who sigh for the end of their exile here on earth.

1. WHEN the Lord brought back the captivity of Sion: we became like men comforted:

2. Then was our mouth filled with gladness: and our tongue with joy.

3. Then shall they say among the Gentiles: The Lord hath done great things for them.

Wednesday at Vespers.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM CXXVI. OF THE PSALTER.

Returned from Babylon, the Jews had undertaken to rebuild the city and the Temple, and as they were hindered from doing so by the incursions of their enemies, the prophet exhorts them to trust in God.

1. NISI Dominus ædificaverit domum, in vanum laboraverunt qui ædificant eam.

2. Nisi Dominus custodierit civitatem, frustra vigilat qui custodit eam.

3. Vanum est vobis ante lucem surgere: surgite postquam sederitis, qui manducatis panem doloris.

4. Cum dederit dilectis suis somnum: ecce hereditas Domini, filii: merces, fructus ventris.

5. Sicut sagittæ in manu potentis: ita filii excussorum.

6. Beatus vir qui implevit desiderium suum ex ipsis: non confundetur cum loquetur inimicis suis in porta.

1. EXCEPT the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it.

2. Except the Lord keep the city, he watcheth in vain that keepeth it.

3. It is vain for you to rise before light: rise ye after you have sitten, you that eat the bread of sorrow.

4. When he shall give sleep to his beloved: behold children are the inheritance of the Lord: their reward, the fruit of the womb.

5. As arrows in the hand of the mighty: so the children of them that have been shaken.

6. Blessed is the man, that hath filled his desire with them: he shall not be confounded when he shall speak to his enemies in the gate.

3. In vain do you rise before daybreak, if the Lord does not come to your aid; moreover, you should not rise until you have taken your repose, since you have eaten the bread of sorrow, that is, you have lived in the midst of so great evils.

4. "Cum dederit dilectis suis somnum." After the Lord shall have given to his beloved, that is, to his people, sleep, that is, peace by means of the promised Redeemer. "Ecce hereditas Domini, filii." Then shall appear the inheritance of Jesus Christ the Lord, an inheritance that shall consist in the multitude of the children born in his Church according to the prophecy: Postula a me, et dabo tibi gentes hereditatem tuam—Ask of me, and I will give thee the Gentiles for thine inheritance (Ps. ii. 8). “Merces, fructus ventris.” The recompense of the Lord shall be the fruit of the womb; that is, these same children shall be the recompense of Jesus Christ according to another prophecy: Si posuerit pro peccato animam suam, videbit semen longævum—If he shall lay down his life for sin, he shall see a long-lived seed (Is. liii. 10). This is well expressed in the Greek version in this sense: The multitude of children shall be the inheritance of the Lord, and the recompense of Jesus Christ, who was properly the fruit of Mary’s womb.

5. These children, tormented by persecutions, shall be against their enemies as so many arrows in the hand of a strong man.¹

6. Blessed is he that shall see his desire satisfied by the birth of so many children; he shall not suffer confusion when he shall have to treat with his enemies before the gate of the city,² that is, according to Bellarmine, at the last judgment, which shall take place at the great gate or before the whole world, when Jesus Christ shall confound the demons, who thought to drag the whole human race down to hell.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CXXVII. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet announces to the Jews after their return from Babylon the blessings that they will receive from God if they keep his laws. These blessings are temporal; belong, properly speaking, to the just under the Old Law.³

I. BEATI omnes, qui timent Dominum, qui ambulant in viis ejus.

I. BLESSED are all they that fear the Lord, that walk in his ways.

¹ The holy souls, fruit of the Passion of Jesus Christ, and children of the Church, always persecuted as their divine Spouse, are the arms that the Almighty employs to combat and to overcome the errors and bad passions of the world.

² It is known that among the Orientals it was there that judgments were rendered in the presence of the people assembled. See Psalm lxviii. 15.

³ We may, however, see under these sensible images goods of a higher order: the works of a just man are already a kind of posterity that he leaves after him on earth; there are moreover spiritual children in the souls that he has contributed, by prayer, by example, by word,

2. Labores manuum tuarum quia manducabis: beatus es, et bene tibi erit.

3. Uxor tua sicut vitis abundans, in lateribus domus tuæ.

4. Filii tui sicut novellæ olivarum, in circuitu mensæ tuæ.

5. Ecce sic benedicetur homo, qui timet Dominum.

6. Benedicat tibi Dominus ex Sion: et videas bona Jerusalem omnibus diebus vitæ tuæ.

7. Et videas filios filiorum tuorum, pacem super Israel.

2. For thou shalt eat the labors of thy hands: blessed art thou, and it shall be well with thee.

3. Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine, on the sides of thy house.

4. Thy children as olive plants, round about thy table.

5. Behold thus shall the man be blessed that feareth the Lord.

6. May the Lord bless thee out of Sion: and mayst thou see the good things of Jerusalem all the days of thy life.

7. And mayst thou see thy children's children, and peace upon Israel.

2. The labors of thy hands shall be blessed, for thou shalt taste of their fruits; thou shalt be happy and rest content.

3. Thy wife, living retired in thy house, shall be fruitful in children as a vine abundant with grapes. "In lateribus." St. Jerome translates: In penetralibus—In the inner part.

6. "Ex Sion." That is: From heaven.¹

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM CXXVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

Many interpreters refer this psalm to the time when the Jews, freed from captivity, strove to rebuild Jerusalem. The psalmist exhorts the people to put their trust in the Lord, who had already delivered them from their past evils.

I. SÆPE expugnaverunt me a juventute mea, dicat nunc Israel.

I. MANY a time have they fought against me from my youth, let Israel now say.

in bringing them back or sustaining them or making them advance in the way of salvation. In verse 2, the psalmist addresses himself to each in particular, and we may remark that he does not make happiness consist in the possession of riches.

¹ In these last two verses, according to Bellarmine, the Holy Ghost promises the just man supreme blessing, the only true and perfect happiness, which consists in seeing and possessing the sovereign Good in the heavenly Jerusalem during all eternity.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM CXXIX. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm expresses the lamentations of the Israelites who are yet prisoners at Babylon. It is suitable in the mouth of the sinner, who, groaning under the weight of his sins, implores aid from God.

1. DE profundis clamavi ad te Domine: Domine exaudi vocem meam.

2. Fiant aures tuæ intendentes, in vocem deprecationis meæ.

3. Si iniquitates observaveris Domine: Domine quis sustinebit?

4. Quia apud te propitiatio est: et propter legem tuam sustinui te Domine.

5. Sustinuit anima mea in verbo ejus: speravit anima mea in Domino.

6. A custodia matutina usque ad noctem: speret Israel in Domino.

7. Quia apud Dominum misericordia: et copiosa apud eum redemptio.

8. Et ipse redimet Israel, ex omnibus iniquitatibus ejus.

1. OUT of the depths I have cried to thee, O Lord: Lord, hear my voice.

2. Let thy ears be attentive to the voice of my supplication.

3. If thou, O Lord, wilt mark iniquities; Lord who shall stand it.

4. For with thee there is merciful forgiveness: and by reason of thy law, I have waited for thee, O Lord.

5. My soul hath relied on his word: my soul hath hoped in the Lord.

6. From the morning watch even until night: let Israel hope in the Lord.

7. Because with the Lord there is mercy: and with him plentiful redemption.

8. And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

1, 2. From the deep abyss of my miseries, I cry out to Thee, O Lord; hear my prayer.

3. If Thou requirest a strict account of our sins, who will be able to endure it?

4. But Thy mercy gives me courage, for in Thee there is an exhaustless fountain of compassion and goodness; and what causes me to hope in Thee is, that Thou makest it a law to have pity on every sinner who in humility seeks Thy pardon.

5. My soul awaits the mercy of God, relying on his promise; thus having hoped in the Lord, it will not be confounded.¹

gather; for the sun dries it and makes it wither before it can develop itself. In verse 7 reference is made to the ancient custom of addressing good wishes to the mowers; this could not be if there were question of the grass on the house-tops.

¹ The psalm here enters a second part. repentant sinners are exhorted never to cease to hope in God, because he is full of mercy and faithful

6. From break of day, even until night, Israel will not cease to trust in the Lord.

7. The prophet points out here the foundation of all our hopes, namely, the blood of Jesus Christ by which he was to redeem the human race. He says: For mercy with God is infinite; and he is well able to redeem us by abundant help from our evils.

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM CXXX. OF THE PSALTER.

David complains that Saul and his followers accuse him of being proud, and calls God to witness against this calumny.

1. DOMINE non est exaltatum cor meum: neque elati sunt oculi mei.

2. Neque ambulavi in magnis: neque in mirabilibus super me:

3. Si non humiliter sentiebam: sed exaltavi animam meam:

4. Sicut ablactatus est super matre sua, ita retributio in anima mea.

5. Speret Israel in Domino, ex hoc nunc, et usque in sæculum.

1. LORD, my heart is not puffed up: nor are my eyes haughty.

2. Neither have I walked in great matters: nor in wonderful things above me.

3. If I was not humbly minded, but exalted my soul:

4. As a child that is weaned is towards his mother, so reward in my soul.

5. Let Israel hope in the Lord, from henceforth now and forever.

1. My God, Thou knowest that I have not had in my heart, nor shown in my looks, proud sentiments.

2. That is: I have not conducted myself in such a manner as is above my condition.

3, 4. If instead of thinking humbly of myself, I have been exalted in mind above what is becoming, I am content to be punished, and treated as a babe that lies wailing at its mother's breast when deprived of milk.

to his promises; he himself works out their redemption, and delivers them from all their sins.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM CXXXI. OF THE PSALTER.

King Salomon prays to God to come to dwell in the Temple which is prepared for him, and at the same time to perform the promises that David had received for the benefit of his descendants. It is believed that this psalm was chanted when Salomon had the Ark borne into the Temple which he had built.¹

1. MEMENTO Domine David, et omnis mansuetudinis ejus:

2. Sicut juravit Domino, votum vovit Deo Jacob:

3. Si introiero in tabernaculum domus meæ, si ascendero in lectum strati mei:

4. Si dederero somnum oculis meis, et palpebris meis dormitationem,

5. Et requiem temporibus meis: donec inveniam locum Domino, tabernaculum Deo Jacob.

6. Ecce audivimus eam in Ephrata: invenimus eam in campis silvæ.

7. Introibimus in tabernaculum ejus: adorabimus in loco, ubi steterunt pedes ejus.

8. Surge Domine in requiem tuam, tu et arca sanctificationis tuæ.

9. Sacerdotes tui induantur

1. O LORD, remember David, and all his meekness:

2. How he swore to the Lord, he vowed a vow to the God of Jacob.

3. If I shall enter into the tabernacle of my house: if I shall go up into the bed wherein I lie:

4. If I shall give sleep to my eyes, or slumber to my eyelids.

5. Or rest to my temples: until I find out a place for the Lord, a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

6. Behold we have heard of it in Ephrata: we have found it in the fields of the wood.

7. We will go into his tabernacle: we will adore in the place where his feet stood.

8. Arise, O Lord, into thy resting place: thou and the ark, which thou hast sanctified.

9. Let thy priests be clothed

¹ In reciting it let us represent to ourselves that we should be the temple of the Holy Ghost, a sanctuary where Jesus Christ, through holy Communion, comes to live in person with the Holy Trinity. Represent to ourselves also the promises that we have made to God and those that God has deigned to make to us.

7. But now we shall enter with joy his own tabernacle, and we shall adore the Lord in this holy place where he has set his feet, that is, where he has begun to dwell.

8. Arise, then, O Lord! and enter the place of Thy repose, with the Ark of Thy sanctification, that is, the Ark by which Thou hast been so glorified.

9. May Thy priests be invested with justice, that is, with holiness, and all Thy holy ministers serve Thee with gladness.

10. For the love of David, Thy beloved servant, reject not his Son who is Thy Christ.¹

12. "Testamentum." St. Jerome translates: Pactum. "Testimonia mea." My precepts, tokens of my will.

13. If their descendants shall do likewise, they in perpetuity shall sit upon this same throne of Thine.

15. The Lord said: This is, etc.

16. "Viduam ejus benedicens benedicam." Here I will bless the widow by succoring her abundantly.

17. I will vest with salvation, that is, I will sanctify her priests, and her ministers shall live in joy.

18. Here I will cause the power of David to flourish; for I have prepared for him a lamp, that is, a brilliant posterity.

19. "Sanctificatio mea." That is: The sacred crown by which I have sanctified him.²

Kings, vii.), at Cariathiarim, a name that signifies City of Forests, after having been seven months with the Philistines; and before being transported (2 Kings, vi.) to Mount Sion it was for three months at the house of Obededom, near Jerusalem.

¹ Christ, or the Anointed, that is, King Salomon: who, after having asked for the ministers of the sanctuary interior and exterior sanctity, now prays for himself by confiding in the merits of his father and in the promises that God made to him,—promises that he calls to mind till the end of the psalm, as he calls to mind at the beginning the promise of David.

² All these divine promises are absolute in reference to Jesus Christ and his Church, but not in reference to what concerns the other children of David and his temporal kingdom. •

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CXXXII. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet exhorts all the ministers of the sanctuary to live together in peace, and to praise God with one accord by praying to him for the people.

1. ECCE quam bonum, et quam jucundum habitare fratres in unum :

2. Sicut unguentum in capite, quod descendit in barbam, barbam Aaron,

3. Quod descendit in oram vestimenti ejus : sicut ros Hermon, qui descendit in montem Sion.

4. Quoniam illic mandavit Dominus benedictionem, et vitam usque in sæculum.

1. BEHOLD how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.

2. It is like the precious ointment on the head, that ran down upon the beard, the beard of Aaron,

3. Which ran down to the skirt of his garment : as the dew of Hermon, or that which descendeth upon mount Sion.

4. For there the Lord hath commanded blessing, and life for evermore.

1. How useful and sweet it is for brethren to dwell together in perfect union !

2, 3. This union is like a perfumed ointment which, poured on the head of Aaron, flowed down by his beard even to the border of his vestment ; it is also like the dew that falls down upon the mountains of Hermon and of Sion, and renders them so fertile.¹

¹ The sense of this double comparison: Fraternal union is agreeable and useful to all those that have the happiness to share in it; it is agreeable, as the most precious perfume, such as is used at the consecration of bishops; it is useful, as the dew that descends upon arid hills to fertilize them. We believe that by Mount Sion must here be understood not that of Jerusalem, but that which is beyond the Jordan near Hermon (Deut. iv. 48); and in the Hebrew we find the plural: the mountains of Sion. The Holy Ghost shows us in these images how the heavenly favors and blessings are poured out on the assembly of the faithful, that is, the Church, the members of which are united. 1. At the consecration of a bishop the holy oil, which is a figure of grace, flows from the head to the beard, according to Bellarmine, and from the beard to the vestment: the head is the chief prelate; the beard, according to Bellarmine, are the prelates; the vestment is the faithful. 2. In the same way, the dew that descends from heaven to fertilize the earth extends from the high mountain of Hermon to the hills that surround it.

4. Because, where such a union reigns, God showers down blessings in abundance, and vouchsafes the joy of a life that is eternal.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM CXXXIV. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm the prophet exhorts the priests and the levites to praise the Lord for his power, which so greatly distinguishes him from the gods of the Gentiles, and to render him thanks for the benefits that he has bestowed upon his people.

1. LAUDATE nomen Domini, laudate servi Dominum.

2. Qui statis in domo Domini, in atriis domus Dei nostri.

3. Laudate Dominum, quia bonus Dominus: psallite nomini ejus quoniam suave.

4. Quoniam Jacob elegit sibi Dominus Israel in possessionem sibi.

5. Quia ego cognovi quod magnus est Dominus, et Deus noster præ omnibus diis.

6. Omnia quæcumque voluit, Dominus fecit in cælo, et in terra, in mari, et in omnibus abyssis.

7. Educens nubes ab extremo terræ: fulgura in pluviam fecit.

8. Qui producit ventos de thesauris suis: qui percussit primogenita Ægypti ab homine usque ad pecus.

9. Et misit signa, et prodigia in medio tui Ægypte: in Pharaonem, et in omnes servos ejus.

10. Qui percussit gentes multas: et occidit reges fortes.

11. Sehon regem Amorrhæorum, et Og regem Basan, et omnia regna Chanaan.

1. PRAISE ye the name of the Lord, O you his servants, praise the Lord.

2. You that stand in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God.

3. Praise ye the Lord, for the Lord is good: sing ye to his name, for it is sweet.

4. For the Lord hath chosen Jacob unto himself: Israel for his own possession.

5. For I have known that the Lord is great, and our God is above all gods.

6. Whatsoever the Lord pleased he hath done, in heaven, in earth, in the sea, and in all the deeps.

7. He bringeth up clouds from the end of the earth: he hath made lightnings for the rain.

8. He bringeth forth winds out of his stores: he slew the first-born of Egypt from man even unto beast.

9. He sent forth signs and wonders in the midst of thee, O Egypt: upon Pharaoh, and upon all his servants.

10. He smote many nations: and slew mighty kings:

11. Sehon king of the Amorrhites, and Og king of Basan, and all the kingdoms of Chanaan.

21. Blessed be the Lord who dwells in Jerusalem, and who pours forth his graces upon us from Mount Sion.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM CXXXV. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet exhorts the Israelites to thank the Lord for all the benefits that he has bestowed upon men, and especially upon the Jewish people.

1. CONFITEMINI Domino quoniam bonus: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

2. Confitemini Deo deorum: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

3. Confitemini Domino dominorum: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

4. Qui facit mirabilia magna solus: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

5. Qui fecit cœlos in intellectu: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

6. Qui firmavit terram super aquas: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

7. Qui fecit luminaria magna: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

8. Solem in potestatem diei: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

9. Lunam, et stellas in potestatem noctis: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

10. Qui percussit Ægyptum cum primogenitis eorum: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

1. PRAISE the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth forever.

2. Praise ye the God of gods: for his mercy endureth forever.

3. Praise ye the Lord of lords: for his mercy endureth forever.

4. Who alone doth great wonders: for his mercy endureth forever.

5. Who made the heavens in understanding: for his mercy endureth forever.

6. Who established the earth above the waters: for his mercy endureth forever.

7. Who made the great lights: for his mercy endureth forever.

8. The sun to rule the day: for his mercy endureth forever.

9. The moon and the stars to rule the night: for his mercy endureth forever.

10. Who smote Egypt with their first-born: for his mercy endureth forever.

¹ After having portrayed the vanity of the worship of idols, the prophet addresses himself to all those that acknowledge the true God, then in particular to priests, to levites, to the simple faithful, and calls upon them never to cease to render him homage.

11. Qui eduxit Israël de medio eorum: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

12. In manu potenti, et brachio excelso: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

13. Qui divisit mare Rubrum in divisiones: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

14. Et eduxit Israel per medium ejus: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

15. Et excussit Pharaonem, et virtutem ejus in mari Rubro: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

16. Qui traduxit populum suum per desertum. quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

17. Qui percussit reges magnos: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

18. Et occidit reges fortes: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

19. Sehon regem Amorrhæorum: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

20. Et Og regem Basan: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

21. Et dedit terram eorum hereditatem: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

22. Hereditatem Israel servo suo: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

23. Quia in humilitate nostra memor fuit nostri: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

24. Et redemit nos ab inimicis nostris: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

25. Qui dat escam omni carni: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

26. Confitemini Deo cœli: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

11. Who brought out Israel from among them: for his mercy endureth forever.

12. With a mighty hand and with a stretched-out arm: for his mercy endureth forever.

13. Who divided the Red Sea into parts: for his mercy endureth forever.

14. And brought out Israel through the midst thereof: for his mercy endureth forever.

15. And overthrew Pharaoh and his host in the Red Sea: for his mercy endureth forever.

16. Who led his people through the desert: for his mercy endureth forever.

17. Who smote great kings: for his mercy endureth forever.

18. And slew strong kings: for his mercy endureth forever.

19. Sehon king of the Amorrhites: for his mercy endureth forever.

20. And Og king of Basan: for his mercy endureth forever.

21. And he gave their land for an inheritance: for his mercy endureth forever.

22. For an inheritance to his servant Israel: for his mercy endureth forever.

23. For he was mindful of us in our affliction: for his mercy endureth forever.

24. And he redeemed us from our enemies: for his mercy endureth forever.

25. Who giveth food to all flesh: for his mercy endureth forever.

26. Give glory to the God of heaven: for his mercy endureth forever.

27. Confitemini Domino dominorum: quoniam in æternum misericordia ejus.

27. Give glory to the Lord of lords: for his mercy endureth forever.

1. "Confitemini." Render thanks to the Lord.

2. "Deo deorum." The true God of false gods.¹

25. "Omni carni." All men and beasts.²

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM CXXXVI. OF THE PSALTER.

This psalm shows us the Jews, who, captives at Babylon, bewail their miseries and sigh for their return to Jerusalem. It is most suitable to the Christian soul that mourns in this exile here below and desires to go to its heavenly country.³

1. SUPER flumina Babylonis, illic sedimus et flevimus: cum recordaremur Sion:

1. UPON the rivers of Babylon, there we sat and wept: when we remembered Sion:

2. In salicibus in medio ejus, suspendimus organa nostra.

2. On the willows in the midst thereof, we hung up our instruments.

3. Quia illic interrogaverunt nos, qui captivos duxerunt nos, verba cantionum.

3. For there they that led us into captivity required of us the words of songs.

4. Et qui abduxerunt nos:

4. And they that carried us

¹ Or: The God of all those that are called gods by any title whatsoever. See Psalms xlix. and lxxxi.

² The prodigies of the power, wisdom, goodness, and mercy of the Lord, enumerated in this psalm, should represent to our mind those of a higher order, such as the divine law, the Redemption, the Eucharist, the Church. We notice that the last two verses reproduce the beginning for the conclusion.

³ It is attributed to David in its very title; it is therefore a prophecy, and is written in a poetic style which one cannot too much admire. We may distinguish in it four parts. The first, v. 1, 2, portrays the affliction of the Israelites in their captivity: oppressed by lively regrets at the remembrance of Jerusalem, which was so far from them, and all devastated in punishment of their faults, they sit down in sadness and weep; their citterns, according to the Hebrew word, are suspended from the willow-tree as a sign of mourning. The second, v. 3-5, shows their indignation when, whether through curiosity or irony, they are asked to sing their sacred hymns. The third, v. 6-8, is a protestation of fidelity and love for Jerusalem, which is to be the first subject of their joy, and that only when they will be able to celebrate their deliverance. The fourth, in fine, is an imprecation or prediction against their enemies.

Friday at Vespers.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM CXXXVII. OF THE PSALTER.

In this psalm David thanks God for having heard his prayers and for delivering him from the hands of his enemies.¹

1. CONFITEBOR tibi Domine in toto corde meo: quoniam audisti verba oris mei.

2. In conspectu Angelorum psallam tibi: adorabo ad templum sanctum tuum, et confiteor nomini tuo.

3. Super misericordia tua, et veritate tua: quoniam magnificasti super omne, nomen sanctum tuum.

4. In quacumque die invocavero te, exaudi me: multiplicabis in anima mea virtutem.

5. Confiteantur tibi Domine omnes reges terræ: quia audiverunt omnia verba oris tui.

6. Et cantent in viis Domini: quoniam magna est gloria Domini.

7. Quoniam excelsus Dominus, et humilia respicit: et alta a longe cognoscit.

8. Si ambulavero in medio tribulationis, vivificabis me: et super iram inimicorum meo-

1. I WILL praise thee, O Lord, with my whole heart: for thou hast heard the words of my mouth.

2. I will sing praise to thee in the sight of the angels: I will worship towards thy holy temple, and I will give glory to thy name.

3. For thy mercy, and for thy truth: for thou hast magnified thy holy name above all.

4. In what day soever I shall call upon thee, hear me; thou shalt multiply strength in my soul.

5. May all the kings of the earth give glory to thee: for they have heard all the words of thy mouth.

6. And let them sing in the ways of the Lord: for great is the glory of the Lord.

7. For the Lord is high, and looketh on the low: and the high he knoweth afar off.

8. If I shall walk in the midst of tribulation, thou wilt quicken me: and thou hast

¹ This whole psalm seems to us to apply very well to Jesus Christ speaking in his own person and in that of his mystical body, as in Psalm xxxix. We may compare with it the prayer of our divine Saviour after the last supper (John, xvii.). It is no doubt in this sense that we recite it at the Vespers of the feast of the Most Holy Redeemer and of the feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

rum extendisti manum tuam, et salvum me fecit dextera tua.

9. Dominus retribuet pro me: Domine misericordia tua in sæculum: opera manuum tuarum ne despicias.

stretched forth thy hand against the wrath of my enemies: and thy right hath saved me.

9. The Lord will repay for me: thy mercy, O Lord, endureth forever: O despise not the works of thy hands.

1. I will ever give thanks to Thee with my whole heart, because Thou hast graciously heard my prayers.

3. I will praise Thy mercy and Thy faithfulness to Thy promises, because Thou hast made known how great above everything else is Thy holy name.¹

4. Every time that I shall invoke Thee, hear me speedily by augmenting in me the strength that I need to be able always to serve Thee.

5. "Audierunt omnia verba oris tui." They have been instructed in all the words that Thou hast said, and Thou hast brought them to pass.

6. Let them praise the ways pursued by the Lord; for very great is his glory in fulfilling all his divine counsels.

7. Let them say that the Lord is high above all, and yet that he does not disdain to look with gracious favor on things that are mean and low, that is, on the humble; while he knows from afar off the things that are lofty, that is, he holds himself aloof from the proud, and despises them.

8. If I find myself in the midst of tribulations, Thou wilt give me strength to bear them in peace; when my enemies advanced upon me in rage, Thou didst stretch forth Thy hand, and it saved me.

9. "Dominus retribuet pro me." The Lord will avenge himself on those that persecute me.

¹ "Sanctum." According to the Greek, this word should be taken as a substantive, and according to the Hebrew, we should have: Verbum. So that we should read: Magnificasti, super omne nomen, sanctum tuum, or Verbum tuum; and translate: Thou hast raised Thy saint or Thy incarnate Word above every name, or above every one that bears Thy name. An interpretation that seems to agree well with the text of the Apostle: Donavit illi nomen quod est super omne nomen— God hath given him a name which is above all names (Phil. ii. 9).

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CXXXVIII. OF THE PSALTER.

The prophet shows here that the knowledge and the providence of God extend to all things. He seeks, moreover, to induce us to unite ourselves to the just, whom God enriches with blessings, and to detach ourselves from sinners, whom his justice constrains him to punish.

1. DOMINE probasti me, et cognovisti me: tu cognovisti sessionem meam, et resurrectionem meam.

2. Intellexisti cogitationes meas de longe: semitam meam, et funiculum meum investigasti.

3. Et omnes vias meas prævidisti: quia non est sermo in lingua mea.

4. Ecce Domine tu cognovisti omnia, novissima, et antiqua: tu formasti me, et posuisti super me manum tuam.

5. Mirabilis facta est scientia tua ex me: confortata est, et non potero ad eam.

6. Quo ibo a spiritu tuo? et quo a facie tua fugiam?

7. Si ascendero in cœlum, tu illic es: si descendero in infernum, ades.

8. Si sumpsero pennas meas diluculo, et habitavero in extremis maris:

9. Etenim illuc manus tua deducet me: et teuebit me dextera tua.

10. Et dixi: Forsitan tenebræ conculcabunt me: et nox illuminatio mea in deliciis meis.

11. Quia tenebræ non obscurabuntur a te, et nox sicut dies illuminabitur: sicut tenebræ ejus, ita et lumen ejus.

12. Quia tu possedisti renes

1. LORD, thou hast proved me, and known me: thou hast known my sitting down, and my rising up.

2. Thou hast understood my thoughts far off: my path and my line thou hast searched out.

3. And thou hast foreseen all my ways: for there is no speech in my tongue.

4. Behold, O Lord, thou hast known all things, the last and those of old: thou hast formed me, and hast laid thy hand upon me.

5. Thy knowledge is become wonderful to me: it is high, and I cannot reach to it.

6. Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy face?

7. If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there: If I descend into hell, thou art present.

8. If I take my wings early in the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea:

9. Even there also shall thy hand lead me: and thy right hand shall hold me.

10. And I said, Perhaps darkness shall cover me: and night shall be my light in my pleasures.

11. But darkness shall not be dark to thee; and night shall be as light as the day: the darkness thereof and the light thereof, are alike to thee.

12. For thou hast possessed

Bellarmino says that this verse may well be applied to Jesus Christ, speaking of his death and of his resurrection, as, indeed, the Church does apply it on Easter Sunday in the Introit.

2. "Semitam meam et funiculum meum." The path that I should follow, and the term at which I should arrive.¹

3. Thou hast foreseen my ways, that is, my actions, before my tongue has uttered a word to reveal them.²

4. Thou hast known all things that concern me, whether old or new; for Thou hast formed me; Thou hast busied Thy hands to create me, and make me Thy servant.³

5. "Ex me." A Hebraism, says Bellarmine, for Super me—Above, beyond me; this is explained by the following words: "Confortatus est, et non potero ad eam." That is: Thy knowledge is too high for me to comprehend it.

6. "A spiritu tuo." That is: Away from Thy knowledge. "A facie tua." Away from Thy gaze.

7, 8, 9. That is: Thou art in every place through Thy immensity, and Thou exercisest everywhere Thy power. I shall be unable to free myself.⁴

10. St. Jerome translates this verse thus: Si dixero: Forte tenebræ operient me; nox quòque lux erit circa me. Hence the verse is thus explained: If I should say that perhaps darkness will hide me from Thy eyes, I should deceive myself; for night from Thy eyes is a light that surrounds me, and discovers to Thee all my actions. But we may also, as Bellarmine observes, explain the words of the Vulgate in this manner: If I should

² "Quia non est sermo in lingua mea." Bellarmine says that here should be supplied: Quem tu non prævideris—Which Thou hast not foreseen. Hence it means: For my tongue does not utter any word that Thou hast not foreseen. Thou knowest them, v. 2, 3, all my thoughts, all my words, all my actions.

³ "Posuisti super me manum tuam." That is, according to Bellarmine: After having formed me, Thou didst not abandon me; but Thou hast placed and constantly keep Thy hand upon me, to lead, protect, and preserve me; without which I should have fallen back into nothingness.

⁴ In ipso enim vivimus, et movemur, et sumus—For in him we live and move and are (Act. xvij. 28).

hide myself in the darkness of the night in order not to be seen, while indulging in pleasures so shameful as shun the light of day, still I could not for all that withdraw myself from Thy gaze.

12. "Renes meos." That is: The most inward parts of my body, and consequently my affections and my desires.

13. O Lord! I will praise Thee always, because Thou hast made me know Thy greatness in a fearful manner, that is, Thou who commandest respect and a holy fear in Thy admirable works which my soul knows too well not to be greatly impressed.

14. Of all that Thou hast in secret formed within me, that is, my bowels and bones, nothing is hidden before Thee; so that the whole substance of my body is known to Thee, as also whatever is hidden in the deepest bowels of the earth.

15. Thy eyes have seen my imperfection, that is, my body, when it was shapeless, without distinction of members; for in Thy book, that is, in Thy mind, all men are found written, so that Thou knowest what is to become of them. The meaning is brought out better by what follows: "Dies formabuntur, et nemo in eis." Menochius explains: Days shall succeed to days, and not one of them shall be missing in Thy book so as to escape Thy knowledge.¹

16. "Mihi." To my mind, according to my judgment. Thou honorest and Thou exaltest Thy enemies in calling them to enjoy eternal glory when they shall be made princes of the eternal kingdom.

17. "Exsurrexi." According to the Hebrew: Evigilavi—Have wakened from sleep. "Adhuc sum tecum." That is: I am united with Thee up to the present moment, and I hope to continue thus united till the end.

18, 19. I know, on the other hand, that Thou wilt destroy the wicked, and I say to them: Men of blood, depart from me; for you say in your thought, that is, among yourselves: In vain, O Lord! will Thy servants occupy the cities that Thou hast given them.

22, 23. Prove me, and penetrate all the affections of my heart; interrogate me, that is, examine me and weigh all my ways, all my actions, and if Thou seest that I am in the way of iniquity, ¹ "In perfectum meum." St. Jerome translates: Informem adhuc me. The second and the third part of the verse are very obscure, and they give occasion to very different interpretations.

do Thou lead me into the eternal way, that is, make me walk by that way which will bring me to the possession of eternal good.¹

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM CXXXIX. OF THE PSALTER.

David implores help from God against Saul, and against those that spoke calumniously of him to that prince.²

1. ERIPE me Domine ab homine malo: a viro iniquo eripe me.

2. Qui cogitaverunt iniquitates in corde: tota die constitutebant prælia.

3. Acuerunt linguas suas sicut serpentis: venenum aspidum sub labiis eorum.

4. Custodi me Domine de manu peccatoris: et ab hominibus iniquis eripe me.

5. Qui cogitaverunt supplantare gressus meos: absconderunt superbi laqueum mihi:

6. Et funes extenderunt in laqueum: juxta iter scandalum posuerunt mihi.

7. Dixi Domino: Deus meus es tu: exaudi Domine vocem deprecationis meæ.

8. Domine, Domine virtus salutis meæ: obumbrasti super caput meum in die belli:

1. DELIVER me, O Lord, from the evil man: rescue me from the unjust man.

2. Who have devised iniquities in their hearts: all the day long they designed battles

3. They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent: the venom of asps is under their lips.

4. Keep me, O Lord, from the hand of the wicked: and from unjust men deliver me.

5. Who have proposed to supplant my steps: the proud have hidden a net for me.

6. And they have stretched out cords for a snare: they have laid for me a stumbling-block by the way side.

7. I said to the Lord: thou art my God: hear, O Lord, the voice of my supplication.

8. O Lord, Lord, the strength of my salvation: thou hast overshadowed my head in the day of battle.

¹ What the psalmist said in the beginning God had done in his behalf, he begs him in concluding to do always till he arrived at the object of all his desires.

² Such is, says Bellarmine, the opinion of Theodoret, followed by more modern interpreters; but according to the ancient Fathers, St. Hilary, St. Jerome, St. John Chrysostom, St. Augustine, this psalm is a prayer of the mystical body of Jesus Christ against the devil and his agents. It is without doubt in this sense that the Church recites them in the Vespers of the three days of the Holy Week, as also in the Office of the Commemoration of the Passion and in that of the Five Wounds.

11. “Carbones.” Burning coals, that is, the afflictions that they devised for me. “In miseriis non subsistent.” Their miseries shall be such that they will not fail to be crushed by them.

12. The man that makes an ill use of his tongue to lie, to detract, and to injure his neighbor; and the evils that shall afflict him, far from making him gain merit by patience, will only serve to sink him deeper in eternal death.

14. “Cum vultu tuo.” That is: In that blessed kingdom where they shall see Thy beautiful face.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM CXL. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist implores the Lord to protect him from his enemies; he also prays God to preserve him from such faults as may render his prayers useless.¹

1. DOMINE clamavi ad te, exaudi me: intende voci meæ, cum clamavero ad te.

2. Dirigatur oratio mea sicut incensum in conspectu tuo: elevatio manuum mearum sacrificium vespertinum.

3. Pone Domine custodiam ori meo: et ostium circumstantiæ labiis meis.

4. Non declines cor meum in verba malitiæ, ad excusandas excusationes in peccatis.

5. Cum hominibus operantibus iniquitatem: et non communicabo cum electis eorum.

6. Corripiet me justus in misericordia, et increpabit me: oleum autem peccatoris non impinguet caput meum.

7. Quoniam adhuc et oratio mea in beneplacitis eorum: absorpti sunt juncti petræ iudices eorum.

1. I HAVE cried to thee, O Lord, hear me: hearken to my voice, when I cry to thee.

2. Let my prayer be directed as incense in thy sight: the lifting up of my hands, as evening sacrifice.

3. Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth: and a door round about my lips.

4. Incline not my heart to evil words; to make excuse, in sins.

5. With men that work iniquity: and I will not communicate with the choicest of them.

6. The just man shall correct me in mercy, and shall reprove me: but let not the oil of the sinner fatten my head.

7. For my prayer also shall still be against the things with which they are well pleased: their judges falling upon the rock have been swallowed up.

¹ The same subject as in the preceding psalm. It is still, according to Bellarmine and other interpreters, the society of the faithful, or each one of its members, that speak. Here is what the Holy Ghost makes us ask of God: the grace of praying well, v. 2; discretion in our words, v. 3; simplicity of heart, v. 4; finally, flight from bad companions and association with virtuous persons.

8. Audient verba mea quoniam potuerunt: sicut crassitudo terræ erupta est super terram.

9. Dissipata sunt ossa nostra secus infernum: quia ad te Domine, Domine oculi mei: in te speravi, non auferas animam meam.

10. Custodi me a laqueo, quem statuerunt mihi: et a scandalis operantium iniquitatem.

11. Cadent in retiaculo ejus peccatores: singulariter sum ego donec transeam.

8. They shall hear my words, for they have prevailed: as when the thickness of the earth is broken up upon the ground:

9. Our bones are scattered by the side of hell. But to thee, O Lord, Lord, are my eyes: in thee have I put my trust, take not away my soul.

10. Keep me from the snare, which they have laid for me, and from the stumbling-blocks of them that work iniquity.

11. The wicked shall fall in his net: I am alone until I pass.

2. May my prayer ascend to Thee as the smoke of innocence rises in Thy sight; and when I lift my hands to Thee to implore Thy help may this be acceptable to Thee as the sacrifice that is offered to Thee at evening time.¹

3. That is: Permit not that any inconsiderate word escape me that could cause Thee displeasure.

4, 5. And if even through weakness I should offend Thee, suffer me not to speak maliciously by seeking to excuse my sins. This is what wicked men do; but I do not wish to have part with them, nor share in the disorders that are their chief delight.

6. That is: I prefer the charitable corrections and reproaches of the just to the flatteries of the wicked.

7. This verse is very obscure; according to St. John Chrysostom it is thus explained: I will not only have no communication with the wicked, but moreover my prayer to God is that he will not allow me to find delight in those things that please them; they will perish along with their judges, that is, their chiefs who lead them on to evil; these indeed have already perished by striking against the rock which has caused their wreck.

8. This verse is also very obscure; it is thus explained: I hope nevertheless that they will hear my words; for they are such as will have power to make them repent, and as the hardened earth yields to the spade and is broken up, so their obstinacy will be broken and yield to my persuasions.

9. Our bones have been scattered, that is, our strength is weakened, so that we find ourselves as it were on the brink of the grave; but, O Lord, my eyes turn to Thee; in Thee have I put my hopes, give me not up to death.

11. The wicked ones shall be caught in the snares that they laid for me; for myself, I hope to be in a special manner protected by Thee until I am out of danger.¹

PSALM V., WHICH IS PSALM CXLI. OF THE PSALTER.

According to interpreters, this psalm is the prayer that David, hiding in the cave of Odollam, addressed to God in order to be delivered from the imminent danger in which he found himself.²

1. VOCE mea ad Dominum clamavi: voce mea ad Dominum deprecatus sum:

2. Effundo in conspectu ejus orationem meam, et tribulationem meam ante ipsum pronuntio.

1. I CRIED to the Lord with my voice: with my voice I made supplication to the Lord.

2. In his sight I pour out my prayer, and before him I declare my trouble.

¹ The expression Excusare excusationes is, according to Bellarmine, a Hebraism for Facere excusationes. Thus we say: Præliari prælia, Judicare judicia, for facere prælia, judicia. “Cum electis.” According to the Hebrew, says the same interpreter: Cum dulcibus cibis—With their dainties: and St. Jerome translates: In deliciis. That is: In their feasting, their pleasures. “In retiaculo ejus.” The pronoun Ejus is variously interpreted; some take it for Suo; but others refer it either to Iniquitatem which precedes, or to God, or to the devil. “Singulariter.” According to the Greek: Solitarie. That is: Isolated far from people of a bad life; this agrees with the second part of verse 5.

² Title of the psalm: Intellectus David, Cum esset in spelunca, oratio—Of understanding for David; a prayer when he was in the cave. Some think that there is here question of the Grotto of Odolla, others of that of Engaddi (1 Kings, xxii. and xxiv.). The whole psalm well applies to David, but much better to Him of whom he was a figure; and it is this sense that the prophet seems to us to have chiefly in view: first, v. 1-4, we recognize our Lord in his agony in the Garden of Olives; then, v. 5-9, we see him in the hands of his enemies, betrayed, abandoned, denied by his friends; finally, v. 10, he is in the tomb surrounded by a guard, awaiting his resurrection.

Saturday at Vespers.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM CXLIII. OF THE PSALTER.

David returns thanks to the Lord for his victory gained over Goliath, and for all the other benefits that he had received; he also begs him for strength to vanquish the Philistines.¹

1. BENEDICTUS Dominus Deus meus, qui docet manus meas ad prælium, et digitos meos ad bellum.

2. Misericordia mea, et refugium meum: susceptor meus, et liberator meus:

3. Protector meus, et in ipso speravi: qui subdit populum meum sub me.

4. Domine quid est homo, quia innotuisti ei? aut filius hominis, quia reputas eum?

5. Homo vanitati similis factus est: dies ejus sicut umbra prætereunt.

6. Domine inclina cælos tuos, et descende: tange montes, et fumigabunt.

7. Fulgura coruscationem, et dissipabis eos: emitte sagittas tuas, et conturbabis eos:

8. Emitte manum tuam de alto, eripe me, et libera me de aquis multis: de manu filiorum alienorum.

9. Quorum os locutum est vanitatem: et dextera eorum, dextera iniquitatis.

1. BLESSED be the Lord my God, who teacheth my hands to fight, and my fingers to war.

2. My mercy, and my refuge: my support, and my deliverer:

3. My protector, and I have hoped in him: who subdueth my people under me.

4. Lord, what is man, that thou art made known to him? or the son of man, that thou makest account of him?

5. Man is like to vanity: his days pass away like a shadow.

6. Lord, bow down thy heavens and come down: touch the mountains, and they shall smoke.

7. Send forth lightning, and thou shalt scatter them: shoot out thy arrows, and thou shalt trouble them.

8. Put forth thy hand from on high, take me out and deliver me from many waters: from the hand of strange children.

9. Whose mouth hath spoken vanity: and their right hand is the right hand of iniquity.

¹ The title of the psalm is: Psalmus David adversus Goliath—A psalm of David against Goliath. Under these figures we may see with the holy Fathers Jesus Christ and his Church triumphing over the devil and his agents, and also the just man fighting against his spiritual enemies, interior and exterior.

10. Deus canticum novum cantabo tibi: in psalterio decachordo psallam tibi.

11. Qui das salutem regibus: qui redemisti David servum tuum de gladio maligno: eripe me.

12. Et erue me de manu filiorum alienorum, quorum os locutum est vanitatem: et dextera eorum, dextera iniquitatis:

13. Quorum filii, sicut novellæ plantationes in juventute sua.

14. Filiæ eorum compositæ: circumornatæ ut similitudo templi.

15. Promptuaria eorum plena, eructantia ex hoc in illud.

16. Oves eorum foetosæ, abundantes in egressibus suis: boves eorum crassæ.

17. Non est ruina maceriæ, neque transitus: neque clamor in plateis eorum.

18. Beatum dixerunt populum, cui hæc sunt: beatus populus, cujus Dominus Deus ejus.

5. Man is not vanity, since he is Thy creature; but his littleness is such that he is like unto vanity; the days of his life pass by as a shadow.¹

6. Come down to defend me from my enemies; place Thy powerful hand on these proud mountains, and they shall pass away in smoke.²

¹ The shadow has no consistency; it changes and is dissipated without leaving any trace; such is the life of man upon earth, such is man himself (Job, xiv. 2). And still God has had the goodness to make something great of him; see Psalm viii. 5. We may compare this with what is said in Psalm xxxviii. 7.

² We may see, for these figurative expressions, Psalms xvii. 11, and ciii. 33.

10. To thee, O God, will I sing a new canticle: on the psaltery and an instrument of ten strings will I sing praises to thee.

11. Who givest salvation to kings; who hast redeemed thy servant David from the malicious sword: deliver me.

12. And rescue me out of the hand of strange children, whose mouth hath spoken vanity: and their right hand is the right hand of iniquity;

13. Whose sons are as new plants in their youth.

14. Their daughters decked out; adorned round about after the similitude of a temple:

15. Their storehouses full flowing out of this into that.

16. Their sheep fruitful in young, abounding in their goings forth: their oxen fat.

17. There is no breach of wall, nor passage: nor crying out in their streets.

18. They have called the people happy, that hath these things: but happy is the people whose God is the Lord.

8. Stretch forth Thy hand from the height of heaven, save me, and deliver me from the hands of these foreign foes,¹ who rush forward like a torrent of water to swallow me up.

9. Their mouth utters words only of vanity and pride; and their hands work naught but iniquity.

10. Save me, and I will celebrate Thy praises in thanksgiving.

18. "Beatus populus." Understood: As for us, we say: Blessed the people, etc.

PSALM II., WHICH IS PSALM CXLIV. OF THE PSALTER.

The psalmist here exalts the perfection of God, and especially his goodness and mercy.²

1. EXALTABO te Deus meus Rex: et benedicam nomini tuo in sæculum, et in sæculum sæculi.

2. Per singulos dies benedicam tibi: et laudabo nomen tuum in sæculum, et in sæculum sæculi.

3. Magnus Dominus et laudabilis nimis: et magnitudinis ejus non est finis.

4. Generatio et generatio laudabit opera tua: et potentiam tuam pronuntiabunt.

5. Magnificentiam gloriæ sanctitatis tuæ loquentur: et mirabilia tua narrabunt.

6. Et virtutem terribilium tuorum dicent: et magnitudinem tuam narrabunt.

1. I WILL extol thee, O God, my king: and I will bless thy name forever; yea forever and ever.

2. Every day will I bless thee: and I will praise thy name forever, yea forever and ever.

3. Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised: and of his greatness there is no end.

4. Generation and generation shall praise thy works: and they shall declare thy power.

5. They shall speak of the magnificence of the glory of thy holiness; and shall tell of thy wondrous works.

6. And they shall speak of the might of thy terrible acts: and shall declare thy greatness.

¹ "Filiorum alienorum." That is: A foreign race, or the Philistines, who are called Alienigenæ. See Psalm lxxxii. 6.

² Bellarmine gives the following abridged analysis of this psalm: Verses 1, 2, announce the subject: Praise of our Lord, God and King. 3-10, his grandeur, power, glory, justice, goodness, mercy, meekness, considered in his works. 14-21, his royal virtues: probity, clemency, liberality, justice, accessibility, condescension, protection of the good and punishment of the wicked. 22, conclusion.

22. Laudationem Domini loquetur os meum: et benedicat omnis caro nomini sancto ejus in sæculum, et in sæculum sæculi.

22. My mouth shall speak the praise of the Lord: and let all flesh bless his holy name forever, yea forever and ever.

14. “Verbis.” Words, or Promises.¹

15. “Allevat.” According to the Hebrew: Sustentat—Sustains. Those that have fallen are never left without means on the part of God to raise themselves.

17. “Benedictione.” That is: With Thy benefits.²

18. “In omnibus viis tuis.” In all the dispositions of his Providence.

19. “In veritate.” That is: With confidence.³

21. “Peccatores.” Obstinate sinners.

PSALM III., WHICH IS PSALM CXLV. OF THE PSALTER.

Addressing himself to the Jews, captives in Babylon, the psalmist exhorts them to hope only in God for their deliverance.⁴

1. LAUDA anima mea Dominum, laudabo Dominum in vita mea: psallam Deo meo quamdiu fuero.

1. PRAISE the Lord, O my soul, in my life I will praise the Lord: I will sing to my God as long as I shall be.

2. Nolite confidere in principibus: in filiis hominum, in quibus non est salus.

2. Put not your trust in princes: in the children of men, in whom there is no salvation.

¹ This verse is not found in the present Hebrew text. Bellarmine and Bossuet see in this omission an evident proof of the alteration of that text.

² It is from the liberality of God that all the goods that we enjoy in this life come—not only food, as is said in the preceding verse, but also clothing, etc., and he gives them in abundance to all living beings. See Psalm ciii.

³ Even Moses has said: Non est alia natio tam grandis, quæ habeat deos appropinquantes sibi, sicut Deus noster adest cunctis obsecrationibus nostris—Neither is there any other nation so great, that hath gods so nigh them, as our God is present to all our petitions (Deut. iv. 7). “In veritate.” This expression includes all the conditions that our prayer should have in order to be heard.

⁴ Frailty of human support, and motives of confidence in God. The psalmist begins by inviting himself to praise God: Lauda, anima mea, Dominum. What follows is his answer: Yes, I will praise, etc.

3. Exhibit spiritus ejus, et revertetur in terram suam: in illa die peribunt omnes cogitationes eorum.

4. Beatus, cujus Deus Jacob adjutor ejus, spes ejus in Domino Deo ipsius: qui fecit cœlum et terram, mare, et omnia, quæ in eis sunt.

5. Qui custodit veritatem in sæculum, facit judicium injuriam patientibus: dat escam esurientibus.

6. Dominus solvit compeditos: Dominus illuminat cæcos.

7. Dominus erigit elisos, Dominus diligit justos.

8. Dominus custodit advenas, pupillum, et viduam suscipiet: et vias peccatorum disperdet.

9. Regnabit Dominus in sæcula, Deus tuus Sion, in generationem et generationem.

2. Beware of putting your trust in the powerful of this world; they are but men, and therefore cannot give you the salvation that you expect.

3. They are but men, I say; one day their spirit will go forth, and their body will return to the earth from which they were formed;¹ then all their projects will come to an end.

5. "Qui custodit veritatem." The Lord our God is faithful in keeping his word, or his promises.

8. "Custodit advenas." He has care of strangers, who are far from their country. "Vias." The designs, machinations, undertakings.

¹ "Spiritus ejus." That is: The spirit or the soul of each one of them. "Revertetur in terram suam." We may see an analogous passage in Psalm ciii. 30.

3. His spirit shall go forth, and he shall return into his earth: in that day all their thoughts shall perish.

4. Blessed is he who hath the God of Jacob for his helper, whose hope is in the Lord his God: who made heaven and earth, the sea, and all things that are in them.

5. Who keepeth truth forever: who executeth judgment for them that suffer wrong: who giveth food to the hungry.

6. The Lord looseth them that are fettered: the Lord enlighteneth the blind.

7. The Lord lifteth up them that are cast down: the Lord loveth the just.

8. The Lord keepeth the strangers, he will support the fatherless and the widow: and the ways of sinners he will destroy.

9. The Lord shall reign forever: thy God, O Sion, unto generation and generation.

PSALM IV., WHICH IS PSALM CXLVI. OF THE PSALTER.

Same subject as in the preceding psalm.¹

1. LAUDATE Dominum quoniam bonus est psalmus: Deo nostro sit jucunda, decoraque laudatio.

2. Ædificans Jerusalem Dominus: dispersiones Israelis congregabit.

3. Qui sanat contritos corde: et alligat contritiones eorum.

4. Qui numerat multitudinem stellarum: et omnibus eis nomina vocat.

5. Magnus Dominus noster, et magna virtus ejus: et sapientiæ ejus non est numerus.

6. Suscipiens mansuetos Dominus: humilians autem peccatores usque ad terram.

7. Præcinite Domino in confessione: psallite Deo nostro in cithara.

8. Qui operit cœlum nubibus: et parat terræ pluviam.

9. Qui producit in montibus fœnum: et herbam servituti hominum.

10. Qui dat jumentis escam ipsorum: et pullis corvorum invocantibus eum.

11. Non in fortitudine equi voluntatem habebit: nec in tibiis viri beneplacitum erit ei.

12. Beneplacitum est Domino super timentes eum: et in eis, qui sperant super misericordia ejus.

1. PRAISE ye the Lord, because psalm is good: to our God be joyful and comely praise.

2. The Lord buildeth up Jerusalem: he will gather together the dispersed of Israel.

3. Who healeth the broken of heart, and bindeth up their bruises.

4. Who telleth the number of the stars: and calleth them all by their names.

5. Great is our Lord, and great is his power: and of his wisdom there is no number.

6. The Lord lifteth up the meek: and he bringeth the wicked down even to the ground.

7. Sing ye to the Lord with praise: sing to our God upon the harp.

8. Who covereth the heaven with clouds, and prepareth rain for the earth.

9. Who maketh grass to grow on the mountains, and herbs for the service of men.

10. Who giveth to beasts their food: and to the young ravens that call upon him.

11. He shall not delight in the strength of the horse: nor take pleasure in the legs of a man.

12. The Lord taketh pleasure in them that fear him: and in them that hope in his mercy.

1. Let all praise the Lord, because to praise him is good and profitable to ourselves; but see that your praises are acceptable to God and worthy of his majesty.

¹ Goodness, wisdom, power, providence, justice, and mercy of God,

3. Qui posuit fines tuos pacem: et adipe frumenti satiat te.

4. Qui emittit eloquium suum terræ: velociter currit sermo ejus.

5. Qui dat uivem sicut lanam: nebulam sicut cinerem spargit.

6. Mittit crystallum suam sicut buccellas: ante faciem frigoris ejus quis sustinebit?

7. Emittet verbum suum, et liquefaciet ea: flabit spiritus ejus, et fluent aquæ.

8. Qui annuntiat verbum suum Jacob: justitias et judicia sua Israel.

9. Non fecit taliter omni nationi: et judicia sua non manifestavit eis.

ened the bolts of thy gates, he hath blessed thy children within thee.

3. Who hath placed peace in thy borders: and filled thee with the fat of corn.

4. Who sendeth forth his speech to the earth: his word runneth swiftly.

5. Who giveth snow like wool: scattereth mists like ashes.

6. He sendeth his crystal like morsels: who shall stand before the face of his cold?

7. He shall send out his word, and shall melt them: his wind shall blow, and the waters shall run.

8. Who declareth his word to Jacob: his justices and his judgments to Israel.

9. He hath not done in like manner to every nation: and his judgments he hath not made manifest to them.

2. "Benedixit." That is: He has filled with good things.

4. He sends his commands, and they arrive promptly.

5. "Dat nivem sicut lanam." That is: He showers down snow from heaven in such quantities to benefit the earth, that its flakes form as it were a quilt of wool. "Nebulam." St. Jerome translates: Pruinam—Hoar-frost.

6. Moreover, he covers the earth with ice as with pieces of crystal; how shall he that is exposed to so great cold be able to endure this? "Ante faciem." A Hebraism, says Bellarmine, for Coram, that is, in its presence.

7. Then the Lord will issue another command, and will cause the snow to melt by sending forth the South wind.

8, 9. "Verbum suum . . . justitias et judicia sua." That is, his precepts, his holy law.

Compline.

PSALM I., WHICH IS PSALM IV. OF THE PSALTER.

According to interpreters this psalm was composed by David, happy to see himself delivered from the hands of Saul, or of Absalom. In a mystical sense it is applied to Jesus Christ inasmuch as he is the end of the law and of the prophets.¹

1. CUM invocarem, exaudivit me Deus justitiæ meæ: in tribulatione dilatasti mihi.

2. Miserere mei, et exaudi orationem meam.

3. Filii hominum usquequo gravi corde? ut quid diligitis vanitatem, et quæritis mendacium?

4. Et scitote quoniam mirificavit Dominus sanctum suum: Dominus exaudiet me, cum clamavero ad eum.

5. Irascimini, et nolite peccare: quæ dicitis in cordibus vestris, in cubilibus vestris compungimini.

6. Sacrificate sacrificium justitiæ, et sperate in Domino. Multi dicunt: Quis ostendit nobis bona?

7. Signatum est super nos lumen vultus tui Domine: dedisti lætitiã in corde meo.

1. WHEN I called upon him, the God of my justice heard me: when I was in distress, thou hast enlarged me.

2. Have mercy on me: and hear my prayer.

3. O ye sons of men, how long will you be dull of heart? why do you love vanity, and seek after lying?

4. Know ye also that the Lord hath made his holy one wonderful: the Lord will hear me when I cry unto him.

5. Be ye angry, and sin not: the things ye say in your hearts, be sorry for upon your beds.

6. Offer up the sacrifice of justice, and trust in the Lord. Many say: Who sheweth us good things?

7. The light of thy countenance, O Lord, is signed upon us: thou hast given gladness in my heart.

¹ Jesus Christ, of whom David was a figure, is properly the Saint of God, the Saint by eminence, he whom God has glorified above every one else in a wonderful manner, v. 4; our Master and our Model, he reminds us at first of the efficacy of prayer: then he exhorts us to detach ourselves from the goods of this world, to flee from sin, to practise virtue, and to seek only justice, sanctity, by putting our whole confidence in God.

8. A fructu frumenti, vini et olei sui multiplicati sunt.

8. By the fruit of their corn, their wine and oil, they are multiplied.

9. In pace in idipsum dormiam, et requiescam ;

9. In peace in the self same I will sleep, and I will rest.

10. Quoniam tu Domine singulariter in spe constituisti me.

10. For thou, O Lord, singularly hast settled me in hope.

1. When I called upon my God, he heard me, he who is the defender of my innocence: Yea, Lord, when I was in tribulation, Thou didst enlarge my heart by Thy consolations.

2. Continue, then, to have pity on me, and hearken to my prayers whenever I have recourse to Thee.

3. "Usquequo gravi corde?" How long do you wish to have your heart thus heavy, that is, so bowed down to earth, and inclined to earthly passions? "Vanitatem . . . mendacium." Vain and deceitful things, false goods.

4. Know that the Lord has made his holy one admirable, that is, me his servant, whom he has sanctified as King and Prophet; he will, therefore, continue to hearken to me whenever I shall have recourse to him in prayer.

5. If you become angry, take care not to commit sin, that is, be angry with a just anger, when the honor of God or your own duty require you to do so, and then do not be disturbed. St. Paul says: Irascimini, et nolite peccare; sol non occidat super iracundiam vestram—Be angry, and sin not. Let not the sun go down upon your anger (Eph. iv. 26). And if your conscience reproaches you for having yielded to some fit of passion, then retire to your chambers at night, and ask God's pardon with compunction. "Compungimini." According to the Chaldee: Deum apud vos cogitate—Think with yourselves on God.

6. Offer to God the sacrifice of justice, that is, of a just life, and put all your trust in the Lord. "Quis ostendit nobis bona?" Interpreters refer these words to the followers of David, who, seeing themselves persecuted with him, said: When shall we recover peace? According to Bellarmine, we can explain them in two ways—either by supposing them as coming from the mouth of worldlings, who make but little account of heavenly goods, and say: Who has ever come back from the other world to tell us of these goods, which we do not see? Or else: What

2. Dicet Domino: Susceptor meus es tu, et refugium meum: Deus meus sperabo in eum.

3. Quoniam ipse liberavit me de laqueo venantium, et a verbo aspero.

4. Scapulis suis obumbrabit tibi: et sub pennis ejus sperabis.

5. Scuto circumdabit te veritas ejus: non timebis a timore nocturno.

6. A sagitta volante in die, a negotio perambulante in tenebris: ab incursu, et dæmonio meridiano.

7. Cadent a latere tuo mille, et decem millia a dextris tuis: ad te autem non appropinquabit.

8. Verumtamen oculis tuis considerabis: et retributionem peccatorum videbis.

9. Quoniam tu es Domine spes mea: altissimum posuisti refugium tuum.

10. Non accedet ad te malum: et flagellum non appropinquabit tabernaculo tuo.

11. Quoniam Angelis suis mandavit de te: ut custodiant te in omnibus viis tuis.

12. In manibus portabunt te: ne forte offendas ad lapidem pedem tuum.

13. Super aspidem et basiliscum ambulabis: et conculcabis leonem et draconem.

14. Quoniam in me speravit, liberabo eum: protegam eum, quoniam cognovit nomen meum.

15. Clamabit ad me, et ego exaudiam eum: cum ipso sum in tribulatione: eripiam eum, et glorificabo eum.

2. He shall say to the Lord: thou art my protector, and my refuge: my God, in him will I trust.

3. For he hath delivered me from the snare of the hunters: and from the sharp word.

4. He shall overshadow thee with his shoulders: and under his wings shalt thou trust.

5. His truth shall compass thee with a shield: thou shalt not be afraid for the terror of the night;

6. Of the arrow that flieth in the day, of the business that walketh about in the dark: of invasion, or of the noon-day devil.

7. A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand: but it shall not come nigh thee.

8. But thou shalt consider with thy eyes: and shalt see the reward of the wicked.

9. For thou, O Lord, art my hope: thou hast made the most High thy refuge.

10. There shall no evil come to thee: nor shall the scourge come near thy dwelling.

11. For he hath given his Angels charge of thee; to keep thee in all thy ways.

12. In their hands they shall bear thee up; lest thou dash thy foot against a stone.

13. Thou shalt walk upon the asp and the basilisk: thou shalt trample under foot the lion and the dragon.

14. Because he hath hoped in me, I will deliver him: I will protect him, because he hath known my name.

15. He shall cry to me, and I will hear him: I am with him in his trouble: I will deliver him, and I will glorify him.

16. Longitudine dierum replebo eum: et ostendam illi salutare meum.

16. I will fill him with length of days: and will shew him my salvation.

1. He that lives in the confidence of the help¹ of God shall be assured of his protection.

3.² "Venantium." That is: Of enemies who sought to make me their prey. "A verbo aspero." Some interpret this of every calamity; Bellarmine, with others, understands it of the condemnation of the reprobate, that is, of the sentence of eternal death.

4. If thou trustest in the Lord, he will cover thee with his shoulders, that is, with his wings, and under the wings of his protection thou mayest hope to be sheltered from every danger.

5, 6. "Veritas ejus." The faithfulness of his promises. "A timore nocturno." Of the secret plots of thy enemies. "A sagitta volante in die." Of arrows that shall be shot at thee unexpectedly during the day, that is, sudden and unforeseen dangers. "A negotio perambulante in tenebris." All hurtful things brought about by unknown causes. "Ab incursu et dæmonio meridiano." Of any assault of the devil, made with open attack in the middle of the day. In a word, as St. Augustine says, if God protects thee, thou wilt not have to fear any evil planned against thee, by day or by night, in public or in private, whether on the part of men or of demons.

7. Thou shalt see thy enemies fall around thee in great number, and they will not be able to hurt thee.³

8. With thy eyes thou shalt see the protection of God over thee, and the vengeance that he will take of thy unjust persecutors.

¹ "In adiutorio." St. Jerome translates: In abscondito: In the secret or hiding place.

² "Liberavit." In the Hebrew and in the Greek this is in the future tense: Liberabit; which joined to the preceding words, signifies: I hope that he will deliver me.

³ Bellarmine, with St. Augustine, gives the following explanation as more true, more simple, and more literal: Among thy fellow-combatants in life thou wilt see a great number fall on thy left hand, that is, in adversity, and a still greater number at thy right, that is, in prosperity, without thyself receiving any injury.

9. And whereas thou hast trusted in the Lord, saying: O Lord, thou art my hope; thou hast procured for thyself a most high refuge, that is, one most safe, wherein thou hast nothing to fear.¹

10. Know that here no evil shall happen to thee, and no scourge shall come nigh thy dwelling.

11, 12. For the Lord has commended thee to his angels, that they may guard thee in all thy ways: if even thou art in some perilous road, they will bear thee up in their hands, so that thy feet may not chance to stumble against any stone of scandal, that is, any dangerous occasion of sin.²

13. That is: Thou wilt have nothing to fear from evil encounters. In a spiritual sense, by the asp is understood the demon who inspires despair; by the basilisk, the demon who inspires presumption; by the lion, pride; and by the dragon, attachment to earthly goods.

14. "Cognovit." He has known and invoked.

16. I will give him a long life, and will make him enjoy the health and salvation that I shall bestow upon him in this life, and eternal salvation which I reserve for him in the next.

¹ "Quoniam." Many interpreters understand the verb Dixisti, and read thus: Quoniam dixisti. Tu es, Domine, spes mea; ideo . . . "Altissimum." According to the Hebrew and the Greek this word is here a substantive: The Most High;—so that the phrase means: Thou hast chosen the most High for thy refuge.

² Bellarmine says that this verse is quite metaphorical. "Manibus." The hands of the angels are their intelligence and will. "Lapidem." The stones are the difficulties to be met with in the course of life, as scandals, temptations, persecutions, etc. "Pedem." The feet are, with St. Augustine and St. Bernard, human affections, especially love and fear.

³ In these last three verses God himself confirms what precedes by eight promises, four of which regard this present life: Liberabo eum, Protegam eum, Exaudiam eum, Cum ipso sum. The four others relate to a glorious eternity: Eripiam eum, Glorificabo eum, Longitudine dierum replebo eum, Ostendam illi salutare meum; that is: I will draw him from this world of tribulation, and I will raise him to the abode of glory; there his life will have no longer an end, and he will enjoy a happiness that I enjoy myself.

2. "Salutare tuum." The Saviour whom Thou hast sent.
3. Whom Thou hast set forth in the sight of all the people.

granted the grace that he solicited, he says with assurance : "Nunc dimittis." Then he announces the providential destiny of the divine Infant who had come to enlighten and to save all nations. We may compare this prophecy with those that we read in the Magnificat, page 459, and in the Benedictus, page 344, where the conversion of the Gentiles is announced in terms less explicit. Cornelius à Lapide says that this canticle is recited every evening, to remind us of death before sleep, which is the image of death, and in order that we may prepare for it by desiring it, after the example of St. Simeon.
