THE RED AND BLUE

(By WILLIAM J. GOECKEL, '96 and HARRY E. WESTERVELT, '98)

Come all ye loyal classmen now, in hall and campus through,
Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.
Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale
her colors too,
But for dear Pennsylvania we wear
the Red and Blue.
Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania! Hurrah for the Red and the Blue;
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

Commencement Notes

The University Commencement of 1780 took place, appropriately, on the fourth "anniversary of American Independence." It was a day of historic significance not only for the country but for the University of the State of Pennsylvania, which on the past November 27 had become the name of the reconstituted College of Philadelphia and, thus, the first institution in the new nation to be designated a "university." The political climate of the previous year had, in fact, prevented the College from holding a degree ceremony, and eight candidates, held over a twelvemonth, received their academic rewards on July 4, 1780.

The church bells in the city began to ring early for the ten o'clock morning ceremony. A band ushered into the hall of the University in Fourth Street, the Trustees, Faculty and Graduates, attended by the President and members of the Continental Congress, the Councillors of the state and the Chevalier de la Luzerne, Minister from the Court of France. After listening to the salutatory address on "The Advantages of a Liberal Education," eight expectant collegians received from the Provost, the Reverend John Ewing, the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Three medical candidates were similarly rewarded, one of them, David Ramsay, of South Carolina, "now a Prisoner with the Enemy." The conferral of the honorary degrees which followed set several memorable precedents. The first honors from the new "university" went to the notorious propagandist of the American Revolution, English-born Tom Paine. (The career of the new Master of Arts would later take him to France and to membership in the National Convention of that country, in the throes of creation of its own republic.) Of the other eight honorees two centuries ago, four were German clergymen, all then or soon to be either faculty members or trustees here, the Reverend Doctors Helmuth, Kunze and Muhlenberg, all three alumni of Halle, and Weiberg, out of the University of Duisburg. They were the first men born and schooled on the continent of Europe who received honorary degrees from Pennsylvania. At the end of four hours, the ships in the port fired their guns and hoisted flags and the exercises of 1780 came to an end.

A century later, the University of Pennsylvania had occupied its serpentine stone Gothic buildings "across the Schuylkill" for eight years. Provost Stille, eighth successor to Provost Ewing, had brought about the progressive move to West Philadelphia as well as the long overdue admission to the University, at the beginning of the academic year just ending, of its first black students. Two commencements, at both of which he presided, were held in 1880, both in the Academy of Music in downtown Philadelphia where a large audience could be accommodated.

The first, in March, witnessed the graduation of one hundred and eleven medical students, all from the United States except for six Cubans and a resident of both Japan and New Brunswick. The Professor of Physiology made the only address, a brief one.

It was the principal commencement on June 15 that resembled in ritual its eighteenth century forerunner and, indeed, had almost the characteristics of an operatic marathon. Although the number of degree recipients was small compared to the great body of their successors of 1980—40 Bachelors of Arts or Science, 9 Masters of Arts, 4 recipients of Certificates of Proficiency, 49 Bachelors of Laws, 5 Doctors of Medicine, 16 Doctors of Philosophy, one Doctor of Laws, and one Honorary Master of Arts—the audience, constantly entertained by the rousing music of the city's Germania Orchestra, sat through no fewer than twenty-five student addresses. The young orators touched on concerns as diverse as "Russian Nihilism" and "The Steam-Engine in Civilization." In addition, the program included the individual bestowal of twenty prizes for scholarship.

Among the graduates of 1880 were George Woodward Wickersham, LL.B., later Attorney General of the United States, and Miss Mary Alice Bennett, one of two women in cap and gown that day. Miss Bennett, who received the Ph.D.—at that time a degree in course bestowed upon graduate physicians after two further years of medical study—thus became the first woman to receive a doctorate at the University.

The order of the participants in the academic processions, since the first Commencement in 1757, has varied. During one period the Provost, Trustees, and visiting dignitaries led the procession, whereas at another time members of the graduating class entered the hall first. Of interest is the fact that in the early 1800's the janitor of the College led the procession carrying the diplomas for the graduates. The order for today's procession is as follows: the candidates for degrees by schools; the Fifty-Year Alumni Class; the Mace-bearer; the Marshals; the Faculties and their Deans; the Officers, Associate Trustees, and Trustees; the Candidates for Honorary Degrees; the Provost and the President.

The University Mace, the symbol of authority of the University Corporation, is carried at the head of the academic procession by the Secretary of the University. The Mace was a gift of the family of William M. Gordon, School of Medicine 1910. It is adorned with the arms and seal of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats of arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse Orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the University's early ties with Scotland.

The academic dress stems from the monastic robes of the Middle Ages, when the hood was worn raised for protection in drafty halls. According to the inter-collegiate system of academic costume established in 1894, Bachelors' and Masters' gowns are made of cotton poplin or similar material, while silk or rayon is used for the Doctors' gowns. The latter are trimmed with a velvet facing down the front with bars of the same across the sleeves. The mortarboard cap has been standard in the United States though soft caps are coming into use; Doctors may wear a gold tassel, but all others wear black. Some institutions have in recent years authorized Doctors' gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the Pennsylvania Ph.D. degree may now wear red and blue gowns.

The hood is lined with silk in the colors of the institution which granted the highest degree held by the wearer, and the color of the bordering velvet indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. Degrees will be conferred today in: Arts, white; Science golden yellow; Business Administration, mustard; Education, light blue; Fine Arts, brown; Philosophy, dark blue; Medicine, green; Law, purple; Dental Medicine, lilac; Veterinary Medicine, gray; Social Work, citron.

With the exception of two Bachelor of Arts degrees, the Master of Arts was the only honorary degree conferred in the early years. In 1782 the first Doctor of Laws degrees were conferred on two distinguished Frenchmen, the Chevalier de Castellux, a Major General serving with the Continental Army, and François Barbé-Marbois, Consul General of France in this country. Upon the same occasion, honorary Doctor of Medicine and Doctor of Divinity degrees were awarded. During the latter part of the last century institutions made a practice of conferring the degree of Doctor of Philosophy not only as an earned degree but also honoris causa. This ceased at Pennsylvania after the third such degree had been granted in 1891, and since that time the Ph.D. has been granted only as an earned degree.
