VISION ACCOMPLISHMENT

KEEPING FRANKLIN'S PROMISE

In the words of one elegiac tribute, "Great men have two lives: one which occurs while they work on this earth; a second which begins at the day of their death and continues as long as their ideas and conceptions remain powerful."

These words befit the great Benjamin Franklin, whose inventions, innovations, ideas, writings, and public works continue to shape our thinking and renew the Republic he helped to create and the institutions he founded, including the University of Pennsylvania.

Nowhere does Franklin feel more contemporary, more revolutionary, and more alive than at the University of Pennsylvania. His startling vision of a secular, nonsectarian Academy that would foster an "Inclination join'd with an Ability to serve Mankind, one's Country, Friends and Family" has never ceased to challenge Penn to redefine the scope and mission of the modern American university.

When pursued vigorously and simultaneously, the two missions – developing the inclination to do good and the ability to do well – merge to help form a more perfect university that educates more capable citizens for our democracy.

Penn has embodied and advanced Franklin's revolutionary vision for 274 years. Throughout its history, Penn has extended the frontiers of higher learning and research to produce graduates and scholars whose work has enriched the nation and all of humanity.

The modern liberal arts curriculum as we know it can trace its roots to Franklin's innovation to have Penn students study international commerce and foreign languages.

The first medical and business schools in the United States were launched here.

And the first general-purpose electronic, digital computer – ENIAC – was invented right here at the University of Pennsylvania.

Impelled by our pioneering legacy, President Amy Gutmann's Penn Compact 2020 advances the University's quest to become continually more inclusive, innovative, and impactful. Its bold strategy reinvigorates Franklin's founding mission at a time of increased global connectedness and rapid technological advancement. The Penn community's extraordinary support of the University's strategic priorities, as expressed in our record-setting Making History campaign, enables Penn to work toward the Penn Compact 2020 goals of expanding access for bright students from all backgrounds, integrating cutting-edge research and teaching across the disciplines to promote revolutionary new discoveries, and sharing the benefits of these discoveries through ongoing engagement with our local and global communities.

Today, Penn proudly graduates a class of men and women who have shown the intelligence, drive, integrity, and character to become engaged citizens who will serve humanity with distinction. Our Penn graduates are poised to take their place as productive democratic citizens and as just and humane stewards of our world.

In these challenging and perilous times, a world in need of young men and women who are willing to shoulder the moral responsibilities of leadership can look to Penn.

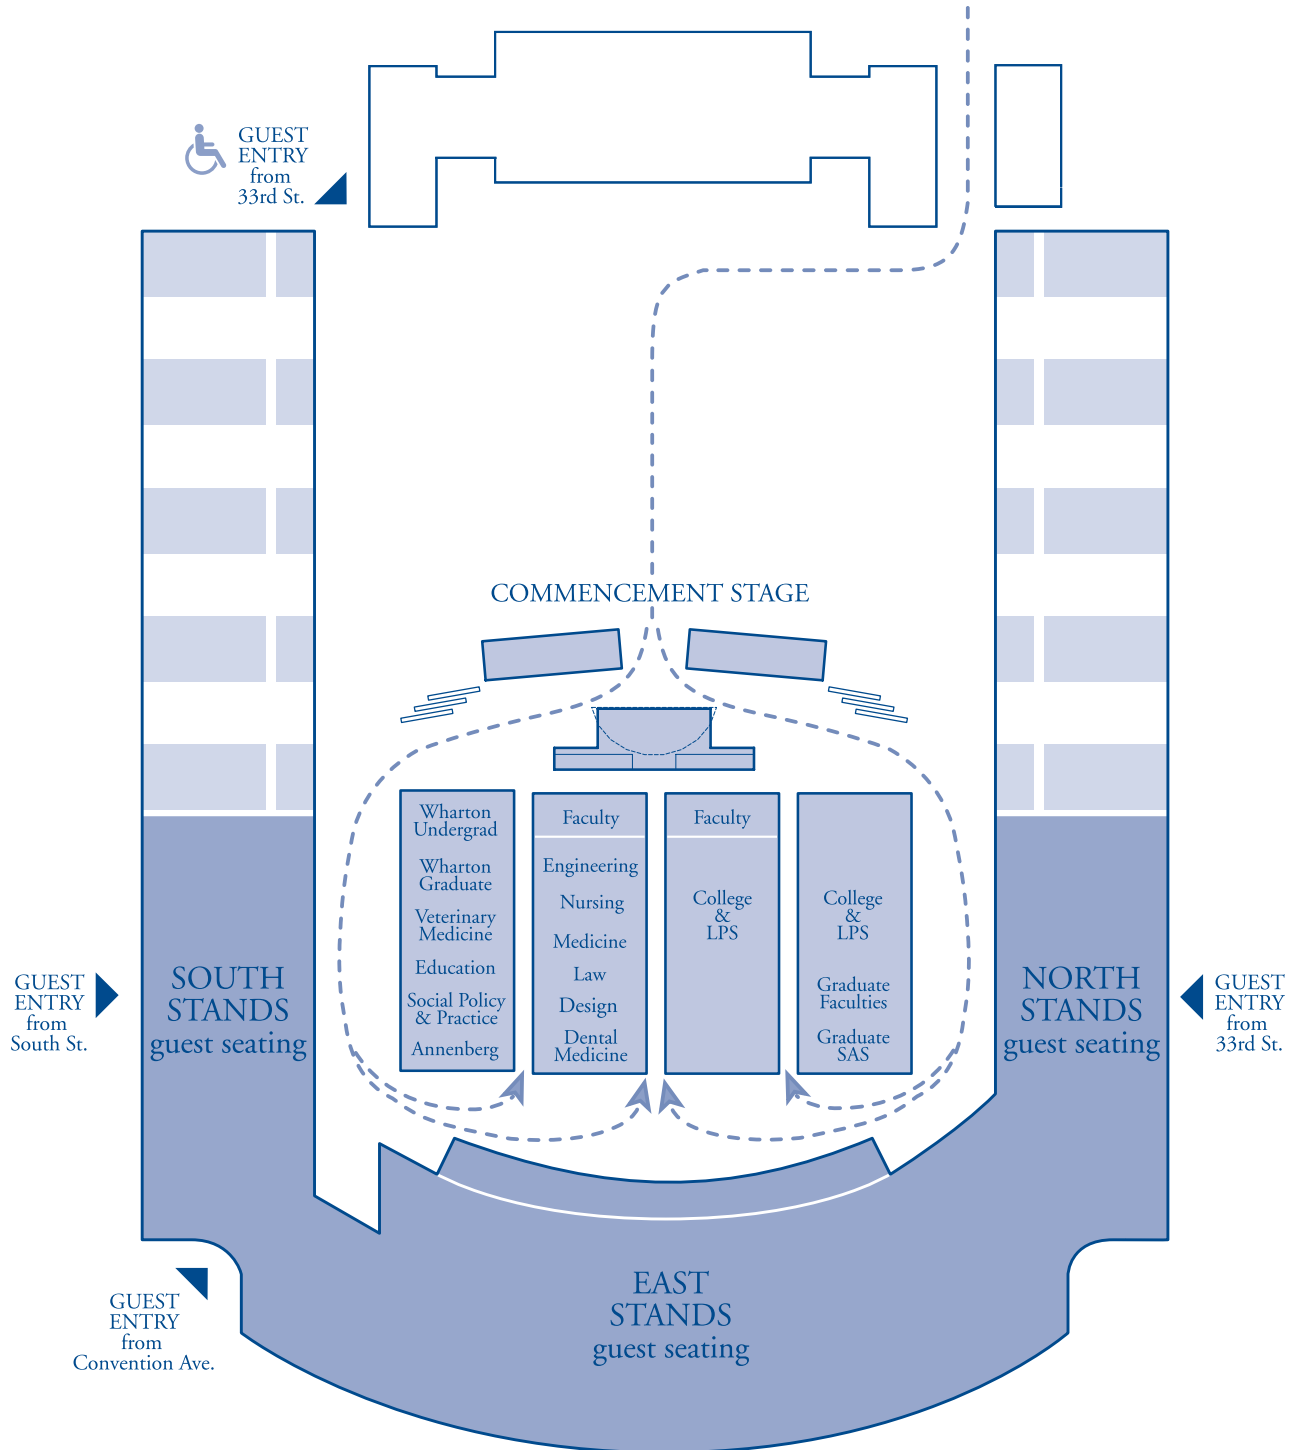

Franklin wrote: "We may make these times better if we bestir ourselves. The noblest question in the world is 'What good may I do in it?'"

The answer to this question will be furnished by Franklin's newest heirs, the graduates of 2014.

COMMENCEMENT SEATING

Guests will find this diagram helpful in locating the approximate seating of the degree candidates. The sequence in which the candidates are presented for degrees is shown on the next page. The list on page 7, detailing the colors of the candidates' hoods according to their fields of study, may further assist guests in identifying the locations of the various schools.

In case of emergency, evacuation procedures will be announced.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

The Counterparts

Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro' the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

Come all ye loyal classmates now, in hall and campus through,
Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.
Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale her colors too,
But for dear Pennsylvania, we wear the Red and Blue.
(Chorus)
Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue;
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Today – May 19, 2014 – is the University of Pennsylvania’s 258th Commencement. Penn traces its origins to a deed of trust executed in 1740 and is celebrating its 274th birthday this year. President Amy Gutmann will confer bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees upon some 6,000 graduates of the University’s 12 schools. Honorary degrees will be awarded to seven individuals of distinction in varied fields, as you will note on pages 11, 12 and 13 in this program.

The practice of sporting signs on caps and gowns as a form of public proclamation at Commencement dates to the early 1760s and recalls an even more ancient tradition, originating in the practice of medieval universities. Penn’s archives contain several 18th century broadsides, printed in Latin, which were distributed to Commencement guests along with the regular programs. The broadsides contain a series of propositions classified under various academic headings. Presumably, the graduating students were willing to defend these theses against any assertions to the contrary. On the eve of the Revolution, however, statements such as “the rights of the people are as divine as the rights of their rulers” must have met with widespread sympathy.

ACADEMIC CEREMONY AND REGALIA

Commencement exercises at American universities and colleges traditionally are composed of three essential elements: the Academic Procession, the conferring of degrees, and the Commencement address. This practice has been codified since 1895, when a national conference on academic-costume and ceremony was proposed and a plan known initially as the “Intercollegiate System” was formally adopted. The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania incorporated this code in the Statutes of the University in November 1896. Now under the aegis of the American Council on Education, the “Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” was revised in 1932 and 1960.* Throughout the 20th century, Commencement at Penn has, with minor modifications, followed the dictates of the code and its revisions.

By 1896, however, Penn had been granting degrees for nearly 140 years. Like other American colonial colleges, Penn borrowed its 18th century Commencement rituals directly from the English universities. In England the history of academic dress reaches back to the early days of the oldest schools. As early as the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges prohibited “excess in apparel” and required the wearing of a long gown. It is still an open question as to whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress.

It is often suggested that gowns and hoods were the simplest, most effective method of staying warm in the unheated, stone buildings which housed medieval scholars. In any case, academic regalia had evolved to contemporary familiarity by the time Benjamin Franklin was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of St. Andrews in 1759.

TRADITIONS AND CURRENT PRACTICE AT PENN

In April 1887, on the recommendation of a committee of the faculty, the Trustees adopted the “‘Pennsylvania’ System of Academic Costume.” The colors and trimmings of hoods and caps were regularized according to faculty and degree. Beginning with the Commencement of 1887, the “‘Pennsylvania’ System” was published in each year’s program and adherence to its rules was expected of trustees, faculty, and students alike. Beginning in 1896, the “‘Pennsylvania’ System” was superseded by the “Intercollegiate System,” which has continued in effect to the present time.

The gowns used in American academic ceremonies vary according to the highest degree awarded to the wearer. The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves; it is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the masters degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front has an arc cut away. The masters gown may be worn open or closed. The doctoral gown is a more elaborate costume faced down the front with black velvet and across the sleeves with three bars of the same; these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive to the field of study to which the degree pertains. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Some institutions have authorized doctoral gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the University of Pennsylvania doctorate may wear red and blue gowns.

The hoods are lined in silk with the official color or colors of the college or university which granted the highest degree held by the wearer; more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways, such as by chevron or chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is in velvet, with widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The color of the border indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. University of Pennsylvania graduates wear a hood lined in red with a blue chevron. The mortarboard cap is standard, though soft square-topped caps are permissible. Recipients of doctorates may wear a gold tassel fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap; all others wear black.

Degrees shall be conferred today according to the following order:

- Arts & Letters, white
- Science, golden yellow
- Business Administration, mustard
- Nursing, apricot
- Medicine, green
- Law, purple
- Fine Arts (including Design), brown
- Dental Medicine, lilac
- Veterinary Medicine, gray
- Education, light blue
- Social Work, citron
- Philosophy, dark blue

*This and additional material which follows is taken from “An Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” in American Council on Education, American Universities and Colleges, 14th ed. (New York: Walter de Gruyter, 1992).

ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The order for today's Academic Procession is as follows:

- Mace Bearer
- President and Provost
- Chairman of the Board of Trustees
- Commencement Speaker
- Candidates for Honorary Degrees
- Deans
- Trustees
- Officers of the University
- Faculty
- Overseers
- Visiting Dignitaries

UNIVERSITY MACE

The Secretary of the University carries the University mace, the symbol of authority of the University, at the head of the Academic Procession. It was a gift of the family of William Murray Gordon, M.D. 1910. It is adorned with the seal and arms of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats-of-arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the early ties of the University with Scotland.

PRESIDENT'S BADGE OF OFFICE

The President wears as a badge of office a silver medallion of which one face is engraved, like the mace, with the University seal. The obverse of the President's medal bears the "orrery seal," designed in 1782 by Francis Hopkinson, A.B. 1757, a Signer of the Declaration of Independence. The medal, suspended on a chain composed of silver links, was given by the late Trustee Thomas Sovereign Gates, Jr., A.B. 1928, LL.D. 1956, on the occasion of Sheldon Hackney's inauguration as President in October 1981.

UNIVERSITY SEAL AND SYMBOLS

SEAL OF THE CORPORATION

The Trustees of the University have an official seal that is, in effect, the signature of the corporation. It had its origin at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in 1755 with Benjamin Franklin as Chairman. Though the seal underwent changes over the years, the most recent design, approved in 1932 and adopted in 1933, returned it to virtually its original form.

The seal is composed of seven books stacked on a slanted desk top with the books bearing the following titles, representing the curricula of the day: Theolog, Astronom, Philosoph, Mathemat, Logica, Rhetorica, Grammatica. On the periphery of the stack of books appears the University motto, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, and the whole is encircled with the inscription Universitatis Pennsylvaniaensis.

PENN COAT-OF-ARMS

The Penn coat-of-arms was derived by combining the coat of arms of Benjamin Franklin and that of William Penn's family. The dolphin on the red chief was part of Franklin's coat-of-arms and the three silver plates on a blue chevron were a part of Penn's. The two were combined on a white shield along with two open volumes representing the University's educational purpose.

MOTTO: LEGES SINE MORIBUS VANAE

The motto of the University, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, means "Laws without morals are useless." It comes from the longer quotation from Horace, "Quid leges sine moribus vanæ proficiunt?" the sense of which is "of what avail are empty laws without (good) morals?"

SCHOOL COLORS

Eighteenth century American academic institutions did not have colors. The earliest known representation of the combined Penn colors, red and blue, is on the incised lid of the 1871 College Hall cornerstone.

One legend traces their origins to an early track meet at Saratoga, New York, between Penn, Harvard, and Yale. When asked by the officials what colors would be representing the Penn team, the Pennsylvania captain reportedly replied, "We're going to be wearing the colors of the teams we beat," i.e. Harvard Crimson and Yale Blue. We shall assume that Penn was victorious and thus remained loyal to the Red and Blue.

SCHOOLS OF THE UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES (1755)

The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) is the direct descendant of the College of Philadelphia, where Benjamin Franklin established the first modern arts and sciences curriculum in the English colonies. Undergraduate programs for men date to the chartering of the College in 1755; the College of Liberal Arts for Women was founded in 1933. The Graduate School was established in 1882 with the appointment of a Faculty of Philosophy. The College of Liberal and Professional Studies (lifelong learning) traces its roots to 1892. The School of Arts and Sciences was born in 1974 with the merger of the College of Arts and Sciences, the College for Women, the Graduate School, and four social science departments from Wharton. Today SAS is the largest of the University's 12 schools, providing a liberal arts education for all Penn undergraduates and supporting graduate studies, basic research, and continuing education across the full range of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. The School has 27 departments with 486 standing faculty, 21 research centers, eight interschool institutes, and 10,000 students.

PERELMAN SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (1765)

Established in 1765 as the nation's first medical school, Penn's School of Medicine, now the Raymond and Ruth Perelman School of Medicine, continues a rich tradition of providing pre-eminent training and education. Today, the Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, a leader among the nation's medical schools, is committed to the highest standards in education, research, and patient care. It is continuously engaged in long-range strategic planning and implementation, focusing on programs and facilities that will take it well into the 21st century. In the current academic year, the School has 28 departments, 23 interdisciplinary centers and institutes, and over 2,000 full-time faculty members. It educates 807 M.D. students, 184 M.D./Ph.D. students, and 621 Ph.D. students, and trains more than 1,100 residents and fellows. Over the last decade, the Perelman School of Medicine has consistently ranked among the top recipients of monies granted by the National Institutes of Health.

LAW SCHOOL (1790)

Penn's engagement in legal education began in 1790 with a series of lectures to President Washington and his cabinet by James Wilson, the University's first law professor, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and one of the original justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. A formal program of instruction in law resumed in 1850 under George Sharswood, and innovative legal education has been part of the Penn fabric since that time. Today, Penn Law provides a cross-disciplinary, globally-focused legal education taught by preeminent scholars, approximately 70 percent of whom hold advanced degrees in fields in addition to law. Students augment the broad perspective offered by faculty in the Penn Law classroom with classes taken – and certificates of study and joint degrees earned – in sister schools and departments throughout the University. In the 2013-2014 academic year, Penn Law has 928 students, 61 full-time faculty, two senior fellows, four secondary appointments, and more than 100 lecturers from legal practice. Penn Law awards five degrees: Juris Doctor; Master of Laws for internationally-trained lawyers; Master of Comparative Laws; Doctor of the Science of Law; and a Master's in Law for non-lawyers.

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING AND APPLIED SCIENCE (1852)

The School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS) is one of the oldest in the United States, tracing its beginnings to the establishment of the School of Mines, Arts and Manufactures in 1852. The first graduate of the School received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1854. Since that time, the School has grown into a center of excellence in the creation of technology and in technology education. Its spirit of innovation led to the creation in 1946 of ENIAC, the first all-electronic, large-scale, general-purpose digital computer, making SEAS the birthplace of the computer age. Today, Penn Engineering offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs, including the first alternative liberal arts program based in an engineering school. Penn Engineering is particularly distinguished by its interdisciplinary, cross-school programs such as Management and Technology, Digital Media Design, Biotechnology, and the Singh Program in Networked and Social Systems Engineering. Penn Engineering currently has 119 standing faculty, approximately 1,600 undergraduate students, 1,000 graduate students, four research institutes, ten research centers, and one regional institute.

SCHOOL OF DESIGN (1869)

Although the School of Design dates its founding from 1890, architecture courses were first offered at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, making Penn's architecture program the second oldest in the United States. In 1921, the Department of Architecture joined with the Department of Music and Fine Arts to create an independent undergraduate School of Fine Arts modeled on the French École des Beaux Arts. In 1958, the School was renamed the Graduate School of Fine Arts, reflecting the shift to graduate degree offerings in architecture, city and regional planning, landscape architecture and fine arts. The triumvirate of architecture, landscape architecture and city planning shaped the core of the School in the 1950s and 1960s. In the 1980s, a program in historic preservation was added. Today, the School provides a rich environment for the study of the arts, architecture, landscapes and urbanism. Its opportunities now include undergraduate study in fine arts, architecture and digital media design. As a more accurate description of the School's major concerns and advancements made across a variety of fields, the School was renamed, in 2003, the School of Design. The School has a standing faculty of 35, approximately 130 lecturers and associated faculty, and more than 600 students.

SCHOOL OF DENTAL MEDICINE (1878)

Established in 1878 as the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania, the School of Dental Medicine is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the country with a history deeply rooted in forging precedents in dental education, research, and patient care. In 1897, Thomas W. Evans, a Philadelphia native and clinician who spent most of his life in France as the dentist to European nobility, left his estate to create a dental school that was "second to none." Evans' bequest would become one with the University, creating the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute, which opened in 1915. Today, the Evans Building remains the site of much of the School's clinical instruction. The dental campus also includes the Robert Schattner Center and the Leon Levy Center for Oral Health Research, home to the basic sciences and extensive research activities. Penn Dental Medicine is a major provider of care in West Philadelphia and through outreach programs students log nearly 9,600 hours each year serving approximately 14,000 residents in the surrounding Philadelphia neighborhoods. The School offers the degrees of Doctor of Dental Medicine, Master of Science in Oral Biology, and Doctor of Science in Dentistry and trains postdoctoral residents in endodontics, oral medicine, oral and maxillofacial surgery, orthodontics, pediatrics, periodontics, periodontics/orthodontics, and periodontal/prosthesis. In the 2013-2014 academic year, Penn Dental Medicine has 541 DMD students, 103 postdoctoral residents, 13 postdoctoral researchers, and 452 faculty members, including 44 standing faculty.

WHARTON SCHOOL (1881)

The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, founded in 1881, is recognized globally for intellectual leadership and ongoing innovation across every major discipline of business education. The most comprehensive source of business knowledge in the world, Wharton bridges research and practice through its broad engagement with the global business community. The school has more than 5,000 undergraduate, MBA and doctoral students; nearly 10,000 participants annually in its executive education programs; and a network of 92,000 alumni in 140 countries.

SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE (1884)

Penn Vet is a global leader in veterinary medicine education, research, and clinical care. Founded in 1884, Penn Vet is the only veterinary school developed in association with a medical school. The school is a proud member of the One Health Initiative, linking human, animal, and environmental health. Penn Vet serves a diverse population of animals at its two campuses, which include extensive diagnostic and research laboratories. Ryan Hospital in Philadelphia provides care for dogs, cats, and other domestic/companion animals, seeing nearly 33,000 patients a year. New Bolton Center, Penn Vet's large-animal hospital on nearly 700 acres in rural Kennett Square, PA, cares for horses and livestock/farm animals, treating 33,000 patients each year – 4,100 in the hospital and 29,000 at farms through the Field Service. In addition, New Bolton Center's campus includes a swine center, working dairy, and poultry unit that provide valuable research for the agriculture industry.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION (1914)

The Graduate School of Education (GSE) is one of the nation's premier research education schools and will celebrate its Centennial in 2014. No other education school enjoys a university environment as supportive of practical knowledge-building as the Ivy League's University of Pennsylvania. The School is notably entrepreneurial, launching innovative degree programs for practicing professionals and unique partnerships with local educators, and the first-ever business plan competition devoted exclusively to educational products and programs. GSE is home to 35 standing faculty members and serves over 2,000 students; offers 25 programs and five degree options; and engages in both research and practice through over 20 centers and initiatives.

SCHOOL OF NURSING (1935)

Nursing Education at Penn began in 1886 when the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania started a nurse training program. In 1935, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania established a nursing degree program within the School of Education, and in 1950 the School of Nursing was established. The Master of Science in Nursing program was instituted in 1961, the Doctor of Nursing Science program in 1978, and the Doctor of Philosophy program in 1984. These innovations and a curriculum which progressively reflects changing health care delivery patterns have advanced the School into the first rank of American schools of nursing. The School has two departments, Biobehavioral and Health Sciences and Family and Community Health. It is widely recognized for its leadership in nursing research and currently houses six research centers with foci in health outcomes and policy research, biobehavioral health sciences, nursing history, health equity, aging, and transitions in health. It also has a global reputation for innovations in nurse-managed clinical practice and is a World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Nursing and Midwifery Leadership. The School of Nursing has 59 standing faculty and 1,155 students.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL POLICY & PRACTICE (1948)

The School of Social Policy & Practice began in 1908 as a private school that opened its doors to five students in the field of child welfare. The School affiliated itself with the University in 1935 and became a formal school in 1948. In 2005, it changed its name from the School of Social Work to the School of Social Policy & Practice. The School offers the Master of Social Work, Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership, Master of Science in Social Policy, Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare, and Doctor of Social Work degrees. The School is devoted to advancing human welfare, promoting social justice, and developing effective societal responses to global human need. Building on the School's century-long commitment to social work and social change, the School educates clinicians, policymakers, scholars, researchers, and leaders who work to advance the human welfare of local, national, and global communities. The School houses a number of research centers and programs, including: the Field Center for Children's Policy, Practice, and Research; the Center for High Impact Philanthropy; the Social Impact of the Arts Project; the Program for Religion and Social Policy Research; the Goldring Re-entry Initiative; the Penn Aging Concentration; the Program in Mental Health Education Assessment, Recovery, and Leadership for Social Workers; the Out-of-School Time Resource Center; and the Evelyn Jacobs Ortner Center on Family Violence. The School has 21 standing faculty and 430 students.

ANNENBERG SCHOOL FOR COMMUNICATION (1959)

Founded through the generosity and vision of diplomat and philanthropist Walter Annenberg, the Annenberg School for Communication at the University of Pennsylvania is devoted to furthering our understanding of the role of communication in public life through research, education and service. At the School's founding, Ambassador Annenberg identified its unique mission. "Every human advancement or reversal can be understood through communication," he said. "The right to free communication carries with it responsibility to respect the dignity of others - and this must be recognized as irreversible. Educating students to effectively communicate this message and to be of service to all people is the enduring mission of this school." Annenberg is nationally ranked as the best graduate program in mass communication, health communication, political communication, and culture, society and communication. The Annenberg School has 23 full-time faculty, over 80 graduate students and more than 200 undergraduate students. The school offers the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and runs an undergraduate program through the College of Arts and Sciences. The School is home to the Annenberg Public Policy Center, the Center of Excellence in Cancer Communication Research, the Center for Global Communication Studies, the Scholars Program in Culture & Communication, the Project for Advanced Research in Global Communication, the Communication Neuroscience Lab, the Network Dynamics Group, the Social Action Lab, and the Institute for Public Service, among many additional projects pursuing innovative communication research and services.

HONORARY DEGREE CITATIONS

EUGENIO CALABI

Family lore holds that your mathematical education began early. As an inquisitive child, you learned the “magic” of derivatives at your father’s knee. From that early age, your deep curiosity led you to a lifetime of scholarship and discovery.

When Mussolini’s laws made it impossible to remain in your native Italy, your family came to the United States, where you studied chemical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and earned your Ph.D. in mathematics at Princeton University. You became fascinated with the study of partial differential equations and complex differential geometry, which seeks to explain the properties of the curves and surfaces that make up the spaces of our world.

In 1954, you developed what became known as the Calabi Conjecture. Acclaimed in mathematics circles, the Conjecture’s influence would be felt twenty-five years later in theoretical physics. Calabi-Yau Manifolds underpinned the development of string theory, helping us to imagine the astonishing possibilities for what may lie beyond our known dimensions of time and space.

You continued to break new ground, earning the respect of the global mathematics community as you taught at Princeton, Louisiana State University, and the University of Minnesota. Your arrival here in 1964 was the start of a new era for mathematics at Penn. You reshaped the department, recruited accomplished faculty, and trained a new generation of leaders. For your many contributions, you were awarded the Thomas A. Scott Professorship, the second oldest chair in Penn’s School of Arts and Sciences, which you held until your retirement.

You continue to be profoundly influential in the halls of Penn Mathematics, attending seminars and—with a chalkboard at hand—talking shop. The Calabi Assistant Professorship, honoring you and your wife Giuliana, is held by a promising young departmental teacher and scholar, and the Department’s Calabi Scholars Fund supports those carrying on your tradition of mathematical excellence.

You have been a sought-after visitor at such renowned institutions as the University of Pisa, L’Institut des Hautes Études Scientifiques, and the Institute for Advanced Study. A member of the National Academy of Sciences, you also received the Leroy Steele Prize for Lifetime Achievement in Mathematics from the American Mathematical Society, of which you are a Fellow.

For your devotion to the University and for your visionary contributions to our understanding of mathematics and the sciences, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Eugenio Calabi, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

JOHNNETTA BETSCH COLE

The Smithsonian National Museum of African Art, which you direct, houses tens of thousands of objects embodying Africa’s visual arts. From an Egyptian hair ornament seven millennia old to contemporary South African photographs, these treasures tell a compelling story and share a unique journey. And so it is with your story and your journey.

Born in Jacksonville, Florida, in a time of legal segregation, yours could have been a spirit-crushing childhood. You credit your parents and community with giving you an empowering education and a strong belief in your intrinsic worth. They taught that you must live a life that breaks down barriers.

An anthropologist by training, you began college at the early age of 15. In your scholarly career, you served as a highly regarded faculty mentor at several universities. You have written and spoken widely about issues of race, gender, inclusion, and educational success. In 2002, you retired from Emory University as a Presidential Distinguished Professor of Anthropology, Women’s Studies, and African American Studies.

You are unique in having served as president of two historically black women’s colleges. The first African American woman to lead Spelman College, you later left retirement to head Bennett College for Women. When some thought historically black colleges and universities were destined for obsolescence, you remained a passionate proponent of their abiding value and importance. At both schools, you garnered critical funding and strengthened academics.

You broke barriers as the first African American to chair the Board of the United Way of America and the first woman to serve on the Board of Directors for the Coca-Cola Company. You advise the Smithsonian’s National Museum of African American History and Culture, planned to open in 2015. As director of the National Museum of African Art, now celebrating its 50th anniversary, you promote a greater understanding of humanity’s shared African roots with thought-provoking exhibits, research and education, and community outreach.

Recipient of the Anti-Defamation League’s Joseph Prize for Human Rights, the George Washington Carver Award, and many honorary degrees, you once told new graduates to “First, be bodacious. You must speak up and speak out on what is important to you and what is important in the world.” You have enriched our society immeasurably by following your own advice.

In recognition of your influential contributions to education and for courageously addressing issues of race and gender, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Johnnetta Betsch Cole, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

EDNA ADAN ISMAIL

In your home country of Somaliland on the Horn of Africa, it was a fact of life: no schools for girls. You found this fate unacceptable. Facing discrimination head-on, you had to leave your family behind to pursue your education abroad in the United Kingdom. In 1961, you returned to your homeland and dedicated your life to providing skilled, life-saving birth attendance and health care for women and children.

Your life’s work has not come easily. In the 1980s and ’90s, nearly all of your country’s trained health care professionals were lost to a devastating civil war. The war left in its wake one of the highest maternal and infant mortality rates in the world. You sought tirelessly for solutions to these urgent concerns through your work for the World Health Organization. As both an educator and a regional and global advocate, you acted on issues surrounding maternity, child health, and gender.

In 1997, you became the first and only woman minister in the new government of Somaliland, and you later served as its first woman Foreign Minister. In 2002, you used your own pension funds to open the Edna Adan Maternity Hospital, a nonprofit center for critical health care and training. In 2012, you opened the Edna Adan University Hospital, expanding training for hundreds of midwives, nurses, lab technicians, and pharmacists to date.

Over 14,000 babies have been safely delivered at your facilities, and the number of women and newborns receiving quality postnatal care has risen dramatically. Your institutions also repair damaging childbirth injuries that once sentenced women to unwarranted shame and community censure. You have also been tireless and vocal in championing the eradication of the culturally-entrenched and pervasive practice of female genital mutilation.

Your courageous work was featured in the book and 2012 PBS documentary Half the Sky: Turning Oppression into Opportunity for Women Worldwide. In recognition of your efforts, you were elected in 2007 to the Medical Mission Hall of Fame, and in 2010, you were made a chevalier in the French Legion of Honour. Earlier this month, Penn's own School of Nursing selected you for the Renfield Foundation Award for Global Women's Health.

For your unparalleled contributions on behalf of countless women and children, and for your dedication to the education of health care providers, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Edna Adan Ismail, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

JOHN LEGEND

A child prodigy in Ohio, you were already an accomplished musician when you arrived on Penn's campus as an enthusiastic 16-year-old freshman. You quickly made Philadelphia your second home through your music and your engagement with University life. You soaked up the great music of The Roots, Jill Scott, and Musiq Soulchild. You pursued your dreams, both academic and artistic, and graduated a proud member of the great Class of 1999.

Many would consider what followed to be the epitome of success. You enjoyed an auspicious beginning as a respected session artist and songwriter. Your hard work was rewarded with superstardom as one of the world's best known R&B/soul artists. You created chart-topping successes, won an amazing nine Grammy Awards, partnered in highly acclaimed collaborations, and your music featured in the Academy Award-winning films Django Unchained and 12 Years a Slave.

But for you, success only underscored a deeper passion: your belief that we all can do something more to foster opportunity and real change for others.

You are a vocal proponent for access to quality education for all children. In your song "Show Me," you posed important questions about what we can and should do, and so your Show Me Campaign was born. You work for sustainable changes to provide children the quality education they deserve and to break the crushing cycle of poverty. In Africa, Show Me partners with local organizations to provide clean water, health care, and education.

You have shared your music on behalf of the victims of Hurricane Katrina and the Haitian earthquake. You partner with Project (RED) to benefit the Global Fund for AIDS and to aid those stricken with tuberculosis and malaria. You perform in the charitable concert series "Playing It Forward." And your Grammy Award-winning composition "Shine" does indeed shine in the education reform documentary, Waiting for "Superman."

You actively support Turnaround for Children and serve on several leadership boards, including those for the Stand for Children Leadership Center, Teach for America, Management Leadership for Tomorrow, and the Harlem Village Academies.

In recognition of your efforts, the NAACP presented you in 2009 and 2014 with their Image Award for Outstanding Male Artist. You are the recipient of the 2010 BET Humanitarian of the Year award, the 2009 CARE Humanitarian Award for Global Change, and Africare's 2009 Bishop John T. Walker Distinguished Humanitarian Service Award.

For your soul-stirring music, your generosity toward others, and your unflagging activism to end education inequality, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are pleased to confer upon you, John Legend, the degree of Doctor of Music, honoris causa.

RAYMOND G. PERELMAN

As a young man, you began your career at American Paper Products Company, the family business. You learned many lessons that would set you on the path to your own exceptional professional success. But there were deeper lessons to be had as well. You often say your family instilled in you the conviction that those who achieve success must give back and improve the lives of others. In your countless acts of personal engagement and philanthropic leadership, you have shown us the true meaning of community, of sharing our gifts for the betterment of our neighbors.

A World War II veteran of the U.S. Air Force, you are renowned and respected as a hard-working, forthright businessman. You built an independent career acquiring and leading companies, including the Belmont Iron Works and General Refractories. Today, you remain active as CEO of the multinational RGP Holdings, Inc.

You give your time unstintingly on behalf of Philadelphia, serving on the boards of Penn Medicine, the National Museum of American Jewish History, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, which you chaired for many years, and others. At the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts, the Perelman Theater is a welcome home for music, dance, and theater. In 2007, you transformed an aging art-deco landmark into the Perelman Building of the Philadelphia Museum of Art, which houses extraordinary collections and research facilities. Your family foundations are benefactors of educational enrichment. Together with your much loved and greatly-missed partner of 70 years, Ruth, you have generously supported so many who work to nourish the soul and heal the body.

You are a devoted Penn citizen and also a proud Penn parent and grandparent. At the Ruth and Raymond Perelman Center for Advanced Medicine, multidisciplinary clinical teams utilize cutting-edge technology to provide care and pursue new treatments. In 2011, you made the largest single gift in Penn's history, creating a permanent endowment for what is now the Raymond and Ruth Perelman School of Medicine. Your transformative leadership significantly increased student financial aid, the recruitment of outstanding medical faculty and clinicians, and the pursuit of innovative research. You have set Penn apart as a global model for the future of medicine.

For your lifetime of extraordinary leadership, service, and generosity in medicine, the arts, and education on behalf of the people of Philadelphia and beyond, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Raymond G. Perelman, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

OLYMPIA J. SNOWE

A lifetime of selfless public service informed your 2013 call to action: Fighting for Common Ground: How to Fix the Stalemate in Congress. In your book, you quote Benjamin Franklin on good governing: "When a broad table is to be made, and the edges of the planks do not fit, the artist takes a little from both, and makes a good joint. In like manner here, both sides must part with some of their demands." As the first woman in American history to serve in both houses of Congress and both houses of a state legislature, you demonstrate that consensus through compromise does not require sacrificing one's principles.

You excelled at the University of Maine and graduated in 1969. Just four years later, the tragic loss of your husband led to your election to the Maine House of Representatives to complete his unfinished term. In 1979, you became the youngest Republican woman ever elected to Congress.

Your unparalleled 40-year career was legendary for your ability to reach across the aisle, for your strong centrist beliefs, and for your generous mentorship of junior legislators. You co-chaired the Congressional Caucus on Women's Issues and made women's wellbeing a priority. You championed legislation to address pension survivorship benefits, workplace discrimination, violence against women, and gender inequity in NIH-funded research. As a senior member of the Senate's powerful Finance, Commerce, and Intelligence Committees, you addressed far-reaching legislative issues, including the 2008 financial crisis and the Affordable Healthcare Act. In 2006, Time magazine dubbed you "The Caretaker" and named you as one of America's ten best Senators.

You retired in 2013, leaving a polarized, unproductive Congress to continue your efforts outside Capitol Hill. You harness grassroots power to urge those in public service to engage in bipartisan discussion to pass necessary legislation. Through Olympia's List, citizens can support elected officials and candidates willing to reach across party lines and work together to address our nation's most pressing issues.

The recipient of many awards and honorary degrees, today you lend your expertise as a communications and policy consultant, a Senior Fellow at the Bipartisan Policy Center in Washington, D.C., and on the Advisory Board of the National Institute for Civil Discourse.

In recognition of your lifetime of public service and your unflagging devotion to your country and its people, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Olympia J. Snowe, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

GEORGE A. WEISS

To excel in the martial art of Taekwondo, a student must adhere to its philosophical pillars of integrity, perseverance, and indomitable spirit. Many may not know that you achieved that discipline's sixth degree black belt and still guide others as a master instructor. It is no surprise to any who know you, however, that you possess those admirable traits in abundance. To these we add loyalty and leadership, the hallmarks of all your life's endeavors and accomplishments.

From humble beginnings, you have long credited Penn and Wharton with setting the stage for your extraordinary success in business. You are steadfast in your conviction that it is through education that we must help others to achieve their goals as well. Your strong belief led to a day in 1987 when you promised academic support and payment of the full cost of college or vocational training for 112 students at Belmont Elementary School in one of Philadelphia's most disadvantaged neighborhoods. That day, the Say Yes to Education Foundation was born. You have been a caring, hands-on mentor and dispenser of good counsel. You came to think of the students as family and celebrated their successes.

Today, nearly 65,000 Say Yes students and their families have received mentoring, academic support, and the benefit of free tuition. The incalculable effects of your work will be felt for generations to come.

Your commitment to the Red and Blue is likewise legendary. A University Trustee since 1988, you have served as the Board's Vice Chair, as a member of the Penn Medicine Board's Executive Committee, as an Overseer for Athletics, and as Chair of Penn's phenomenally successful Making History Campaign.

You champion undergraduate financial aid giving. You have lent Penn faculty the full weight of your considerable support with several endowed professorships, including multiple interdisciplinary Penn Integrates Knowledge professorships. Your visionary leadership is evident throughout campus—at the Weiss Tech House, the Weiss Center for International Financial Research at Wharton, and Franklin Field's George A. Weiss Pavilion.

For your many good works here and throughout our society, you have been earned Penn's Alumni Award of Merit, the Marine Corps Foundation Semper Fidelis Award, the Cleveland E. Dodge Medal for Distinguished Service from Columbia University, and many other honors.

In recognition of your strong leadership, selfless generosity, and passionate advocacy for educational success, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, George A. Weiss, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

MATTHEW CRYER HONOR SOCIETY (DENTAL MEDICINE)

The Matthew Cryer Honor Society was established in 1912. Membership in the Penn Dental Medicine's Cryer Society is the highest scholastic honor awarded to the highest-ranked students in each class at the completion of the second year. The Society honors the academic achievements of its members and acts as a resource to new students entering the dental school.
